According to the Chinese calendar, the new year begins on the 25th of January. The day is celebrated with great rejoicings. Processions and festivals of the carnival sort are held in the principal cities. The Chinese are extremely fond of fireworks and are experts in the manufacture of them. Many kinds are used in their New Year's celebrations. The noisy kinds are particularly popular, so that the processions move along in a hubbub of popping noises. The processions differ in the different localities. At Canton, for instance, one curious feature is the bearing aloft of little girls on long poles. The girls are garbed to represent idols. Borne high above the crowd, each girl is sheltered by big umbrellas carried on a still longer pole. They look like pretty flowers rising above a meadow. One of these quaint processions is always a most interesting sight to the foreigner.

Personal Mention.
Mrs. Goodridge spent the holidays at the country with her sister, Mrs. James Cloud.

Several Burlington young people gave a delightful party, given last Friday night, at Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Gaines at their hospitable home three miles out on the road. They were chaperoned by Miss Sheila Roberts.

Judge T. J. Crowe, of Walton, and Thomas Johnson, constable in the Walton and Verona precincts, were among the callers at this office on the last day of the old year. They were in Burlington on business pertaining to their office.

C. Scott Chambers came dashing into Burlington, last Thursday afternoon, driving his motor car, a handsome double team of steppers which carried a full complement of sleigh bells. He left his home in Walton that morning to go to Petersburg, O. He is making a fifty-two mile drive. When he passed through Burlington in the afternoon on the return trip his steeds did not appear in the least fatigued. Mr. Chambers is very popular at Walton, where he is doing a good lively and undemanding business.

B. S. O'Neal, of Verona, was in Burlington, last Friday, and qualified as justice of the peace in the Walton and Verona precincts. He is sixty-five years of age and will make a good official. He was carrying a cane which Chas. Finner, of Dr. R. L. Finner, of Verona, made for him. It is a very fine piece of work, requiring a mechanical genius to make it. It is carved out of a single piece of hickory, besides Mr. O'Neal's name and masonic and Odd-Fellow emblems, it contains images of fish, animals, serpents and many ornaments. Mr. O'Neal desires that the cane be kept in the O'Neal family as long as possible, and no doubt but what it will ultimately be a valuable heirloom.

Blackhead among turkeys has come so near to working extinction of the "national bird," in New England and elsewhere that an extended investigation of the cause of the disease is being made by scientists. A similar disease had of late spread to game birds, such as partridges and quail, and the Massachusetts fish and game commission is prosecuting an investigation into this special line. When the disease strikes a hen or game bird, there is no hope, say the scientists. The cause has brought forth a variety of opinion, the most probable being that the common English sparrow carries the organism which affects the larger birds.

SYNOPSIS.

The story opens with the three passengers of the steamer on which Miss Leslie, an American heiress, Lord Winthrop, an Englishman, and Tom Blake, a boisterous American, were passengers. The three were tossed upon an uninhabited island and were the only ones not drowned. Blake, shunned on the boat, because of his roughness, became a hero as preserver of the helpless pair. The Englishman was suing for the hand of Miss Leslie. Winthrop wanted his last match on a cigarette, for which he was scolded by Blake. All three constructed huts to shield themselves from the sun. They then feasted on coconuts, the only procurable food. Miss Leslie showed a shrewdness for which Blake found a home in some cliffs. Blake found a fresh water spring. Miss Leslie faced an unpleasant situation. Blake recovered his survivor's magnifying glass, thus insuring fire. He started a jungle fire, killing a large leopard and smothering several cubs. In the leopard's cavern the built a small house. They gained the cliffs by burning the bottom of a tree until it fell against the base. The Englishman secured eggs from the cliffs. Miss Leslie's white skirt was faded upon a signal. Miss Leslie made a dress from the leopard skin. Overhearing a conversation between Blake and Winthrop, Miss Leslie became frightened. Winthrop became ill with fever. Blake was pointed by a fish and almost died. Jackals attacked the camp that night, but were driven off by gunfire. Blake constructed an animal trap. It killed a hyena. On a tour the trio discovered honey and crystals. Miss Leslie was attacked by a poisonous snake. Blake killed it and saved its skin to kill game. For the second time Winthrop was attacked by fever. He and Blake disappeared. The latter met a strong force for the private compartment of Miss Leslie's cave home.

"Mr.—Mr. Blake, pray do not get excited—I mean, please excuse me. I'm—"

"You're coming down slob!" he said.

"No, no! I have no fever."

"Then it's the sun. Yet you ought to keep up there where the air is freshest. I'll make you a shade."

She protested, and withdrew, somewhat hurriedly, to her tree.

In the morning Blake was gone again; but instead of a note, he had the fire stood the smaller antelope skin, converted into a great bamboo-ribbed sunshade.

She spent the day as usual on the headland. There was no wind, and the sun was scorching hot. But with her big sunshade to protect her from the direct rays, the heat was at least endurable. She even found energy to work at a basket which she was attempting to weave out of long, coarse grass; yet there were frequent intervals when her hands sank idle in her lap, and she gazed away over the shimmering glassy expanse of the ocean.

In the afternoon the heat became oppressively sultry, and a long slow swell began to roll shoreward from beyond the distant horizon, showing no trace of white along its oily crests until they broke over the coral reefs. There was not a breath of air stirring, and for a time the reefs so checked the rollers that they lost force by the drive on in and break upon the beach.

Steadily, however, the swell grew heavier, though not so much as a cat's-paw ruffled the dead surfaces of the watery hillocks. By sunset they were rolling high over both lines of reefs and racing shoreward to break upon the beach and the cliff foot in furious surf. The still air reverberated with the booming of the breakers. Yet the girl, inland bred and unversed in weather lore, sat heedless and indifferent, her eyes fixed upon the horizon in a vacant stare.

Her reverie was at last disturbed by the peculiar behavior of the seagulls. These in the air circled around in a manner strange to her, while their mates on the ledges waddled restlessly about over and between their nests. There was a shriller note than usual in their discordant clamor.

Yet even when she gave heed to the birds, the girl failed to realize the alarm or to sense the impending danger. It was only that a feeling of disquiet had broken the spell of her reverie; it did not intrude upon the field of her conscious thought. She sighed and returned to the cleft, idly wondering that the air should seem more sultry than at midday. The peculiar appearance of the sun and the western sky meant nothing more to her than an odd effect of color and light. She smilingly compared it with an attempt at a sunset painted by an artist friend of the impressionist school.

Neither Winthrop nor Blake was in sight when she reached the baobab, and neither appeared, though she delayed supper until dark. It was quite possible that they had eaten before her return and had gone off again, the Englishman to dose and Blake on an evening hunt.

At last, tired of waiting, she covered the fire and retired into her tree-cave. The air in the cleft was still more stifling than on the headland. She paused, with her hand upraised to close the swinging door. She had propped it open when she came out in the morning. After a moment's hesitation she went on across the hollow, leaving the door wide open.

"I will rest a little, and close it later," she sighed. She was feeling weary and depressed.

An hour passed. An ominous stillness lay upon the cleft. Even the seagulls had hushed their shrill note. The air seemed a muffled roar, as if the sound of the surf-roaring were being muffled by a great wall.

"I Know Already—I Know All."

upon the seashore. Beneath the giant spread of the baobab all was blackness.

Something moved in a bush a little way down the cleft. A crouching figure appeared, dimly outlined in the starlight. The figure crept stealthily across into the denser night of the baobab. The darkness closed about it like a shroud.

A blinding flash of light pierced the blackness. The figure halted and crouched lower, though the flash had gone again in a fraction of a second. A dull rumbling mingled with the ceaseless boom of the surf.

The second flash lighted the cleft with fire. A brilliant flash of light lit the cleft with fire. A brilliant flash of light lit the cleft with fire.

Again and again the forked lightning streaked across the sky, every stroke more vivid than the one before. The rumble of the distant thunder deepened to a heavy rolling which dominated the dull roar of the breakers. The storm was coming with the on-rush of a tornado. Yet the leaves hung motionless in the still air, and there was no sound other than the thunder and the booming of the surf.

The lightning flared, one stroke upon the other, with a brilliancy that lit up the cave's interior brighter than at mid-day.

In the white glare the girl saw Winthrop, crouched beneath her upwung door; and his face was as the face of a beast.

CHAPTER XX.

The Hurricane Blast.

FOR a moment that seemed a moment of eternity she lay on her bed staring into the blank darkness. The storm burst with a crashing uproar that brought her to her feet with a shriek. For giant tree creaked and strained under the impact of the terrific hurricane blasts that came howling through the cleft like a rout of shrieking fiends. The peals of thunder merged into one continuous roar, beneath which the solid ledges of rocks jarred and quivered. The sky was a pall of black clouds, meshed with a dazzling network of forked lightning.

The girl stood motionless, stunned by the uproar, appalled by the blinding glare of the thunderbolts; yet even more fearful of the storm which every flash showed her still lurking beneath the door. A gust-borne bough struck with numbing force against her upraised arm. But she took no heed. She was unaware of the swirl of rain and sticks and leaves that was driving in through the open entrance.

On a sudden the door shook free from its props and whirled violently around on its balance-bar. There was a shriek that pierced above the shrilling of the cyclone—a single human shriek.

The girl sprang across the cave. The heavy door swished up before her and down again, lower edge all but grazing her face. For a moment it stopped in a vertical position and hung quivering, like a beast about to leap upon its prey. Too excited to comprehend the danger of the act, the girl sprang forward and shot one of the thick bars into its socket.

A fierce gust leaped against the outer face of the door and thrust in upon it, striving to burst it bodily from its hinges. The top and the free side of the bottom bowed in. But the branches were still green and tough, the bamboo like whalebone and the shrunken creepers held the frame together as though the joints were lashed with wire rope. Failing to smash in the elastic structure of the door, the wind sought the lower part of the door gave back with the shifting of the pressure to the top. It was then a simple matter to slide the remaining bars into the deep-sunk holes. Within half a minute she had made the door fast from the first bar to the sixth.

A heavy spray was beating in upon her through the chinks of the framework. She drew back and sought shelter in a niche at the side. Narrow as was the slit above the top of the door, it let in a torrent of water, which spouted clear across and against the far wall of the cave. It gushed down upon her bed and was already flooding the cave floor.

She piled higher the coconuts stored in her niche, and perched herself upon the heap to keep above the water. But even in her sheltered corner the eddying wind showered her with spray. She waded across for her skin-covered sunshade, and returned to huddle beneath it, in the still misery and terror of a hunted animal that has crept wounded into a hole.

During the first hurricane there had been companions to whom she could look for help and comfort, and she had been to a degree unaware of the greatness of the danger. But in the few short weeks since she had sought more than one glimpse of Primitive Nature—she of the bloody fang, blind, remorseless, insensate, destroying, ever destroying.

True, this was on solid land, while before there had been the peril of the sea. But now the girl was alone. Outside the swirling walls of her refuge, the hurricane yelled and shrieked and roared—a headless, formless monster, furious to burst in upon her, to overthrow her stanch old tree giant, that in his fall his shattered trunk might crush and mangle her. Or at any instant a thunder-bolt might rend open the great tower of living rock, and hurl her blackened body into the pool on the cave floor.

Once she fancied that she heard Blake shouting outside the door; but when she screamed a shrill response, the blast mocked her with scolding shrieks, and she dared not venture to free the door. If it were Blake, he did not shout again. After a time she began to think that the sound had been no more than a freak of the shifting wind. Yet the thought of him out in the full fury of the cyclone served to turn her thoughts from her own danger. She prayed aloud for his safety, beseeching God that he be spared. She sought to pray even for Winthrop. But the vision of that beastly face rose up before her, and she could not—

Presently she became aware of a change in the storm. The terrific gusts blew with yet greater violence, the thunder crashed heavier, the lightning filled the air with a flame of dazzling white light. But the rain no longer gushed across on the spot where her bed had been. It was filtering at a different angle, and its force was broken by the bend in the thick wall of the entrance. After a time the deluge dashed against the entrance, gushing down the door in a cataract of foam.

Another interval, and the driving downpour no longer struck even the edge of the opening. The wind was moving rapidly as the cyclone center moved past on one side. The area of the hurricane was little more than thrice that of a tornado, and it was advancing along its course at great speed. An hour more, and the outermost rim of the huge whirl was passing over the cleft.

Quickly the hurricane gusts fell away to a gale; the gale became a breeze; the breeze lulled and died away, stifled by the torrential rain.

Within the baobab all was again dark and silent. Utterly exhausted, the girl had sunk back against the friendly wall of the tree, and fallen asleep. She was awakened by a hoarse call: "Miss Jenny! Miss Jenny, answer me! Are you all right?"

She started up, barely saving herself from a fall as the big unhusked nuts rolled beneath her feet. The morning sunlight was streaming in over her door. She sprang down ankle-deep into the mire of the cave floor, and ran to loosen the bars. As the door swung up, she darted out, with a cry of delight: "You are safe—safe! Oh, I was so afraid for you! But you're drenched! You must build a fire—dry yourself—at once!"

"Wait," said Blake. "I've got to tell you something."

He caught her outstretched hands, and pushed them down with gentle force. His face was grave, almost solemn.

"Think you can stand bad news—a shock?"

"What is it? You look so strange!"

"It's about Winthrop—something very bad—"

She turned, with a gasp, and hid her face in her hands, shuddering with horror and weeping.

"Wait," she cried. "I know already—I know all!"

"All?" demanded Blake, staring blankly.

"Yes; all! And—and he made me think it was you!" She gasped, and fell silent.

Blake's face went white. He spoke in a clear, vibrant voice, tense as an overstrained violin string: "I am speaking about Winthrop—understand me?—Winthrop. He has been badly hurt."

"The door swung down and struck him, when he was creeping in—"

"God!" roared Blake. "I picked him up like a sick baby—the beast!—stead of grinding my heel in his face! God! I'll—"

"Tom! don't—don't even speak of it! Tom!"

"God! When a helpless girl—when a—"

He choked, beside himself with rage.

She sprang to him, and caught his sleeve in a convulsive grasp. "Hush, for mercy's sake! Tom Blake, remember—you're a man!"

He calmed like a ferocious dog at his master's but it was oral minutes before he could bring himself to obey her instant urging that he should return to the injured man.

"I'll go," he at last growled. "Wouldn't it do even for you, but he's good as dead—lucky for him!"

"Dead!"

"Dying. You stay away."

He went around the baobab and a few paces along the cleft to the place where a limp form lay huddled on the ledges, out of the mud. Slowly, as though drawn by the fascination of horror, the girl crept after him. When she saw the broken, storm-beaten thing that had been Winthrop, she stopped, and would have turned back. After all, as Blake had said, he was dying—

When she stood at the feet of the writhing figure, and looked down into the battered face, it required all her will-power to keep from fainting. Blake frowned up at her for an instant, but said nothing.

Winthrop was speaking, feebly and brokenly, yet distinctly: "Really, I did not mean any harm—at first—you know. But a man does not always have control—"

"Not a beast like you!" growled Blake.

"Oh! Don't! I'm! I say now, I'm done for! My legs are cold already—"

JUDGE P. E. CASON.

Judge Cason completed his second term as county judge on the last day of the old year, and entered upon his third term on the first day of the new year. Judge Cason takes great interest in the county business. When not engaged looking after county affairs Judge Cason is busy with his law practice.

J. H. ROGERS.

The above is a good picture of J. H. Rogers, the new county clerk. He is one of the cleverest gentlemen in the county, and a painstaking official. He never held an office before, and will be earnest in his effort to serve the county well and keep his office up to the stand of the best. He has as his deputy his sister, Miss Lizzie.

N. E. RIDDELL.

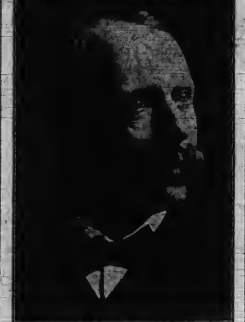

County Attorney N. E. Riddell is now filling his office a second term. He was nominated without opposition for a re-election. Besides the office of county attorney he is vice-president of the Boone County Deposit Bank and president of the Consolidated Telephone Company.

REV. EDGAR C. RILEY.
The new superintendent of public schools in this county, Rev. Edgar C. Riley, entered upon the discharge of his duties of his office on the first of this month. Rev. Riley is a lover of education, and the schools in the county will take no backward step under his administration. He is an ambitious young man and will throw all his energy in his work that educational matters in this county may take rank among the best managed in the State.

ESQUIRE EZEKIEL AYLOR.

The above is a good picture of the new justice of the peace in district No. 1 in this county, and successor to Clinton Gaines, the oldest member of the old court in the matter of service. Mr. Aylor is a resident of the extreme northern part of the county, is 48 years old and never held an office before, never having been a candidate for one until he took a notion that he would like to be a member of the fiscal court. He will make a painstaking official, and will look after the interest of the taxpayers closely.

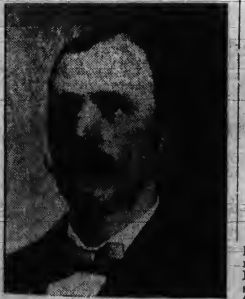

The other members of the fiscal court are William Stephens, of Petersburg; Moses Scott, of Rabbit Hash; J. S. Neel, of Beaver; Ben O'Neal, of Verona; J. H. Tanner, of Florence. Moses Scott is the only member of the old court that is a member of the present court.

The sultan of Turkey accepted the resignation of Hilmi Pasha, the grand vizier. It is reported that Halka Bey, ambassador to Rome, will be asked to form a new cabinet.

Sought at one time by the federal authorities under a $10,000 reward for his capture, dead or alive, for his alleged conspiracy in the murder of President Lincoln, and now appointed as a member of the United States senate, is the strange experience of Col. James Gordon, who has been named by Gov. Noel as successor to the late A. J. McLaughlin.

Prince Hans of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glücksburg, a brother of the late King Christian of Denmark and generally known as the "uncle of Europe," is critically ill.

Frederic Remington, the artist, died at his home in Ridgely, Conn., following an attack of appendicitis complicated with septic peritonitis.

Samuel W. Williams, candidate for vice-president on the Populist ticket in 1908, was stricken with heart failure at his home in Vincennes, Ind. His condition is serious.

GENERAL NEWS.

Miraculously restored to health through a power which he declares was the Holy Ghost, Gen. W. B. Weaver, well known in national and Iowa state politics in the last fifty years, has come out strongly in support of divine healing and will lead a movement for a national convention of Divine Healers to be held in Des Moines some time early next year.

The Des Moines (Ia.) Press club, one of the news writers of the city, gave a complimentary banquet at the Savoy hotel last night to Senator Cummins and Congressman Hull. Gridiron features prevailed.

Thomas Botham, a retired farmer, 73 years old, killed himself after a fruitless attempt to slay his wife at St. Joseph, Mich. Botham's little granddaughter was hurt slightly in jumping from a second-story window in escaping from her crazed grandfather. Policeman Delwin Fisher was knocked down by a bullet which grazed his temple.

Only a technical legal shadow now stands between Charles W. Morse, convicted banker and one-time ice king, and the 15-year sentence in the federal prison at Atlanta. Judge Hough in the United States court denied his motion for a new trial.

Michael Malone, Michael McGraw and Fred Malone, miners, were burned to death near Harrison, Mineral county, Virginia, Patrick next year. Frederick Dugan, who boarded at the same house, are missing. Officers are working on a clue indicating that the fire was started after the celebration by a man who had been ejected.

Out of the Nicaraguan war a crisis has developed in Central and South American affairs, which was not contemplated by this government and so important has the situation become that upon President Taft's return from the New York Secretary Knox at once consulted him as to the best method of meeting it.

Five hundred delegates, representing the various business, social and commercial departments of collegiate institutions of the United States, assembled in Louisville for a three-days' session.

While dreamers fought a stubborn battle in the basement of the People's Methodist church in Kansas City, Kan., 50 children, ignorant of the fact that the building was on fire, sat there, sang Christmas hymns and took part in a special holiday service.

Relics of a prehistoric race in Colorado will be taken to prevent their death and to prevent the deterioration by exposure to the elements. This statement is made in a report by Superintendent Randolph of Mesa Verde National park in Colorado.

While the body of John McClintock, a sheep herder, who was killed in a range dispute near Rocky Spur, Idaho, was being taken to Nampa to charge of the sheriff, it was jolted out of a box in the wagon and when the conveyance reached Nampa the loss was discovered. The body was found in the rough mountain road eight miles from Nampa.

Mrs. Frances Hinkel of Newark, N. J., mother of a former patient confined in the Essex county insane asylum, made an affidavit and placed it in the hands of Prosecutor Mott, at Newark, to the effect that the woman whose charred skeleton was found several weeks ago hidden in the roof of an abandoned building of the asylum, was that of Mrs. Katherine Linder, and that she was beaten to death by three women nurses and her body secreted in the roof by them, the cognizance of Dr. Daniel M. Dill, superintendent of the asylum.

"Act rather than declare." This is the reported expression of President Taft to call for legislation regarding his program for the conservation of natural resources. The president declared that when the present session of congress ends he will be able to point to the first practical conservation statutes ever placed upon the law books of the nation as his answer to the criticism, which has been directed toward the White House.

Bessie May Priest, a beautiful 18-year-old girl, is dead by poison at Los Angeles, Cal. It is believed, by a woman friend of the child, that she was killed by her stepmother to Harry S. Priest, son of a millionaire of Newark, N. J., was futile. Mystery which surrounds the crime and the identity of the jealous woman may develop features more sensational than the Cornish case.

James P. Conner, secretary and treasurer of the Chicago Fire Appliance Company and secretary of the Miami Coal Company, and Michael H. Rogers, Democratic committeeman of the Thirteenth ward and head of the M. H. Rogers Coal Company, were indicted at Chicago by the December grand jury on charges of obtaining money by false pretenses in connection with the sale of coal to the city.

Jose Santos Zelaya, resigned president of Nicaragua, upon his arrival at Mexico City imparted the startling piece of information that 400 American marines took part in the recent battle between the government and insurgent forces at Rama and that at least twenty United States marines were killed in an engagement on November 1.

More love letters of Frank Gould came to light in New York in connection with Bessie De Voe's damage suit. One explicit expression, longed for the time when the girl should be his bride.

President Taft has put the final touches to a special message to congress dealing with the amendments which he believes are necessary to the interstate commerce and Sherman anti-trust acts. Recent reports to the contrary notwithstanding, it is known that the president will take up the anti-trust act and deal with it at great length.

There will be no new issues of interest bearing obligations by the treasury department before early next year. This statement was made on the authority of a high official of the government.

Coroner Harburger has reported to the police and excise department that Thomas Botham, a retired farmer, 73 years old, killed himself after a fruitless attempt to slay his wife at St. Joseph, Mich. Botham's little granddaughter was hurt slightly in jumping from a second-story window in escaping from her crazed grandfather.

The old Cunard liner Umbria, which gave the New York water front a thrill when she came over for the first time in 1884, will arrive here on Saturday and will be her last transatlantic voyage.

In a printed brief of 268 pages, Attorney General Wickham and his special assistant, J. C. McReynolds, presented to the supreme court the case of the United States against the government of the United States. It is declared that the defendants have persistently exercised duress, have practiced wicked and unfair methods, and used their great power in oppressive ways. Further, it is asserted that they have been actuated by a fixed purpose to destroy competition and obtain monopolies.

That the close of the year has been a prosperous one for the railroads of the country is evidenced from figures made public by the Railway Age Gazette. From the figures it is also apparent that the railroads are in an era of increased earnings, having for more than three times the amount of operating equipment was purchased this year than in 1908.

Five woman passengers and the motorman and conductor on a trolley car of the New York & Long Island Traction Company were imprisoned for nearly twenty-four hours in a snowdrift on Long Island during the recent storm.

According to a statement given out by his physician, Earl Percy of London, a Conservative member of the British parliament, died at Paris from an attack of pleurisy, but according to popular belief, he was shot through the lungs in a pistol duel with a former friend over a domestic intrigue.

Seven children, ranging in age from two to twelve years, were burned to death and the adults, perhaps fatally injured when fire followed by an explosion of powder, destroyed the home of Stephen Bronosky, a miner, at Skyville, Pa.

GOEBEL MONUMENT UNVEILING

Will Be Held on Tenth Anniversary of Ex-Governor's Death.

Frankfort, Ky.—Miss Lily Goebel, the beautiful 16-year-old daughter of Justice Goebel and niece of the late Gov. William Goebel, has been selected by the committee on arrangements to unveil the monument of Gov. Goebel in the State cemetery in this city February 3, the tenth anniversary of the death of Gov. Goebel. The principal speech of the occasion will be made by former United States Senator James B. McCreary, of Richmond, who is chairman of the Goebel monument commission, and by former Gov. C. W. Beckham, who succeeded Gov. Goebel as Kentucky's chief executive. This part of the program has been decided on by the committee on arrangements and was announced by Judge Lewis McQuown, of this city, who is the chairman of the committee. Judge McQuown also appointed an arrangements committee consisting of Mayor James H. Polakroff, County Judge R. C. Hiett and J. Paul Avis, president of the Young Men's Democratic club, to take charge of the local arrangements, to provide for the transportation of the persons who attend the ceremonies to get transportation from the depot to the cemetery and attend to such other work as can be done. It is expected that the unveiling of the Goebel monument will be attended by more people from over the state than any such occasion that has taken place in the state. The program will be announced later. The services will be held in the afternoon, which is the most convenient time between trains. The legislature will be in session at the time, and will attend the services in a body.

NONTAXABLE ARE BONDS

Of Kentucky Corporations Held by Nonresidents.

Frankfort, Ky.—Bonds of Kentucky corporations owned by nonresidents of Kentucky, whose beneficiaries are also nonresidents of Kentucky, are not taxable under the inheritance tax laws of this state. This opinion of the legal department of the state was made public by Auditor James H. H. Lockett. In rendering the opinion the information is disclosed that the attorneys for the beneficiaries of the bonds, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co., required a waiver from the state of Kentucky of any claim for an inheritance tax before it will transfer five bonds of the Louisville & Nashville N. O. and M. second series to the executors of the estate.

Frankfort, Ky.—Students of the Kentucky Normal and Industrial Institute are developing a taste for manual training and are showing a decided tendency toward skilled labor pursuits, is the report that John H. Jackson, president of the college, has made to the board of regents, and he wants the legislature to give him more money so that he can make better mechanics out of the students.

Lexington, Ky.—That newspaper editors of Kentucky will attempt to secure an amendment of the present libel law of the state became evident when every speaker at the meeting of the State Press association, held in its midwinter session in Lexington, declared for such changes as would make the law fair to publishers.

Lexington, Ky.—The scaffold upon which Earl Thompson is to be hanged at Westminster Jan. 7, was taken from its storage room at the Fayette county courthouse by E. R. Faught, who will ship it to Westminster and erect it for the execution. The scaffold is a double one and is the property of Fayette county.

Lexington, Ky.—Amended articles of incorporation filed by the Burley Tobacco society here. The corporation is constituted with its original object in view, except that the insurance feature is omitted. The capital stock remains at $2,000,000, but is divided into shares of $1 each instead of $100.

Elizabethtown, Ky.—Gus Warfield, of Mason, Ga., bought mules here at prices which he says never before were paid for the long-eared animals in the state. He bought 14 from Claud Pemberton at $205 per head, one span from R. B. Park at $550, and one span from R. F. Craddock at $600.

Winchester, Ky.—The city council elected J. A. Hughes, mayor; F. P. Pendleton, police judge; J. A. McCourt, treasurer. These officers had previously been nominated by a democratic primary.

Lexington, Ky.—Circuit Judge Parker denied the petition of J. T. Slade and others for an injunction against the city and its officials to prevent the effecting of the recently adopted contract between the city of Lexington and the Hydraulic Manufacturing Co.

FOR HIGHER EDUCATION.

Campaign, as Planned by Chief Crabbe, to Be a Whirlwind.

Frankfort, Ky.—J. G. Crabbe, chairman of the Kentucky educational campaign committee, has made the best report this year on the development of education in Kentucky that has ever been made from this state. Crabbe says: "We propose to keep the ball rolling in Kentucky until the battle is complete." Crabbe has in mind three plans for the campaign next year. The first plan is to collect five or six men who are experts in the line of campaign work, and have them cover the entire state, going from county to county, speaking two or three times a day. The second plan is to have a campaign during the fall while the schools are in session, to cover a period of 60 days, allowing the local school authorities to select a day or days for the speaking. The third plan is to have the third whirlwind campaign with some minor changes from the former campaign, and let it be conducted for a week. During the last three months Crabbe reports that there have been 332 new schoolhouses built, costing $208,157; that there have been 1,285 schoolhouses repaired, costing $64,610, and that there has been spent $58,254 for furniture and equipment in the schools, and let it be districts have been abolished or consolidated; that the average rate of levy is .15 and that the average rate of poll tax is .80. During the past year 57 counties have established one high school, 12 counties have opened two, two have established three and one county has established five high schools. There is only one county of the 119 to report that there is no need of a high school. During the year there has been a levy for local taxation to the schools in every county in the state except three. The attendance for the current year has been greatly increased and there has been a lengthening of the average term, in many of the counties, much beyond six months. So that there are few counties in the state that will have no school with a term less than eight to nine months.

SOCIETY OF EQUITY MEETING

Called for Jan. 15 to Perfect Organization.

Winchester, Ky.—S. B. Robertson, secretary of the Kentucky Society of Equity, has issued a call, signed also by President J. C. Cantrell, for a meeting at Frankfort on Jan. 15. The purpose of the meeting is indicated in the following call: "This will be an important meeting because of the fact that an amendment to our national constitution and by-laws provides that an organized state shall have the exclusive right to fix its own fees and dues, so we insist that a full representation be present. The names of all delegates elected be forwarded at once to the state secretary at Calhoun, Ky. It is especially our wish that all commissioned organizers who possibly can will attend this meeting, as we want to see a systematic plan arranged whereby the organization of Kentucky may be completed as rapidly as possible."

Louisville, Ky.—An amendment to the charter of the Southern Pacific railroad by which a large block of the company's preferred stock is converted into common stock was filed in circuit court here. The amendment certifies that of the $76,000,000 of the preferred capital stock heretofore authorized to be issued, and consisting of $760,000 shares of the par value of $100 each, 744,518 shares have been converted into a like number of shares of the common capital stock and the remainder of preferred stock has been redeemed or canceled, and that the total authorized capital stock now consists of 744,518 shares of common stock of the par value of $100 each, of which 728,477 are now outstanding.

Covington, Ky.—At a meeting of the respective boards of the First National bank, and the Farmers' and Traders' National bank, formal action was taken in which it was agreed to submit to the stockholders of each bank a plan of consolidation. The plan provides that each bank is to contribute $40,000 to a surplus fund, giving the First National (consolidated) a capital of $800,000 and a surplus fund of $120,000.

Vanceburg, Ky.—Thomas Beckel, 55, shot and killed Thomas Applegate, 24, near Toledo, this county. It is said Applegate entered the home of Beckel and cut him with a knife when Beckel shot him twice with a revolver. A coroner's jury held Beckel blameless.

Paris, Ky.—Fire, caused by an overheated furnace, destroyed the Paris M. E. church, two hours after the close of prayer service. The church was built in 1897 and cost $20,000. It was insured for $6,000.

Lexington, Ky.—City Solicitor Allen, at the direction of Mayor Skain, is preparing a bill which is to be presented at the next session of the legislature, providing for a bond issue for holding up $500,000 for new streets and $100,000 for sewer construction in the city of Lexington.

MASONIC FRATERNITY TO AID

In Search for Little Alma Keilner, Kidnapped Several Weeks Ago.

Louisville, Ky.—Following a conference between Fred Keilner, father of Little Alma Keilner, who was kidnapped several weeks ago, and Frank Febr, her uncle, and a millionaire brewer, it was decided to enlist the aid of the entire Masonic fraternity of the United States and Canada in the search for the missing child. Circular letters will be prepared and sent to every grand secretary of every grand lodge in the United States and Canada, bearing a description of the little girl and containing the last picture of her taken before she disappeared. Every member of the Masonic fraternity will in this manner be constituted a special searcher for the missing girl.

HONEST LABELING OF WHISKY

Will Have Been Accomplished If President Taft's Ruling Is Enforced.

Frankfort, Ky.—Col. E. H. Taylor, Jr., the originator of the fight for the bottled-in-bond whisky, said in regard to the president's ruling: "If President Taft's ruling is enforced according with its evident intent, as I understand its intent, everything I have desired would seem accomplished—namely, honest labeling. I assume, however, that the factors that have so long been obstructors will attempt to reach the supreme court, thereby securing further delay in the execution of the beneficent pure-food law."

ACT OF HEROISM

During Civil War Recalled by Death of William G. Stuart.

Winchester, Ky.—William Galliskill Stuart, one of Winchester's oldest and best-known citizens, is dead. He was deputy sheriff of Clark county during the civil war, under his brother, Samuel G. Stuart, when the latter, with only about 25 men, surprised and captured a confederate battalion of over 100 the night before they had planned to raid and capture Winchester.

Lexington, Ky.—M. J. Shannon left here for Jacksonville in charge of John W. Schor's estate of a dozen 2-year-olds. George C. Bennett's Dishes have been booked to Irving H. Wheatcroft's St. Savin. Seventeen of the twenty outside mares for St. Savin have been accepted.

Lexington, Ky.—A new dormitory of frame construction housing 125 boys, at the Greenfield Reform school, was destroyed by fire. The loss was about $5,000. No one was injured. The fire is believed to have originated from an overheated furnace or defective wiring.

Lexington, Ky.—Dr. Thomas Lewis, 78, for many years a leading physician in Boyle and Lincoln counties, died in the asylum here on the night of the 28th of the brain. He was the father of A. A. Lewis, of Covington, and Misses Georgia and Margaret Lewis, of Stanford.

Frankfort, Ky.—The 31st annual meeting of the State Teachers' association, colored, was called to order in this city by President F. M. Wood. The welcome address was made by President Jackson, of the State Normal and Industrial college.

Frankfort, Ky.—Fire, supposed to have originated from the torch of the inspector at Paris, set fire to the passenger coach on train No. 1 on the Frankfort & Cincinnati railroad, and it burned until the train reached this city before it was discovered.

Lexington, Ky.—Twenty-nine trotting mares, $2,000 worth of harness, $2,000 worth of harness and a barn valued at $10,000 were destroyed by fire at W. E. D. Stokes' Patchen Wilkes stock farm. The total loss is estimated at about $42,000.

Lexington, Ky.—Edmund Gleason, 72, a retired saloonkeeper and former member of the Lexington city council, died here on the night of the 28th of the heart trouble. He was one of Lexington's most widely known and universally respected citizens.

Louisville, Ky.—Ben Dillon, veteran fire fighter and chief of the Louisville department, died as a result of injuries sustained when his automobile was wrecked en route to a fire. Chief Dillon was born in this city June 13, 1868. Most of his life was spent here.

Henderson, Ky.—H. W. Kohl, the oldest officer on the police force here, was shot by a negro named Morris, who made his escape. Officer Kohl was endeavoring to quell a row in a negro restaurant. He will recover.

Louisville, Ky.—The Kentucky State Circuit Judges' association was organized here. Judge Thomas Gordon, of Louisville, was elected president; Judge William Reid, vice president, and Judge William Field, secretary.

Louisville, Ky.—The National Commercial Teachers' Federation selected Chicago as the place for holding its next annual convention, which will be held in December, 1910. Knice Spencer, of this city, was elected president.

CURED ALL NIGHT

This Recipe Was Tried. Cure Followed in 8 Hours.

A prominent medical man, who suffered with a severe cough and cold on his lungs, often being kept awake all night, and was treated by a local doctor, finally discovered a simple formula which will cure any cough in 24 hours by the clock. It is a laxative tonic cough syrup which can be made at home by anyone and the formula is here given for the benefit of those who have sleepless nights in painful paroxysms. Those who have tried it say it is magical and beats any high-priced, slow-acting cough medicine ever sold.

Mix in a bottle one-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then take one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times a day. Give children less according to age. This will tone up and rid the system of deep-seated coughs every time.

Charity by Proxy. There is an Oregon statesman who is very prudent with his money. He rarely spends anything if he can get some one else to do the spending for him. One morning he was walking down the street with a friend and they met a beggar who had a tale of woe that was amazing. The statesman listened and asked some questions. Then he turned to his friend and said: "John, this man's story affects me greatly. Give him a quarter."—Life.

Child of the Press. Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden was the founder of the International Sunshine society, which is now said to have a membership of 3,000,000. She is president general of the society, which was christened with 18 sponsors in New York city at Christmas, 1896. It has been called the child of the press, Mrs. Alden being connected with a New York paper.

Reason Enough. "His feelings are greatly hurt since he lost his job." "No wonder he's hurt. He fell from a high position."

A great deal is heard of the art of remembering, but little of the fine art of forgetting.

RAPID RECOVERY

From Industrial Depression of a Year.
Age Experienced in All Lines of Manufacture, Trade and Finance.

New York—Looking back upon 1909, the distinguished development of the year was that of rapid and full recovery from the depression of 1908, says the annual review of R. G. Dun & Co. Statistics for the calendar year will not disclose the fact, however, that the gains made, for it was not until the latter half that the industries began to expand by leaps and bounds. Abundant crops, creating new wealth and inspiring new wants in the agricultural section of the country were the basis of the wonderful uplift. An abundance of capital at reasonable rates, comparative freedom from political excitement, the enactment of a new tariff, ending an agitation disturbing to trade, and the disclosure to the country that the crisis of 1907, severe as it was, had not in reality weakened the foundations of business, these contributed mightily to the rapidity of the recovery, making it possible for the nation to combat even the powerful influence of the high commodity prices. The volume of bank clearings rose to such heights that the total for the entire year, $165,000,000,000, exceeded that of 1908 by $33,400,000,000, and as compared with 1906, the previous high-water mark, by $5,000,000,000. Railroad earnings, in like measure, and the gross earnings made enormous increases over 1908, and even approached the high figures of 1907 prior to the panic. The general recovery in business displayed considerable irregularity in spots, the advance movement being very uneven, and the recovery in the west, which profited so immensely by the richness of the crops marketed at high prices, naturally showed the greatest gains, yet there was no doubting the reality of the prosperity that had been achieved. The year 1909 has been notable for the satisfactory agricultural results, especially the enormous products of breadstuffs and the high prices reached in that market. The area under winter wheat for 1909 was only 23,830,000 acres, compared with 30,349,000 acres the year before. The crop of winter wheat proved to be 446,465,000 bushels, as against 445,000 bushels in 1908, a decrease of 1,465,000 bushels. The area put into spring was 18,293,000 acres, compared with 17,208,000 in 1908, with a total yield of 290,823,000 bushels, against an average of 13.2 bushels and a crop of 228,694,000 bushels in 1908. The total wheat crop of the State proved to be 77,189,000 bushels, an increase of 73,885,000 bushels over 1908. The yield of corn was also large from a greatly increased acreage, final government figures showing the crop to be 2,772,376,000 bushels on an area of 108,771,000 acres, compared with 2,653,951,000 bushels and 101,771,000 acres the year before, and 2,952,320,000 bushels on an area of 92,331,000 acres in 1907. High prices were maintained, quotations on the Chicago market being 65 cents for May delivery. Oats produced a crop in excess of 1,000,000,000 bushels, final figures of the government being 1,007,335,000 bushels on 32,204,000 acres, the largest on record. Cotton proved the only exception in a year of bountiful crops. The return to the plant, however, been greater because of the higher prices received, and this staple still retains second position in point of value among the nation's leading farm products. Dry goods the first half of the year was slow from a merchandising point of view, and merchants attributed it largely to uncertainty attending the situation of tariff laws. Cotton goods exports increased very largely over 1907 and 1908. Imports of foreign goods were also large. In woolen goods during 1909 price movements were abnormal and coupled with complications as a consequence of tariff agitation. The basic cause of the rise was increased value of wool. Prices on hides during 1909 advanced to a point that all records since 1905 have been broken, and though values were considered extremely high in 1909, they were in all cases below the highest point touched last year. Activity in the shoe business did not materialize until the commencement of the third quarter of the year, when then not approximating the standard of 1906. By early fall orders for shoes assumed larger proportions than for any period within two years.

Don't Weep At The Ice House.

Some people swell up on "emotion" brewed from absolute untruth. It is an old trick of the leaders of the Labor Union to make the "sympathetic ones" weep at the "ice house." (That's part of the tale too soon.)

Gompers et al sneer at, spit upon and defy the courts, seeking sympathy by falsely telling the people the courts were trying to deprive them of free speech and free press.

Men can speak freely and print opinions freely in this country, and no court will object, but they cannot be allowed to print matter as part of a criminal conspiracy to injure and ruin other citizens.

Gompers and his trust associates started out to ruin the Bucks Store Co. drive it hundreds of workmen out of work and destroy the value of the plant without regard to the fact that hard earned money of men who worked, had been invested there.

The conspirators were told by the courts to stop these vicious "trust" methods, (efforts to break the firm that had been established for years, but instead of stopping they "dare" the courts to punish them and demand new laws to protect them in such deliberate and criminal acts as they may dare to do.)

The reason Gompers and his band persisted in trying to ruin the Bucks Store Co. was because the store company insisted that the courts keep some old employees at work when "de union" ordered them discharged and some of "de gang" put on.

Now let us reverse the conditions and have look at the courts and the union to diamas certain men from their union, and the demand being refused, should institute a boycott against the union, publish its name in an "unfair list," instruct other manufacturers all over the United States not to buy the labor of that union, have committees call at stores and threaten a boycott if the merchants sold anything made by that union. Picket the factories where members work and keep them on the way home, and even murder a few members of the boycotted union to teach them they must obey the orders of "de gang" put on.

It would certainly be fair for the company to do these things if lawful for the Labor Trust to do them.

In such a case, under our laws the boycotted union could apply to the courts and the courts would order the company to cease boycotting and trying to ruin these union men. Suppose the company should in open defiance continue the unlawful acts in a persistent, carefully laid out plan, purely intended to ruin the union, and the courts would order the company to cease boycotting and trying to ruin these union men. Suppose the company should in open defiance continue the unlawful acts in a persistent, carefully laid out plan, purely intended to ruin the union, and the courts would order the company to cease boycotting and trying to ruin these union men.

"During the last five years the value of elk teeth has been more than tripled," said a western traveler at the Frederic, according to the St. Paul Dispatch. "In 1904 you could get any number of fine specimens in Idaho, Montana, Washington and bordering states for $2.50 apiece. Now you will get from $7.50 to $10, and they are hard to get for even that. The Apache, Sioux, Comanche and Chippewa Indians used to have dozens of them in their possession and traded them for their value, and you can buy them from a regular dealer cheaper than from the Indian. The passing of the elk and the great demand made by the members of the Elk lodge for teeth for emblems have boosted the price."

The traveler related an incident of an Oklahoman who bought a robe covered with elk teeth from a Wichita Indian for $100. He cut off the teeth and cleaned up $2,300 on the deal.

A Drama on the Street.
A remarkable coincidence occurred at San Bernardino, Cal., one day lately, whereby a couple about to be divorced were happily brought together again. Mrs. Walter Preston was on her way to the court to secure a divorce against her husband when her little daughter darted in the path of an onrushing motor car. The mother's screams attracted the attention of a man who dashed in front of the machine, seized the little girl and leaped to safety as the automobile shot by. The rescuer proved to be the husband and father. Explanations were soon made, and the two made their way to the attorney's office, where Mrs. Preston tore up the divorce complaint.

excite a wave of sympathetic enthusiasm for him, which would carry the delegates off their feet, and result in his re-election.
That his long leadership, and this apparent impossibility to displace him has gone to his head, and made him imagine that he is much greater a man than he really is, is undoubtedly the case, and accounting for the tactics he has adopted in dealing with questions before congress, where he has unnecessarily antagonized men to whom organized labor must look for recognition of the labor movement, and where labor measures are often opposed on account of this very antagonism, which would otherwise receive support.

"There no doubt but what organized labor in this country would be much stronger with a leader who was more in touch with conditions as they actually exist, and who would bring to the front the new policies which organized labor must adopt if it expects to even maintain its present standing, to say nothing of making future progress."

We quote portions of another article, a reprint from the same labor paper: "Organized labor, through its leaders, must recognize the mistakes of the past, and the desire to see the organization or to develop the movement which they head. No movement, no organization, no nation can develop beyond the intellects which guide these organizations, and if the leaders are not men of high intellect, the organization will become tinged with a spirit of selfishness, which has never appealed to man in any walk of life at any time since history began."

"It can be said in extenuation of certain leaders of organized labor that the precarious position which they occupy as leaders has had a tendency to cause them to lose sight of the object behind the organization. The natural instinct of men for power and position is in no small measure responsible for the mistakes of the leaders, not necessarily in labor unions alone, but in every branch of society. The desire for power and leadership and personal aggrandizement causes men who have been earnest and sincere in their efforts in the start to deteriorate into mere politicians whose every act and utterance is tinged with the desire to cater to the base passions of the working majority in the societies or unions, and who are undoubtedly true when applied to the present leaders of the Federation of Labor."

We mention the Federation of Labor particularly in this article, because the organization is the only organization of labor which has yet found itself in direct opposition to the laws of the land. There are other organizations of labor whose leaders have made mistakes, but these have always been within the bounds of the law and respected the rights of others in considering the rights of themselves and their constituency; whereas, the motto of the Federation is just the reverse, and unless the leaders control themselves and the organization in accordance with the laws of the land, the leaders and the organization itself must be disintegrated and pass into history."

"The Federation of Labor is a common sense of mankind is developed to a greater extent than in any other nation on the earth, and the people, who are the backbone of the country, will never allow any system to develop in this country which does not meet with the approval of the majority of the citizens of the country."

The annual reunion of the Hughes family was most happily celebrated Dec. 31, at the residence of Mrs. Anna Hughes Hime. Those present were Rev. W. M. Britt and family, of Georgetown; Dr. Wm. Shaw and family, of Cincinnati; C. C. Sleet and family, of Hughes and family; Mrs. Bettie Hughes; Mrs. A. Kenneth, of Cincinnati; Mrs. Ruth A. Hind; Rev. and Mrs. Will Campbell; Mrs. Graham Roberts and Anna Pearl Hughes. The occasion was graced with an excellent dinner and a most enjoyable time was had by all.

The ladies of the Walton Methodist church entertained in a delightful manner at the home of Sister Mrs. John M. Stamler, on the evening of Dec. 28th. There was a large attendance, numbering about seventy-five, and all enjoyed a most pleasant evening, due to the states of the ladies who had the affair in charge and particularly Mrs. Stamler, who left nothing undone for the entertainment of the guests. A splendid supper was served, and all enjoyed to the fullest extent. The proceeds went to assist the church work here.

H. C. Bluck, the veterinary surgeon, while in Cincinnati last week, had a narrow escape from being killed. He was crossing Vine street and in getting out of the way of an automobile, he was struck by a rapidly moving street car and was knocked down and painfully hurt about the face and body. He was taken in a wagon close by and his wounds dressed. He was able to return home that evening, but owing to injuries to his leg he was obliged to use a crutch for several days.

Walton Masonic Lodge elected and installed officers for the ensuing year at the meeting on December 31st, as follows: Worshipping Master, A. K. Johnson; Senior Warden, Charles Randle; Junior Warden, J. L. Vest; Secretary, Dr. C. C. Metcalf; Treasurer, W. R. Rouse; Senior Deacon, Dr. J. B. Harris; Junior Deacon, Ed. Bristow; Tyler, A. J. Thomas; Chaplain, Rev. J. W. Rogers; and Dr. M. M. Harris, and Dr. Ch. Jones, Stewards. The lodge will have work in the Master's degree next Friday night, when two candidates, Mr. Harry W. Hamilton and Roy D. Stamler will be raised to the sublimed degree of a Master Mason.

J. Lucian Johnson, who resided for many years at Big Bone where he was engaged in the general merchandise business, spent the past week here with old friends. He moved from Boone county to Kingsville, Lincoln county, and has been prospering there. He has just been to Kingsville closing up some of his real estate holdings and will shortly return to Boone county, where he is greatly pleased with his surroundings, as he thinks that is the greatest thing he has ever been in. That section is a great country, and particularly for the production of apples, many of the fruit farms being worth as much as $1500 per acre. Mr. Johnson is of good age and his many friends in this quarter were glad to meet him again.

The Erlanger Masonic Lodge.

Good Faith 95, like always was the occasion of a royal banquet, and expect to remain a couple of weeks longer.

The entertainment, "A Public Initiation of a Mason," which preceded the banquet, was such as would not be forgotten for many years. There was a tendency to discourage the writer of this article from all hopes of ever becoming a Mason. The public initiation had one to accuse the "Boys" of having communicated with the great humorist, "Mark Twain," who helped to compile up some methods of receiving prospective candidates into the realms of their happiness.

Be that as it may the boys are royal entertainers. Kentucky has always been known as the cradle of hospitality and when the influence and talents of her good mothers are so developed in their sons that they can entertain a feast fitted for Kings and Queens, it is a great honor. The banquet was such, and a pretty singing it was to see the brothers fitting to and fro in their snowy white suits serving and entertaining every lady as if she had been the first lady of the land, which made her proud to be the wife of a Master Mason.

The tables were artistically decorated and could not have improved had they been decorated by the faintest of feminine hands. Yet, amid the pleasure of the evening there was an element of sadness as thoughts reverted to the recent departure of some of the Masonic brothers into the Great Beyond, among them being the late Thomas Buchanan. The absence of his widow from the scene of enjoyment was noted and heads bowed in reverence and hearts in sympathy with her and her family.

Then, too, there was present some who are nearing the sunset of life, and may it be that when they are passing into Eternity and waving us their last adieu, they can look back over a useful past and see their successors taking up the threads of duty and obedience where they have left them.

Brothers, some day your Lodge will be represented, not in the House of Lords nor in the House of Commons, nor in the Senate at Washington, nor in the House of Representatives; but, some day, it will be represented in the courts of the Great Architect, and we think the question will be "Have you been faithful to the Brotherhood?" Some day it will be represented there, will it be by you? See to it, see to it that you are represented there.

Mrs. John Southern, Wife of a Master Mason.

—O—

THE THIRTEENTH CENSUS.

If You Want A Job Apply to H. C. Clark, Falmouth, Ky.

By January 25 all applications for the positions of enumerators in the Thirteenth Decennial United States Census must be filed with the supervisors of districts in which the applicants reside. Between that date and February 5 the supervisors will send out cards to applicants informing them where they may go to report for the "test" to be held in every one of the 330 supervisors' districts on February 5 only.

Census Director Durand emphatically states that persons desiring to hold such positions should not stand in fear of the "test" to be made. Any person of average intelligence and of respectable character can write plainly and reasonably fast what will go through the "test" with "colors flying." In fact, the "test" is intended simply to help the supervisors pick out suitable persons and to enable the Director of the Census to exercise intelligently his power of approval of those whom the supervisors designate for appointment.

It will involve the filling in of either a sample population schedule, or a sample of the population count in the cities, or of both sample population and agricultural schedule, by candidates who will enumerate the country.

To prepare the way and to insure every applicant being given a fair chance, the supervisors will send in advance to each and every applicant a printed set of instructions for filling in these sample schedules.

We consider that a very important part of the Census Director's willoughby to-day "not only in treating these candidates and giving them a chance to answer the questions properly, but also in the education of the candidates who are afterwards to be appointed.

They will study more thoroughly the instructions for filling in these schedules if they realize their chances of appointment depend upon that study than if they were appointed and then had to do the studying afterwards. Now will see, therefore, that this test is not an appalling thing. It is not for the purpose of keeping people out of the places. It is applied simply to enable the Director to eliminate those who are plainly incompetent. Any person of average intelligence and ordinary common-school education—for the work requires some little power—can easily pass the test."

Between January 22 and February 22 the supervisors will go thru the "test" papers, satisfy themselves as to the qualifications of the enumerators, and make their designations and recommendations to the Census Director. The next step will be the Director's approval, and then the supervisors will issue the commissions to the enumerators.

Director Durand expects to have the army of 87,000 or more enumerators picked, tested, designated, and commissioned by the middle or latter part of March. From then on until April 15 the supervisors will send out the circulars and books of instructions concerning the meaning of the schedule questions and the way the enumerators should write in the answers obtained from the people of the country.

It is very probable that census special agents may be assigned to the supervisors' districts for the purpose of meeting the enumerators personally and giving them additional information concerning the character of their duties.

Application forms, with complete directions concerning the method of preparing them, can be secured by writing at once to the supervisor named in the list appended whose district embraces the place of residence of the applicant.

Persons in this district desiring appointment as enumerators should address H. C. Clark, Falmouth, Ky.

A BURNING ERUPTION FROM HEAD TO FEET

"Four years ago I suffered severely with a terrible eczema, being a mass of sores from head to feet and for six weeks confined to my bed. During that time I suffered continual torture from itching and burning. After being given up by my doctor I was advised to try Cuticura Remedies. After the first bath with Cuticura Soap and application of Cuticura Ointment I enjoyed the first good sleep during my entire illness. I also used Cuticura Resolvent and the treatment was continued for about three weeks. At the end of that time I was able to be about the house, entirely cured, and have felt no ill effects since. I would advise any person suffering from any form of skin trouble to try the Cuticura Remedies as I know what they did for me. Mrs. Edward Nanning, 1112 Salina St., Watertown, N. Y., Apr. 11, 1909."

Why, Willie? said the teacher, "I am pained to hear you speak so slightly of your parents. I am afraid you have not been properly instructed concerning the respect you should pay to your elders. That is one of the bad things about our scheme of civilization. We do not insist strongly enough on having the children accord to their parents that deference and respect which is so common and so beautiful in most of the European and oriental countries. In China and Japan, for instance, the children always look up to their parents as to superior beings. I am ashamed of you, Willie. You should have the deepest veneration for your father and mother."

"Well," Willie smiled, "how's a fellow go to have veneration when his ma puts on a bale of half every morning that she bought at a store and his pa wears a yellow plush hat?"

Harvard Scored. It was the morning of the Yale-Harvard game at Cambridge, and two of the New Haven collegians were wandering through the Harvard yard, looking at the university buildings. Down a walk toward them came a figure of serious aspect, but palpably an undergraduate.

"I beg your pardon," said the Yale man, who is a bit of a wag, to the stranger, "can you tell me where I can find Harvard university?"

"I'm very sorry," said the serious one, with never a smile. "They've locked it up. You see, there are so many Yale men in town."

The Selfish Hunter. James R. Keene, apologist of the jumping contests at the New York horse show, talked about fox hunting.

"Hunting," he said, "develops a race of very savage, selfish men. There was, for instance, Jones. Jones, on a bitter cold day, was riding hard at a brook, when he perceived the head of his dearest friend sticking dismally out of the icy water. Did Jones go to his friend's assistance? Not a bit of it.

"Duck, you fool!" he shouted, and jumped over him."—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

It Would Suit Him. "I give you my word, the next person who interrupts the proceedings," said the judge, sternly, "will be expelled from the courtroom and ordered home."

"Hoarse!" cried the prisoner. Then the judge pondered.—Judge.

A WOMAN DOCTOR Was Quick to See that Coffee was Doing the Mischief.

A lady tells of a bad case of coffee poisoning and tells it in a way so simple and straightforward that literary skill could not improve it.

"I had neuragic headaches for 12 years," she says, "and suffered untold agony. When I first began to have them I weighed 140 pounds, but they brought me down to 110. I went to many doctors and they gave me only temporary relief. So I suffered on, till one day a woman doctor told me to use Postum. She said I looked like I was coffee poisoned.

"Since I began to use Postum I can gladly say that I am better. My neuragic headache is like any more, and it was nothing but Postum that made me well. Before I used Postum I never went out alone; I would get bewildered and would not know which way to turn. Now I go alone and my head is as clear as a bell. My brain and nerves are stronger than they have been for years."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason." Never read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are interesting and tell of many interesting.

SYNOPSIS.

The story opens with the shipwreck of the steamer on which Miss Genevieve Leslie, an American heiress, Lord Winthrop, an Englishman, and Tom Blake, a brusque American, were passengers. The three were tossed upon an uninhabited island and were the only ones not drowned. Blake, shunned on the boat, because of his roughness, became a hero as preserver of his helpless pair. The Englishman was suing for the hand of Miss Leslie. Winthrop wasted his last match on a cigarette, for which he was scolded by Blake. All three constructed huts to shelter themselves from the sun. They then feasted on coconuts, the only procurable food. Miss Leslie showed a liking for Blake, but detested his roughness. Led by Blake, they established a home in some fifty feet from a fresh water spring. Miss Leslie faced an unpleasant situation. Blake recovered his surveyor's magnifying glass, thus insuring life. He started a jungle fire, killing a large leopard and smothering several cubs. In the leopard's cavern they built a small home, and gained the cliffs by turning the bottom of a tree until it fell against the heights. The trio secured a safe place for their belongings. A fight was decided upon as a signal. Miss Leslie made a dress from the leopard skin. Overhearing a conversation between Blake and another, Miss Leslie became frightened. Winthrop became ill with fever. Blake was poisoned by fish and almost died. Jackie attacked the camp that night, but was driven off by Genevieve. Blake constructed an animal trap. It killed a hyena. On a tour the trio discovered honey and a poisonous snake. Blake killed it and saved its poison to kill rats. For the second time Winthrop was attacked by fever. He and Blake were the latter made a strong door for the private compartment of Miss Leslie's cave home. A terrible storm raged that night. Winthrop stole into her room, but she managed to swing her door closed in time. Winthrop was badly hurt.

"Oh, quick, Mr. Blake! build a fire! It may be, some hot broth—"

"Too late," muttered Blake. "See here, Winthrop, there's no use lying about it. You're going out mighty soon. See if you can't die like a man."

"Die! Gawd, but I can't die—I can't die—Ow! it burns!"

He swung up a hand, and sought to tear at his wounds.

"Hold hard!" cried Blake, catching the hand in an iron grip.

Something in his touch, or the tone of command, seemed to cover the wretched man into a state of abject submission.

"Selp me, I'll confess—I'll confess all!" he babbled. "The stones are sewed in the stomach pad; I 'ad to take 'em bouz in my settings, and meit up the gold." He paused, and a cunning smile stole over his distorted features. "Ho, wot a bloom! lark! Valet please the gent, an' they never 'as a hinkling! Mr. Cecil Winthrop, hit you please, an' a 'int of a title—wot a lark! 'Awkings, me lad, you're a 'oxer! Wot a lark! wot a lark!"

His voice shrilled out in quavering appeal: "Don't—don't look at me, miss! I tried to make myself a gentleman; God knows I tried! I fought my way up out of the East—end out of that hell—and never lifted my eye to the gold." He paused, and a cunning smile stole over his distorted features. "Ho, wot a bloom! lark! Valet please the gent, an' they never 'as a hinkling! Mr. Cecil Winthrop, hit you please, an' a 'int of a title—wot a lark! 'Awkings, me lad, you're a 'oxer! Wot a lark! wot a lark!"

Blake thrust himself between Miss Leslie and the crumpled figure.

"Get back around the tree," he said harshly.

"What are you going to do?"

"That's my business," he replied. He thrust his burning glass into her hand. "Here; go and build a fire, if you can find any dry stuff."

"You're not going to—You'll bury him!"

"Yes. Whatever he may have been, he's dead now, poor devil!"

"I can't go," she half whispered, "not until I've learned—Do you—can you tell me just what is parano—"

Blake studied a little, and tapped the top of his head.

"Near as I can say, it's softening of the brain—up there."

"Do you think that?" she hesitated—"that he had it?"

"Yes, I do. But if you'll go, please."

"One thing more—I must know now! Do you remember the day when you set up the signal and you quarreled with him?"

Blake reddened and dropped his gaze. "Did he go and tell you that?"

"The sneak!"

If you please, let us say nothing more about him. But would you care to tell me what you meant—what you said then?"

Blake's flush deepened; but he raised his head, and faced her squarely as he answered: "No; I'm not going to repeat any dead man's talk; and as for what I said, I can't find the time or place to say anything in that line—now that we're alone. Understand?"

"I'm afraid I do not, Mr. Blake. Please explain."

"I Wish He Hadn't Rushed Off So Suddenly."

"Don't ask me, Miss Jenny. I can't tell you now. You'll have to wait till we get aboard ship. We'll catch a steamer before long. Tim's every one of them that goes ashore in these blows."

"Why did you build that door? Did you suspect—"

She glanced down at the huddled figure between them.

Blake frowned and hesitated; then burst out almost angrily: "Well, you know now he was a sneak; so it's not blabbing to tell that much—I knew he was before; and it's never safe to trust a sneak."

"Thank you!" she said, and she turned away quickly that she might not again look at the prostrate figure.

CHAPTER XXI.

Wreckage and Salvage.

ALL the wood in the cleft was sodden from the fierce downpour that had seemed to paned the cyclone; the left cleft bottom other than the bare ledges was a bed of mud; everything within the tree-cave had been either blown away or heaped with broken boughs and mud-splattered rubbish. But the girl had not been so much to think about as feel a concern over the mere damage and destruction of things. It was rather a relief to find something that called for work.

Catching sight of a bit of white down among the bamboos, she went to it, and was not a little surprised to see the tattered remnant of her duck skirt. It had evidently been torn from the signal staff by the first gust of the cyclone, whirled down into the cleft by some flow or eddy in the wind, and wadded so tightly into the heart of the thick clump of stems that all the fury of the storm had failed to dislodge it. Its recovery seemed to the girl a special providence; for of course they must keep up a signal on the cliff.

Having started her fire and set on a stew, she hunted out her sewing materials from the crevice in the cave, and began mending the slits in the torn flag. While she worked she sat on a shaded ledge, her bare feet toasting in the sun, and her soggy, mud-mearmed moccasins drying within reach. When Blake appeared, the moccasins were safely tucked up beneath the tattered flag. Fortunately, the sight of the white cloth prevented Blake from noticing the moccasins.

"Hello!" he exclaimed. "What's that?—the flag? Say, that's luck! I'll break out a bamboo right off. Old staff's carried clean away."

"Mr. Blake—just a moment, please. What have you done with—"

Blake jerked his thumb upward. "You have carried him up on the cliff?"

"Best place I could think of. No animals—and I'll get stones over. But, I say, look here."

He drew out a piece of wadded cloth, marked off into little squares by crossing lines of stitches. One of the squares near the edge had been ripped open. Blake thrust in his finger and worked out an emerald size of a large pearl.

"O-h-h!" cried Miss Leslie, as he held the glittering gem to her in his rough palm.

He drew it back and carefully thrust it again into its pocket.

"That's one," he said. "There's another in every square of this innocent harmless rag—dozens of them. He must have made a clean sweep of the duke's—or, more like, the duchess's jewels. Now, if you please, I want you to sew this up tight again, and—"

"I cannot—I cannot touch it!" she cried.

"Say, I didn't mean to—it was confounded stupid of me," mumbled Blake. "Won't you excuse me?"

"Of course! It was only the—the thought that—"

"No wonder. I always am a fool when it comes to ladies. I'll fix the thing all right."

alonal boggy hole, the water had drained away.

At the foot, about the swollen pool, was a wide stretch of rubbish and mud. He worked his way around the edge, and came out on the plain, where the sandy soil was all the firmer for its drenching. He swung away at a lively clip. The air was fresh and pure after the storm, and a slight breeze tempered the sun-rays.

He kept on along the cliff until he turned the point. It was not altogether advisable to bathe at this time of day; but he had been caught out by the cyclone in a corner of the swamp, across the river, where the soil was of clay. Only his anxiety for Miss Leslie had enabled him to fight his way out of the all but impassable morass which the storm deluge had made of the half-dry swamp. At dawn he had reached the river, and swam across, reckless of the crocodiles. The turbid water of the stream had rid him of only part of his accumulated slime and ooze. So he washed out his tattered garments as well as he could without soap, and while they were drying on the sun-scorched rocks, swam about in the clear, tonic sea-water, quite as reckless of the sharks as he had been of the ugly crocodiles in the river.

For all this, he was back at the beach before Miss Leslie had stitched up the last slit in the torn flag.

She looked up at him, with a brave attempt at a smile.

"I am afraid I'm not much of a needle-woman," she sighed. "Look at those stitches!"

"Don't fret. They'll hold all right, and that's what we want," he reassured her. "Give it me, now. I've got to get it up, and hurry back for a nap. No sleep last night—I was out beyond the river. In the swamp—and tonight I'll have to go on watch. The barricade is down."

"Oh, that is too bad! Couldn't I take a turn on watch?"

Blake shook his head. "No; I'll sleep to-day, and work rebuilding the barricade to-night. Toward morning I might build up the fire, and take a nap."

He caught up the flag and its new staff, and swung away through the cleft.

He returned much sooner than Miss Leslie expected, and at once began to throw up a small ledge of bamboo over a ledge at the cliff foot, behind the baobab. The girl thought he was making himself a hut, in place of the canopy under which he had slept before the storm, which, like Winthrop's, had been carried away. But when he stopped work, he laconically informed her that all she had to do to complete her new house was to dry some leaves.

"But I thought it was for yourself!" she protested. "I will sleep inside the tree."

"Doc Blake says no," he rejoined—"not that kind of sleep."

She glanced at his face, and replied, without a moment's hesitancy: "Very well. I will do what you think best."

"That's good," he said, and went at once to lie down for his much needed sleep.

He awoke just soon enough before dawn to see the results of her hard day's labor. All the provisions stored in the tree had been brought out to dry, and a great stack of fuel, ready for burning, was piled up against the baobab; while all about the tree the rubbish had been neatly gathered together in heaps. Blake had done his duty for her industry. But then his forehead wrinkled.

"You oughtn't to've done so much," he admonished.

"I'll show you I can tote fair!" she rejoined. "During the afternoon she had recalled to mind that old expression of a southern girl chum, and had been waiting her opportunity to batter him with it.

He stared at her open-eyed, and laughed.

"Say, Miss Jenny, you'd better look out. You'll be speaking American, first thing!"

Thereupon, they fell to chatting like children out of school, each happy to be able to forget for the moment that broken figure up on the cliff top and the haunting fear of what another day might bring to them.

When they had eaten their meal, both with keen appetites, Blake sprang up, with a "Good-night!" and swung off down the cleft. The girl looked after him with a lingering smile.

"I wish he hadn't rushed off so suddenly," she murmured. "I was just going to thank him for—"

The color swept over her face in a deep blush, and she darted around to her tiny hut as though some one might have overheard her whisper.

Yet, after all, she had said nothing; or, at least, she had merely said "everything."

Those who hunt with ferrets are having a picnic.

William Wilson has been up in town on his crutches once or twice. E. J. Whetzel, was among the callers at this office, last Saturday.

Gideon Kite, of Waterloo, was transacting business in Burlington, yesterday.

The snow shovellers had all they wanted to do in that line, last Thursday and Friday.

Supt. Riley appears to have gotten pretty busy with county educational affairs already.

It will be several months before the rabbits will have the protection of the quails again.

This has been a very favorable winter for the coal barons, but awfully hard on the poor.

There is no law prohibiting the shooting of rabbits again before the 15th day of next September.

Atty. D. E. Castleman gave the kids about town a jolly ride in his big sled, last Saturday afternoon.

The ex-sheriff's list of property which he has advertised to sell for taxes, appears elsewhere in this issue.

Albert Conner began, last week, receiving the pooled tobacco that will be delivered to the Burlington warehouse.

Lawrence Philips used a large farm sled several days last week in which to transport the mail and passengers.

R. B. W. Gaines, who has been located at Spears Hospital, Newport, for some time, is now at the Good Samaritan, Cincinnati.

The State is in the pinch, financially, but nearly every bill introduced in the General Assembly carries an appropriation of some amount.

In very few counties in this State do the sheriffs advertise as little property to sell for delinquent taxes as is advertised in Boone county.

H. M. Clure, of Waterloo, delivered three nice cattle to Wm. Kirkpatrick, in Burlington, last Thursday morning. They belonged to Mr. Clure's mother.

The supervisors of tax adjourned last Saturday to meet again on Saturday, the 22nd inst., to hear complaints from those whose assessments they increased.

The distillery property at Petersburg was assessed at $175,000 but the board of supervisors, which was in session last week increased the assessment to $175,000.

Last Friday night Wm. Hedges saved the young people another of those delightful cotillion parties for which they are famous. The attendance was very large.

The biggest snow of the season began falling last Wednesday night, and Thursday morning it was six inches deep on the level. There was no wind to produce drifts.

Lewis Beemon and W. T. Davis, of Lima, neighborhood, went to Florida, last week. Mr. Beemon will be gone several months, but Mr. Davis will return in a few weeks.

R. S. Cowen and wife left for Florida, last Thursday morning, a good day to depart for a land of perpetual sunshine, where shows from 10 to 15 inches deep are unknown.

R. K. Aylor and wife, of Waterloo, returned from Huntington, W. Virginia, Thursday of last week, having spent several days visiting Kenneth Aylor and wife, and John Humphrey and wife, all of whom they report as doing nicely.

G. C. Rue, wife and bright little daughter, of Cleves, made the Recorder a pleasant call last Saturday afternoon. They were returning from a visit to several days among Boone county relatives.

Lawrence Philips had the roughest of weather ever since he took charge of the Burlington-Erlanger mail line as driver and is getting pretty well seasoned for making a dash for the north pole, if he had an ambition to undertake such a trip.

The cold weather and the deep snow demoralized railroad traffic in every direction from Cincinnati, last week. On several days the morning train going south via the Q. & C. from Cincinnati did not arrive at Erlanger until near the middle of the day.

The mercury or the thermometer in the county varied considerably, Monday morning. In Burlington the mercury was from 2 to 4 below zero, at Beaver 18 below; Lima 12 below; Idaville 11 below, etc. It was decidedly the coldest morning of the winter.

If the Democratic party in Kentucky will nominate and elect Senator James B. McCreary to the office of Governor, it will do the best job it has done in many years. McCreary is the greatest man in Kentucky, and in honoring him with the governorship the State will honor itself.

FISCAL COURT PROCEEDINGS.

The fiscal court held its first session for the year 1910, on Tuesday of last week. It was a very important session to the taxpayers of the county, as it dealt largely with appropriations for which they have to put up the money.

The following were present: County Judge F. E. Cason, and Esquires Moses Scott, J. H. Tanner, E. J. Aylor, Wm. Stephenson, J. S. Noell.

The usual allowances were made the officers of the election and for rooms in which the elections were held.

O. K. Whitson was allowed $17.50 for merchandise furnished Sidney Noel, a pauper, who was quarantined because of smallpox.

The pauper practice in the county was awarded for the present year as follows: Petersburg to Dr. Grant; Bellevue and Rabbit Hash to Dr. Williamson; Hamilton to Dr. Ryle; Beaver and Union, to Dr. Senior; Verona to Dr. Fennell & McCormick; Walton to Dr. Jones; Florence to Dr. Dulancy; Constance and Bullittsville to Dr. Murat; Burlington to Dr. Peddicord.

Dr. Menefee, of Walton, was allowed $30 for smallpox practice, and Slater, at same place for same kind of practice, $102.

The sheriff was allowed delinquents as follows: County, 751; poll tax, 651; dogs, 112.

The settlement with J. F. Blyth, superintendent of the county infirmary shows that that institution was maintained last year at a cost to the county of $2,299.93, with an average of 32 inmates, which makes the cost per inmate $70 per year. The superintendent for this year was fixed at $350.

The court authorized County Superintendent Edgar C. Riley to purchase a new office for his office at a cost not to exceed $75.

Supt. Riley filed the estimate of the county board of Education, and asked the court to fix the levy at a rate that will produce $15,000 for county educational purposes this year, that being the amount the board of education thinks will be necessary.

The court took time on this proposition.

The salary of the county superintendent was fixed at the maximum amount the school census will produce, which is 20 cents per pupil shown by the county census.

County Judge Cason and County Attorney Riddell were appointed a committee to ascertain the cost of installing a furnace in court house basement for the purpose of properly heating the building and keeping it in condition during the winter months, a great portion of which time the walls are very damp, an injury to the property and the health of the officers.

The settlement with ex-sheriff Wingard showed that he had in his hands the sum of $18,561.44 belonging to the different county funds, which he paid over to his successor, sheriff B. B. Hume, in open court.

Salaries for this year were fixed as follows: County Judge, $750; County Attorney, $300; Jan., $200.

The court made numerous routine allowances during its session, and which will amount to several hundred dollars.

Did Not Read It Correctly.

It seems that some did not read the Recorder's bargain week advertisement carefully. It applied only to new subscribers, persons who had never taken the paper, and persons who were taking the Recorder could not be allowed to pay up and discontinue and then have the paper sent in the name of another member of the family. The Recorder has, for a long time, been giving its patrons special rates on its manager and Courier. It will continue to do so as long as the present arrangements can be continued.

Quick Work.

Tried and convicted in one day was the record made in the Kenton Circuit Court in the trial of Squire Boswell for murder, one day last week. This is one of the shortest murder trials in the history of the Kenton court. His attorneys entered a plea of self-defense. The case was given to the jury about 1 o'clock and the jurors returned a verdict of 13 years in the penitentiary. He will be killed by a Car y, another negro, with a fork.

Saved At Death's Door.

The door of death seemed ready to open for Murray W. Ayers, of Transit Bridge, N. Y., when his life was wonderfully saved. "I was in a dreadful condition," he writes, "my skin was almost yellow; eyes sunken; tongue coated; emaciated from losing 40 pounds; growing weaker daily. Violent liver trouble pulling me down to death in spite of doctors. That matchless medicine Electric Bitters cured me. I regained the 40 pounds lost and now am well and strong." For all stomach, liver and kidney troubles they're Bitters. See at Bentler's drugstore, Erlanger.

The Burlington Horse Co., met last Wednesday and up its affairs and went out of business. The company invested three thousand dollars in a German Coach Stallion in 1906. In 1909 the horse was sold to T. B. Randall, and when the accounts were closed last Wednesday and the money distributed among the stockholders, they lacked sixty cents each of getting back fifty per cent of the original investment to say nothing about interest on their money, as the company is now only a thing of memory.

Death was due to angina pectoris and was not expected.

GENERAL NEWS.

The first annual convention of the National Gas Association opened in Des Moines, Ia.

A telegram was received at the state department, through Rear Admiral Kimball, stating that President Madris of Nicaragua had asked him to communicate to this government that after a personal study of the circumstances attending the execution of Groce and Cannon he profoundly immented the act; that he was compelled to declare it illegal, and that the resentment of the government and people of the United States was just.

Gifford Pinchot, chief forester of the United States, was discharged from the service by Secretary Wilson of the agricultural department. The dismissal was at the order of President Taft after an all-day session of the cabinet on the subject of Mr. Pinchot's letter read in the senate by Senator Dill-ver. Technically the dismissal is for violation of an executive order issued November 26, 1909, by President Taft forbidding subordinates in departments to communicate directly with congress.

Great Britain has intervened in the Nicaraguan affair. The secret of the
ters of the British cruiser Scylla was revealed when its commander sent an ultimatum to the generals commanding the revolutionary and government forces of Nicaragua that there must be no fighting within the town of Greytown.

A sweeping indictment against the paper box trust, known to the trade as the Paper Box association, was returned at New York by the United States grand jury. About twenty corporations and 140 individuals are covered by the indictment.

A bill in congress by Murphy of Missouri puts a ban on publication of divorce details and similar scandals by newspapers and fixes the penalty at from three months to two years imprisonment.

Edmond Thery, the French economist, figures that the wealth of France increased during 1909 by $1,200,000, 000. French foreign investments at the end of the year totaled $7,600, 000,000.

Thirty dollars per drink for apple cider which cost the retailer 20 cents a gallon is the price an East Orange (N. J.) policeman has been forced to pay. He was reprimanded and fined $120 for taking four drinks.

The writs for the general elections in Great Britain were issued.

The president has tossed a firebrand into the politics of the far east. This is borne out by the terms of a statement given out by Secretary
State Knox which means that Japan must abandon her machin-ings against American interests and Chinese sovereignty in Manchuria.

Pittsburg car building companies have booked more than $65,000,000 of orders for cars during the year 1909, according to reports made public.

A sensational crisis in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy was precipitated when a defiant letter from Chief Forester Pinchot was read in the senate at the instance of Senator Dilliver.
In this letter Mr. Pinchot admits that his assistants aided Glavis in attacking Secretary Ballinger, praises them as patriots who were trying to prevent frauds, champions Glavis as a vigorous defender of the people's interests, virtually reproaches the president himself for having dismissed Glavis, and in effect dares the president to dismiss himself.

One hundred and ninety-three Italians, suspected members of the notorious "Black Hand" secret society, were arrested at Chicago in a dragnet put out by the police, following the murder of Benedetto Cinese, a wealthy merchant, who was shot to death in his hotel while trying to escape from a mob of white men who struggled with his three assailants to prevent the crime.

King George's family was routed from the royal palace at Tatol Athens, Greece, when a Christmas tree, around which the circle was gathered, caught fire. The blaze spread rapidly, lighting the rapidly and the right wing of the palace was destroyed before the flames could be checked.

What has come to be known as the "fair list" of the nations of the world, that is, those countries which will be entitled to a continuation of the minimum rates of the proposed tariff bill, soon will be officially proclaimed by President Taft.

Mayor Gaynor of New York has notified every department head under him that they must indulge in no newspaper interviews and issue no statements concerning the business of their departments except through him.

Another notable New York pulpit is to be presided over by an English clergyman. The Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church has just called to its pastorate Rev. John Henry Jovett of Birmingham. He has offered a salary of $12,000. With this goes a home valued at $5,000 a year.

Believing that Thomas Reilly, a state representative, had hypnotized him, Frank Cavanaugh, a cigarmaker, started after Reilly at Joliet with a revolver. He was arrested after several days in the representative's house had been smashed.

John Burns, president of the local government board and labor leader in the house of commons, had a fistic clash with an unidentified man as he was leaving a political meeting in London. Burns was about to enter his motor car when the man sprang upon him from the rear and threw him to the ground.

According to a bureau of navigation report 562 vessels of 82,425 gross tons were built in the last six months of 1909, compared with 528 vessels of 47-500 gross tons in the corresponding period of 1908.

Over 3,000,000,000 revenue stamps will be required for the cigars, cigarettes, strip tobacco and snuff during the current fiscal year, according to a deficiency estimate sent to congress by the treasury department.

Charged with the task of inquiring into the traffic in women, with a view to rigid prosecution or an end to sensational slanders against New York city, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was made foreman of the grand jury.

The suit inaugurated by Adrian H.
Joline and Douglas Robinson, former receivers for the New York City Rail way Company, against Thomas F.
Ryan and other directors of that corporation to collect $2,979,000, is about to be called in the United States court at New York.

Fire threatened the Japanese embassy in Washington. The flames broke out for a moment in the rear Baron Uchida and Mme. Uchida were returning home from the diplomatic reception at the White House. The damage was slight.

J. Pierpont Morgan may unite in one banking concern, through further trust company mergers in New York under the guidance of the enormous sum of $260,000,000 in deposits alone.
This is approximately $75,000,000 more than the deposits of the National City bank, and $125,000,000 more than the resources of the Farmers' Loan and Trust company, the largest financial institutions in the United States.

A woman armed with a shotgun held a mob of 150 drunken, infuriated ice cutters at bay near Kenosha, Wis., while she cut the rope with which the men had hanged one of their number to the rafters of an icehouse. The man had already lapsed into unconsciousness when the courageous rescuer routed his would-be executioner.

Leon Delagrang, the noted French aviator, was killed while making a flight at Bordeaux. He fell with his machine from a height of about sixty feet and was crushed under the weight of the machine.

Matthew J. Whittaker of Worcester, Mass., the largest individual carpet manufacturer in the United States, put his 1,500 employees on a 56-hour schedule with no reduction in wages.
The mills have been running 58 hours.

Representatives of the Carriers' and the Truckmen's union, in conference in Chicago for the last month, have mutually agreed to submit their differences to arbitration and abide by the findings and recommendations of Chairman Martin Knapp of the Interstate commerce commission and Labor Commissioner Neilson.

Two members of the Rockefeller Bible class have been selected to serve on the grand jury of which John D.
Rockefeller, Jr., is the foreman, and which is to make a thorough investigation of the so-called white slave traffic in New York city.

BOARD IS SELECTED

McCUTCHEM AND BROWN, JR., ARE CHOSEN AGAIN AS PRISON COMMISSIONERS.

NO MONEY FOR THE LEGISLATORS

House and Senate Committees Are Appointed to Devise Means by Which to Pay Lawmakers and Keep Wheels of Government Moving.

Frankfort, Ky.—Without a dissenting vote, Harvey McCutchen and Eli H. Brown, Jr., at a joint session of the house and senate, were re-elected prison commissioners for a term of four years each. The joint session was held in the house chamber.

One of the chief matters that came up in both the house and senate was a communication bearing the signatures of State Treasurer Parkey and State Comptroller Farley, in which the communication it was stated that there was a cash balance in the treasury of only $441,558.89, and that this belongs to the school fund for the payment of teachers. It was further stated in the communication that in order to pay the legislators their mileage and other amounts due each, it would be necessary to take the money from the school fund. A request was made in the communication that committees be appointed by the house and senate to look into the condition of the state treasury and recommend a plan by which the situation may be relieved.

Committee Appointed.
In the house a committee composed of Lillard Carter, of Anderson county;
H. A. Schobert, of Woodford county; and S. M. Russell, of Todd county, was named by Speaker Wilson. Lieut. Gov.
Cox, of the senate, appointed a committee composed of J. F. Bosworth, of Middleboro; B. M. Arnett, of Nicholasville; and Herman D. Newcomb, of Louisville.

Just what the committees of the house and senate will recommend is not known, but several made the point that the wheels of the government must be kept moving, and that there are as many legislators in need of funds, in order that they may remain in attendance upon the session of the general assembly, as there are teachers who need their money. It also was pointed out that the teachers have gotten used to waiting for their money under the Republican administration.

Lykins Withdraws Contest.
L. C. Owings, representative from Jefferson county, reported to the house that Malone Lykins had withdrawn contest proceedings against J. W.
Perry, representative from Morgan and Wolfe counties and recommended that Mr. Perry be allowed to retain his seat. The recommendation was concurred in. Attached to the report of the contest committee was a letter from Mr. Lykins in which he stated that he had withdrawn from the contest for the sake of party harmony.
Both Mr. Lykins and Mr. Perry are Democrats. The latter made the race for representative from Morgan and Wolfe counties as an independent Democrat.

In the senate Senator Combs offered a resolution, which was adopted, giving the "corner" of the legislature to the state university to accept benefits from the Carnegie fund for aged teachers.

J. H. Stuart Gets Position.
J. H. Stuart was made official reporter of the senate, and the appointment by the governor of Garret S.
Wall as a member of the state board of control was confirmed by the senate.

Need New Commissioner.
Judge Muir Weisinger, in explaining the provisions of the bill authorizing county judges of counties having a city of the first class to appoint a general commissioner, said:

"The act provides for the appointment of a general commissioner at an annual salary not to exceed $3,000, to be paid by the county. It is drawn very much like the act which was passed in 1906, empowering the court of appeals of Kentucky to appoint a commissioner of appeals, which act was for the purpose of giving relief to the court of appeals, as the Kentucky constitution provides that there shall not be more than seven judges of the court of appeals."

The constitution does not provide that there shall be more than one county judge, and it would very probably be unconstitutional for the legislature to provide for more than one.

"The bill introduced by Senator New-comb in no way contravenes the provisions of the constitution and gives the county judge of counties having a city of the first class, of which the county of Jefferson is the only one, much needed relief. The statutes of Kentucky impose upon the county judge duties which are many in number and varied in character, he being a kind of catch basin for the troubles of the county. It is admitted by all who are informed upon the subject that the county judge of Jefferson county, if he does his work, is by far the busiest judge in the state. His duties are not only judicial, but partake of the legislative and executive. He sits as judge in four courts—the juvenile court, quarterly and fiscal.

While the general commissioner, as provided in the act, will not be authorized to sit as judge in any of these courts or enter any orders, he will be able to aid the county judge in many ways, just as the commissioner of appeals assists the judges of the court of appeals. Among other things he will aid greatly in the matter of investigating the bonds of judges and seeing that the sureties on these bonds continue solvent or in the event that the sureties become doubtful in having others replace them."

A bill will be introduced this week to change the name of State University of Kentucky to University of Kentucky. The bill will be introduced by M. O. Colson, representative from Pulaski county, and who is a student in the senior class of the law college of the university. The proposed change, it is understood, has the hearty approval of the officers of the university, and it is believed that the bill will be passed without difficulty.

The name State University of Kentucky was temporarily adopted as a make-shift two years ago when by agreement between the two institutions the old Kentucky university changed its name to Transylvania university. At that time it was thought that the old school had been so long known as Kentucky university that an immediate change of the state institution to university of Kentucky would cause confusion.

Now, however, the old Kentucky University has become well known as Transylvania and there seems no longer any reason why the state's university should not take the more convenient name of University of Kentucky.

Two Joint Resolutions.
Two joint resolutions, one calling upon the senior and junior United States senators from Kentucky to address the general assembly when convenient, and the other directing the auditor of accounts to make a report on the Goebel reward fund, were reported from the senate as having been adopted by that body.

W. F. Klair, on behalf of Mrs. Desha Breckenridge, invited the members of the house to attend a mass meeting in the interest of education to be held in Lexington on Wednesday night, January 12. It was accepted.

Pensions for Confederates.
L. C. Littrell, representative from Owen county, means to push vigorously in the house at this session of the legislature a bill providing pensions for old confederate soldiers and the widows of men who wore the gray.
If the bill becomes a law old confederate soldiers and the widows of those who fought under the stars and bars will receive from the state of Kentucky pensions of $10 per month.
Mr. Littrell stated that this will have the effect of lessening the number of confederate veterans who otherwise would have to seek shelter in their old age at the home in Pewee Valley, enabling them to spend their remaining days at home with their kinpeople.

To Make Provision for Money.
Committees of both house and senate, named to look into the matter having to do with the inability of the state treasurer to pay the mileage and other claims of the legislators, will probe deep before making a report, it is said. Some of the legislators who early applied for the amounts due them were paid by the state treasurer.
The determination to cease the payment of legislators' claims until some action is taken by the general assembly was reached last Thursday.

W. C. Morse, landing agent at Ellis island, says that more immigrants arrived during 1909 than in any other year. Only 771,380 third-class passengers entered the port last year, as against 1,040,169 in 1907, but in 1907,
Mr. Morse says, many naturalized American citizens and aliens who had been here before returned to their native countries in the steerage. In 1909 the Italians led in numbers. They numbered 130,017 first-class passengers and 167,252 second-class passengers. An unusual feature was the arrival of 1,668 immigrants from Brazil.

United States secret service men, who have been investigating the Burley Tobacco society, asserted at Cincinnati that suit for the dissolution of the society on the ground that it operates in violation of the Sherman law will be begun in the United States district court there in a few days.

The Rev. W. M. Stuckey, formerly a clergyman of Silver Grove, Ind., who had been on trial at Ottawa, Kan., charged with abducting Lorena Sutherland, his 16-year-old parishioner, was found guilty by a jury. The case probably will be appealed.

The American Forestry association will hold its 29th annual convention in Washington January 18 and 19. A conference of governors of states will also be held January 20.

Prof. James Bair Ames, dean of the Harvard Law school and formerly chairman of the athletic committee of the university, died at Cambridge, Mass.

The leading newspapers of Japan disapprove of the acceptance by Japan of Secretary Knox's proposition for the neutralization of the Manchurian railways.

The effort to draw Whitelaw Reid,
United States ambassador to Great Britain, who is now on the high seas en route to America, into the parliamentary contest, has fallen flat. It is a mere pretense in a teapot.

One hundred and sixty-nine people went to the hospitals as the result of injuries received in slipping on the icy pavements of New York, besides nearly 400 others who could proceed to their homes after having their injuries treated.

BURGLARS AT ERLANGER

Enter Residence of Mrs. Hagan and Take $16.

Mrs. Hagan Handled Roughly But is Brave and Shows Fight.

And Fires Several Shots at the Robbers as They Leave Her Premises.

Blood Hounds Failed to Track the Men.

Two burglars entered the residence of Mrs. Hagan, of Erlanger, at an early hour, last Friday night, and took $16 in money. Mrs. Hagan was at home alone, although her son occupies a house so near that it can almost be called part of her home.

Mrs. Hagan had just retired for the night when she heard the thieves. She got out of bed, and securing her revolver, asked "who is that?" when the thieves rushed upon her, one of them having a knife with which it was tried to strangle Mrs. Hagan. In the hand to hand struggle which ensued Mrs. Hagan shoved her pulled the trigger, but the gun failed to explode. Mrs. Hagan was then struck a heavy blow on the jaw which knocked out two or three teeth, and fell her to the floor in a dazed condition.

When she came to herself the men were leaving the house, and she followed them, firing several shots but with no effect.

By the time the thieves had made good their escape a considerable crowd of neighbors had assembled, and an excitement ran high. A fruitless search for thieves was at once begun and continued a good part of the night. The thieves had been telephoned for and were on the scene as soon as they could get there, but so many people had been about the premises that the dogs could not get a track straightened out, and so far no arrests have been made.

Leslie Goodridge and wife, who went to Mt. Vernon, Illinois, about eight months ago, where Mr. Goodridge engaged in the notion business, returned last Wednesday evening, the business having been repurchased by the gentleman from whom Mr. Goodridge bought it. Mr. Goodridge, it is understood, thinks that a good farm in this, his native county, would just about suit him.

AMID SUNSHINE AND FLOWERS.
Fruit injured by the Cold Weather—Many Kentuckians Here.

Writing from Bartow, Florida, under date of January 11, L. S. Beemon, of Lima, Ohio, writes south about two weeks ago says:

We had slow traveling from Cincinnati to Jacksonville, where we landed on Thursday night, at 2 o'clock, and had to roost on the fence until daylight next morning. We have visited St. Augustine and took a look at the old Spanish relics. We crossed the bay and went down the coast seven or eight miles, and witnessed the ebb and flow of the tide. We got quite a number of nice shells along the shore. We visited an alligator farm and saw ten thousand alligators ranging in length from ten inches to fourteen feet. We have seen several turkeys that weighed from 12 to 16 hundred pounds; also the skull of a species of whale. We visited the museum where we saw all kinds of fishes and reptiles and other things too numerous to mention.

Sunday night we landed at Bartow, and the next day went around and found Garnett sitting under a good, warm tree. Tuesday we visited several fine orange groves. The frost injured the fruit in some localities and it is dropping off the trees badly. Kentucky is well represented at the fair, and the fair is running until noon today, the first time since it since I left home; but the fine vegetables gives this section a summer time appearance."

Dr. O. P. Hogan, of Williams-town, Grant county, says he will be the next representative in Congress from this district. This would be full of boys who will tell you the same.

The air at Frankfort is full of politics and non-politics. Democrats who want a job of holding down a State office are spending considerable time there trying to launch a successful boom.

Tom L. W. O. Hogan with his officers of the Burley Tobacco Society at Lexington, last week, do not in private grow with a belief that there is anything in Thomas, calculated to bring them immediate relief.

Not a very large winter crop of tobacco has been cultivated around stores this winter, but that fact cannot be taken as a sure indication of a small actual acreage this year, and the work of preparing plant-beds will soon engage the attention of the growers.

About the first thing the legislature did was to create fifteen new offices and provide a liberal salary for those who should be lucky enough to get them. Of course the taxpayers, or taxpayers at the idea of having more official salaries to pay.

The people of Covington do not appear disposed to make any concessions that are calculated to encourage the building of traction roads that would bring to their city from the country its produce and trade, and right there is where they are making a mistake.

When it came to voting themselves the common school teachers' money in the State treasury with which to pay their own per diem, the legislators at Frankfort balked, and will be paid. Policy, to say nothing about justice, would not permit such an outrage.

Hon. J. W. Peckham, representative from this county, has been appointed chairman of the committee on classification of cities and towns and also a member of the following other committees: Sinking Fund; Assignment of committee rooms; Confederate home; Tuberculosis and Juvenile courts and children; by Speaker Willson of the House of Representatives.

Hon. R. B. Brown, Senator of this Senatorial district, has received the following committee appointments in the Senate: Code of Practice, Chairman; Agriculture and Manufacture; Reapportionment of Congressional Districts; Interurban and Electric Railways; Railroads and Commerce; Reapportionment of Legislative Districts; Constitutional Amendments and Mines and Mining.

The statement of the financial condition of the county at the close of business on the 3d inst., appears in another column. It shows that the county is in a splendid condition financially, there being $21,716.70 in the treasury, divided as follows:

General expense fund	$1,229.44
General road fund	$10,546.89
Special road fund	$1,417.22
Turnpike fund	$2,366.09
School fund	$6,157.06

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.
(Furnished by Supt. Riley.)
The common school graduates' examination will be held at Burlington on January 26th. Those passing this examination will be admitted to the Freshman class of the Boone High School next fall.
The gist of the proposed new school law has been published in pamphlet form. There are very few changes in it from the present law. The policy of the committee on Education is to make our school law evolutionary and not revolutionary. More power is to be vested in the county board of education. Consolidation of sub-districts is encouraged, and conveying children to and from the school is encouraged. There are a number of places in this county where districts could be consolidated and children conveyed far cheaper than having so many schools to maintain.
It will be necessary for us to economize for our fund is limited. Mr. Henry Smith has been elected sub-trustee to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Stephens.

A Wild Blizzard Raging brings danger, suffering—often death—to thousands, who take colds, coughs and laryngitis—that terror of Winter and Spring. The danger signals are "stuffed up" nostrils, lower part of nose sore, chills and fever, pain in back of head, and a throat-grasping cough. When Grip attacks, as you value your life, don't delay getting Dr. King's New Discovery. "One bottle cured me." W. C. Dunn, of Pine Valley, Miss., "after being held up three weeks with Grip." For Sore lungs, Hemorrhages, Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, is supreme. 50c. $1.00. Guaranteed by Bentler's drug store, Erlanger.

Will be Unveiled February 3.
The monument the public erected over the grave of Governor William Goebel in the cemetery at Frankfort, will be unveiled Thursday February 3, which is the 10th anniversary of his death. The citizens of Frankfort are making extensive preparations for the occasion. The monument will be unveiled by a piece of the Governor, Miss Lillie Goebel, daughter of Justus Goebel.

WHY CELEBRATE CHRISTMAS?

Lel Our Children Be Children As Long As Possible.

Two weeks ago I read in the Recorder a reply to Kirtley Rice's card by Mr. J. H. Carpenter, in which he tried to answer Mr. Rice's question, "Why is Christmas celebrated with Santa Claus?" Before we consider Mr. Carpenter's answer let us see who Santa Claus is. Santa Claus—derived from "sanctus" and "Nicholas," an abbreviation of "Saint Nicholas," who, according to history, was a saintly man, a bishop. We are told that in the city in which he lived there was at one time a great famine and the cry of the people for bread almost broke the good bishop's heart. He took a ship and sailed to a far off city, where he was told he could buy food. He bought all the bread and other food he could, and when he returned the people were waiting for him on the banks of the river. When he distributed the bread the grown people had to wait till all the children were fed. After the bishop's death the 6th day of December was dedicated to his memory, and on that day children were given presents. When it became more and more customary to give presents on Christmas day, people, by and by, dropped Nicholas, because most of them were not able to give presents twice within about three weeks. In the old countries Santa Claus was mentioned in connection with Christmas, it is the Christ-child, Christ-kind that fills the stockings on that day. Why in this country Christmas and Santa Claus are celebrated together, I do not know.

Now let us return to Mr. Carpenter's answer. He says that Santa Claus is the offspring of Satan. I ask, can a bad tree bring forth good fruit? Next we read: "Santa Claus is an agent of Satan." I think old Satan would have quit business long ago if he had no better agents than Santa Claus. Next Santa Claus makes fun for the church, and how awful it is for a church member to have some fun? Hang your head, church member; make long faces, but be careful not to step on your own hips, for you might lose your religion then and there. The rest of Mr. Carpenter's reply has nothing to do with the subject.

To deceive the children by telling them that Santa Claus fills the stockings, etc. It is really in conceit we can at least truthfully say that it never had any evil consequences. I have seen old people with tears in their eyes when they saw the eyes of the little ones beaming with joy over the nice things Santa Claus had left for them on the Christmas tree, while Santa "made fun" not for the church, but for the children. What caused those tears? Memories, sweet memories of the long ago, when they were deceived.

THE EQUITABLE BANK
No man can afford to neglect his financial interests. The Equitable Bank and Trust Company, of which we are the sole agents, is the only bank in this section of the country that has a well established and successful record of exchange that no other source can equal. It offers the most extensive circulation through loans to individuals of property wealth who need a volume of money to transact business in the purchase of the products of the farm and factory. Thus the money of those who have a surplus and are wise enough to deposit in a bank is utilized to its fullest value; and a steady bank adds to the wealth of the community by loaning its money to those enabled to purchase from the identical people who have their money on deposit in a bank, which otherwise they would not be enabled to do. Money laid away or kept at home is not only out of circulation but is dead so far as its value is concerned. The Equitable Bank and Trust Co., of which we are the sole agents, is a safe depository for your money. Our Trust department qualifies as a manager of estates, as executor, administrator, and guardian of property. We are also a safe depository for your money. The Equitable Bank and Trust Company, of which we are the sole agents, is the only bank in this section of the country that has a well established and successful record of exchange that no other source can equal. It offers the most extensive circulation through loans to individuals of property wealth who need a volume of money to transact business in the purchase of the products of the farm and factory. Thus the money of those who have a surplus and are wise enough to deposit in a bank is utilized to its fullest value; and a steady bank adds to the wealth of the community by loaning its money to those enabled to purchase from the identical people who have their money on deposit in a bank, which otherwise they would not be enabled to do. Money laid away or kept at home is not only out of circulation but is dead so far as its value is concerned. The Equitable Bank and Trust Co., of which we are the sole agents, is a safe depository for your money. Our Trust department qualifies as a manager of estates, as executor, administrator, and guardian of property. We are also a safe depository for your money. ...and the same old story, but
...and the same old story, but
...and the same old story, but

Dr. O. P. Hogan, of Williamstown, Grant county, says he will be the next representative in Congress from this district. The words are full of boys who will tell you the same.

The air at Frankfort is full of politics and numerous Democrats who want a job of holding down a State office are spending considerable time there trying to launch a successful boom.

Tom L. W. O. is at a time with the officers of the Burley Tobacco Society at Lexington, last week, does not in the growers with a belief that there is anything in Thomas' calculations to bring them immediate relief.

Not a very large winter crop of tobacco has been cultivated in this winter, but that fact
...as a sure
...of a small actual acreage this year and the work of preparing plant beds will soon engage the attention of the growers.

About the first thing the legislature did was to create fifteen new offices and provide a liberal per diem for those who should be lucky enough to get them. Of course the taxpayers are delighted at the idea of having more official salaries to pay.

The people of Covington do not appear disposed to make any concessions that are calculated to encourage the building of traction roads that would bring their city from the county its produce and trade, and right there is where they are making a mistake.

When it came to voting themselves the common school teachers' money in the State treasury with which to pay their own per diem, the legislators at Frankfort balked, and well they did.
Policy to say nothing about justice, would not permit such an outrage.

Hon. J. W. Peckshir, representative from this county, has been appointed chairman of the committee on classification of cities and towns and also a member of the following other committees:
Sinking Fund; Assignment of committee rooms; Confederate home;
Tuberculosis and juvenile courts and children by Speaker Willson of the House of Representatives.

Hon. R. B. Brown, Senator of this Senatorial district, has received the following committee appointments in the Senate: Code and Practice, Chairman; Agriculture and Manufacture; Reapportionment of Congressional Districts;
Interurban and Electric Railways; Railroads and Commerce; Reapportionment of Legislative Districts; Constitutional Amendments and Mines and Mining.

The statement of the financial condition of the county at the close of business on the 3d inst., appears in another column. It shows that the county is in a splendid condition financially, there being $21,716.79 in the treasury, divided as follows:

General expense fund $1,229.44
General road fund $10,548.99
Special road fund $1,417.22
Turnpike fund $2,366.85
School fund $3,155.26

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.
(Furnished by Supt. Riley.)

The common school graduates' examination will be held at Burlington on January 28th. Those passing this examination will be admitted to the Freshman class of the Boone High School next fall.
The gift of the proposed new school law has been published in pamphlet form. There are very few changes in it from the present law. The policy of the committee on Education is to make our school law evolutionary and not revolutionary. More power is to be vested in the county board of education. Consolidation of sub-districts is encouraged, and conveying children to and from the school is encouraged. There are a number of places in this county where districts have been consolidated and children conveyed far cheaper than having so many schools to maintain.
It will be necessary for us to economize for our fund is limited.
Mr. Henry Smith has been elected sub-trustee to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Stephens.

WHY CELEBRATE CHRISTMAS?
Let Our Children Be Children As Long As Possible.

Two weeks ago I read in the Recorder a reply to Kirtley Rice's card by Mr. J. H. Carpenter, in which he tried to answer the question: Why is Christmas celebrated with Santa Claus?
Before we consider Mr. Carpen-ter's unique answer let us see who Santa Claus is. Santa Claus de-riving from "sanctus" and Nicholas is an abbreviation of "Saint Nicholas," who, according to history, was a saintly man, a bishop.
We are told that in the city in which he lived there was at one time a great famine and the cry of the people for bread almost broke the good bishop's heart. He took a ship and sailed to a far off city, where he was told he could buy food. He bought all the bread and other food he could and when he returned the people were waiting for him on the banks of the river. When he distributed the bread the grown people had to wait till all the children were fed. After the bishop's death the 6th day of December was dedicated to his memory, and on that day children were given presents.
When it became more and more customary to give presents on Christmas day, people, by and by, dropped Nicholas, because the most of them were not able to give presents twice within about three weeks. In the old countries Santa Claus was never mentioned in connection with Christmas. It is the christ-child, christ-kind that fills the stockings on that day. Why in this country Christmas and Santa Claus are celebrated together, I do not know.

Now let us return to Mr. Carpen-ter's unique answer. He says Santa Claus is the offspring of Satan. I ask, can a bad tree bring forth good fruit? Next we read: "Santa Claus is an offspring of Satan." I think old Satan would have quite a busy time if he had no better agents than Santa Claus. Next Santa Claus makes fun for the church, and how awful for a church member to have some fun! Hang your head, church member; make a long face, but be careful not to step on your under lip, for you might lose your religion then and there. The rest of Mr. Carpen-ter's reply has nothing to do with the subject.
Some people claim it is not right to deceive the children by telling them that Santa Claus fills the stockings, etc. If it really does deceive them, we can at least truthfully say that it never had any evil consequences. I have seen old people with tears in their eyes when they saw the eyes of the little ones beaming with joy over the nice things Santa Claus had left for them on the Christmas tree, while Santa "made fun" not for the church, but for the children. What caused those tears? Memories, sweet memories of the long ago,

when they were deceived.
Let our children be children as long as possible. As long as they respect Santa Claus and the Christ kind, we need no juvenile court to control them.

THE GOOD FEATURES OF A BANK!

No financial man should be without a bank. It is the repository of his money, and the place to which he can turn in case of need. It gives him a safe place for his money, and it gives him the means of increasing it. It gives him the means of obtaining credit, and it gives him the means of obtaining the products of the farm and factory. Thus, the money of those who have a surplus and are wise enough to deposit it in a bank is utilized to its fullest value; and affords a bank additional funds whereby loans are made to traders who are thus enabled to purchase from the regional people who have their money on deposit in a bank, which otherwise they would not be enabled to do. Money laid away or kept at home is not only out of circulation but is dead so far as its value is concerned. The Equitable Bank and Trust Co., of Walton, Ky., wants your business. It pays depositors four per cent on money, our Trust department handles all matters of estates, as executor, guardian, administrator, etc. Capital of bank, $50,000, with surplus funds of $100,000. The business of all solicited. Try us; you will be pleased. Telephone connection.

Local Happenings.

Send your job work to the Recorder this year, and be loyal to home enterprise.

The postal tobacco is now on sale at special warehouses in large volumes now.

C. L. Gaines can supply Pictorial Review, Ladies World and Modern Pictorial for $1.00 Regular price $1.25.

Pedestrians had all they could do last Thursday to keep on their feet owing to the slippery condition of the sidewalks.

A good family horse belonging to Johnson Rogers, who lives near town, died a few days ago after a few hours' sickness.

The weather so far this month has been no improvement over that of December. Probably when good weather comes it will come to stay.

C. L. Gaines can supply the Cincinnati Post and Everybodys or McClures magazines for $3.00 Metropolitan or Good House Keeping for $2.00.

Applications for census enumerators will be received by S. W. or H. C. Clark, of Fairmount, until the 31st inst. Send in your application at once.

Notice—The Farmers' Canning Co., at Bellevue, will hold its annual election on the first Saturday in February.

Henry Clore, Pres.

The General Assembly has begun starting bills through the mill. It takes half of the first month of the session to get the legislative machinery oiled and in working order.

Lima burg has, for many years, held the record as the coldest point in Boone county, but on one or two occasions this winter two or three other localities pushed it closely.

The remains of Mr. Thomas G. Tappan, who died at her home in Bakersfield, California, about ten days ago, were placed in the vault at Highland Cemetery, last Saturday at 11 o'clock.

The postmistress at Burlington has been notified that idleness postoffice will be discontinued on the 31st day of this month, which will add several boxes to rural mail route No. 1 out of Burlington.

Miss Edith E. Lancaster, formerly of Florence, who has been cashier of the First National Bank of Ridge, Grant county, has resigned to take another splendid position of the nature of which the Recorder is not advised.

Douglas Rice, a Boone county boy living at Connersville, Indiana, fell on the ice a few days ago, hurting himself considerably. Only a few days since his little daughter, Carrie, was operated on for tonsillitis.

The local mercantile firm of Kelly & Roberts has dissolved. Mr. Kelly buying out his partner, and is the sole proprietor of the business. The firm has been in existence something over a year, and did a good business. For the past several weeks the sign will be exactly right for planting spring advertisements in the local papers, if you want to get results. Try it, but don't think that a single insertion of an ad is all that is necessary.

The Recorder has on its table the second biennial report of A. B. House, secretary of the State Racing Commission. It is gotten up in nice style and contains a great deal of information for the racing interests of the State.

Now is a good time to take those plows to your blacksmith that he may give them a complete and thorough overhaul before you need them. Don't delay until the last moment and then expect the smith to have nothing to do but your work. There are others.

A. B. Rouse, who will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this district, will open headquarters over Mr. L. Riddell's store in Burlington, from which point he will conduct a lively campaign until it shall be settled to whom the plumb shall go.

The coal haulers were out in full force last week, although the weather was not favorable for that class of work, but a yawning chasm in a coal bin is horrible to gaze upon when the mercury is threatening to bust the bottom out of the thermometer, and it has to be remedied.

The rain that began falling on Wednesday evening of last week came down pretty rapidly at times until Friday night at which time the ground was covered with slush to the depth of two or three inches, making locomotion very uncomfortable. Friday night it began turning colder and the rain ceased to fall.

The carriers on rural routes Nos. 2 and 3 out of Burlington, were unable to make their trips last Thursday on account of the creek being on a rampage. Carrier on route No. 2 was stood off by the angry stream that skirts Burlington on the south, while the creek near Hebron, defied the carrier on No. 3.

TO THE FARMERS.

If the Institute is Held in Burlington Make It Your Duty to Be On Hand—Come and Stay All Day—Come Early.

I hoped if a statute is held in Burlington within the next few weeks that the farmers of the county will make it a success in point of attendance, because if they will favor it with their presence there is no question but what enough of them will participate in the proceedings to make them particularly interesting. The State pays all the expenses incurred by the Institute, and its whole aim is to benefit the farmers. It is simply a convention of farmers where various plans for improving land, and for increasing the yield of crops are discussed, the lectures being based on actual experience of men who can tell their brother farmers of their success in a most intelligent and interesting manner. Every farmer who has attended the Institutes heretofore held in the county will testify that it has been a most profitable and interesting experience. The State send out the best lecturers on farm topics that can be secured, and they are able to give the best of farmers some valuable pointers. When the date of the Institute is announced begin at once to make your arrangements to attend and to make up a list of subjects upon which you desire information along the line of the most successful farmer. Farming has become a science in the last quarter of a century, and it is necessary that the tiller of the soil who expects to make a success of his vocation, take advantage of every opportunity that offers to furnish him with information along that line, and fall back on to do this he will soon find himself at the rear of the procession. Be on hand early and stay all day at the Institute, Mr. Farmer.

Secure Against "Veggmen."

The new safe installed by the Boone County Deposit Bank, last week, weighs 4,000 pounds, cost $1,000 and is said to be the best safe made. It has always been the policy of that bank to give its depositors the best protection obtainable, and only a short time back we reported that "veggmen" were getting in their work almost nightly somewhere in this vicinity the directors had a well armed guard on duty in the bank every night for several weeks—until the festive "veggmen" ceased to pull off jobs anywhere near. When it comes to making depositors secure expense is not considered by those who have charge of the bank's affairs.

Saved At Death's Door.

The door of death seemed ready to open for Murray W. Ayers, of Transit Bridge, N. Y., when his life was wonderfully saved. "I was in a dreadful condition," he writes, "but this was almost a year ago; my eyes were almost blind; my tongue coated; emaciated from losing 40 pounds; growing weaker daily. Violent fits of trouble pulled me down to death in spite of doctors. Then that matchless medicine Electric Bitters cured me. I regained the 40 pounds I had now lost, and was as strong." For all stomach, liver and kidney troubles they're supreme. 50c at Benton's drugstore, Ellettsburg.

Suits Against "Dumpers."

Elmer G. Gains, local attorney for the County Board of Control of the Burlington Tobacco Society, has filed several suits in the two weeks against parties who have sold to outside parties their tobacco which they had pooled. These parties certainly did not read the Circular Law which the Recorder carried for two weeks in order that all those who had pooled their tobacco and were disposed to dump it, might be informed as to the penalty for so doing.

J. F. Cason Dead.

J. Frank Cason, for many years a resident of Idlewild neighborhood and a member of the C. J. Rogers, died at his home near Independence, Kenton county, on the 11th inst., of a complication of diseases, the most pronounced of which was heart trouble. Mr. Cason was a very successful business man notwithstanding he was in delicate health for a long time. Interment at Independence.

A Much Needed Reform.

Circuit Judge Tracy, of Covington, has read the riot act to the attorneys who practice in his court, ordering that the wrangling pending trials must be cut out. Judge Tracy has certainly inaugurated a much needed reform in the Kenton county bar.

Notice—Owing to the increase in the price of material I have been compelled to raise the price of shooting horses from $15.00 to 20 cents per shoe. L. H. Busby, Gunpowder, Ky.

EDGAR CROPPER, President. MALCHUS SOUTHER, Secretary.

Married at the Court House.

Wilbur Rice, 37 and Miss Nanine Northcutt, 31, both of McVillie, called at the county clerk's office, last Wednesday afternoon, and secured a license to marry. County Judge Cason was present, when, to him very unexpectedly, the groom requested him to perform the marriage ceremony, which he proceeded to do immediately upon the license receiving the signature of the deputy county clerk, Miss Lizzie Rogers. Judge Cason has a very appropriate nuptial ceremony, and by it he made the handsome young couple man and wife and they were soon on their way rejoicing. When Mr. Rice and Miss Northcutt left home, they expected to secure a license of a deputy county clerk in Bellevue precinct and have Rev. H. A. I. y, pastor of Bellevue Baptist church to officiate at the wedding, but the party to whom they intended to apply for the license was not at home, hence their trip to Burlington and their marriage there. The groom is a son of Erastus Rice, of Rising Sun, and the bride is a daughter of C. T. Northcutt, of McVillie.

GENERAL NEWS

Two persons were hurt when the St. Louis-New York express on the Vandallia road was derailed at Woodland, Ill. A broken frog caused the wreck. Two sleepers were overturned.

A new universal language, known as "Ido," has appeared in New York. It is said to be superior in some respects to Esperanto. Prof. Jespersen of the University of Copenhagen is said to advocate it.

The alleged confession of Ray Lamphre, reported to have been made to a Laporte man by the former hired man of Bill Guinness, the murderer, while he was confined in the Laporte county jail, and printed in a St. Louis paper, found very few believers in Laporte because of the inaccuracies which it contains. According to the confession Lamphre went to the farmstead at night with a woman, chloroformed Mrs. Guinness, her three children and Jennie Olson, her maid. The woman then searched the house, and between $50 and $70. The house was accidentally set on fire.

The members of the royal family, with the exception of Princess Louise, daughter of the king, King Leopold, have arranged to do everything possible to avoid lawsuits and scandal in connection with the distribution of Leopold's fortune.

This statement epitomizes the formal announcement made public by Gifford Pinchot, who was recently removed as chief of the forest service. He declared the great moral issue now facing the country is not the loss of natural resources so much as whether special interests or the people shall rule.

The grand jury which has been investigating the Denver Citizens' State bank of Edgemoor, S. D., which closed its doors three or four days ago, returned indictments against the president, James A. Stewart, and the cashier, C. A. Grippen.

CONTROL OF WATER POWER

Executive Recommends Leasing of Valuable Privileges on Government Lands to Private Interests Under Conditions That Would Prevent Monopoly—Question of Fostering Soils Most Important—Reclamation and Irrigation of Arid Lands Also Treated Upon—Preservation of Our Forests.

Washington.—The president transmitted to congress a special message on the subject of the conservation of the nation's natural resources. In substance it was as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives: In my annual message I reserved the subject of the conservation of our national resources, and the subject is of such importance as to require a more detailed statement. The subject can be entered upon in this message.

In several departments there is presented the necessity for legislation looking to the further conservation of our national resources, and the subject is of such importance as to require a more detailed statement. The subject can be entered upon in this message.

Public Land Along Stream.

With respect to the public land which has been reserved for the opportunity to convert water power into transmissible electricity, another question is presented. There are lands water power sites though all the public lands are not water power.

It is to be noted that the power in streams flowing through lands owned by the government is not to be converted and transmitted to the consumer and use of that power.

The development in electrical appliances and the use of electricity for power into electricity to be transmitted long distances has progressed so far that it is no longer proper to say that there is a certain inference that in the future the power of the water falling in the streams to a large extent will be placed at the disposal of the public.

DREDGEBOAT CRUSHED TO BITS

By Joe Grogan—Riverman Alarmed at Depth of Cakes.

Louisville, Ky.—The United States dredgeboat J. S. Walker, moored at Brandenburg, Ky., 20 miles below this city, was crushed to bits when a large ice barge at Wolfsville, Ky., went out. Two barges went down with the boat, and will probably be a total loss. The escape before the ice struck the boat. The Walker was valued at $40,000. The rivermen are alarmed at the depth of the cakes in the river, and are endeavoring to prevent a sudden thaw, which they fear would fill the river with wrecks.

UNCLE OF KIDNAPED GIRL

Admits Killers Are on Eve of Negotiations with Abductors of the Child.

Louisville, Ky.—Frank Febr, uncle of Alma, the kidnapped daughter of Fred Kellner, admitted that he had received a letter from persons who claim to hold the missing child, asking for ransom. He declared that he believed this to be the same party who wrote to him about the first of the year, demanding a large ransom. Mr. Febr said the parents were willing to pay any reasonable sum, and would guarantee immunity to her captors.

Somerset, Ky.—While standing with his hands in his pockets talking to friends at Sloan's Valley, William McKee, section foreman, was shot by James M. Campbell, Jr., of Paducah, secretary, A. B. H. on the same basis as counties in case of personal damage suits was approved.

For Once He Had Asked Question and Received Answer That Floored Him.

He was a regular patron of the restaurant. Perhaps that is why he felt justified in making clever remarks to the waitresses, remarks which they were puzzled how to answer. One day, however, the smallest and thinnest waitress happened to be serving this irritating customer, and it fell to her to answer him in kind.

"I'll have some steak," he said, coming in late for dinner, "and some squash, and some—got some baked potatoes, fine brown, baked potatoes." "Baked potatoes are all over," said the girl.

He leaned back in his chair and gazed at her quizzically. "Baked potatoes all over, are they?" he repeated. "All over what?" "With," she replied, simply. "Youth's Companion."

Sold Again. Little Willie was fond of springing surprises on his parents by announcing some terrific happenings, and then, when excitement was at its height, declaring that—whether of the kind had occurred, but he played once too often. A new and very pretty governess came to stay at the house for Willie's benefit a few weeks back, and a day or two after her arrival Willie rushed to his mother saying:

"Mamma, there's a strange man upstairs who has just put his arm around Miss Wilson's waist and kissed her several times."

"What?" said the mother, as she jumped up to pull the bell for the butler.

"Sold again, mamma!" said Willie, in great glee. "It was papa!"

WHEN DINNER COMES

One Ought to Have a Good Appetite.

A good appetite is the best sauce. It goes a long way toward helping in the digestive process, and that is absolutely essential to health and strength. Many persons have found that Grape-Nuts food is not only nourishing but is a great appetizer. Even children like the taste of it and grow strong and rosy from its use.

It is especially the food to make a weak stomach strong and create an appetite for dinner.

"I am 57 years old," writes a Texas grandmother, "and have had a weak stomach from childhood. By great care as to what I ate I enjoyed a reasonable degree of health, but never found anything to equal Grape-Nuts as a standby."

"When I have no appetite for breakfast and just eat to keep up my strength, I take 4 teaspoonsful of Grape-Nuts with good rich milk and when dinner comes I am hungry. While if I go without any breakfast I never feel like eating dinner. Grape-Nuts for breakfast seems to make a healthy appetite for dinner."

"My 13-month-old grandson had been very sick with stomach trouble during the past summer, and finally we put him on Grape-Nuts. Now he is growing plump and well. When asked if he wants his nurse or Grape-Nuts, he brightens up and points to the cupboard. He was no trouble to wean at all—thanks to Grape-Nuts." Read the little book, "There's a Reason," in plain English.

OVER LIBERALS

The Letter, However, Will Remain in Control of the British Parliament.

London.—The election returns continue to show losses for the Liberals, yet they will be enabled to form the next government.

Veteran politicians say they would surely have been defeated were it not for the popular clamor against the power of the press, which was the main issue of the campaign, following the expectation by the house of lords of the budget passed by the house of commons.

The greatest animation prevails at the clubs and other rendezvous of politicians, and results were excitedly discussed from every point.

Although both sides preserve a careful air of reserve, it was evident that the Conservatives have abandoned hope that their party will form the next government. The utmost they dare to expect is that the Liberal majority will be so reduced in the next parliament as to place the Liberals at the mercy of the Nationalists.

It must be remembered that Mr. Balfour in common sense days ago said that the great political issues now in question would not be settled by one general election, and perhaps not by two. Clearly the ex-premier accurately measured the situation, and the hopes of the tariff reformers must now be centered upon some future general election.

An estimate made after careful calculation by a well-informed Unionist gives the Liberals and Laborites a clear majority of 90 or 100 over all parties, which would provide the Liberal government with a good working majority.

Many of the Unionists, however, are less despondent. They do not believe that the Liberals will win the election with so good a record as this.

NATIONAL BANK CLOSES DOORS

Alleged Bad Loans Cause of Failure of Citizens' National Bank of Evansville.

Evansville, Ind.—The Citizens' National bank, located at the corner of Main and second streets, that has long been regarded as one of the strongest financial institutions of this part of the country, is in the hands of J. C. Johnson, national bank examiner, and the following notice is posted on the front door of the bank:

This bank is closed temporarily by the order of the directors pending an investigation of its affairs. It is the opinion of the directors that the depositors will be paid in full. The affairs of the bank are now in the hands of J. C. Johnson, a national bank examiner.

The closing of the bank is the result of an investigation of the loans made by the bank by Examiner Johnson, who went over the bank's record several days ago.

It is understood that the examiner found that the bank had made several bad loans of long standing, and of such an amount as to impair the capital of the bank.

It is expected that the shareholders will be assessed heavily, but it is now the opinion of those connected with the bank that the depositors will be paid in full.

MANY TOWNS IN DANGER.

Backwater from Gorge in Ohio River Threatens Widespread Destruction.

Evansville, Ind.—Widespread destruction from the ice and flood of the Ohio river is imminent at Leavenworth, Ind., a few miles above here. Apprehensions have been sent here from the alarmed city, asking assistance in dynamiting the huge Wolf creek gorge, which is holding back the water and threatening inundation of the town.

The citizens of the town will appeal to Gov. Marshall, of Indiana, and Gov. Wilson, of Kentucky, asking them to provide for the relief of the situation out of the emergency funds of the two states.

Great alarm prevails also at Alton and Mauckport, Ind.; Hawesville, Ky., and other points between Louisville and Evansville.

With the river at Leavenworth rising and mountains of ice looming up over the water front of the town, Leavenworth faces the dual peril of having its lower district flooded with water and the buildings along the river frontage ground down by gigantic cakes of ice, some of which stand 20 feet above the ice-covered surface of the river. Some of the families in Leavenworth living on the river front moved out.

Big Land Acreage for Unemployed. St. Louis, Mo.—George M. Jackson, of Pigott, Ark., announced that he will give 4,000 acres of rich bottom land near Pigott, valued by him at $100 an acre, to the unemployed of the United States.

Fireman Meets Death in a Collision. Duquoin, Ill.—St. Louis-Memphis passenger train No. 208 collided with Engine 822, instantly killing C. E. Kitchen, of East St. Louis, fireman, and painfully injuring Engineer Popf and four passengers.

TRADE IS NORMAL

Volume of Business as Measured by Bank Exchanges and Railroad Earnings is Heavy.

New York.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Notwithstanding the seasonal lull in business general conditions are fully normal and the volume of trade as measured by bank exchanges and railroad earnings is very heavy. There is a wide diversity of reports from the different trades and trade centers, but even the least satisfactory indications so fundamental weakness.

An increased demand for pig iron is indicated, with buyers displaying more interest than for several weeks, and penances show a hardening tendency in some districts. Inquiry is broadening quite generally, with sales of iron 40 per cent. of normal.

At the west, while business in some parts of the east shows an appreciable expansion, mostly in machine tools. Steel making from, however, continues inactive and in some markets basic iron is still available at $17.

Considerable irregularity has developed in finished lines, but some business in this division is not surprising, after the phenomenally heavy specifying before last year closed. This has resulted in the accumulation of large stocks in jobbers' hands, yet buyers, in many instances, still appear willing to make contracts for distant periods.

Trading in cotton goods was restricted to some extent by unsettled conditions in the raw material market, although in the fact of a sharp decline in the staple there were large sales of print cloths at the advanced price of 4½¢ for delivery during the first six months of the year.

Weather Conditions Influence Trade.

New York.—Bradstreet's says: Reports as to trade and transportation reflect variations of weather irregularity, affecting sales and movement of farm products and coal supplies, and of spring goods to various markets.

Transportation lines, particularly in the north and west, have been hampered by stormy weather, and the movement of crops has been retarded with. Something approaching a coal famine still exists at many western points. Indoor industries seem to be actively employed, notably iron and steel and shoe manufacturing.

Best reports as to new business in iron and steel come from the west, while eastern markets are rather quiet. There is some disappointment at the volume of buying of rails by eastern roads. Collections have been interfered with by interruption to crop movement and are rather irregular, especially from country districts.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending with January 13 were 291, against 27 last week, 310 in the like week of 1909, 321 in 1908, 234 in 1907 and 279 in 1906.

Business failures in Canada for the week number 44, which compare with 33 for last week and 36 for the like week of 1909.

Wheat, including flour, exports from the United States and Canada for the week ending Jan. 13 aggregate 2,677,000 bushels, against 3,182,145 bushels last week and 3,210,822 bushels this week last year.

For the 28 weeks ending Jan. 13 exports are 93,590,419 bushels, against 120,339,517 bushels in the corresponding period last year.

Corn exports for the week are 1,508,866 bushels, against 1,768,684 bushels last week and 1,590,293 bushels in 1909. For the 28 weeks ending Jan. 13 corn exports are 11,866,513 bushels, against 13,500,508 bushels last year.

his talents to good uses would have been a valuable and useful man to any community.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Caldwell of Louisville, Oklahoma, spent Sunday here with their kinpeople. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Daubman, who entertained with a dining in their honor at which besides the above, Mr. and Mrs. W. Lee Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Redman, and a most enjoyable day was spent together. Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell left for their relatives at Cincinnati, and will then return home to Oklahoma.

Chas. Taylor, a young son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Taylor, of Kentucky county, who are spending the winter at Lexington, was killed by a falling of his eyes last week. The little boy picked up a small dynamite cartridge, and not knowing its destructive force, and thinking it to be a piece of harmless copper wire, threw it into the grate fire at the home. It exploded and the fragments flew out of the grate and part of it struck the boy in the face and eye. Dr. A. H. Jones was summoned and he had the boy taken to Cincinnati for treatment to the eye. It is now thought the eye might be saved though it was a very narrow escape.

The Christian Endeavor at the regular meeting last Friday night elected and installed officers as follows: President Clifford Sanders; Vice-President, Walt Cross; Secretary, George Grubbs; Assistant Secretary, Mrs. A. B. Bolington; Treasurer, Miss Nellie Fullerton; Corresponding Secy., Miss Katie Bolington. Subject for next Friday night, "The Christian Endeavor." Cor. 3-18-23, Leader, Miss Lena Bolington. Everybody cordially invited to attend. The Endeavor is making special effort to do greater work this year than in the past year which has been a very successful and satisfactory one.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Walton Christian church had a very enjoyable meeting last Friday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Wm. C. Moxley, commemorating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of the society. There was a large attendance and a very interesting program was rendered. The society is in a flourishing condition and has accomplished a great deal of good work and been a valuable auxiliary to the church. The society has forty-five members and $145 in the treasury. The following officers were elected for the ensuing term last Friday: President, Mrs. Louie Moxley; Secretary, Mrs. B. K. Menefee; Treasurer, Mrs. George Ranner.

The Philomathean Society of the Walton High School is having a series of lectures, the first of which was given last Friday evening. The society has organized two clubs, one known as the Demosthenes Club and the other as the Demosthenes Club, and arranged for a debate every Friday afternoon. The Cicero Club elected Benj. Stansifer as its president. The Demosthenes Club elected Wilmet Kincaid as its president. The first debate was given last Friday and was decided in favor of the Cicero Club. The question for debate next Friday will be "The United States should own the railroads" and was decided in favor of the Cicero Club. The Cicero Club representing Washington and the Demosthenes Bonaparte, Great enthusiasm is being manifested and considerable benefit is being derived from the literary efforts through the agency of Prof. W. C. Morgan, principal of the school, and his able assistant, Prof. Robinson.

SYNOPSIS.

The story opens with the shipwreck of the steamer, on which Miss Leslie, an American heiress, Lord Winthrop, an Englishman, and Tom Blake, a brisquet American, were passengers. The three were tossed upon an uninhabited island and were the only ones not killed because of his quickness, became a hero as preserver of the helpless pair. The Englishman was suing for the hand of Miss Leslie. Winthrop wanted his last match on a cigarette, for which he was rescued by Blake. All three constructed huts to shield themselves from the sun. They then feasted on coconuts, the only procurable food. Miss Leslie showed a liking for Blake, but detested his roughness. Led by Blake, they established a house in some cliffs. Blake found a fresh water spring. Miss Leslie recovered his pleasant situation. Blake recovered his curiosity by a magnifying glass, thus insuring the life. He started a jungle fire, killing a large leopard and smothering several snakes. In the leopard's cavern they built a small house. They gained the cliffs by lowering the bottom of a tree until it fell against the heights. The trip secured eggs from the cliffs. Miss Leslie's white shirt was decorated with a diamond. Miss Leslie made a dress from the leopard skin. Overhearing a conversation between Blake and Winthrop, Miss Leslie became frightened. Winthrop became ill with fever. Blake was killed by a snake and almost died. Jackals attacked the camp that night but were driven off by Genevieve. Blake constructed an animal trap. It killed a hyena. On a tour the trio discovered honey and ostriches. Miss Leslie was attacked by a poisonous snake. Blake killed it and saved her. Winthrop was killed by a second snake and Blake disagreed. The latter made a strong door for the private compartment. Miss Leslie's cave was a terrible storm raged that night. Winthrop stole into her room, but she managed to swing her door closed in time. Winthrop badly hurt. He died the following morning. The storm tore down their distress flag, so a new one was swung from a bamboo pole. Miss Leslie helped in covering Winthrop's grave with stones.

CHAPTER XXIII.

The End of the World.

IN the morning he met Miss Leslie with a sullen frowning, which, however, did not altogether conceal his desire to be on friendly terms. Having regained her self-control, she responded to this with such tact that by evening each felt more at ease in the new relationship, and Blake had lost every trace of his moroseness. The fact that both were passionately fond of music proved an immense help. It gave them an impersonal source of mutual sympathy and understanding—a common meeting-ground in the world of art and culture, apart from and above the plane of their material wants.

Yet for all his enjoyment of the girl's wide knowledge of everything relating to music, Blake took care that their talks and discussions did not interfere with the activities of their primitive mode of life. As soon as he had finished with the day's work he devoted himself to his tailoring and shoe-making; while Miss Leslie, between her cooking and wood-gathering and daily visits to the cliff for eggs, had much to occupy both her thoughts and her hands.

At first every aspect of the cliff was embittered by a painful consciousness of the calm over the north edge. Fortunately it was not in sight from the direct path to the headland, and, as she refrained from visiting it, the new happenings of her wild life soon thrust Winthrop and his death out of the foreground of her thoughts. Each day she had to nurse herself to meet the needs and wings of the despoiled nest owners; each day she looked with greater hope for the expected rescue ship, only to be increasingly disappointed.

But the hours she spent on the cliff after gathering the day's supply of eggs were not spent merely watching and longing. The inconveniences of carrying the eggs in a handkerchief or in one of the heavy jars suggested a renewal of her attempt at basket-making. Memory, perseverance and a trace of inventiveness enabled her to produce a small but serviceable hamper of split bamboo.

Encouraged by this success she gathered a quantity of tough, wiry grass, and wove a hat to take the place of the flimsy palm-leaf makeshift. The result was by no means satisfactory to her taste, its shape being intermediate between a Mexican sombrero and a tunnel, but aside from its appearance, she could not have wished for a more comfortable head-cover. Before showing it to Blake, she wore a second one for him, so that they were able to cast aside the grotesque, palm-leaf affair at the same time.

The following morning Blake appeared in an outfit to match her leopard-skin dress. He had singed off the hair of the hide out of which he had made his moccasins, and his brown skin trousers quite matched the bristling stubble on his face.

"What Does Life Mean, Anyway?"

serviceable, and mine has proved much cooler than I expected."

"But our new hats look all for that—regular sunshades. What do you say—there's a good breeze—Let's take a hike."

"Not to the river! The very thought of that dreadful snake—"

"No; just the other way. I've been thinking for some time that we ought to run down to that south headland and take a squint at the coast beyond. Ten to one it's another stretch of swamps, but—"

"You think there is a chance we may find a town?"

"About one chance in a million, even for a native village. The slave trade wiped the negroes off this coast, and I guess those that hit out of country ran so hard they haven't been able to get back yet."

"But it has been years since the slave trade was forbidden."

"And they don't sell beer in Kansas—oh, no! I'll bet the shows still slip over from Madagascar when the moon is in the right quarter. At any rate, niggers are mighty scarce or mighty shy around here. I've kept a watch for smoke, and haven't seen a suspicion of it anywhere. Maybe the swamps swing around inland and cut off this strip of coast. It looked that way to me when I made the trip along the ridge. But there's a chance it used to be inhabited, and we may run across an abandoned village."

"I do not see that the discovery would do us any good."

"How about the chance of grain or bananas still growing? But that's a guess. We're going because we need a change."

Gulls and terns circled about them or hovered over the water ready to swoop down upon their flimsy prey. Sandpipers ran along the beach within a stone's throw, but the curlews showed their greater knowledge of mankind by keeping beyond gunshot.

Once a great flock of geese drove high overhead, their leader honking the alarm as they swept above the suspicious figures on the beach. Like the curlews, but the flock of white pelicans which came sailing along in stately leisure on their immense wings floated past so low that Blake felt certain he could shoot one. He raised his bow and took aim, but he refrained from shooting at the thought that it might be a sheer waste of his precious poison.

A little later a herd of large animals appeared on the border of the grass jungle, but wheeled and dashed back into cover so quickly that Blake barely had time to make out that they were buffaloes. The first he had seen on this coast, but easily recognized by their resemblance to the Cape variety. Their flight gave him small concern; for the time being he was more interested in topography than game.

The southern headland now lay close before them, the seaward face rearing up sheer and lofty, but the approach behind funneling down in broken terraces. Mid-morning found the explorers at the foot of the ridge. Blake squinted up at the bowdler-strewn slopes and the crannies of the broken ledges.

"Likely place for snakes, Miss Jenny," he remarked. "Guess I'd better lead."

Eager as she was to look over into the country beyond, the girl dropped into second place and made no complaint about the wary slowness of her companion's advance. She found the most difficult parts of the ascent quite easy after her training on the tree-ladder. Blake could have taken ladders and all at a run, but as he mounted each terrace he halted to spy out the ground before him. Like Miss Leslie, he was looking for snakes, though for an exactly opposite reason. He wished to add to the contents of the cigarette case.

Greatly to his disappointment and the girl's relief neither snake nor sign of snake was to be seen all the way up the ridge. As they neared the crest Blake turned to offer her his hand up the last ledges, and in the instant they gained the top.

The wind, now freshening to a gale, struck the girl with such force that she would have been blown back down the ledges had not Blake clutched her wrist. Headless alike of the painful grip which held her hand of the gusts which tore at her skirt, the girl stood gazing out across the desolate swamps which stretched away to the southwest as far as the eye could see. She did not speak until Blake led her down behind the shelter of an ancient ledge.

"What's the matter?" he demanded. "Didn't I warn you?"

She looked away to hide the tears which sprang into her eyes.

"I can't explain—only, it makes me feel so—so lonely!"

"Oh, come now, little woman; don't take on so!" he urged. "It might be a lot worse, you know. We've got along pretty well, considering."

"You have been very kind, Mr. Blake, and as you say, matters might have been worse. I do not forget how far more terrible was our situation the morning after the storm. Yet you must realize how disappointing it is to lose even the slightest hope of escape."

"Well, I don't know. If it wasn't for the fever that's bound to come with the rain, I, for one, would just as leap stick to this camp-right along, providing the company don't change."

She turned upon him with flashing eyes, all thought of caution lost in her anger. "How dare you say such a thing! You are contemptible! I despise you!"

"My, Miss Jenny, but you are pretty when you get mad!" he exclaimed. The answer took her completely aback. He was neither angry nor laughing at her, but met her defiant glance with candid, sober admiration. "There was something more than admiration in his glowing eyes; yet she could not but see that his alarm had been baseless. His manner had never been more respectful. Suddenly she found that she could no longer meet his gaze. She looked away and stammered lamely: "You—you should, it's my such things, you know."

"Why not? Haven't everything been running smooth the last few days? Haven't we been good chummy comrades? Of course you've got the worst of the deal. I know I'm not much on fancy talk; but I like to hear it when I've a chance. I've felt a loneheart sort of life since they did for my dear ones—No, I'm not going to rake that up again. I'm only trying to give you an idea what it means to a fellow to be with a lady like you. Maybe it isn't polite to tell you all this, but it's just what I feel, and I never did amount to much as a liar."

"I believe I understand you, Mr. Blake, and I really feel highly complimented."

"No, you don't, any such thing Miss Jenny. Own up, now! If I met you tomorrow on your papa's doorstep, you'd cut me cold."

"I should if you continued to be so rude. Have you no regard for my feelings? But here we are, talking nonsense when we should be going."

"Is it nonsense?" he broke in. "What does life mean, anyway? Here we can be true friends and comrades—real, free living people. It can't be that you want to go back to all these society shams after you've seen real life! As for me, what have I to gain by going back to the everlasting grind? I don't mind work; but when a man has nothing ahead to work for but a bank account, when it's grind, grind, grind till your head goes stale and all the world looks black, then there's no choice but to leave it to job and go on a drunk, if you want to keep from a run accident. Maybe you don't understand it. But that's what I've had to go through, time and again. Do you wonder I like to fancy an everlasting picnic here, with a date partner who wouldn't let me come out on a shopping distance of her in the land of lavender—trousers and peek-boos?"

"Mr. Blake, really you are most unjust! I could not be so—so ungrateful. I, after all your kindness. I—should, certainly be glad to number you among my friends."

"Drink and all that?"

"A man of your wit-power, has as need whatever to give way to such a habit."

"Course not, if he's got anything in sight worth while. Guess, though, my folks must have been poor white trash. I never could go for money just for the fun of the game. No family, no friends, no—what-you-call it—culture—What's the use? I have a fair head for figures; but all the mathematics that I know I've had to catch off the bat. It's true I grabbed my C. E. and I. I corresponded school; but a fellow has to have an all-round, crack-up education to put him where it's worth while."

"You still have time to work up. You are not much over 30."

Why does Great Britain buy its oatmeal of us?

Certainly! It seems like carrying coals to Newcastle in speaking of exporting oatmeal to Scotland and, every year the Quaker Oats Company sends hundreds of thousands of cases of Quaker Oats to Great Britain and Europe.

The reason is simple; while the English and Scotch have for centuries eaten oatmeal in quantities and with a regularity that has made them the most rugged physically, and active mentally of any people, the American has been eating oatmeal and trying all the time to improve the methods of manufacture so that he might get that desirable foreign trade.

How well he has succeeded would be seen at a glance at the export reports of Quaker Oats. This brand is recognized in its without a rival in cleanliness and delicious flavor.

Real Early Rising.

Farmer Brown and Farmer Jones were near neighbors, and many a dispute took place as to who was the earlier starter. Both maintained that each excelled the other.

One day Farmer Brown determined to put the subject to test. Rising very early one morning, about two o'clock he proceeded to visit his friend, Great Farmer Jones, at his home.

"Farmer Jones about?" he asked.

"Well," replied the lady, "he was the first part of the morning, but I dunno where he is now."

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper are reminded that there is at least one grand chance to win that $100 reward. The Quaker Oats Company is now offering a $100 reward to the person who can find a Quaker Oats can that has been tampered with. The reward is $100 for each can found. A Modest Doctor.

While on his vacation, a city doctor attended the Sunday morning service at a little country church. When the congregation was dismissed several of the members shook hands with him, and one, wishing to learn if he were a Methodist, inquired: "Are you a professor, brother?"

"Oh, no, indeed," answered the physician, modestly; "just an ordinary doctor."—Lippincott's.

$125,000 net from 1200 acres grapes. $15,000 from 22 acres peaches. $3,200 from 20 acres raisins, in the San Joaquin Valley, California

A cow and an acre of alfalfa will earn $200 a year in the San Joaquin Valley. Grapes will yield from $500 to $600 per acre; peaches and apricots, $100 to $200; while oranges will produce from $250 to $300, and in many instances more than $500 an acre. There are ten million acres and irrigable acres here. You still may buy unimproved land for $10 an acre.

Ten acres are enough to comfortably support a small family. Twenty acres afford a fine living, with money in the bank. Forty acres should make you rich.

You pay from one-fourth to one-third of the balance easily can be paid for out of the crop.

Almost anything can be raised in the San Joaquin Valley. The soil is rich in wheat, fruit and apples, delicate grapes for raisins, and many other crops. The climate is just what is needed for the production of all these crops. The water is pure and abundant. The land is fertile and well adapted for all kinds of farming. The people are friendly and helpful. The cost of living is low. The opportunities are great. The future is bright. The present is good. The past is better. The future is brighter. The present is better. The past is best.

AND A NEW SCHOOL EVERY

Behold, I make all things new.—R

was quite naturally so, the word "Christ" is a comprehensive word in itself, including many who were and are in a former time. Lincoln did not profess that it included him, but he was the one who looked at the life of Jesus rather than at his absence of it. In his views, spoke of him the other way, as "a Christ in miniature" in the person of a minister in his city, except that he was not a Christian. It is not for men feel that if the quality of Jesus is seen in such men as Lincoln and Washington, a person is not to be reckoned as a Christian.

He only is good who is good for something, and the real measure of goodness is in the giving of service to his world. To be good means that you have caught the notion of the possible goodness of the people, ordered, trained, fitted, that has become worth the living, that for the sake of the value and meaning may put into it.

We must look downwards as well upwards in human life; though we have passed us in the race there many we have left behind.—Sydney

MRS. F. ALLEY, NEW MADRID, MO.

The Kentucky Senate refused to let it be a law by adopting iron-clad rules at the start, and will it did.

The legislature will be asked to pass a law to protect game of all kinds in the Blue Grass section for a period of five years.

Uncle Cyrus Cobb is short on boarders. Wait till Winn the new Commonwealth Attorney hears this—Owen County Democrat.

Kentucky had a Democratic Governor for about four hours, one day last week when Governor Wilson and Lieut. Gov. Cox were both absent from the State, the latter for four hours.

Bills (enough) have been introduced in the Kentucky legislature to keep that body busy six months were they all properly considered and put through the mill according to the constitutional program.

The Lexington Gazette has suspended publication for the reason Col. Walton says, there is no field in Lexington for three papers. The Gazette was started three years ago, but has been a very profitable newspaper.

Men who make most fuss about useless offices and high taxes often change their opinions upon taking the oath of legislator at Frankfort, and become about as rank as the rankest in pushing along schemes to create new offices and to boost salaries of old offices.

The local option bill known as the unit bill was among the first introduced in the senate, and it promises to be a very annoying proposition for the legislature again this session. Each side is alert and ready to take advantage of every opportunity to advance or delay the bill.

The government is taking steps to prevent the extinction of insect eating birds, which have been disappearing at a rapid rate the last few years. Fifty-seven bird reserves have been established in different parts of the country, in which game and song birds will be protected in nesting and rearing their young.

Caleb Powers' candidacy for Congress in the eleventh district does not meet the approval of many of the most prominent Republicans in the State. They think the party has done enough for him, and charge that he made large amounts of money out of the Republicans through his begging schemes during his incarceration.

It seems that the government at Washington has come to realize the importance of the Ohio river to a very great extent of the country, and will expend sufficient sums on it to make it navigable for the largest boats at all seasons of the year. It has taken Uncle Sam a lot of money to get ready for this piece of very important work.

In face of the fact there is not money enough in the Treasury to pay the school teachers and law makers, it is said that the Commissioner of Agriculture will ask an appropriation of $100,000 to improve the State Fair Grounds at Louisville. Now, what do you think of that? Georgetown Times.

It is a species of criminal finance, which it is hoped the General Assembly will have the courage to kill at the first opportunity. Auditor James has taken away from the republican spell-binders much of their campaign thunder. A republican introduced a resolution in the Senate calling for a statement as to the disposition made of the reward fund offered for the arrest of Goebel's assassins. Auditor James at once issued the statement that only $14,000, or $15,000 of the one hundred thousand had been spent, and that mostly in employing detectives. Thus is exploded the republican charge that it had been used in the purchase of perjured testimony. They thought the horrible to have such an enormous corruption fund at the command of Powers' persecutors.

Senator Bradley has Sam Roberts' scalp dangling from his belt, Roberts had been collector of internal revenue at Lexington until he thought the office belonged to him in fee simple, and being a warm Taft supporter in the State convention, while Senator Bradley took the Fairbanks end, he thought he was pretty certain of securing the appointment for another four years, although the wily Senator had sworn he would call on his constituents until he secured his top piece, which declaration turned out to be no joke, the president evidently thinking the better politics would be to heed the Senator's demand in the matter.

The legislature proposes doing some investigation, and has introduced a resolution in the House providing for a thorough investigation of the office of F. F. Johnston, Assistant General, also for an investigation as to the condition, management, and control of the State penitentiary and houses of reform and charitable institutions. If the legislature is not careful it will start something sure enough, as the management of some of the State's penal institutions have been under the fire of criticism for some time, many believe an investigation will result in sensational developments if the white wash brush is not brought into use. Don't speed time investigating unless you investigate.

Farmers in Kentucky have received this week the highest prices ever paid for tobacco. The result is due chiefly to the pools formed by the Kentucky tobacco farmers to fight the American Tobacco Company and many other large manufacturing concerns which for years had bought tobacco at practically their own prices, leaving the farmers no subsistence. The public remembers chiefly the night-riding that in some localities attended this movement, but the success has not been raised on one hundred thousand farms in Kentucky. The percentage of violence was small. The movement has been attended by complete success and there is probably no other instance on so large a scale in which farmers have banded together, have maintained their organization and have compelled the corporations to come to their terms. The result would have been the same had there been no night-riding. The invaluable ally of the farmers was the country storekeeper, who in the first stages of the fight carried their business on as much as two or three years. Kentucky is now raising four hundred million pounds of tobacco annually. Six years ago the average price paid to the farmer was about seven cents; now it is about fourteen cents. The crop production has not increased and the additional seven cents is all gain.—New York World.

If there is any good reason why the people receiving their mail by the rural routes should not also have small packages sent them thru the mail at reasonable cost, as town people now receive such things by express, for half the price, the law should be changed. The pound thru the mails, it is time for somebody besides the express companies to name it. The express companies are making millions annually by carrying small packages, and of course they want the postoffice department to keep up the price to 10 cents a pound, and the limit to four pounds per package. The demand for the passage of a parcels post law will not waver. Two chief reasons for it lie in the facts that it is needed for the accommodation of farmers on the rural routes, and also to put an end to postoffice financial deficits. The Review of Reviews referring to this matter in a recent issue very pertinently says:

It is not uninteresting to note the fact that certain express companies and other private interests are always lobbying at Washington to prevent the passage of such measures as a parcels post for the convenience of the people. And the public may just as well be informed of the fact that these companies have been busy at work for some years trying to secure an advance in the postal rates on periodicals and newspapers. The demand for a parcels post law will not waver. Two chief reasons for it lie in the facts that it is needed for the accommodation of farmers on the rural routes, and also to put an end to postoffice financial deficits. The subject of one that Mr. Taft has not taken up at first hand, and in the multiplicity of great topics that have been crowded upon his attention in the opening weeks of his term, it is perhaps not strange that he should have been raised in a few matters."

A Paris, Ky., special says the farmers of Bourbon county are preparing to organize a farm improvement league. The object is to interest farmers in making their premises attractive; to induce them to keep buildings and fences in good repair, fields clear of weeds and brush and land in a high state of cultivation.

A great deal could be accomplished this way by organization and it is to be hoped the Bourbon county farmers will be so successful in arousing a spirit of improvement that it will spread to other sections of the state. A good many farms are sorely neglected to the detriment of the farm and to the cost of the owner, although the farmer does not realize it. Farmers might very profitably put in some of their spare time in approving the appearance of their fences and their buildings.

There are some land owners who take a justifiable pride in their property and look closely after its condition, but a majority of them do not.

A well kept farm is attractive and time and money judiciously spent in beautification work wonders. Nor does it require a great deal of time or a large amount of money to keep a farm in good order, provided attention is given at the right season and in the right way. A run down farm is an eye sore and requires much labor to be brought back to a status where it will be pleasing and attractive to the passing beholder. If it is not allowed to deteriorate in the first place, the task of keeping it in order is greatly simplified.

It is not to be expected that a farm may be transformed into a bed of roses or a bower of beauty or that it may be made as delightful to the eye as a well kept lawn with a little thought and attention to details may add remarkably to its general attractiveness.—Ex.

We are not financiers enough to give an explanation of the workings of the Peoples' Trust which is being engineered by Thomas W. Lawson, the frenzied financial speculator. But as Lawson has been somewhat of a buccannier in his operations we suggest that it would be well for those who are to be the stockholders of the proposed Peoples' Trust to have a care before they go into it too strongly.—Blue Grass Clipper.

A man and wife—woman to be good cook; man to act as porter and wait on table. Answer or apply New Riverside Hotel, Rising Sun, Ind.

With the deficit in the State Treasury and the General Assembly creating new offices with fat salaries attached, the outlook for the taxpayers is not of the most pleasing. It is just possible that the financial condition of the State will have to be relieved to some extent by the State Board of Equalization increasing the valuation of property in every direction at its next session which will begin at Frankfort in a few days.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

(Furnished by Supt. Riley.) The Editor has given us this space for school news each week. Teachers and those interested in the schools should write to the Recorder. Please send your items of interest concerning the schools to the writer not later than Saturday morning of each week. In this way we can make the Recorder our "official organ" and work for its interest as well as our own.

The trustees of the Florence Graded school are planning an addition to their building. To those interested in new buildings we suggest that a visit to the Bellevue school will be profitable. That building is a credit to the city of Grant.

Auditor James has sent the state fund for the first month. We extend congratulations to our General Assembly for refusing to pay themselves with the teachers' money.

Common School Graduates' Examination will be held in Burlington on Friday and Saturday of this week. Eighth grade pupils should themselves take this opportunity and then those who fail can have another opportunity in May without further cost.

Teachers should plan to attend the Normal School at Richmond this spring and summer. Tuition is free to a limited number from this county. Many new teachers will be added to our roll next year. Nearly all States have a schedule of teachers' salaries based on ability and experience. We are now to consider these systems and our board hopes to adopt a similar one.

More important to us than the national issues are our local problems. We can live under any kind of Tariff that our neighbor States can. To us alone is given the problem of how to solve it. In our State are good colleges, but of what use are these colleges to us if we do not prepare our students to enter them? We live near a great business center and close to a great market but as yet we have not caught the vision of our opportunities. We are the children of a superior race and our children are capable of surpassing in education the children of other States. We are not working up interest in a law for more money but we want to assist in making a public sentiment that demands of our teachers their best labor, of the parents loyalty to the schools, and of the pupils the highest and noblest ambitions to be attained in education. In the very beginning the problem of consolidating districts, of raising our teaching force to a higher standard, of maintaining schools with a limited fund, presents itself to us. We ask the people of this county to help us by suggestion and to talk in the interests of our schools. We shall suggest to you from time to time the various problems and hope to be guided by advice from the precedents of others who have succeeded.

When the Hair Falls

Stop it! And why not? Falling hair is a disease, a regular disease; and Ayer's Hair Vigor, as made from our new improved formula, quickly and completely destroys that disease. The hair stops falling out, grows more rapidly, and all dandruff disappears.

Does not change the color of the hair.

Formulas with each bottle show it to your doctor. Ask him about it, then do as he says.

Ayer's

The little book in each package gives the formula of our new Hair Vigor, tells why each ingredient is used, and explains many other interesting things. After reading you will know why this new hair preparation does its work so well.

THE GOOD FEATURES OF A BANK!

No business enterprise in a community affords more convenience to the public than a well governed bank, as it affords a medium of exchange that no other source can equal. It gives absolute protection to the safety of money entrusted to its care. It gathers together the surplus money of a community; and gives this money the most advantageous application through loan to individuals of property wealth who need a volume of money to transact business in the purchase of the products of the farm and factory. Thus the money of those who have a surplus and are wise enough to deposit in a bank is utilized to its fullest value; and affords a bank additional funds whereby loans are made to traders who are thus enabled to purchase from the idealistic people who have their money on deposit in a bank, which otherwise they would not be enabled to do. Money hid away or kept at home is not only out of circulation but is dead so far as its value is concerned. The Equitable Bank and Trust Co., of Walton, Ky., wants your money and pays depositors four per cent on money. Our Trust department qualifies as manager of estates, as executor, guardian, administrator, etc. Capital of bank, $20,000, showing assets, Jan. 1st of 1910, $118,000. The business of all solicited. Local Happenings.

The first month of the new year is about gone.

Irvin Rue will move to Cleveland about the first of March.

William Eggleston, of Sand Run neighborhood, was called to this office a few days since.

William Graves and son, Edgar, of Bullittville, were transacting business in Burlington, one day last week.

Boone county will have quite a number of applicants for appointment to the positions of census enumerators.

William Ute, a worthy colored citizen of Burlington, has been very ill of neuritis of the heart for several days.

Rev. Edgar Riley will preach at the Methodist church in Burlington next Sunday at the usual hours, morning and evening.

The break of the ice gorges in the Ohio river was not accompanied by destruction of much property in the neighborhood of Cincinnati.

Albert Conner got busy last week, with the pooled tobacco, and received a considerable amount of money at Burlington, of which he has charge.

County Clerk Rogers is now engaged copying the assessor's book for the use of the State Board of Equalization. It is a big job, especially to a new clerk.

Grass has kept green all winter, the heavy snow that covered it during the winter months of this month being a thorough protection for it. Wheat it is said looks well also.

Superintendent of schools, Rev. Edgar Riley, has had a carpenter and decorator overhauling his office room in the court house.

Three pupils from the colored school at Walton are expected to be examined next Friday and Saturday for common school diplomas. The two races will be examined in separate rooms.

Attorney Charles A. Winston, of Chicago, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. W. A. Gaines, a day or two past week. Owing to a cold he was compelled to make his visit brief.

The Boone Literary Society will give an entertainment some time in March, and it is the intention of the society to make it better than any of those given in the past, which will make it a top notcher.

Geo. Blyth sold eggs at forty-two and one half cents a dozen to private parties in Covington, one day last week. When eggs are worth that price an industrious old hen is a valuable piece of property.

The high price of meats is about to cause a general boycott of that article of food throughout the county. Thousands of people have quit buying meats, and the butchers in some places are feeling the result of the boycott.

Mrs. R. K. Dulaney, of Erlanger, died last Wednesday morning, being the third bereavement her husband has suffered in less than ten months.

Mrs. Semple and Mrs. Bullock, both having passed away in that time.

The young men bald-head club was organized in Burlington last Saturday evening, when several of them had their heads shaved close, hoping to stop the shedding of the capillary substance, which was becoming alarmingly thin.

Do not flatter yourself that the severely cold weather has past for this year. Good ice has been put up as late as March, and for many years past February has been regarded as the most certain month for the production of ice.

Not in a long time has there been as much excitement in Walton as that following the assault made on Dr. B. K. McFarlane in his office, last Wednesday evening, by an insolent negro. It is a great wonder that the negro was not lynched.

Mr. Blackburn assures his friends here that the franchise for his traction line will be granted by the Covington City Council as soon as the details are agreed upon and the city expects to go to grading as soon as the weather will permit. Owen County Democrat.

Edith McAvoy, indicted at the last term of the Boone County Circuit Court for alleged arson, is claimed, will ask for a change of venue when her case is called for trial. Mrs. McAvoy will be defended by attorney Graziani. Covington item in Sunday's Enquirer.

The loss of the Rabbit Hash ferry boat which was swept away by the ice when the break came several days ago, is causing considerable inconvenience to the citizens of a very large territory in this county. They will have a new boat in commission at the earliest possible moment.

Will Green, the enterprising dry goods merchant at Rising Sun, is indeed a butcher, and is anticipating a freeze-up in the river, he had a large dry goods sign painted on one whole side of the ferry boat at Rising Sun, containing his name in letters about two feet high. When the gorge of ice let loose the other day this ferry boat was one of the first to be torn loose from her moorings. The boat passed Vevay Saturday, away back and forth according to the current, and the adverse current, appearing first to Hoosiers, and as the boat turned around, to Kentuckians. If the boat weathers the ice, the sign will read by thousands of persons. Vevay Revue.

Appointed Master Commissioner.

W. M. Hind, a native of Walton precinct, this county, has been appointed master commissioner of the Kenton county circuit court.

Mr. Hind is a good business man and will make a faithful and painstaking record. The Recorder is glad he was so fortunate as to be the recipient of so fat a plum.

Death of Pneumonia.

Mrs. Ciddis Scott, widow of the late Eli Scott, died at her home in Kenton county on the 20th inst. of pneumonia. She was a daughter of John Vickers, many years ago a citizen of this county.

She died of pneumonia and was in her 68th year. Funeral services at the house at 10 a. m. last Monday. Interment at Highland cemetery.

Suburb of the North Pole.

In renewing his subscription, O. W. Wilson, of San Francisco, California, writes: "Judging by the newspapers reports you are almost a suburb of the north pole. I have a sympathy for all who live in a suburb of the north pole."

Will Take No Action.

A dispatch from Washington, D. C., says: "The Department of Justice will take no action against the Burley Tobacco Society. It may do so in the future, but that is a matter for the future. The department will take no action against the Burley Tobacco Society."

Helping Their Neighbors.

Several of J. P. Tanner's neighbors met at his house, one day last week, and helped him finish stripping his tobacco. For the occasion Mrs. Tanner served one of those excellent dinners for which she is justly famous, and the men, who were all of them long to be remembered by all those who rendered Mr. Tanner service that day.

In a wireless message from Lewis Beamon dated Eagle Lake, Florida, January 19, he says: "Am at Eagle Lake and in good health. Fishing is no good. Fine oranges here, the freeze having done no harm, while at Bartow thousands of boxes were ruined by it. Send me further orders. It has been cold and windy here, but yesterday it began getting warmer."

Annual Coon Dinner.

County Attorney N. E. Riddell had his annual coon dinner at 8 p. m. last Wednesday. He was joined by his push in its preparation, which required about twenty-four hours, but when ready to serve it was delicious, having received the culinary critic necessary to make it toothsome for the high eat class epicure. Several friends took part in the feast.

The coon was a good thing, his wife had prepared as an adjunct to the dinner.

Sun and Moon in Eclipse.

There will be four eclipses of the sun and moon, two each year. A total eclipse of the sun May 8-9, and a partial in North America.

A total eclipse of the moon May 22 and 23, visible over the entire continent.

A partial eclipse of the sun Nov. 11, invisible in the United States.

A total eclipse of the moon Nov. 16th, visible east of the meridian of St. Louis.

Saved At Death's Door.

The door of death seemed ready to open for Murray V. Ayers, of Transit Bridge, N. Y., when his life was suddenly saved by a doctor in a dreadful condition. He writes, "My skin was almost yellow; eyes sunken; tongue coated; emaciated from losing 40 pounds; feeling weak and listless. Violent liver trouble pulling me down to death in spite of doctors. Then that matchless medicine, Electric Bitters, came and I regained the 40 pounds lost and now am well and strong." For all stomach, liver and kidney troubles they're supreme. See at Bentler's drugstore, Erlanger.

Fun Coon Hunting.

A few nights since several of our boys went to the woods, where three of them climbed a large oak tree to a point about fifty feet from the ground, and chopped into the neck of a large raccoon, which was shot with a pistol when it crawled out of the hole that had been made by lantern light. The raid made by the boys was somewhat perilous, but the boys were out for fun, no matter if they did have to go to the tops of the trees in search of coons. The party was composed of Mont Slayback, Jack Edlin, Howard K. Rattrick, Stanley Edline, James Slayback and Jake Craig.

Can Kick.

The high cost of living has been attributed to many causes, among them that the farmers do not produce enough foodstuff to fill the demand. The poor farmer gets the kick no matter which way his back is turned. If he produces enough to go around he comes face to face with the cry of overproduction and he gets less for his produce than it cost to raise it. If he raises less or holds what he has for a fair price he is blamed for the exorbitant prices the consumer is forced to pay. The trouble is in the fact that there are too many sap suckers in the shape of combines and middle men hanging on a leech-like between the producer and the consumer, and it is dividends and freight rates and commissions that put the pressure on the consumer. It is the greedy grasping of exorbitant profits by speculators and manipulators between the two extremes that is doing the damage. Those who live by their wits are responsible for high prices of foodstuffs.

Their business is to crash the producer, to buy his goods at the lowest possible price, to sell them at the highest notch, and neither the one nor the other gets a square deal.

MALCHUS SOUTHER.

The above is a good picture of Malchus Southern, the efficient secretary of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Boone County. The very elaborate and responsible Souther is busy making of the company's business for the last few years, has attracted attention in many quarters where he is well known. Besides being a complete annual report his reports contain a synopsis of the company's business from its institution, presented in a truly business-like form. He takes great interest in his work and has every feature of it so systematized that the labor of keeping it up is reduced to the minimum. Mr. Southern is prominent in politics in his precinct and ere long he will give some one a merry chase for a county office.

GENERAL NEWS.

Governors of the states, who closed their conference in Washington, consider their session a school for them, rather than an opportunity to recommend national legislation.

Battling Nelson celebrated probably his last appearance in public prior to meeting Ad Wolgast in California next week by delivering a knockout to Eddie Lang, the Chicago lightweight at Memphis Athletic club.

Twenty men engaged in boring a tunnel through a small mountain near Cold Springs, to form a part of the aqueduct which is to supply water to New York city from the Croton dam, were about to leave their task, preparatory to getting on almost a ton of nitroglycerin, when the explosive was mysteriously fired. Fifteen of the workmen were killed and the other were seriously injured.

Forty-three persons are dead and ninety-two are injured as a result of a wreck on the Canadian Pacific Railroad near Webbwood, Ont. Two coaches, a diner and a first-class day coach plunged from a bridge across the Spanish river. Not a person in the two cars escaped. The plunging of the diner and the day coach into the river threw the other coaches of the passenger train from the track. Some of these rolled down a steep embankment. The cars caught fire. A number perished in the flames.

While hunting quail near Natchez, Miss., Thomas Taggart of Indianapolis, former national Democratic chairman, was accidentally shot and severely wounded in the face and shoulder by Harry Norton, his private secretary.

Gov. A. O. Eberhart of Minnesota issued a proclamation calling a state convention on conservation and agriculture in St. Paul March 16-19.

The Denver (Col.) Gas and Electric Company announces a voluntary reduction in rates of 1.1 per cent on electricity and 10 per cent on gas.

That senatorial opposition to the popular savings bank bill and that the measure will become a law at this session of congress was announced after a conference between President Taft and members of the senate committee on post-offices and postroads.

Criminal prosecutions are to be brought against those comprising the beef trust. Action will be based on provisions contained in the Sherman act. The prevailing high prices demanded for most products is responsible for the institution of suit. Magazine owners in New York city, aroused over the effort of the post office department to bring about an increase in the rate for second-class mail matter, declare that any advance in the postal rate will mean an increase in the price of magazines.

The Hamburg liner President Lincoln, is bringing a veritable menagerie consigned by former President Roosevelt, including elephants, camels, zebras, llamas and jaguars.

Santos Zelaya, former president of Nicaragua, will sail next Monday from Vera Cruz, Mexico, for Brussels, Belgium, where he will be joined later by his family.

A murder rivaling the atrocious Whitechapel outrages committed in London a quarter of a century ago, was revealed today by the discovery of the headless body of Mrs. Jennie Clegg, 48 years old, a woman of former wealth, in a cheaply furnished room at 64 West Seventeenth street. The head had been cut from the woman's shoulders and carried away by the murderer. The heart and other organs had been cut out and then replaced.

Paul O. Stensland and Henry W. Herling, president and cashier, respectively, of the defunct Milwaukee Avenue bank of Chicago, will become free men before the end of the week. As a result of the action taken by the board of pardons at Joliet, Ill., they will be released from the Illinois state penitentiary.

The Canadian parliamentary investigation committee has decided to investigate the operations of the so-called nickel trust. The company is controlled by American capital.

President Taft won half a victory in the Republican caucus to select the house members of the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee. He had the name of Mr. Rainey of Illinois.

Four girls and one man leaped to their death in a panic caused by a fire in the four-story factory building at Philadelphia. Five others received probably fatal injuries and many more were less seriously hurt. Nearly all of the dead and severely injured were employed in the shirtwaist factory of Joseph Chachkin.

Revolting conditions of "white slavery" among Chinese restaurant and laundry in Michigan, have been revealed through the arrest of two young Battle Creek girls in a Chinese joint at Ann Arbor. One warrant, for Lem Loy of Saginaw, was issued, while others will follow. Both girls had confessed to depravity so disgusting as to be unprintable.

Speculative manipulation in the stock of the Columbus & Hocking Coal & Iron Company, overreached itself with the result that two strong financial houses, Lathrop, Haskins & Co., and J. M. Fiske & Co., were forced to sell and at least one, if not three, others are tottering on the brink of ruin. The failure of the two firms means a loss estimated at from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000 to the members of the firms and their customers.

New York State Comptroller Clark Williams has begun proceedings to have the estate of George Smith, the Chicago millionaire and his nephew, James Henry Smith, known in Wall street as "Silent" Smith, reappraised on the charge that the executors have attempted to defraud the state out of the transfer tax on $1,263,481.

A bill was filed in the circuit court alleging that John C. Fetter, a prominent Chicago financier; Benjamin Thomas, former president of the Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad Company; and Charles R. Kappes, a former real estate agent of the company, had defrauded, through the manipulation of a sale of real estate deals, the Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad Company out of $550,000.

Even behind the bars in the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth the powerful influences that kept John R. Walsh out of jail for two years after he was proved a convict have prevailed. John R. Walsh, known as "No. 6861," is enjoying practically every luxury that was enjoyed by Walsh, the possessor of $40,000,000 and an income that could satisfy the wishes of any human being.

Eight-cent milk in New York city is expected as the result of the state investigation of milk prices conducted there.

The Republicans of the house elected James T. Lloyd of Missouri and Oliver M. James of Kentucky, Democratic members of the senate, to the committee to investigate the interior department and the general land office.

Democratic leaders made an effort to substitute Henry T. Rainey for Lloyd, Rainey having been the Democratic choice, but was rejected by the Republicans on the insistence of President Taft.

BEEF TRUST PROBE TRADE UNSETTLED.

THREE FORMS OF INDICTMENT ARE READY FOR USE.

THIRTY SUBPOENAS PREPARED.

Most of these Writs Are for Employees of the National Packing Co., Which Is Aimed at in Particular by the Government.

Chicago, Ill.—On the eve of the government's actual attack on the "beef trust" District Attorney Edwin W. Sims is considering the forms of indictments, he will seek against individuals and corporations policed in the evidence on hand. That he might be prepared for any emergency, Mr. Sims decided on three forms of indictment to cover every phase of the evidence to be submitted to the grand jury.

Mr. Sims discussed the case at length with his chief assistant, James H. Wilkerson, with Robert W. Childs, U. S. attorney, and with William R. Madaris, who is especially detailed on the beef inquiry by the department of justice at Washington.

Nearly 30 subpoenas for witnesses to appear before the grand jury were prepared. Most of these writs are for employees of the National Packing Co., which is aimed at in particular by the government, and those of prime importance will be served by deputies in the office of United States Marshal Lauman T. Hoy.

ALLIANCE OF BIG IMPORTERS

And Federal Officials Shown by Latest Probe of Customs Frauds.

New York—Three federal officials, one of them in a highly important position in Washington, are involved in the most sensational charges that have been made in connection with customs frauds since Richard Parr started a nation-wide inquiry by his discovery of the little steel spring in the sugar trust's scales.

These men will be hit when a federal grand jury, which is now in session at New York, reports findings regarding a new series of frauds that is under investigation there. Discreet indictments will not be returned in this case, it is asserted, and all the persons under suspicion, from the "man, higher up," who is the Washington official, to the least employee of the government and the importers themselves, will be placed on the defensive at the same time.

The list of defendants will include, it is declared, the Washington official, at least two federal officials in New York city, two officials at New Orleans, the two members of a firm of importers and the chief clerk of the firm affected.

Conspiracy to defraud the government and conspiracy to obstruct justice are the charges under consideration by the New Orleans grand jury. The frauds which are laid at the doors of the men against whom testimony has been given have caused the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the government.

FLOODS IN SOUTHERN EUROPE.

All Records Broken in Amount of Damage Done Over Vast Territory.

Paris.—Nearly the whole of Southern Europe is experiencing record-breaking floods, which already have wrought incalculable damage and caused considerable loss of life. Reports from Spain, Italy, Germany, the Levant and all parts of France tell of much devastation by the endless rains and inundations. In several places of the Riviera and in Italy-American tourists are marooned by the rising waters and the crippled railway service.

The floods in France exceed all records and are fast assuming the proportions of a national disaster. In the north, east and west hundreds are homeless.

Although it is impossible to estimate the damage it will be very great.

Rescued by Brave Skipper. Edgartown, Mass.—After being lashed to the rigging for 10 hours, Capt. Haskell, Mrs. Haskell and 13 members of the crew of the six-master Merlie B. Crowley, were rescued by the bravery of Skipper Jackson.

Hotel Destroyed by Fire. Hot Springs, Ark.—The New Waverly hotel and bathhouse in this city were destroyed by fire. Although there were many thrilling escapes from death all of the 92 guests escaped unharmed.

Cubs on Verge of Crisis. Santiago—Bishop Warren Candler, visiting missions of the Southern Methodist church here, says the island is on the verge of a crisis. The budget for the year totals $25,000,000, making the taxes over $40 per capita.

Died in Squalid Room. Kansas City, Mo.—With his head pillowed on a cash box containing $30,000 worth of negotiable securities, Oscar Schoen, 70, a retired shoemaker, was found dead in bed in a squalid room here.

BEEF TRUST PROBE TRADE UNSETTLED.

Widespread Inclement Weather and Bad Roads Unfavorably Affect Business.

New York—Broadstreet's says: Trade reports are of the usual mid-winter character, reflecting widespread inclement weather and also considerable unsettlement, due to commodity price fluctuations. Outdoor activity, such as building, are, of course, retarded, and bad roads affect country trade.

Finished steel is less active, demands from railroads being apparently held back, but pig iron is in better request.

Shoe manufacturers' work on spring goods, and shipments are going forward in good volume.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending with January 20 were 275, against 291 last week, 307 in the like week of 1909, 409 in 1908, 252 in 1907 and 276 in 1906. Business failures in Canada for the week number 44, which compares with 44 last week and 40 in the same week of 1909.

Wheat, including flour, exports from the United States and Canada for the week ending January 20 aggregated 2,034,746 bush, against 2,677,195 bush last week and 3,053,219 bush this week last year.

For the 29 weeks ending January 20 exports were 25,625,183 bush, against 123,967,736 bush in the corresponding period last year.

Corn exports for the week are 682,514 bush, against 1,502,866 bush last week and 749,978 bush in 1909.

Wall Street Flurries Have No Effect. New York—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

The disturbance in Wall street is apparently without effect on the industrial and trade situation, which, measured by the best tests, continues in a healthy and active condition. A further perceptible broadening of demand for pig iron is noted at many leading centers, and in the better prices also the situation generally is more satisfactory to producing interests.

In some districts new business is still light, but on the whole there is marked improvement, with basic and Bessemer grades attracting much attention. Irregularity is still apparent in finished lines and there is evidence that the railroads are holding back considerable new business, although car orders at the west are quite liberal and several large contracts are pending. Recent sales of rails aggregated 40,000 tons, while about 18,000 tons of structural material are booked this week.

In the primary dry goods market house sales are in progress, and the break in cotton, although an unsettling feature, made no change in jobbing prices, which had not yet reached the parity of 15c raw material. Buyers of cotton blankets and other napped goods of a staple character are operating freely at an advance over a year ago, and stocks in all parts of the country are reported to be well cleaned up. Export demand continues light. Hosiery and underwear are in better demand and new lines in dress fabrics are being bought freely. Trade in printers' and in ginghams somewhat better, and in bleached goods steady. In the woolen goods division a sharp reduction was made on heavy serge, while the demand for fancy overcoatings is satisfactory. The leather trade continues dull.

TOBACCO MARKET.

This reservoir is 100 feet high and 1/4 feet in diameter and will hold 400 tons of water, an equivalent to a acre inches of rainfall. An average rainfall of 18 1/2 inches during the growing season would fill to the point indicated. A rainfall of nine inches, completely utilized, would produce a yield of 30 bushels of wheat or 157 bushels of oats.

Turning the soil of the poultry yards once a year destroys the gape worm and guards against the germs of other diseases which often find lodging in the surface.

Back To The Farm.

The increased cost of living is engaging the attention of people in every condition of life. It may be doubted if the people of the United States ever faced a more momentous and vital problem.

Scores of reasons are being advanced for the really serious condition that confronts the entire country, but there appears to be no effort, concerted or otherwise, that bids fair to bring a remedy. A screw or a bolt has slipped out of the machinery of affairs which no one

Last night's wind storm tore the corn shocks all down again. It seems to be a bad omen, but nothing like the stalks. Farmer Jones is scattered all over the field again and is no good any more—Nothing but stalks.
Brook Rouse filled his appointment at Sand Run last Sunday, and took dinner with Bruce Henry. His text was the first eight verses of the ninth chapter of the Gospel, which he thought is proof that baptism is not essential to salvation.
Several started to Aurora with tobacco Wednesday, John Peeler, of Weneeda, among the number. By the time they got to Petersburg the wind was so high they knew they couldn't cross the river, and all stopped there over night.
The night of the wind storm we could not help being afraid for we expected every minute our old shack would be torn to pieces or turned over into the branch; yet we thought clearly and acted wisely. We thought if either happened, let her go Galagher.

Party went to the place where Grady's horse went down. They were there on Wednesday night. I was on Tuesday. After seeing my statement of last week they said, I had misrepresented it; that the horse was not killed, but was so badly hurt that it could not be seen. True, but the rain washed the soil off. A half dozen saw it Saturday and Sunday, and I stated it as stated to me.

FLORENCE.

Brought Them to Time.

A Missouri ex-convict, who was last week to publish the name of the young man seen with his sweetheart's head on his shoulder if he didn't come across with a dollar, was charged with twenty-seven young fellows slipped in and paid a dollar. The editor has letters from two or three others, saying they hand him a dollar the first time they are in town.

Granted A Divorce.

A decree granting Mrs. Henry Youtsey an absolute divorce from her husband, serving a life sentence in the penitentiary for complicity in the murder of Wm. Goebel, was entered in the circuit court at Frankfort, Ky. Youtsey is restored to her maiden name, Sarah C. French. Mrs. Youtsey stuck to Youtsey for years as he had been a convict, but she is now free. Youtsey is in the plot to kill William Goebel, and she worked hard to get a parole for him. After she found out he was not getting a parole, and that he probably would spend his last days in the penitentiary, she brought suit for divorce.

Don't Want Any Gold Brick.

A number of newspapers published in the rural communities of Northern Kentucky have recently taken occasion to criticize Youtsey for his apparent indifference to avarice, and the advantages to follow the construction and operation of traction lines to this city from other parts of the State.
This is a mistaken impression, entirely. Few people here who are not awake to the benefits to be had through such a line with a local terminal, and it can not be justly said that there is indifference upon the subject. Covington has suffered so greatly in the past by reason of unfair treatment at the hands of public service corporations that we have come to appreciate the necessity of knowing exactly what we are going to get of taking every possible precaution to protect the city against further evil—before seriously jumping at every proposition that glitters on the surface.
In such matters, where the whole city and its people are vitally interested, it is well to make haste without hurry. The street car and railroad companies are ever present examples of the absolute necessity of a very cautious and desired, of proceeding cautiously.—Comment.

Have Your Seed Cleaned.

Kentucky Tobacco growers as a general thing, according to reports in the rural press, seem to be waking up to the fact that better prices for Tobacco depend on the main wholly upon better Tobacco. This is a fact, and this end they are trying to import.

One of the best ways to get strong, vigorous plants is to sow seed of the greatest vitality, and these seed can only be had by winnowing away the little chaffy, imperfect ones. The Kentucky Experiment Station, at Lexington, is doing this service in this direction, and makes no charge for the service. If Kentucky farmers want to raise better tobacco next year they will send all their tobacco seed to be cleaned and sorted.

Unlawful to Harbor Dogs.

The Mt. Olivet Tribune says: "That the County Board of Supervisors have been looking up the numbers of dogs listed for taxation in the county shows they are interested in the people's welfare and that they are not afraid to do their duty. It is a statement there are hundreds of dogs in the county that have never been listed, notwithstanding the law subjects every owner of a dog to a fine and no listing it for taxation subject to a fine and put the life of the animal in jeopardy. The law was passed for the purpose of increasing the sheep industry and ridding the State of a great nuisance in the way of worthless dogs. It is said the list of dogs for the present year will not adjust the sheep claims. The very fact that a greater number of sheep are kept every year is proof within itself that the country is overrun with worthless canines. But if tax were paid on all of them sheep raisers would stand a chance to be remembered and dogs reap a substantial benefit."

An Interesting Idea.

It is an interesting idea that is proposed to change the clock from May first to October first of next year, so that time will be advanced one hour on other days. The first we would all move the hands of our clocks at five o'clock in the morning, say to six o'clock, and so on our day's work. We would step back to the usual hour at six o'clock in the afternoon, but instead of getting dark at seven or eight o'clock it would not become dark until nine o'clock. The clock, in other words, an additional hour of daylight in the evening. The only point at which there would be a change is the hour of the last day of April when we would lose an hour's sleep. One can easily figure out what this would mean to the business man coming home, especially if he lives in the suburbs. It would make outdoor exercise possible, too, after the evening meal. It would certainly be an untold benefit to school children in May, June and September. The idea, at its first glance seems foolish and impossible, but you cannot argue against the tremendous advantages gained by the change become apparent. Of course, it is like cheating at solitaire; you cheat on the moon; that there was a must live by the clock as we judge every action by it; it is certainly a pertinent question that asks: Why not change the clock, particularly as we do not actually change time?

It looks as if both the British and the American Parliaments were passing the bill for one more hour of daylight, and it is an interesting question: Why shouldn't we do likewise in America?—Home Journal.

Would You?

If your mother had let the housework go and taken you on her lap and explained away all the pleasures of the Mother Goose book of rhymes would you have grown up to be any better man or woman? What if she had explained that the cow never jump d over the moon; that there was a boy or girl if your mother had done all these things—had explained away the delightful book of children's rhymes and had told you that the story was a lie—would you have been any better story writer who wrote them for money and not for truth's sake? Would you be any more accomplished by squaring a child around and setting it face to face with the realities of life before it has come into the years of responsibility? Let the child enjoy its childhood in a childish way, for it is brief and comes not again.—Wichita Kansas Beacon.

R. C. Green, of Walton, as agent for the B. Y. P. U. of M. Johnson, has a sale of personal property, including a horse, and is desirous of proceeding cautiously.—Comment.

Renowned Doctor's Prescription for Rheumatism and Backache.
"One ounce Syrup Sarsaparilla compound; one ounce Tonic compound; Add these to a half pint of good whiskey. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bed time. Shake the bottle before using each time." Any druggist has these ingredients in stock or will quickly get them from his wholesale house. This was published previously and hundreds have been cured by it. Good results show after 48 hours. This also acts as a system builder, eventually restoring strength and vitality.

THE NEW COIFFURE.

"My hair's exactly like a turban, isn't it?"

"Exactly. You can even take it off."

Knew the Calendar.

They were little girls, so small that the teacher was telling them about divisions of time, and receiving all sorts of answers to her simple questions. The little girl who lived in a boarding house was a year older than any of the others.

"We have learned that years are divided into months, months into weeks, and weeks into days," said the teacher. "Now can any one tell me how the days are divided?"

The little girl who lived in a boarding house raised her hand, and was asked to speak.

"Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, best," she said, glibly. "Friday, fish; Saturday, corned beef and beans; and Sunday, chicken."—Yonkers Companion.

Thompson's Eye Water

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM By William Pitt

Give chickens pure water. The duck seldom becomes broody. Provide plenty of ventilation for your hen house. On many farms a good dog is needed for various causes. When alfalfa is cut and fed green to dairy cows its entire value is saved. Land plaster is a soil stimulant and while it increases growth at first it will injure the soil. Give the hens plenty of room, plenty of ventilation. So shall your egg basket hold January eggs. Many tests at feeding to increase the butterfat in milk have shown that some other factor is necessary than feed. Chemical preservatives in milk are considered injurious to health, and are forbidden by pure food legislation in many states. Two smaller silos are better than one big one. They are easier to fill and easier to feed from and the silage keeps just as well. The dairyman who has a good supply of forage and feed and a bunch of good dairy cows to feed it will strike a pay streak this winter.

The best way to treat manure with acid phosphate is to use it as an absorbent in the stable the same as is advised for floors or cypsum.

Pigs, as a rule, sell for less per pound in the market than hogs. In the market swine under 150 pounds in weight are classed as pigs.

Nothing so stimulates the entire system of the hog as pasturage, and it is especially beneficial during the winter months, whenever it can be provided.

The value of manure does not depend wholly upon its fertilizing properties; it adds humus to the soil. It is especially beneficial to gumbo and to mucky soils.

Unless exceptionally high prices are paid for it, milk is less economical source of nutrients as other animal foods, but dearer than most staple vegetable products.

There is every indication the speculators will make big profits on the butter they have in storage. This will have a tendency to make prices good again next spring.

Tillage opens up the soil to the ameliorating influence of the air and sun, giving the newly sown seed a warm and invigorating bed which is a necessity to perfect germination.

Tender roses and other half-hardy plants that must be left outdoors all winter, should be protected in some way. Wrappings of straw, or coverings of leaves, soil or manure, are needed.

The production, care and application of manure is given the least consideration of the three, in this country. caused, no doubt, by the boundless extent of virgin soil, found by our forefathers.

Sometimes a pullet wishes to lay but cannot because her egg organs are weak. They need strengthening. Add a little cod liver oil meal to the soft feed, and give a little chopped raw meat in addition to the regular ration.

Although the factor of keeping clean both milk and cream may not appeal to some farmers as much as it should, there is one phase of the subject that may. That phase is cleanliness as a guard against the dissemination of disease by milk and cream.

Successful feeding does not consist in chucking out about as much feed to a certain number of hogs just so often. Success means the study of your flocks and feeding accordingly; different quantities at different times, with a variation in kinds, for there are not two flocks that require exactly the same treatment.

Cornucopia are often allowed to go to waste because they rot so slowly that they are not available as fertilizers. This difficulty may be overcome in part, at least, by running the cobs through a corn crusher. This breaks them up in small pieces, and they will rot much more quickly. This crushed material is spread upon the land and plowed under, much benefit will result. This fertilizer is especially good for orchards.

Butterfat cannot be fed into milk. Concrete bee hives form the subject of a recent patent. Repairs in due season may save the delay caused by a breakdown. Cleanliness is an important factor in the duck house as in the hen house. The possibilities of the hog is a matter almost wholly in the hands of the feeder. It must be understood that 50 fowls require about as much air as a single cow. The farmer who expects to make money out of hogs must give them proper attention. Hogs will thrive better when they clean up their corn and eat a little after their feed when ready for it. A small bunch of sheep can be kept at almost no cost except a short time in winter, when they must have feed. All dairymen will find that it will pay them well to know just what every individual cow in their herd is doing. There is something in the general conformation of the pullet that to the trained eye would bespeak her future usefulness. Sheep manure contains a small amount of water and is found for pound the richest produced by any common farm animal. If milk supply is too strong, accretion will trouble the udder, so close attention and good judgment must dictate what to do in their case. An excellent method of growing tea roses is to make a border four to six feet in width by six to eight feet in length, according to the grounds. Gargetted milk, caused by garget, which is a diseased and inflamed condition of the cow's udder, causes sore throat, sear fever and cholera. It is rather common to see a farmer riding in his own automobile, but if they begin investing in airplanes it will look as if they are flying rather high. Mescaline, a new substance used in Bolivia to coat hands is said to be as pliable as rubber, tasteless, harmless, easily removed and perfect as a preservative. Heifers in first lactation apparently give better results by machine milking than do aged cows that have been accustomed to hand milking for one or more years. It is now against the law in Nebraska to use cream cans for any other purpose than for cream. Many things have been carried in cream cans which have no place there. By having the February or March pigs come you can raise two litters a year; the second litter can come in September and these can be fattened out the following spring or summer. The hard application to the soil has much to do with its effectiveness. Manures from different animals and intended for different crops require different care. Mammoth clover is in appearance so like the common red that were it not for the stronger growth of the former it could not be distinguished from the common red by the ordinary observer. As a general proposition the most liberal feeders make the most profit from stock feeding, but it is a business that requires as much careful thought, study and good judgment, as any other business, if it is to be made profitable. Red top is a valuable grass for both hay and pasture on lands to which it is well adapted. Although it will grow well on a variety of soils, it is best adapted to low lands and those growing a large amount of vegetable matter in their composition. Any good cellar for fruit or vegetables to winter bees in, should be provided a corner may be set aside from the main cellar by some sort of partition. There must be ventilation so as to cool the temperature, which may become too high, especially if the colonies are strong and numerous. Equal parts of corn and oats ground together are one of the best grain rations for growing colts. It furnishes them with the elements for the production of fat, bone and muscle. Adding bran or linseed to the ration aids very much in keeping the bowels regular and avoids constipation, and in this way lessens the liability of disease. Milk cans in Denmark are sprayed with cold water, then thoroughly sprinkled inside and out with hot water. They are then fastened to a revolving wheel which turns them through a solution of lime water, and they are finally sprayed with steam. The milk bottles are usually washed with soda and water and the inside cleaned by means of a mechanical worked revolving brush and are then rinsed out with cold water. The bottles are then filled and corked by a mechanical process, sealed and tied down with thread.

"NOBLESSE OBLIGE" By VICTOR ROUSSEAU

That's French, and means that if you're a big skate, or got money, or blue blood, you've got to act up to it, and not do anything cheap. It was mother used the words about the Turnleys.

You see, we're all Turnleys of Virginia, and though we've lived in New York twice as long as I've been born, we aren't allowed to forget it. There's only one family comes up to the Turnley standard, and that's the Waynes.

Of course, like all old families, we're all awfully poor, and I guess that's why we're so poor. To Mr. Turnley, everybody always thought that she was going to marry Freddy Wayne, because they had been engaged ever since they had been born.

Naturally, when Mr. Tripp proposed to sister, and she accepted him, everybody was surprised.

That was just after father lost all his money in the bank wrecking, and Mr. Tripp had millions, and I was in the library and heard mother speaking to sister about the honor of the family and duty to her parents, and presently she came out crying and wrote a letter to Mr. Tripp.

It was just three nights before the marriage when sister and I were sitting alone in the library, talking over things. All at once there was a snoring outside and a big row came chugging up to the window, and it opened from the outside and Freddy Wayne came in.

He must have scared sister, coming in that way so late. He seemed to be asking her to come for a ride, and he got hold of her hand and wouldn't let go, and I'll swear I smelled whiskey on him, though sister said afterward it must have been the gasoline got into his clothes.

They argued and argued in a low tone, and presently sister burst out crying and told Freddy he must never see her again, and then they kissed each other good-by, and just at that moment the door opened and Mr. Tripp came in with mother.

Mr. Tripp stood watching them as if petrified into stone, only his breath came quick and short, like the automobile puffing outside, and mother put up her glasses and stared at Freddy in the real Turnley way. Then Mr. Tripp bowed.

"Miss Turnley," he said, quite dignified-like, "I have just informed your parents that I have lost all my money in the bank wrecking, and I am now a poor man, and I have the honor to release you from your engagement."

Then sister began to tremble, and she kept twisting her ring round and round upon her finger, and just then Freddy Wayne butted in and said, sneering like:

"My dear Mr. Tripp, I have already had the pleasure of conveying that information to Miss Turnley."

"In that case," said the miserable Tripp, "permit me to wish you all a very good evening."

"My dear man, please don't wish us anything so ridiculous," said mother, raising her eyebrows and looking at him in the real Turnley way.

Mr. Tripp didn't seem able to understand, and stood there trying to tell her how he'd lost everything he had in the world, and how glad he was to release sister from her engagement.

Sister looked at him in astonishment, and she advanced a few steps and said:

"Mr. Wayne, when gentlemen call on me in the evening, I like them to come through the front door. When you come that way, I shall always be glad to welcome you, and so will my husband."

Mr. Tripp didn't know what to make of it, and he stood staring at her hat, so sister went up to him and put her arms round his neck and looked at him in the way that makes a fellow feel cheap when he's the third party. I guess that's the way Freddy Wayne felt, anyhow, for he just walked out without saying a word.

The mother turned to Mr. Tripp and said, petting his arm:

"Now let's all go into supper. Gee! sometimes I do feel glad that I'm a Turnley, after all."

No Beggars in Copenhagen. Copenhagen is a city of 500,000 inhabitants. During a week's stay I have seen no relief of matches or bootlaces, no gutter merchant, no blind or other afflicted persons about the streets asking for alms—not one single sign of distress due to poverty. I have explored the artisans' quarters by day and late at night. There is not a single spot in the whole of Copenhagen that could be compared even remotely to the slums in our large towns. There are no unemployed hanging about the street corners, no unkempt women standing idly at the doors, no ragged and dirty children playing in the gutter. There are no dirty houses, with broken windows, mended with bits of paper, and a ragged apron or a torn bedsheet doing duty for a curtain.—Denmark Letter, in London Express.

Had to Resign Office. Mrs. Philip Lydie, a prominent society woman of New York, started out very bravely to help the Equal Franchise society, of which Mrs. Clarence Metchie is secretary, by actual work, and was elected treasurer. Recently she found the work increasing at such a rate that she was obliged to resign, although she still continues in office.

Our New Serial Story The LITTLE BROWN JUG at KILDARE

BY Meredith Nicholson AUTHOR OF THE "House of a Thousand Candles"

A story that's original, new and different from anything you have read

Moonshine and mystery, love and laughter are the keywords of the story. Take a sip of the opening chapter and you will drain it to the last draughts of the final installment

You'll miss the best story of the year if you fail to read the "Little Brown Jug"

...day as a point of view, mental affairs, it is, however, for about ten years. Indeed, the whole county official machinery seems to have been under the domination of a lawless spell by reason of which the burdened taxpayers have been mulcted of more than $700,000. If we may believe the evidence in this record, how much more, heaven only knows. The record shows that it does not show all."

"That the appellant was fully aware of the condition," the court says further, "and that he was collecting money to which he was not entitled and knew he was falling in his duty to the county, then says that the judgment against Alexander on the 'sleepers' was really for less than the county was entitled to recover, and they are affirmed. It orders a settlement on the other items as indicated in the opinions filed."

The varying wage scales in different parts of the country and the differences in the nature and extent of the local difficulties confronting the enumerators in the larger geographical divisions of the United States have influenced and guided United States Census Director Durand in the adoption of a classification of enumerators' rates of compensation, within the limits prescribed by the United States Census law enacted by Congress. The different classes of rates will be so applied that in general the average enumerator will earn substantially the same actual amount in one district as in another, even though the population may be much sparser in one than in the other, with other conditions also different. Regard is paid to the fact that prevailing wages and salaries are higher in some parts of the country than in others, but, aside from this, the Director's aim is to adjust the rates so as to make the earnings of enumerators substantially uniform. Where the per capita rates would not give sufficient pay, the per diem rates are prescribed. The rates in general will be so adjusted as to give a slightly higher average amount to the enumerators than they received in 1900.

County Judge Cleary has ruled that in the future no suits for tax-collecting shall be filed in the Eton county court unless the State Tax Collectors and County Attorney have a conference and decide to bring suit. He looked over the docket with the County Attorney and found that there are almost forty cases remaining unheard which had never been reported to the Prosecutor. They will have to be re-entered on the docket. They call for a sum said to equal $50,000.

Of the big batch of bills showered on the Clerk's desk in the House at Frankfort on the first bill day, a half dozen related to the dog tax law, the most of them calling for the repeal of the present law taxing each canine $1. Representative R. H. Akin, of Caldwell county, however, took a new tack to nullify the law, by providing in his bill that each housekeeper be entitled to one dog free, but to pay a tax of $2 on each additional dog. Under the present law, the dog tax goes to indemnify sheep owners, whose flocks may be decimated by dogs, any overplus reverting to the school fund in the county in which the tax is collected. The opposition to the law comes principally from the non-sheep raising section.

Senator Claude Thomas, of Paris, has introduced three bills which, if passed, will revolutionize the criminal proceedings of the state. One is the indeterminate penalty for all crimes except where the penalty is death or life sentence, the jury to try the question of guilt and the judge to fix the time; the separation of the young and first offenders from the more hardened criminals; the establishment of courses of instruction in an English education and trades schools; the right of a convict to share in his earnings; a parole system by which before a prisoner is paroled, work for six months shall be provided by his friends and the paroled prisoner must report once each month in writing. These have worked well in other states and it is believed will do well here.

Owen county's financial affairs were given a final airing in the court of appeals, a few days ago, when Judge O'Rear handed down an opinion holding that P. A. Alexander, former Sheriff of the county, must pay back to the county money which it was charged was illegally collected. Judge O'Rear, says, "the record shows that the already burdened taxpayers of Owen county have been mulcted for more than $100,000, and that the record also showed this amount was not all that the county had lost."

Affairs in Owen county have been in a tangled condition for some years, and there have been numerous suits and indiments against former officials. Alexander was sheriff for a term and was charged with collecting taxes from men whose names were not on the assessor's books. It was referred to in Owen county as "carrying sleepers," and was generally practiced, it was said, during the investigation several years ago. Suit was brought against Alexander to recover the money collected on "sleepers," for failing to account for money collected and collecting more money than the constitutional limit allowed. The lower court decided in his favor in all the cases against him except that where "sleepers" were alleged to have been carried. Judgment was given against him in those cases and he appealed. The county appealed in the other cases. The county wins on all cases, the court affirming on appeal and reversing on cross-appeal.

In ordering Alexander to settle in full with 6 per cent. interest, Judge O'Rear writing the opinion, says: "These cases present

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.
(Published by Supt. Riley.)
The County Board of Education will meet at Burlington on the second Monday in Feb. instead of county court day. All bills should be presented at this time.
There were eleven applicants for Common School Diplomas last Friday and Saturday. Seven of these were successful. The examination was very difficult. Carl Anderson, of Linn, received the highest grade. The following took the examination: James Wilhoit, and Wilfred Mitchell of Florence; Arthur Rouse and Carl Anderson of Linn; L. O. Clore, Sharmer and Lizzie Jackson, Mary Castleman, and Marshall Hall of Burlington; also John Sechrist and Mary O'Connell of Waverly. One of the colored children was one of the fortunate seven.
Teachers should pay more attention to spelling and principles in Reading, Writing and Composition. Also keep answers away from students in Arithmetic. Let us have a large class in May.
The furniture for the Superintendent's office has been delivered. The office looks much more like a school business.
Applications for Normal School appointments are coming in.
With fewer teachers needed and a larger number of applications the patrons will have a chance to choose the best qualified. Teachers should avail themselves of this opportunity to become well prepared to do their work.

Question of Great Importance.
The State Highway Commission of Virginia states that in the past three or four years twelve counties have issued bonds for road making amounting to $1,233,000. This in addition to the regular appropriation in each county. Ninety counties, according to this report, have availed themselves of State aid in making their roads.
In Virginia the law provides for the use of convict labor on the roads. In Maryland they have what is known as the Shumaker law, providing State aid for the different counties; but there they have no prisons for the use of convicts in the work of constructing public highways.
The road question is one of great importance. No subject coming before this Legislature requires more careful attention.
The area of Kentucky is so large that the building of roads is necessarily an expensive undertaking, yet we have materials in abundance available for road making purposes, and in the next few years Kentucky ought to regain the position she once occupied among the States best provided with highways.
In Jefferson county we have spent in the last few years hundreds of thousands of dollars and we have secured some good roads. Unfortunately, the funds have been divided among the different material districts. There has been no systematic employment of the money, no systematic supervision of the work, no consecutive construction.
Had these hundreds of thousands of dollars been paid for the development of a system to be constructed year by year, we would have the whole country today covered by good roads. Piece-meal construction of the construction of roads solely for local interests, is most expensive and most unsatisfactory. Roads are built with the centers of trade commerce, built to make more valuable the products of the farms and in view to reach the markets. Louisville Post.

THE GOOD FEATURES OF A BANK!

No business enterprise in a community, affords more convenience to the public than a well governed bank, as it affords a medium of exchange that no other source can equal. It gives a habitable protection to the savings of money entrusted to its care. It gathers together the surplus money of a community; and gives idle money the most extensive circulation through loans to individuals of property wealth who need a volume of money to transact business in the purchase of the products of the farm and factory. Thus the money of those who have a surplus and are wise enough to deposit in a bank is utilized to its fullest value; and affords a bank additional funds whereby loans are made to traders who are thus enabled to purchase from the identical people who have their money on deposit in a bank, which otherwise they would not be enabled to do. Money hid away or hoarded, is not only out of circulation but it dead so far as its value is concerned. The Equitable Bank and Trust Co., of Walton, Ky., wants your business. It pays depositors four per cent. on money. Our Trust department qualifies as manager of estates, as executor, guardian, administrator, &c. Capital of bank, $1,000,000, showing assets to Jan. 1st, of $1,000,000. The business of all solicited. Try it, you will be pleased. Telephone connection.

It seems that the time and conditions under which the Recorder furnished the Enquirer free, as advertised a few weeks ago, was misunderstood by a large number of persons. The Recorder agreed to furnish the Enquirer free during the first week in January only, and to new subscribers only. It had an agreement with the Enquirer whereby it could give that paper free for one week, and that week was the first week in January, 1910.

Committee—Claude Merrill, Earl M. Seward, D. J. Wilber.

Says Taxpayer, That Caused The Fiscal Court to Act As It Did.

TAXES ALREADY TOO HIGH.

Fears a Second Attack, and Advises Them to Go Slow

AND AVOID AN OPERATION.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

It seems from the reading of the Recorder that the new fiscal court at its session on the beginning of the new year was suffering from a severe attack of "Liberalitis," which influenced it to increase the salaries of the county officials. Now, we do not know whether or not these servants of the people asked to have their salaries raised, nor do we care, but we do know the court knowing that the cost of living is much higher than usual, thought it the proper thing to do; but it does seem to us that when a man canvasses the county for an office, he knows what the salary is, and if he cannot perform the duties for the salary, let him step down and let others have performed the work, and there are still others just as efficient that are willing to take the office for the salaries that have been paid from time immemorial.

We also noticed that the Supt. of Schools did not get a raise, but was allowed $75 with which to buy furniture to furnish his office—enough to start any young married couple in housekeeping in good style, and we venture the assertion that there are many taxpayers of the county, who would be delighted to have the half of $75 to buy furniture in their homes. It is the people's money, who cares?

Another item to which our attention is called is a committee was appointed to ascertain the cost of putting a furnace in the court house to keep these high officials warm. A committee of "liberal" officials was also ordered that their families move into the building, which would be another great stroke of economy in fun, saving as well as saving these overworked officials much time and labor in traversing the space between their homes and the temple of justice. Perhaps this was an oversight and will be provided for at the second meeting.

There are some who fear that by the time the fiscal court meets again, to dispense with the public money, a second attack of this terrible affliction will have overtaken them and an order will be entered raising their own salaries, which would be just as proper, as $3 a day is not enough for men who have to travel six miles and pay their own expenses, to transact the county's business; allowing a man and team $3 and $3 per day, instead of $2.50, instead of $1 for going on the old public roads, with pick and shovel, throwing dirt for only eight hours in the broiling hot sun, that benefits no one. No laboring man, don't be alarmed, nothing of this kind will ever enter your mind, your living never gets any higher.

Another: "Supt. Riley filed an estimate and asked the court to fix the level of a rate that will produce $15,000 for education purposes for this year." Gee—how, said the Woodchuck as he flew to the woods, and the fluttering of his wings aroused the court of liberals from its suffering, and time was taken on this proposition to prevent a knock out blow to the taxpayers.

We notice in the financial statement of the special commissioner, that there has been collected for school purposes in the past two years $237.71, a balance of $3,155.26 remaining on hand for that purpose. Will some one please inform us what has been done with the $3,155.26? It is no evidence of any great advancement in educational work in the county; no new buildings that we have erected; no new school houses; more asked for—$3,337.71 collected, making a grand total of $34,373.31. Gee, we are getting smart. All this money is increasing, but everything is going up, and we have noticed that the thermometer have taken a terrible jump upward in the last few days.

A warning to the members of the Fiscal Court (if they will take our diagnosis of the case), a second attack of appendicitis, necessitates an operation and to ward off this you must keep quiet and move along slowly.

Walton, Ky.

Taxpayer.

Good News For the Taxpayers.

The County Attorney has been making estimates on the county tax rate for the year 1910, and of the opinion that the county rate can be reduced. The rate for 1909 was 46 cents on each $100 worth of property, and the rate for 1910 will be not to exceed 35 cents on each $100. The heating plant could be installed in the court house without increasing this rate.

Won't Need a Crutch.

When Editor J. C. Bossman, of Cornwell, N. C., bruised his leg badly, he was told to get a crutch. Many salves and ointments proved worthless. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve healed it thoroughly. Nothing but Arnica Salve can cure Ulcers, Boils, Burns, Bruises, Cuts, Corns, Sores, Pimples, Rashes, and Piles. 35c at Bentler's drug store, Erlanger.

In asking for information concerning Santa Claus, &c., thru the columns of our county paper, I did not expect to get up a controversy. I don't believe in arguments, for if we convince a man against his will he will be of the same opinion still, or mean to do we commit a heinous crime in using the myth Santa Claus. The wrong, if any, is in our giving the little ones their first lesson in misrepresenting fact. The beginning of any wrong is never very bad. Limberg's explanation of Santa Claus is very interesting as to historical facts, which, if true, makes us mix things more than I thought, in the fact of having the Christian and the Idol celebration at the same time. Why the people get to be more civilized and discontinued worshipping why do we, as an intelligent nation, celebrate the birth of legends? It will not be long till we will celebrate another Christian anniversary, from an old heathen legend, with flowers, eggs, &c. Are these old legends more impressive than anything we could get up? Now, suppose we were to propose having a play such as Ben-Hur, or Barabas to celebrate the occasion in our church, while such plays may not be right for church use, yet we would not claim such plays or actors as real or true. Limberg seems to be in favor of Santa Claus because it keeps children young and makes them happy. Can't we keep them just as young and make them just as happy without using deception? and will our Christian celebrations be just as impressive without using these old heathen legends? Thanking the friends for their kind answers, I am Very Respectfully,

Kirtley L. Rice.

I read in the Recorder Mr. Limberg says I try to answer Kirtley Rice's card. I like the word try, you can get a person to try to do the thing, but if they don't they will do it. Mr. Limberg tells us all about Santa Claus and where he came from. Mr. Limberg says he reads, I say Santa Claus makes fun for the church. Yes, worldly fun. The world has fun—the Christian has joy in the daily hardships that are not much fun for a soldier on the battlefield, facing his enemy. It is those that stand off, looking on thru a spy-glass at the fight that have the most fun. They look on at the soldier and wonder why he is not having fun.

John H. Carpenter.

Died of Consumption.

Leslie Williams, in his 32d year, died of consumption at his home about three miles west of Burlington, on the 30th of January. His wife was a daughter of Newton Sullivan, and besides his widow he leaves a little girl about eight years of age. After a very appropriate funeral, discourse by Rev. Brooks in Burlington Baptist church at 11 a. m., last Friday morning the remains were laid to rest in the family lot in the Odd-Fellows' cemetery east of town. Mr. Williams had long been in delicate health, but being of a very energetic turn he would hold up longer than otherwise he would. He was a good manager, and was getting along nicely until he broke down. He was a good citizen, a loving husband and indulgent father, and the bereaved wife and daughter have the sympathy of all.

Boone Co. News From Indiana.

Shipments of corn from western Indiana and eastern Illinois are coming in over the Big Four to this point to be transferred by large to the Petersburg distillery. From time to time several barrels of whiskey are brought up in the barge Kentucky No. 3 by the steamer Pauline, and corn is loaded on the barge for the down trip. Theodore Burkam sold his crop of tobacco Saturday. He had about 30,000 pounds and received 16 cents a pound. Last summer Mr. Burkam erected a tobacco barn which was 72x96 feet, it being one of the largest in this section. It is expected that when the proposed traction line is built from Covington thru Boone county that Big Bone will become one of the greatest health resorts in the United States.—Lawrenceburg Press.

Saved From Awful Peril.

"I never felt so near my grave," writes Lewis Chamblin, of Manchester, Ohio, R. R. No. 3, "as when a frightful cough and lung trouble pulled me down to 115 pounds in spite of many remedies and the best doctors. And that I am alive today is due solely to Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. Now I weigh 165 pounds and feel like a new man. It also cured my four children of croup, and my wife of Coughs and Colds. It's the most certain remedy for Croup, Asthma, Whooping Cough, and all Bronchial affections, 50c and $1.00. A trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Bentler's drug store, Erlanger."

To-Day Settles the Question.

This is ground hog day and his actions will be closely watched as upon them depends the class of weather this part of the county will experience during the next six weeks. Let it be hoped he will bring a change that will be an improvement on that of the last two months.

When You Take Cold

One way is to pay no attention to it; at least not until it develops into pneumonia, or bronchitis, or pleurisy. Another way is to ask your doctor about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. If he says, "The best thing for colds," then take it. Do as he says, anyway.

Almost A Hurricane.

The wind blew almost a hurricane for several hours after dark last Wednesday night. Windows rattled and buildings shook as is seldom the case in this part of the country. Some feared an increase in the velocity of the wind until terrible destruction followed in its path. Fodder shocks were torn in places and scattered about the fields, resulting in a total loss of much of that class of food for cattle.

Keep Your Eyes Peeled.

It is said that a young man traveling through the state is representing himself to be in the employ of the government and inspecting rural routes. He represents to the farmers that if they want to have their routes continued it will be necessary for them to show a petition to that effect, signed by a large number of farmers. Later this signature to the "petition" pops up in the shape of a small check at the local bank. Keep your eye peeled for him.

High Tariff of the Commissary.

T. J. Walton, of Commissary, was a caller at this office, one day last week, in discussing the high tariff of living in Boone county as his opinion that the principal cause of the high prices of the necessities of life is the tariff and not the cost of the goods. Mr. Walton takes the position that the farmers in Boone county are not producing enough of such of the necessities as they ought to produce, to meet the demand because they cannot secure the necessary help on their farms.

Patronize Home People.

Nearly every family subscribes for magazines, newspapers and periodicals of some description, and many people send their subscriptions thru the various magazine agencies. Now what I want to do is to bring the people of Boone county to a realization of the fact that if they pay for the same things as cheap as the magazine agencies, and at the same time keep the trade in the country. I thank you for your patronage and ask a continuance of same. Very Respectfully, C. L. Gaines.

A Hard Thing to Do.

It was unfortunate that the County Board of Control of the Burley Tobacco Society made a mistake of some four thousand dollars, overpaying that sum to certain growers. It caused some dissatisfaction among the growers, but it is only natural. It is very likely that the Board made this error through the fact that it is not possible for anybody and give each man everything he was entitled to receive. There ought to be no grumbling among those who have to pay back.—Grant Co. News.

President Helps Orphans.

Hundreds of orphans have been helped by the President of the Industrial and Orphan's Home at Macao, Mo., who writes: "We have used Electric Bitter in this institution for nine years. It has proved a most excellent medicine for Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. We regard it as one of the best family medicines on earth." It invigorates all vital organs, purifies the blood, aids digestion, creates appetite. To strengthen and build up pale, thin, weak children or rundown people it has no equal. Best for female complaints. Only 50c at Bentler's drug store, Erlanger.

WI Protect the Building.

A representative of the Peck-Williams Co., Cincinnati, was in Burlington, last Friday, inspecting the new building and making a bid for installing a heating plant that will keep the entire building comfortable during the cold winter. It is claimed for the heating apparatus that to operate it will require less coal than is necessary to heat anyone of the offices in the building and it is now heated by freizing and thawing is hard on brick houses. If the cost of installing the heating plant is not too high, the building will be justified in making the investment. The court house also needs a good light plant, as there is seldom a term of 30 Circuit court when as good artificial light is not needed, much better than it is possible to furnish by the present system.

WANTS HER LETTER PRINCESSED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of the Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and had done for other suffering women. I felt sure it would help me and it did. My health is all right now, and I am stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman. I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. J. M. MORGAN, 215 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs. Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health. If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. For 30 years she has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

"CROPE THROUGH A CRACK"

Uncle Eph Had at Least One Idea of How His Hogs Might Have Got Away.

Uncle Ephraim had two hogs, which he kept in a pen at the rear end of his little lot. They were of the "razor-back" variety, and although they were fed bountifully with kitchen waste, it seemed impossible to put any fat on their attenuated frames. One morning when he went out to feed them they were not there. They had disappeared, leaving no claw to the manner in which they had made their escape.

"What's the matter, Uncle Eph?" inquired a neighbor, noticing the deep dejection with which the old man was looking down into the empty pen. "My hawgs is done gone, sah," he answered.

"Stolen?"

"No, sah. I don't see no signs dat anybody tuck 'em."

"Did they climb out over the top?"

"No, dey couldn't a done dat."

"How do you think they got away?"

"Well, sah," said Uncle Ephraim, "my 'pinion is dat dem hawgs kind o' raised themselves up on alidge an' croke through a crack." Youth's Companion.

Latest Coffee Roaster.

The latest coffee roaster has a stationary inner cylinder and a rotating outer one of perforated steel with space between for the coffee beans, and blades to insure thorough mixing and even roasting. Heat is applied to the inner cylinder by electric current. For sampling the roasting, a small cup is so arranged that on pressing a knob three or four beans are thrown out without stopping the cylinder.

HARD TO DROP

But Many Drop It.

A young Calif. wife talks about coffee: "It was hard to drop Mocha and Java and give Postum a trial, but my nerves were so shattered that I was a nervous wreck and of course that meant all kinds of ills."

"At first," she says, "I bought bicycle riding caused it and I gave it up, but my condition remained unchanged. I did not want to acknowledge coffee caused the trouble for I was very fond of it. At that time a friend came to live with us, and I noticed that after he had been with us a week he would not drink his coffee any more. I asked him the reason. He replied, 'I have not had a headache since I left drinking coffee, some months ago, till last week, when I began again, here at your table. I don't see how anyone can like coffee, anyway. After drinking Postum.'"

"I said nothing, but at once ordered a package of Postum. That was five months ago, and we have drank no coffee since, except on two occasions when we had company, and the result each time was that my husband could not sleep, but lay awake and tossed and talked half the night. We were convinced that coffee caused his suffering, so he returned to Postum, convinced that coffee was an enemy, instead of a friend, and he is troubled no more with insomnia."

"I, myself, have gained 8 pounds in weight, and my nerves have ceased to quiver. It seems so easy now to quit coffee that caused our aches and ills and take up Postum."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in Post. There's a Reason.

Ever read the above letter? It has been written by a man who has been a sufferer from coffee, and he is a genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Keeping the Heart

M. M. Davis in the Christian Standard

THE Bible has much to say about the heart. In the Book of Proverbs it is spoken of 90 times. In the fourth chapter and twenty-third verse we are told to "keep it" with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life.

Why This Keep the Heart?

1. Because it is the source of all outward life. Solomon used these words long before Harvey discovered the circulation of the blood. But they are true to life that they may be ranked among the many anticipations of science to be found in this old book. "The literal heart is the fountain of our material life. So long as it beats we live, and when it ceases to beat we die. Every part of the body depends wholly on this central power for sustenance in health, and for repair in case of injury. And when the doctor would know the true condition of his patient, he places his fingers on the pulse that he may learn by it the frequency and fullness of its strokes. And the equally true regarding the spiritual heart. The Master teaches this when he says, 'From within, out of the heart of men, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders, thefts, covetousness, wickedness, deceit, lasciviousness, an evil eye, blasphemy, pride, foolishness; all these come out of the heart, and these defile the man.' The words and actions which we hear and see are not far, but last. They are not the beginning, but the end, of a process. Like seed in the soil, they had to exist and germinate in secret before they could strike the outward sense. In the case of every word and deed, however brief and rapid the stages, the heart has thought and felt and willed."

2. Because it colors every word and action. The lunatic and little child are not criminals whatever they may do. And the same is true of the man who is not a criminal, but whose heart is full of malice aforethought. If this cannot be done, even cold-hearted Caesar will say that the charge breaks down. But God, the great Judge, before whom all of us are to stand, has seen as well as the seen, and the motive often concealed from men, as well as the deed. He knew that Achan and Ananias were thieves, and that Judas was a traitor long before their deeds so published them to men.

3. Because our heart thoughts, though never clothed into words and deeds, are good or bad. The law in dealing with men takes account of outward actions, and such motives as may be inferred from them. A man's heart may be full of treason, robbery and murder, and he may be restrained from them only by fear of punishment, but until the scheme which he has formed into action the law holds him as guiltless as the best citizen. But the Lord looks back far beyond these seed-beeds, looks back far beyond these into plant and flower and fruit, and we stand or fall according to these, as well as the actions of our life. "Behold, therefore, dearest truth in the inward parts" (Ps. 11:8). "Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my Redeemer" (Ps. 19:11). "You have heard that it was said by them of old time, Thou shalt not commit adultery. But I say unto you, That whosoever looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery already with her in his heart" (Matt. 5:27, 28). "Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer" (1 John 3:15). These are heart-thoughts, and the desire to break up all to our outward behavior. They should surround us with holy reverence and godly fear, and drive away forever the thought of hypocrisy, and we should cry, "Lord, thou knowest me, and thou hast searched me, and thou knowest mine uprightness. Thou understandest my thought afar off."

In the light of an illustration, let us see this all-important thought. There are two men in prison. One has a heart like that just described by the Saviour. Filled with all manner of "evil thoughts," and for some of these he has been sentenced to the prison bars. He hates God and all good, and would, if he could, dethrone Jehovah and enthroned Satan; he would drive out virtue and bring in vice; he would banish the angels and fill the world with demons from the pit. But he is a helpless prisoner, and does not utter a single word, or do a single deed, and yet, even without these, he is a great sinner.

The other man is also a prisoner, but not for crime. He is sick, and nearing the grave. In early childhood he was brought to God, and throughout a long and useful life he has been true to his childhood vow. His strength is now gone, and even his voice has failed, so that he can neither do nor speak for his Lord. But he still loves him with all the heart, and with all the power of his mind, and would gladly, if he could, be with the saint in the courts of the King, singing his praises and commemorating his sufferings on the cross. Like the other prisoner, he does not utter a single word, or do a single deed, but, unlike him, "even without these, he is a great saint. Desires as well as deeds weigh in God's scales. A wish on earth may be a coin in heaven."

How to Keep It.

1. With all diligence. Keep it as the miser his gold, with ceaseless vigilance during the day, and under lock and bolt during the night. Keep it at all times, not only on the Lord's day, but on the other six days also. This holy day filled with righteousness, and the others filled with evil, would make a good Pharisee, but a poor Christian. A man should keep his heart as much when measuring onions, and peas, as when measuring the love of Christ; the sacred services of prayer and alms deeds were perverted into an effort to secure the "glory of men." Would to God that all such vile perversions had died with that day.

2. Feed it good food. If, instead of eating wholesome food from which good blood can be made, we fill our stomachs with indigestible matter unfit for man; or if we stint them, or overload them with that which is good; or inflame and poison them with strong drink, the heart cannot be healthy. Good food is absolutely essential to a healthy heart. Even so our spiritual hearts cannot be strong except they feed on truth. Who can estimate the danger of receiving even one sin in the soul? Adam and Eve were happy till they received one. Afterward life was filled with sin, sorrow and death.

3. Give it to God. This is the Father's earnest appeal: "My son, give me thine heart" (Prov. 23:26). And if we heed this appeal, he will keep it whatever may betide. In the storm and in the calm; in the bright days and in the dark; in sickness and in health; in life and in death—he will keep it safe and secure from all harm. "I know him whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day" (2 Tim. 1:12). But this is not all, nor the best he does. He not only keeps it, but purifies it. It is said there is a little stream in Corsica possessing the rare faculty of making white everything it touches. The flowers which stoop to kiss its rippling surface are white as light. The little birds bathing in its waters emerge from their baptism white as the driven snow. The little pebbles which line its bottom are pure white. And a bar of iron dipped beneath its waves becomes bright as a bar of the finest silver. All this is because of mineral properties in the fountain from which it flows. "Purify me, O Lord, and I shall be clean; wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow" (Ps. 51:7).

ALL HAVE NEED OF RELIGION

Complete Life is impossible Where Its Spirit and Power Are Absent.

"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help."—Psalm 121:1.

It is not so strange that many should say they have no need for religion in their lives. To some it seems rather a mark of weakness than of strength, a yielding to superstition, fear or to popular custom or a sacrifice of the independent judgment in favor of the scheme which has been devised by the few for the deception of the many.

There is a good deal that goes under the name of religion that one ought to be ashamed not to disown; there are types of piety that are but mere professions of religion, and there are forms of faith that are only evidences of cowardly and superstitious fear. Wherever religion means being less a man, means dwarfing, shrinking the life, then one dare not acknowledge allegiance to it.

But there are many imitations, so many pretensions of religion, simply because the thing itself is so essential to the life of man. So far from the religious life being one of lesser living, so far from religion signifying the sacrifice of powers, the denying of reason, judgment and the will, the truth is that the scheme which has been devised by the few for the deception of the many is complete without its spirit and power.

Religion's True Meaning.

Religion means living life for the sake of God; it means finding a sufficient motive in living. It is the point of view and the spirit in life that sets things in right relations, helps one to find true values and to know the things that are worth living for, to set the tools of life and the products of life in right relations.

Who is sufficient for living without this spirit? He who lives the right life knows that he has struck time and eternity with the spirit of his universe; he who lives for love finds the real law of life. Seeking the good we find the infinite goodness; the life and love that are the heart of all become a certainty to all of those who follow the light they have, who do the will of love.

Effectual Prayer.

He who rushes into the presence of God and hurriedly whispers a few petitions and rushes out again, never, perhaps, sees God there at all. He can no more get a vision than a disquieted lake can mirror the stars. We must stay long enough to become calm, for it is only the peaceful soul in which eternal things are reflected, as in placid water.—Arthur T. Pearson.

EIGHTEEN YEARS AGO HE HAD LESS THAN 3 DOLLARS

HE IS NOW ONE OF THE RICHEST FARMERS IN SASKATCHEWAN, CENTRAL CANADA.

Arriving in Canada in 1891, just eighteen years ago, E. A. Guillemin could speak but his native language. He is a Frenchman. He had but a little over two dollars in his pocket, thus a very small sum. He had the ten dollars required to secure entry for a homestead of one hundred and sixty acres. He eventually borrowed the money, and near Forget, Saskatchewan, he started life in Canada on the homestead in which to-day he is the fortunate possessor of fifty quarter sections of land, or 8,000 acres.

Now Mr. Guillemin did not acquire all these acres as a result altogether of his farming operations, which were extensive. He looked with satisfaction upon what he was doing on his limited area, he was saving, careful, and had foresight. Surrounding land could be had for about $3.00 per acre, and he continued buying as his savings would permit, until now he has fifty quarter sections, some of which he can sell at $25.00 per acre.

Threshed Fifty Thousand Bushels. This year he was engaged in threshing on his place for 54 1/2 days. He threshed out 50,000 bushels of wheat, of which he sold 34,000 bushels, one train and at a price varying from $5 to $7 cents per bushel. He has on hand still 16,000 bushels. In addition to wheat he raised 30,000 bushels of oats, 7,000 bushels of barley and 500 bushels of flax. He owns 104 horses and a number of cattle, but since the construction of the railway he has been engaged chiefly in raising wheat.

This year he bought his first threshing machine, paying for it the sum of $2,100. He estimates that the machine earned for him this fall $3,000, thus paying for itself in one season and leaving $900 to the good. The season was very propitious for grain threshing, not a single day being lost in the two months which were spent in this work. The wheat averaged 23 bushels to the acre and graded No. 1 and No. 2 Northern. In the past nine years seven good crops have been harvested on this farm. For six successive years the average has been excellent, that is in the years 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904, 1905 and 1906. In the two following years there was a partial failure. As the years have passed the quality of the buildings on the farm have been steadily improved, and are now as good as can be found in the district.

About $10,000 has been invested in this way by Mr. Guillemin. The farm consists of 6,880 acres, of which about 6,000 acres were under crop this season.

Shoemaker—Well, if that isn't all right. Instead of paying my bill, he kicks me down stairs, and with the new boots I've made him, too.

SUFFERED TERRIBLY.

How Relief from Distressing Kidney Trouble Was Found.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wolf, 388 W. Morgan St., Tipton, Mo., says: "Inflammation of the bladder reached its climax last spring and I suffered terribly. My back ached and pained so I could hardly get around and the secretions were scanty, frequent and painful. I was tired all the time and very nervous. I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, and after taking a few boxes was cured and have been well ever since."

Remember the name—Doan's. Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

An Educational Problem.

Little Margery has just begun to go to the kindergarten, and is filled with a due sense of the importance of her studies there and the solemn value of the attainments that have thus been put within her reach. The other afternoon, after coming home from school, she remained in a brown study for a time, and then said: "Mamma, do I know as much now as I don't know?"

Pleasant, Refreshing Beneficial.

Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna appeals to the cultured and the well-informed and the healthy because its component parts are simple and wholesome and because it acts without disturbing the natural functions, as it is wholly free from every objectionable quality or substance. In its production a pleasant and refreshing syrup of the figs of California is united with the laxative and cathartic properties of certain plants known to act most beneficially on the human system, when its gentle cleansing is desired. To get its beneficial effects, always buy the genuine, for sale by all reputable druggists; one size only, price fifty cents a bottle. The name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is always plainly printed upon the front of every package of the genuine.

LOUISVILLE, KY. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL. NEW YORK, N. Y.

$125,000 net from 1200 acres grapes. $15,000 from 22 acres peaches. $3,200 from 20 acres raisins, in the San Joaquin Valley, California

A cow and an acre of alfalfa will earn $200 a year in the San Joaquin Valley. Grapes will yield from $100 to $300 per acre; peaches and apricots, $150 to $500; while oranges will produce from $250 to $500, and in many instances more than $1000 an acre. There are ten million acres and irrigable areas here. You still may buy unimproved land for $50 an acre.

Ten acres are enough to comfortably support a small family. Twenty acres afford a fine living, with money in the bank. Forty acres should make you rich.

Carson Reed, Reedley, Cal., from a twenty-acre crop of Sultan raisins netted $2300. I know this valley from end to end. I have seen grapes planted and harvested in every one of its counties. I have interviewed farmers, ranchers and merchants. I have collected the testimony of crop experts.

Finally as proof for irrigation drawn from the near-by Sierra snows, it is shown that the water is abundant between the rows can be used, while orchard is young, for many profitable crops. The point is, make every square foot bear something.

What some farmers have done. Frank Thomas, of Fresno, Cal., bought twenty acres of land five years ago. He had $100 to start on. Today his place is paid for and he has an income of over $2,000 a year.

William Shrayer, R. F. D. 7, Fresno, Cal., bought ten acres six years ago. Now owns sixty acres all paid for, and refuses $12,000 for his place. M. F. Tarpey, of Fresno, owns vineyard of 125 acres. He has made $100,000 in the annual crop of $125,000. On the Harold estate, twenty-two acres of peaches yielded a $15,000 crop.

LIBERAL OFFER

HOW CAN THEY AFFORD IT?

The Germitt Chemical Co. of Piqua, Ohio, has an unusual method of introducing their CLOVERINE REMEDIES. We have noticed their ads in these different papers where they agree to send free of charge a package of CLOVERINE LIVER PILLS, CLOVERINE QUININE LAXATIVE, Greenamyer's Anti-Pain Powders and an order on your home druggist for a free 25c package of CLOVERINE SALVE, by merely inclosing to their address, 4 cents in stamps. We find this company have remedies of unusual merit and the sale in every territory is enormous where these remedies are given a trial. This explains for itself how they can afford it.

Most of patent medicine firms tell you what their remedies will do and cure, but want the money in advance. The Germitt Chemical Co. seem to want the merits of their remedies first proven and then depend upon after sale to make their money. This offer is fair and a good one for suffering humanity.

Died—Mrs. Susan Anderson, one of the most estimable ladies that ever lived in Boone county, died at her home there, near Ryle, Jan. 19th, aged 83 years, 3 months and 25 days. Mrs. Anderson was born Sept. 21st, 1826, near where she passed her last heavenly rest, and her life was a useful life.

She spent in that quarter, ministering to the happiness and comfort of all those with whom she became connected, her lovely disposition, charitable inclinations and Christian character and leaves as a noble heritage her surviving relatives the attributes of a well spent life as an example worthy of emulation. Mrs. Anderson was the daughter of James and Sarah Ann Bagby, and was married to James D. Anderson, October 30th, 1855, and to this union was born one daughter Annie P., who married James D. Anderson, and departed this life Sept. 1st, 1909, leaving two sons James D. and John M. Whitson, who with their father, survived James and Anderson became a member of the Sugar Creek Christian church about 64 years ago, and she was a faithful, earnest worker in the Master's cause. Her husband died about two years ago and she felt his loss most keenly, and was ready to when his loved companion of so many years on the celestial shore when the final summons came. The funeral took place Jan. 21st, and was attended by a large number of friends who desired to pay the last tribute of respect to this truly good woman.

In March or April, 1908, I left a heavy black silk muffler at some place in the neighborhood of Louisville. It was in places thread bare, and after folding into proper shape, I had it, having been stitched with blue thread. Its prompt return will be greatly appreciated.

Dr. E. W. Duncan.

People along the river from Patriot, Indiana, to Aurora, miss the steamer Swan very much. They did not realize what a great convenience the little boat was until she was taken out of business. This is generally the case.

Post Offices Discontinued.

Hathaway, Gunpowder, Lima-burg and Weneada are points at which local postoffices have been discontinued since rural mail delivery was introduced in this county. In each instance there were serious objection to having the postoffice abolished but the post-office department at Washington heeded them not.

A Paying Business.

O. M. Slater, constable, and John H. Russo, Jr., arrested Jos. (Bunk) Phipps and Milton Phipps at their home near Cochran Saturday. The boys left the training ships Virginia and Richmond at Norfolk, Va., last September with out leave. Learning that Slater held warrants from the war department at Washington for their arrest and return to Philadelphia, Pa., League Island Navy yard, they surrendered at their home after sending for Slater to come after them back Saturday and cause took them back Tuesday. Slater's clerks in the past few years, three of whom gave themselves up to him. The cost of which was $30.50 and free transportation. The total cost to the government for the return of the Phipps boys will be $161.53, $50 for railroad tickets—Lawrenceburg Register.

Notes.

The story opens with the shipwreck of the steamer on which Miss Genevieve Leslie, an American belle, Lord Winthrop, an Englishman, and Tom Blake, a brusque American, were passengers. The three were tossed upon an uninhabited island and were the only ones not drowned. Blake, shunned on the boat, because of his roughness, became a hero as preserver of the helpless pair. The Englishman was suing for the hand of Miss Leslie. Winthrop waited his last match on a cigarette, for which he was scolded by Blake. All three constructed huts to shield themselves from the sun. They then feasted on coconuts, the only procurable food. Miss Leslie faced an unpleasant situation. Blake recovered his surgeon's magnifying glass, thus insuring fire. He started a jungle fire, killing a large leopard and another smaller cub. In the leopard's cavern, he built a small home. They gained the cliffs by burning the bottom of a tree until it fell against the heights. The trio secured eggs from the cliffs. Miss Leslie's white skirt was decided upon as a signal. Miss Leslie made a dress from the leopard skin. Overhauled conversation became ill with fever. Blake was poisoned by a fish and almost died. Jackals attacked the camp that night, but were driven off by Genevieve. Blake constructed an animal trap. It killed a hyena. On a tour the trio discovered honey and oysters. Miss Leslie was attacked by a poisonous snake. Blake killed it and saved the poison to kill game. For the second time Winthrop was attacked by fever. He and Blake disagreed. The latter made a strong door for the private compartment of Miss Leslie's cave home. A terrible storm raged that night. Winthrop stole into her room, but she managed to twist her door closed in time. Winthrop was badly hurt. He died the following morning. The storm tore down their distress flag, so a new one was swung from a bamboo pole. Miss Leslie helped in covering Winthrop's grave with stones. Genevieve took a strong liking to Blake. On exploration tour they were attacked by a lion.

The lion still roared and crouched as if to spring, snarling and grinning with rage and uncertainty. His eyes, unaccustomed to the glare of the mid-day sun, blinked incessantly, though he followed the man's every movement, his snarl deepening into growls at the slightest change of attitude.

In his last charge Blake had forgotten that the purpose of his lateral advance was to place as great a distance as possible between him and the girl before the clash. Yet instinct kept him moving along his spiral course, on the chance that he might catch his foe off his guard.

Suddenly the lion half turned and stretched forward, sniffing. There was an uneasy whining note in his growl. Blake let the club slip from beneath his arm and drew his bow until the arrow-head lay upon his thumb. His outstretched arm was rigid as a bar of steel. So tense and alert were all his nerves that he knew he could drive home both arrows and still have time to swing his club before the beast was upon him.

A puff of wind struck against his back and swept on the nostrils of the lion, laden with the odor of man. The beast uttered a short, startled roar, and, whirling about, leaped away into the jungle so quickly that Blake's arrow flashed past a full yard behind.

The second arrow was on the string before the first had struck the ground. But the lion had vanished in the grass. With a yell, Blake dashed on across to the nearest point of the jungle. As he ran he drew the burning glass from his fob and flipped it open ready for use. If the lion had turned behind the sheltering grass stems he was too cowardly to charge at again. Within a minute the jungle border was a wall of roaring flames.

The grass, long since dead, and bone-dry with the days of tropical sunshine since the cyclone, flared up before the wind like gunpowder. Even against the wind the fire ate its way along the ground with fearful rapidity, trailing behind it an upwhirling vortex of smoke and flame. A living creature could have burst through that belt of fire.

A wave of fierce heat sent Blake staggering back, scorched and blistered. There was no exultation in his bearing. For the moment all thought of the lion was swallowed up in awe of his own work. He stared at the hell of leaping, roaring flames from beneath his upraised arm. To the north sparks and lifted wisps of grass driven by the gale had already fired the jungle half way to the farther ridge.

Step by step Blake drew back. His heel struck against something soft. He looked down and saw Miss Leslie lying on the sand, white and still. She had fainted, overcome by fear or by the unendurable heat. The heat must have stupefied him as well. He stared at her, dazed, wondering if she was dead. His brain cleared. He sprang over to where the flask lay beside the remnants of the lunch.

He was dashing the last drops of the tepid water in her face when she moaned and her eyelids began to flutter. He flung down the flask and fell to shaking her wrist.

"Tom!" she moaned.

"Tom, Miss Jenny, I'm here. It's all right," he answered.

"Have I had a sunstroke? Is that why it seems so—I can hardly breathe—"

"It's all right, I tell you. Only a little dizziness. I touched off. Guess you must have fainted. But it's all right now."

"It was silly of me to faint. But when I saw that dreadful thing leap—"

"The Man I Love!"

She faltered and lay shuddering. Fearful that she was about to swoon again Blake slapped her hand between his palms with stinging force.

"You're fit!" he shouted. "The joke's on you! Kitty jumped just the other way, and he won't come back in a hurry with that fire to head him off. Jump up now and we'll do a jig on the strength of it."

She attempted a smile, and a trace of color showed in her cheeks. With an idea that action would further her recovery he drew her to a sitting position, stepped quickly behind, and, with his hands beneath her elbows, lifted her upright. But she was weak and weak and giddy to stand alone. As he released his grip she swayed and would have fallen had he not caught her arm.

"Steady!" he admonished. "Brace up; you're all right."

"I'm—I'm just a little dizzy," she murmured, clinging to his shoulder. "It will pass in a minute. It's so silly, but I'm that way—Tom, I—I think you are the bravest man—"

"Yes, yes—but that's not the point. Leave go now, like a sensible girl. It's about time to hit the trail!"

He drew himself free, and without a glance at her blushing face began to gather up their scattered outfit. His hat lay where he had weighted it down with the coconut. He tossed the nut into the skin bag and jammed the hat on his head, pulling the brim far down over his eyes. When he had fetched his club he walked back past the girl with his eyes averted.

"Come on," he muttered.

Inside the barricade Blake was waiting to close the opening. She crept through and rose to catch him by the sleeve.

"Tom, look at me," she said. "Once I was most unjust to you in my thoughts. I wronged you. Now I must tell you that I think you are the bravest—the noblest man—"

"Get away!" he exclaimed, and he shook off her hand roughly. "Don't be a fool! You don't know what you're talking about."

"But I do, Tom. I believe that you are—"

"I'm a blackguard—do you hear?"

"No blackguard is brave. The way you faced that terrible beast—"

"Yes, blackguard—to be gone and shown to you that I—to tell you you are a single word—Can't you see? Even if I'm not what you call a gentleman, I thought I knew how any man ought to treat a woman—but to go and let you know, before we'd got back among people!"

"But—but, Tom, why not, if we—"

"No!" he retorted, harshly. "I'm going now to pile up wood on the cliff for a beacon fire. In the morning I'll start making that catamaran—"

"No, you shall not—You shall not go off and leave me, and—and risk your life! I can't bear to think of it! Stay with me, Tom—dear! Even if a ship never came—"

He turned resolutely, so as not to see her blushing face, so as not to see her blushing face.

"Come now, Miss Leslie," he said in a dry, even tone. "Don't make it so awfully hard. Let's be sensible, and" shake hands on it like two real comrades."

She struck frantically at his outstretched hand.

"Keep away—I hate you!" she cried. Before he could speak she was running up the cliff.

CHAPTER XXV.

In Double Salvation.

HEN, an hour or more after the next morning, the girl slowly drew open her door and came out of the cave. Blake was nowhere in sight. She sighed, vastly relieved, and hastened across to bathe her flushed face in the spring. Stopping every few moments to listen for his step down the cliff she gathered up a hamper of food and fed-to-the-treelarder.

As she drew herself up on the cliff she noticed a thin column of smoke rising from the last smoldering brands of a beacon fire that had been built in the midst of the bird colony on the extreme outer edge of the headland. She did not, however, observe that, while the smoke column streamed up from the fire directly skyward beyond it there was a much larger volume of smoke, which seemed to have eddied down the cliff face and was now rolling up into view from out over the sea. She gave no heed to this, for the sight of the beacon had instantly alarmed her with the possibility that Blake was still on the headland, and would imagine that she was seeking him.

She paused, her cheeks aflame. But the only sign of Blake that she could see was the fire itself. She reflected that he might very well have left before dawn, as likely as not he had descended at the north end of the cleft and had gone off to the river to start his catamaran. At the thought all the color ebbed from her cheeks and left her white and trembling. Again she stood hesitating. With a sigh she started on toward the signal staff.

She was close upon the border of the bird colony when Blake sat up and she found herself staring into his blinking eyes.

"Hello!" he mumbled, drowsily. He sprang up wide awake, and fushing with the guilty consciousness of smoke he had done, "Look at the sun—way up! Didn't mean to oversleep, Miss Leslie. You see I was up pretty late tending the beacon. But of course that's no excuse—"

"Don't!" she exclaimed. There were tears in her eyes; yet she smiled as she spoke. "I know what you mean by 'pretty late.' You've been up all night."

"No, I haven't. Not all night—"

"To be sure! I quite understand, Mr. Thomas Blake! Now sit down and eat that lunch!"

"Having time? I've got to get to the river and set to work. I'll set some jerked beef and eat it on the way. You see—"

"Tom!" she protested.

lips closed together resolutely.

He was stepping past her, when over the seaward edge of the cliff there came a sound like the yell of a raging sea monster.

"Shren!" shouted Blake, whirling about.

The cloud of smoke beyond the cliff end was now rolling up more to the left. He dashed away towards the north edge of the cliff as though he intended to leap off into space. The girl ran after him as fast as she could over the loose stones. Before she had covered half the distance she saw him halt on the very brink of the cliff and begin to wave and shout like a madman. A few steps farther on the caught sight of the steamer. It was lying close in, only a little way off the north point of the headland.

Even as she saw the vessel, its stern responded to Blake's wild gestures with a series of joyous screams. There could be no mistake. He had been seen. Already they were letting go anchor, and were waving a little crowd of men gathering about on the boats. Blake turned and started on a run for the cliff. But Miss Leslie darted before him, compelling him to halt.

"Wait!" she cried, her eyes sparkling with happy tears. "Tom, it's come now. You needn't be afraid."

"Let me by! I'm going to meet them. I want to—"

But she put her hands upon his shoulders.

"Tom!" she whispered, "let it be now, before any one—anything—can possibly come between us. Let it be a part of our life here—here, where I've learned how brave and true a real man can be!"

"And then have him prove himself a sneak!" he cried. "No; I won't, Jenny! I've got you to think of. Wait till I've seen your father. Then to one hell or hear of it—hell cut off without a cent. Not but what I'd be glad myself, but you're used to luxuries, girls, and I'm a poor man. I can't give them to you—"

She laid a hand on his mouth and smiled up at him in tender mockery.

"Come now, Mr. Blake, you're not very complimentary. After surviving my cooking all these weeks, don't you think I might do, at a pinch, for a poor man's wife?"

"No, Jenny!" he protested, trying to draw back. "You oughtn't to decide now. When you're back among your friends things may look different. Think of your society friends! Wait till you see me with other men—gentlemen! I'm just a rough, uncultured, ordinary—"

"Hush!" she cried, and she again placed her hand on his mouth. "You say such cruel things about Tom—my Tom—the man I trust—that I—"

Her arms slipped about his neck and her eyes shone up into his with tender radiance.

"Don't!" he begged, hoarsely. "I can't stand it—"

"What's I love!" she whispered. He crushed her to him in his great arms.

"My little girl—dear little girl!" he repeated, and he pressed his lips to her hair.

She snuggled her face closer against his shoulder and rested in a very small voice. "I—I suppose you know that ship captains can m-marry people."

"But I haven't even a job yet!" he exclaimed. "Suppose your father—"

"Please listen!" she pleaded. There was a sound like suppressed sobbing. "What is it?" he ventured, and he listened, greatly perturbed. The muffled voice sounded very meek and plaintive: "I'll try to do my part. Mr. Blake—really I will! I—I hope we can manage to struggle along—somehow. You know, I have a little of the man. It's only three—three million—but—"

"What!" he demanded, and he held her out at arm's length, to stare at her in frowning bewilderment. "If I'd known that, I'd—"

"You'd never have given me a chance to propose to you, you dear old silly!" she cried, her eyes dancing with tender wrath. "See here!"

She turned from him, and drew again, and held up a withered, eroded flower. He looked, and saw that it was the amaryllis blossoms.

"You don't like it?"

"Because—because, even then, down in the bottom of my heart I had begun to realize—to know what you were like—and of course that meant—Tom, tell me! Do you think I'm utterly shameless? Do you think I'm not a little bit of a—"

"Blame you!" he cried. He paused to put a finger under her chin and raise her down-bent face. His eyes were very blue, but there was a twinkle in their depths. "Oh, yes; it was dreadful, wasn't it? But I guess I've no complaint to be laid out now."

"You don't like it?"

"If there is anything on earth that will try all the Christian graces of the average man, it is to crawl into a union suit on a chilly morning and to discover that the washwoman has turned it wrong side out."

Attention Sick Women

If you had positive proof that a certain remedy for female ills had made many remarkable cures, would you not feel like trying it?

If during the last thirty years we have not succeeded in convincing every fair-minded woman that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured thousands and thousands of women of the ills peculiar to their sex, then we long for an opportunity to do so by direct correspondence. Meanwhile read the following letters which we guarantee to be genuine and truthful.

Hudson, Ohio.—"I suffered for a long time from a weakness, inflammation, dreadful pains each month and suppression. I had been doctoring and receiving only temporary relief, when a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and wrote to you for advice. I have faithfully followed your directions and now, after taking only five bottles of the Vegetable Compound, I have every reason to believe I am a well woman. I give you full permission to use my testimonial."

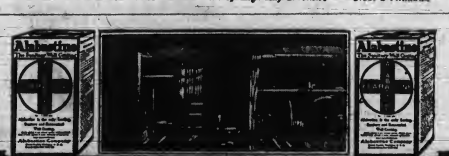

—Mrs. Lena Carmocino, Hudson, Ohio. R. F. D. No. 7.

St. Regis Falls, N. Y.—"Two years ago I was so bad that I had to take to my bed every month, and it would last from two to three weeks. I wrote to you for advice and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in dry form. I am happy to say that I am cured, thanks to your medicine and good advice. You must use my letter for the good of others."—Mrs. J. H. Breyer, St. Regis Falls, N. Y.

There is absolutely no doubt about the ability of this grand old remedy, made from the roots and herbs of our fields, to cure female diseases. We possess volumes of proof of this fact, enough to convince the most skeptical.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

AGED 104 YEARS

Was James Courter, A Native of this County.

Who Died in Switzerland County, Ind., January 25th.

The following notice of the death of James Courter, was copied from last week's Lawrenceburg Press. James Courter was, evidently, the brother of the late John Courter, of Burlington, and who has two daughters, Mrs. Rose Bradberry, of Burlington, and Mrs. Helen Heph, of Petersburg, precinct, yet living:

"James Courter, who was by far the oldest man in the southeastern section of Indiana, died at his home in Switzerland county Tuesday morning of pneumonia. Had he lived until April he would have been 104 years old."

"The attack which caused the old man's death was the one severe illness of his life. Previous to it he had been able to execute five dollars for physicians' services. Here the theory of some as to the cause of his longevity must be shattered—he did use tobacco. The old man was unable to remember the date when he did not know the taste of a certain kind of pipe. Moreover, he chewed to excess."

"Mr. Courter was the longest record of married life in the state—seventy-four years—which ended with the death of his wife in 1890."

"A family reunion was held at Mr. Courter's home, a primitive log cabin, well known as South Fork, April 7, 1909, when the old man rounded out his one hundred and fourth milestone. Upon that occasion 192 of his descendants assembled to do him homage."

"Mr. Courter was of Scotch-Irish descent and was born at Richmond Station Boone county Ky. in 1805. When he was a lad of fifteen he removed to Switzerland county, where he lived continuously until his death."

"Mr. Courter was one of a family of ten children, and himself was the father of fifteen. Of this large family are living his youngest child, John Courter, is 50. His eldest, if living, would have been eighty-three."

"When the old man broke out of the world, he was unquestionably a true patriot, did not enlist. He was then too old to enlist for military service."

"Mr. Courter remembered well his mother, who died more than 100 years ago. He recalled how when a lad of four years, he stood at her death bed, and to the needle as she mended the family's homespun garments. The house in which the old man died was built by his father, James Courter, who was unquestionably a true patriot, did not enlist. He was then too old to enlist for military service."

"Mr. Courter remembered well his mother, who died more than 100 years ago. He recalled how when a lad of four years, he stood at her death bed, and to the needle as she mended the family's homespun garments. The house in which the old man died was built by his father, James Courter, who was unquestionably a true patriot, did not enlist. He was then too old to enlist for military service."

"Mr. Courter was one of a family of ten children, and himself was the father of fifteen. Of this large family are living his youngest child, John Courter, is 50. His eldest, if living, would have been eighty-three."

"When the old man broke out of the world, he was unquestionably a true patriot, did not enlist. He was then too old to enlist for military service."

MRS. AGNES GRANT.

In tender memory of Mrs. Agnes Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Calvert, born at Rising Sun, Indiana, Dec. 27, 1837, entered into life eternal at Petersburg, Kentucky, January 15, 1910.

We speak often times of the influence of great thinkers and great writers, but how often, oh, how often, we have those among us who may prove a vast factor in our lives. Those who spread sunshine and happiness wherever the sound of their feet, the music of their sweet voices, the soft kiss of the tender lips, the winning grace may fall. The whole beautiful soul thing in the sunshine of the happy face so pure, so good.

Mrs. Grant was enriched us with the memory of a life which is as fragrant as the essence of a celestial garden. She has inspired us with a longing to be as pure as the angels, and to have the secret of things which shall never die. Her life goes on and on in our hearts and lives, and for her sake we will try to be better, more truthful and even happy. Her years so full of kindness and deeds of love, "The Peace" which she has bequeathed to us because in her intercourse with others, it was always she who "poured oil upon the wailing of many distresses. Her tender heart overflowed with love for the sick and afflicted. Her sweet, sunny nature and unselfish disposition gave her a remarkable hold upon the affections of all who knew her, to whom in the best sense of the word she was a "helpmate," as well as a companion, and her heart was a "Heaven" is nearer because she is there. Her three daughters were special objects of her love and devotion. In her quiet way she called them "the girls," and she delighted in sharing their interests and enjoying with them their pleasures and pursuits. To them she was like a sweet, fair flower, to be cherished with the tenderest care and affection, bound irrevocably to their hearts by a love which will never let her go. It is only "good-night," dear mother, not "farewell." Good-night! until the tiny dawn and the shadows flee away. We did not know that our sunny dreams of a few weeks back were so soon to be swept aside by the tidal wave of sorrow, but her quiet way she called them "the girls," and she delighted in sharing their interests and enjoying with them their pleasures and pursuits. To them she was like a sweet, fair flower, to be cherished with the tenderest care and affection, bound irrevocably to their hearts by a love which will never let her go. A story that's original, new and different from anything you have read

Moonshine and mystery, love and laughter are the keywords of the story. Take a sip of the opening chapter and you will drain it to the last draughts of the final installment

You'll miss the best story of the year if you fail to read the "Little Brown Jug"

THE WONDERBERRY OR SUNBERRY

Has Proved a Great Success—Thousands Say It's the Best Thing They Ever Grew.

The Wonderberry or Sunberry, the marvelous garden fruit originated by Luther Burbank, and introduced by John Lewis Childs, the well-known Seedman of Floral Park, N. Y., has proved a great success all over the country. Thousands of people say it is the best thing they ever grew.

Mr. John Burroughs, the well-known author, Naturalist and bosom friend of Theodore Roosevelt, says it is the most delicious pie berry he ever tasted, and a marvelous cropper.

A Director of the New York Agricultural Experiment Station says it fruits abundantly even in pure sand. In the short season of North-western Canada it is a godsend, and fruits long after frost has killed most garden truck.

D. S. Hall, Wisconsin, says that people grew it their last season with perfect satisfaction.

K. S. Enoch, Hammond, La., says it yields $250 worth of fruit per acre with him. Mrs. J. H. Powers, 4783 Kenwood avenue, Chicago, raised enough berries on a space 4x10 feet to supply herself and friends.

J. P. Swallow, Kenton, Ohio, says it is equal for all purposes does not exist. Rev. H. B. Sheldon, Pacific Grove, Cal., says he likes the berries served in any and every way.

W. T. Davis, Ebon, Va., says it is true to description in every way, and fruits in three months from seed.

Judge Morrow, of U. S. Circuit Court, says the Wonderberry is simply delicious raw or cooked.

Mr. Childs exhibited one plant five months old bearing 10,375 berries which measured about eight quarts.

Mrs. Hattie Vincent, Hayden, New Mexico, says it stands the long, hard droughts of that climate and fruits abundantly all summer.

It is certainly the most satisfactory garden fruit and the greatest Novelty ever introduced.

People Realize the Danger.
As an indication of the force of the crusade against tuberculosis, the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, in a bulletin issued recently points to the fact that while 53.5 per cent. of the expenditures for tuberculosis in 1909 were made from public resources, appropriations made for 1910 indicate that over 75 per cent. of the money to be spent this year will be from federal, state, city and county funds. In 1909, out of the $3,180,621.50 spent for the prevention and treatment of tuberculosis, $4,382,750.03 was spent from public money, and $3,817,871.47 from funds voluntarily contributed. For the carrying on of state, federal and municipal tuberculosis work in 1910, over $9,000,000 has been appropriated. Of this sum, the state legislatures have granted $4,100,000, the municipal and county bodies, $3,975,500 and the federal government, $1,000,000.

Practical Christianity.
"On behalf of the sewing circle of this church," said the pastor at the conclusion of the morning service, "I desire to thank the congregation for 57 buttons placed in the contribution box during the past month. If now the philanthropically inclined donors of these objects will put a half-dozen underliners and three pairs of other strictly secular garments on the plate next Sunday morning, so that we may have something to sew those buttons on, we shall be additionally grateful."
—Harper's Weekly.

Teamster's Punishment Earned.
Apparently it pays not to be cruel to horses out in Chicago. A teamster who admitted abandoning his horses for six hours on a recent stormy day was fined $50 by a magistrate. The humane society prosecuted the case vigorously and promised to report the matter to the driver's employer. Presumably he will lose his job, as he was unable to pay the fine and will have to serve a jail term.

GET POWER.
The Supply Comes From Food.

If we get power from food, why not strive to get all the power we can. That is only possible by use of skillfully selected food that exactly fits the requirements of the body.

Poor fuel makes a poor fire, and a poor fire is not a good steam producer. "From not knowing how to select the right food to fit my needs, I suffered grievously for a long time from stomach troubles," writes a lady from a little town in Missouri.

"I assumed that I would never be able to find out the sort of food that was best for me. Hardly anything that I could eat would stay on my stomach. Every attempt gave me heartburn and filled my stomach with gas. I got thinner and thinner until I literally became a living skeleton and in time was compelled to keep to my bed."

A few months ago I was persuaded to try Grape-Nuts food, and it had such good effect from the very beginning that I have kept up its use ever since. I was surprised at the ease with which I digested it. It proved to be just what I needed.

"All my unpleasant symptoms, the heartburn, the inflated feeling which gave me such pain disappeared. My weight gradually increased from 98 to 116 lbs., my figure rounded out, my strength came back, and I am now able to do my housework and enjoy it. Grape-Nuts did it."

A ten days' trial will show anyone some facts about food.

Look in plug for the little book, "The Road to Wellville." "There's a Reason." Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of honest interest.

THE LINCOLN TOY SHOP

By Waldon Fatoucci

TUCKED AWAY in a most inconspicuous part of the national capital, is a plain little frame building which is perhaps richer in memories of Abraham Lincoln than any other structure at the seat of government, with the possible exception of the White House. To the great majority of the thousands of tourists who every year visit Washington, the very existence of this structure, to say nothing of its significance, is unknown, and yet its history sheds a new and illuminating side light on the simplicity and kindness of Lincoln's private life.

This hidden tribute to the high-heartedness of the venerated chief magistrate is nothing less than a toy shop to which the busy man, howed down by the weight of a devastating war, stole away time and again to buy wooden soldiers and other playthings for the mischievous Tad who constituted during this stormy period the one ray of sunlight in his father's life. Unaffected by the march of commercial progress, this quaint toy shop stands to-day just as it did half centuries ago, tucked away in a modest little frame building—its show window the rendezvous for children from far and near. The same name is over the door as in the days when Lincoln was a patron and the shelves which line the well-ordered interior are crowded as in the old days with trophies to delight the childish heart.

This most interesting of toy shops was founded by Joseph Stuntz, a color-bearer of Napoleon, in the year 1855, and is still in possession of the family, having pursued the same tenor of its way despite the changing conditions of the passing years and the competition of department stores. Years ago toy shops were not so numerous as they are at present and this juvenile fairland situated within walking distance of the White House has had as its regular patrons the children of only until the comparatively early hour when Tad, exhausted by his strenuous activities, went into a sound sleep.

On many of his visits to the toy shop President Lincoln was accompanied by the late Thomas Pender, who was at his death the dean of the White House attaches in point of continuous service—a member of President Lincoln's personal staff. Pender was always a great favorite with Tad the youngster, who had a slight impediment in his speech always called him "Tom Pen." Pender was as much in the company of the president's son and knew his desires and ambitions in the matter of toys so well that not infrequently on the occasion of the visits after nightfall to the little toy shop he was better able to judge than was President Lincoln as to what playthings would most please the lad who had the largest place in the chief magistrate's heart.

"Tad" often went to sleep in Pender's arms and it fell to the lot of "Tom Pen" to soothe and console the lad when some came of the tragedy at Ford's theater.

Often the visits of the president and Tad to the little toy shop, almost without sight of the White House, were coincident with the receipt in Washington of news of some defeat to the union forces and it was suspected that the president choose this form of outing as the one best calculated to take his mind off the disheartening situation. One such visit was made just after the battle of Fredericksburg in which the union loss in killed and wounded was very heavy.

Arrived at the toy shop Tad amused himself shooting down little tin soldiers by means of a toy cannon, all unmindful of the significance of the spectacle to his distraught father. However, the president saw the grim suggestion in the childish play and turning to the toymaker who stood near he inquired: "Does it hurt you as much to have your soldiers shot down as it does me to have mine?"

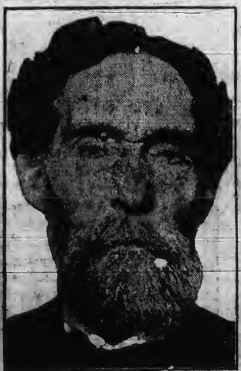

Among the toys that were purchased for Tad at the little shop that is now historic was a set of tools and these the inquisitive young workman tried on everything around the White House.

A Lincoln Anecdote.
President Lincoln was an unusually tall man and was said to be vain of his height, but one day a man called on him who was really three inches taller.

"Really," said the president, "I must look up to you. If you ever get into a deep place you ought to be able to wade out."

half a dozen presidents. Tad Lincoln came here not infrequently to buy toys but more often it was the president himself, who made the trip in quest of some new plaything as a surprise for the little lad who was the apple of his eye. Time and again passersby saw the tall figure of the chief executive, wrapped in his big shawl and wearing his distinctive high hat, emerge from the little shop carefully carrying a package of the newest inventions of "Stuntz, toymaker." There is evidence, too, that Lincoln came to have a real affection for the crippled veteran of Waterloo who, with wounded foot propped on a chair, worked day in, day out, deftly creating new

The Daughters. —o— It is said, "To be good is the way to be happy;" but to be good is to do good in the way to be happy. What a happy world this would be if all would do the best thing for themselves, if all realized that the only way to get out of life is to put into it; that the way to receive is to give, and the only way to be helped is to be helpful, and the way to gain life is to lose it; and the way to go up is to go down, for "The meek shall inherit the earth." He that humbly himself shall be exalted, and he that is proud, for self, it is grand to live for friends, but 'tis glorious to live for mankind, and as one has said, "The only way to work for God is to work for man."

Great Tasks for Great Souls

TO MANY the most pathetic sight of our day is that of great men "doing little things." Everywhere one sees high powers consecrated to common ends, capable of great things, expended on trivial accomplishments and avocations that are——concentrated only with the animal part of being, concerned with the same things that are the great concern of the world. It was this pathetic irrelevancy between human capacities and human use of them that led Jesus to remark that one who followed him should leave the dead to bury their own dead and go and do the things the dead could not do. A Christian has passed out of death into life, and should be accomplishing things worthy of living souls, leaving the commonplace people to express their energies on the commonplace things. Great tasks for great souls, deeds for living men, worthy work for followers of the living Lord.

It has been this impossibility to keep the living away from the work of the dead that has sometimes hindered the use of them that led Jesus to remark that one who followed him should leave the dead to bury their own dead and go and do the things the dead could not do. A Christian has passed out of death into life, and should be accomplishing things worthy of living souls, leaving the commonplace people to express their energies on the commonplace things. lives running as automobile up and down the rough hills and endurance tests, but think of a Christian devoting his life to that thing! It is well enough for the world to go crazy over football and baseball and other sports. One expects if of dead people, and we are not saying there is harm in a Christian making some recreation in witnessing a game; but think of a Christian expending his divine enthusiasm in an absorbing devotion to sport while so many superb things are calling for the devotion of great souls. One often wonders what might happen in the kingdom if half the enthusiasm Christians expend on sports went into things worthy of children of God. Christians tatter about trying to kill time by gossip and light reading and tea-going and bridge parties and huge Sunday newspapers and thousands of other things, all of which may have their occasional place—Jesus went to the wedding feast and sought pleasant recreation in the home of Lazarus—which we are not now saying are evil; but which belong to their nature, to the world, and are worthy of worldly men, not of children of God from dead people, worldlings, those in whom the spirit has not been highly born. Even in churches one despairs sometimes as he sees church-people putting divine energies into toilsome affairs and bazaar that ought to be going into the work of the kingdom. And some time churches will find that ministers who have prophetic power and the gift of preaching and befriending people should be left to do the greater thing, while people who have only the lesser faculty of administrative work will relieve him of his burdensome tasks, leaving him free to do his living task.

Coming of the Ideal Time. The ideal time will come when every soul is free to do that which it can do best; the living soul free to do the living thing that antiphonally answers. But whether that time come for us or not, it is time, for our own sakes and the world's sake, to leave the small things of small people, the dead things of dead people, and cease to fritter away our capacities on cheap and trifling spheres, seek to do the living tasks that call for living souls, and move in the sphere of things worthy of our best selves. Great, living, burning problems and causes are calling everywhere for souls commensurate to the task. The live souls exist, only they are down in the world burying the dead with the dead. It is time to come out and follow the Master in these large things of the kingdom. When all Christians come to this, the task will be accomplished.

The saloons can be closed in 25 years. Many economic abuses can be banished in the same time. Even now, because more Christians are putting their interest in things commensurate with their powers, government of states and cities is improving. The missionary opportunity is greatest of all areas for everywhere there is the open door with welcome to truth over its portals. Wars could be stopped, with the horrible burden of armament and unchristian suspicions preparation for them is engendering, by the time calling everywhere for souls commensurate to the task. If Christians of the third Hague court, if Christians would leave the trifling with the small tasks and little pleasures that belong to dead people. So many souls would go, so many golden days would come, such fair blossoming of the kingdom prophetic with promise would be seen, if Christians would leave the dead to bury their own dead and play with the trifling with the trifling, and put all their Christed, new-born living things full of the promise of immortality, great tasks for great souls. And let us remember, too, that those who spend their lives with the dead among dead things become like them. But the living soul, engaged in dealing with living thought and living things and divine emprise, is gaining eternal life from the contact with eternal things. —The Christian Work and Evangelist.

1910 Resolutions. To be generous with the ungenerous; to be tolerant with the intolerant; to be patient with the headstrong and impatient; to be spirited and large-minded with all sorts and conditions of men. To banish grudge from my heart, and for blessings known, erect a permanent home for gratitude. To make to-day brighter than it otherwise would be because I see it lighted up with the fore-gleam of a better to-morrow. For every evil I see or suffer, I shall bestow upon some fellow-human a substantial good. My only weapon is to be "speaking the truth in love."

By Almighty Power. Whence is this delicate scent in the rose and the violet? It is not from the root—that smells of nothing; not from the stalk—that is as scentless as the root; not from the earth whence it grows, which contributes no more to these flowers than to the grass that grows by them; not from the leaf that dot the bud, before it be disclosed, which yields no more fragrance than the leaf or stalk or root. Yet here I find it. Neither is there any miraculous way, but in an ordinary course of nature, for all violets and roses of this kind yield from the same source. It cannot be but that it was potentially in that root and stem from which the flowers proceed and there placed and there drawn by that Almighty power which hath given those admirable virtues to some plants.—Selected.

George Washington's Neglected Birthplace

BY WALDON FAWCETT

GEORGE WASHINGTON's home and tomb at Mount Vernon have become a Mecca for continual pilgrimages by the people of a grateful nation to say nothing of the frequent visits of distinguished foreigners.

But, oddly enough, the birthplace of the Father of His Country, located some miles nearer the mouth of the Potomac, is neglected and to a considerable extent unknown. Fortunately a movement has been recently inaugurated to restore and preserve Wakefield plantation, where Washington was born and where he spent his boyhood. This project is coincident with the plan for the restoration of Stratford, the birthplace of Robert E. Lee.

The opportunities for a memorial shrine to the military leader of the confederacy are, however, somewhat superior to those at Wakefield, for whereas the ancestral home of the Lees is yet standing in a fair state of preservation there are no remnants of the old buildings at Wakefield save some tumble-down log structures of uncertain origin which are reputed to have once served as slave quarters, but which are now utilized as corn cribs.

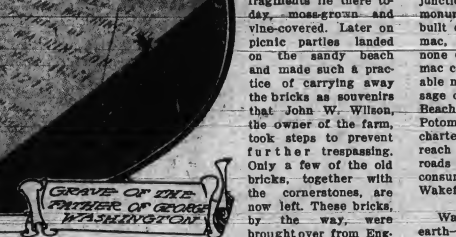

The old manor house in which George Washington opened his eyes upon the world was burned in the last century, but the brick chimney, within the arch of which four people could sit, and the cornerstone with a portion of the foundation were saved. Shortly before the civil war the historic farm passed into the hands of a family which at the outset showed some appreciation for its associations. A succeeding generation, however, demolished the chimney and the remnants of the walls in order to secure the birthplace of the nation.

A marble slab, bearing an inscription giving the date of Washington's birth and other information, which had been set into the great arch of the fireplace above mentioned was removed to the old family burying ground, but in placing it beneath two ancient fig-trees, planted by the mother of Washington, it was broken and its fragments lie there to-day, moss-grown and vine-covered. Later on picnic parties landed on the sandy beach and made such a practice of carrying away the bricks as souvenirs that John W. Wilson, the owner of the farm, took steps to prevent further trespassing. Only a few of the old bricks, together with the cornerstones, are now left. These bricks, by the way, were brought over from England nearly two centuries ago, serving as ballast for the vessels, which also brought all the woodwork and other furnishings. The broad portico of the old house faced the Potomac, which is here miles in width, and in the estimation of many persons the view at this point surpasses that at either Arlington or Mount Vernon.

In the year 1896, the national government erected at Wakefield a miniature copy of the Washington national monument with the inscription "Washington's Birthplace."

Probably the principal reason for the neglect of Wakefield by the tour that visits Mount Vernon is found in the isolation of Washington's birthplace. In conjunction with the erection of the governmental monument at Wakefield, a substantial pier was built extending some distance into the Potomac, but this pier is now in shoal water and none of the larger steamers plying on the Potomac can reach it. In consequence the only available means of reaching Wakefield is to take passage on one of the steamers bound for Colonial Beach, the leading summer resort of the lower Potomac, and upon arrival at the beach to either charter a launch for the trip to Wakefield or else reach the same goal by a considerable drive over roads that are none too good. Even this time-consuming method of making a pilgrimage to Wakefield is impracticable in winter.

Washington is the mightiest name of the earth—long since mightiest in moral reformation. On that name a eulogy is expected. It cannot be. To add brightness to the sun or glory to the name of Washington is alike impossible. Let none attempt it. In solemn awe pronounce the name and in its naked, deathless splendor leave it shining on—Abraham Lincoln.

America has furnished to the world the character of Washington. And if our American institutions had done nothing else that alone would have entitled them to the respect of mankind.

Besides the birthright balls there was another feature of the early celebrations in Alexandria which was peculiar to that town. Washington had founded an orphan asylum there and when on his birthday there would be a meeting, with an orator, in one of the churches, the orphans were conspicuously present and came in for a special piece of oration. The account of the meeting in the Gazette of February 23, it was noted, was taken up for the benefit of the asylum.

The Alexandria celebrations were often addressed by G. W. P. Custis. In 1811 Richard B. Lee was the orator. Some idea of newspaper methods of that day may be had from the fact that although the celebration that time was mentioned in the Gazette of February 23, it was not until February 26 that a real account appeared.

During the civil war the celebration of the birthday ceased. Alexandria was ardently southern in its sympathies and was, moreover, too much in the track of war to take notice of even its own pet anniversary. It was not until 1870 that it began a feeble revival of the old festival. That time there was merely a presentation of a stand of colors to the cadets of St. John's academy by the young ladies of Mount Vernon Institute.

In 1872 the cadets paraded and there was a birthright ball once more. In 1875 a real celebration was arranged, to which "thousands of strangers" came and upon which occasion "the houses were mourning at Lee's death"—Robert E. Lee—"all displayed the American flag." Many houses displayed pictures of Lee and Washington side by side. But there was no birthright ball, and on the platform of the speaker's stand there was a vacant chair placed to honor the memory of G. W. P. Custis. "The old man eloquent."

Since 1875 the celebrations have been rather irregular in the town which originated them. But of late years a society has been formed which arranges and carries out an elaborate programme every alternate year. Whereas the orphans used to be a center of birthday attention, the interest is divided now between the firemen and the soldiers.

Last year there were detachments of federal troops and of United States sailors in addition to the District militia. Washington has a permanent claim to pose as Alexandria's "favorite son" and these biennial affairs are the biggest thing of their sort in the country. February 22 is the Alexandrian's glorious Fourth.

What Is Happening Throughout the State

Lexington, Ky.—Henry Jones, one of the many negroes indicted for alleged false swearing and illegal registration last fall, was dismissed.

Winchester, Ky.—Miss Nannie H. Hickman, the oldest sister-born woman resident of this city, died at the age of 83 years, after a few hours' illness.

Louisville, Ky.—James Smith, negro, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary by a jury in the criminal court when he pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny.

Lexington, Ky.—Dennis McCarty, in point of service one of the oldest members of the Lexington police force, succeeded J. C. Ford, resigned because of ill health, to the captaincy of the day force.

Shelbyville, Ky.—George N. Middleton, a prominent retired druggist of this city, died at his home here of a complication of diseases. He had been in declining health for the past three months.

Covington, Ky.—John A. Goodson, former chief of police and widely known throughout Kentucky and brother-in-law of former Congressman and ex-Secretary of the Treasury John G. Carlisle, died at his residence here.

Louisville, Ky.—An increase in the assessment of personal property throughout the Jefferson county over that of last year of $8,394,820 is shown by the report of the county board of equalization. Much comment resulted.

Louisville, Ky.—Large sales of Home Telephone Co. stock on the local exchange have given rise to rumors that either J. F. Morgan or local capitalists are gaining control of that telephone company.

Elizabethtown, Ky.—The Rev. Steve Holcombe, who has been conducting the Holcombe Mission in Louisville for several years, has abandoned the missionary field and has retired to "The Willows," his country residence, near this city. His retirement is due to advanced age, impaired health and families ties.

Lexington, Ky.—After spending about two weeks carefully preparing down all of the necessary appropriations, the joint ways and means committee of the city council presented an appropriation ordinance by which the city tax rate for 1910 will not exceed $1.75 on the $100, and the ordinance was passed by the council.

Newport, Ky.—Secretary A. S. Bennett, of the republican state central committee, has written to prominent republicans in Louisville that an affidavit has been filed with the committee in which the men who signed the affidavit request the reviewing of the recent organization meeting of the Campbell county executive committee.

Covington, Ky.—The grand jury returned indictments against those indicted being ex-Mayor Harry Brown, of Ludlow; ex-Sheriff George Davidson, of Covington; Chief of Police Robert Callahan, of Ludlow; Marshal Kelly, of West Covington; Constable Benjamin Bledenhorn, Covington; the C. N. and C. L. and N. and the C. and O. railroads, and a number of saloon-keepers.

Louisville, Ky.—After a long fight through the city, state and federal courts the city of Louisville gained a victory in its suit against the New York Audit Co., involving the expenditure of $40,000 ordered by former Mayor Bingham, for an investigation of the books of the Louisville Water Co., when Judge Evans, in the United States court, held that the contract was not binding.

Danville, Ky.—A meeting of the secretaries of the fairs of this section will be held in Danville Tuesday, Feb. 15, for the purpose of organizing a fair to be held at Lexington, Ky., in 1910. The fair will embrace the membership of the organization. Steps will be taken toward combining and securing a line of very high-class attractions.

Lexington, Ky.—Nine thoroughbreds, the stallions Galveston, Canopus and Sir Hampton and the mares Princess Naretta (dam of Shotgun), Blue Eyes, Himmra, Panapa, Natoma and Princess Wheeler, belonging to John Mackey, arrived here from Sacramento, Cal., in charge of George Miller, and were taken to J. B. Higgins' Elmford farm. Mackey for years maintained a breeding establishment near Sacramento, but after the passing of the antislavery law, he decided to dispose of it.

Frankfort, Ky.—Julian Tifford, 46, treasurer of the Capital Theater Co., died suddenly of heart failure. He would have been elected, on next Thursday, secretary of the state board of equalization. He was a grandson of Col. Thomas Page, former state auditor.

Lexington, Ky.—A movement to raise $250,000 additional for the endowment fund of Transylvania university was inaugurated at a dinner given to about 100 merchants, farmers and professional men at Hamilton college.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Do Forest, Wis.—Four years ago I had pains downward in both sides, backache, and a weakness. The doctor wanted me to have another operation. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am entirely cured of my troubles.

Another Operation Avoided. New Orleans, La.—"For years I suffered from severe female troubles. Finally I was confined to my bed and the doctor said an operation was necessary. I gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial first and was saved from an operation."—Mrs. LILLY PETROUX, 1111 Kerlereau St., New Orleans, La.

Thirty years of unparalleled success confirms the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases. The great volume of unsolicited testimony coming from all parts of the world proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a remarkable remedy for those distressing feminine ills from which so many women suffer.

If you want special advice about your case write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. Free advice is free, and always helpful.

The Fight Against Tuberculosis

Interest in the anti-tuberculosis campaign now being waged throughout the United States is evidenced by the fact that in the year 1909 163 new anti-tuberculosis associations were formed, 133 tuberculosis sanatoria and hospitals were established, and 81 tuberculosis dispensaries were opened. Compared with previous years, this is the best record thus far made in the fight against consumption in this country.

During the year 1909, 43 more associations for the prevention of tuberculosis were formed than during the previous 12 months, and 62 more hospitals and sanatoria were established. On January 1, 1910, there were in the United States 394 anti-tuberculosis associations, 386 hospitals and tuberculosis sanatoria and 265 special tuberculosis dispensaries.

Reflections.

The beautiful home was crowded with people assembled to honor the distinguished guest.

But the explorer soon tired of the attentions, and as he leaned his arm against a pillar, he allowed himself to be transported back to the scene of his triumph.

"Such a waste," he mumbled, audibly, staring into space, "such a waste, such a waste."

Why so many stout ladies left the house in indignation, the hostess was unable to learn.—Sunday Magazine of the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Every man is worth just as much as the things are worth about which he is concerned.—Marcus Aurelius.

Head Bookkeeper Must Be Reliable.

The chief bookkeeper in a large business house in one of our great Western cities speaks of the harm coffee did for him:

"My wife and I drank our first cup of Postum a little over two years ago, and we have used it ever since, to the entire exclusion of tea and coffee. It happened in this way:

"About three and a half years ago I had an attack of pneumonia, which left a memento in the shape of dyspepsia, or rather, to speak more correctly, neuralgia of the stomach. My cup of cheer had always been coffee or tea, but I became convinced, after a time, that they aggravated my stomach trouble. I happened to mention the matter to my grocer one day and he suggested that I give Postum a trial.

"Next day it came, but the cook made the mistake of not boiling it sufficiently, and we did not like it much. This was, however, soon remedied, and now we like it so much that we will never change back. Postum, being a food beverage instead of a drug, has been the means of curing my stomach trouble. I verily believe, for I am a well man today and have used no other remedy."

Look in pkgs. for the little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Ever read the above letter? A man speaks from the heart. His words are genuine, true, and full of sound interest.

STARTED IN VIRGINIA

Come, boys, close the window and make a good fire, Wife, children, sit snug all around; 'Tis the day that gave birth to our country's blessed fire. Then let it with pleasure be crowned. Dear wife, bring your wine, and in spite of hard times On this day at least we'll be merry; Come, fill every glass it pours o'er the brim. If not with Madeira—then sherry.

—Old Song.

THE foregoing verse is from one of the old birthday songs in honor of George Washington. These songs were sung even during the lifetime of the first president. For Washington was alone among Americans in having his birthday regularly and publicly celebrated during his lifetime.

The honor of having originated the public observance of February 22 is one of which the town of Alexandria, Va., is justly proud. Alexandria was Washington's county town. He attended church there; he voted and paid taxes there; his physician lived there; he bought of its tradesmen, contributed to its charities, was head of its Masonic lodge, organized its fire brigade.

Washington and Alexandria either contradict the theory that a prophet is not appreciated at home or they are an exception to prove the rule. Right after the close of the revolution Alexandria began to celebrate the birthday of her hero.

Perhaps the old town had acquired the habit, for the birthright balls in honor of King George had been the climax of social functions under the old regime. At any rate never was allegiance more ardently transferred and the new birthright balls became even more elaborate than the old.

Alexandria "having" lost the "Washington," other places took up the custom. In 1784 the French officers who had served under Washington celebrated February 22 in Paris; that is to say, it was not then February 22, but, according to the reckoning of that day, February 11.

While he was president the birthday was always celebrated at the city which was the capital for the time being. At night there were gala performances at the theaters and a ball which the president and his wife attended.

It is recorded that one of these balls in Philadelphia was enlivened by the fact that many of the young ladies were twined among their curis bandeaux embroidered with the words, "Long live

There has been a heavy snow on which sugar water would have run nicely, but the maple sugar industry is in a bad way. The industry is just about an industry of the past in this part of the county.

Chas. Westbay and J. E. Gaines spent a few days last week in Dearborn county, Indiana, trying to buy farm teams. They looked at several good horses, but they were priced so high no purchases were made.

Remember the sale of the personal estate of the late Solon Early will take place at Petersburg tomorrow, and the next day Henry Philip will sell a state of personal property at his late home on Middle creek.

Smoke resulting from the burning of tobacco plant beds will be seen in every direction now the next few days. Judging from present appearances the 1910 acreage will not be so large in the future as was that of 1909.

C. L. Gaines has a special mid-winter offer good for month of February. The Cincinnati Post daily, one year, and 1910 Bibles in Toyland Art Calendars, both for $2. for which he would like to have several subscriptions.

The literary club, or at least the members thereof who are to take part in the entertainment to be given some time next week, are very busy rehearsing for the event, which they expect to make intensely entertaining for the public.

The local dealer in furs made a swing through the trapping districts on Woolper and Ashby Fork creeks, one day last week, and rounded up a considerable number of furs which the trappers in these regions had captured this winter.

Communications other than the neighborhood news should reach this office not later than Thursday at noon the week before they are published. Monday and Tuesday of each week are devoted to putting the local and neighborhood news into type.

County Attorney N. B. Riddell lost a good mare a few months ago from lock jaw, resulting from a nail stuck in her foot, and a few days ago he noticed his horse was limping and upon examination discovered a rusty nail sticking in its foot to a considerable depth.

Clem Kendall, who has been engaged as one of the painters at Lakeland asylum for several years, has bought the John Conrad farm on the Burlington and Florence pike near Alonso Beemont's. Mr. Kendall's health is such that he has to quit handling paint, and he will take up farm life again.

An Octogenerian.

W. E. Cluttbuck, who lived near Florence, died last week at the advanced age of 80 years, being the last one of a family of several who many years ago were prominent in the affairs of this county, holding the office of justice of the peace several terms. His death was the result of a disease incident to old age.

Handling Some Tobacco.

Wingate & Thompson, of Petersburg, are handling a large quantity of tobacco, and have a warehouse in Aurora. The prize room is equipped with seven modern screws, which are kept in operation all the time. It looks very much like they will handle a million pounds of the weed this season if they keep up their present rate until the season closes.

Twice Within a Week.

Twice within a week, says the Lawrenceburg Register, have the Republican party leaders come to this city to get managers for the coming campaign. The Fourth District convention last week selected Jacob M. Bauer chairman and the state committee on Thursday elected E. M. Lee, by an unanimous vote, to preside over the affairs of the party in the Hoosier State.

Enjoying the Country Air.

Benjamin Weisenberg, a very pleasant gentleman of Verona neighborhood, was a caller at this office, last Friday. When Mr. Weisenberg bought the farm on which he lives, about a year ago, he was engaged in business in the city, but liking the country sunshine and the fresh, pure air, he decided to leave the city, and is now a prosperous and contented farmer in a community where he and his family like all their neighbors, who, in turn are delighted at having Mr. Weisenberg and family as dwellers among them.

President Helps Orphans.

Hundreds of orphans have been helped by the President of the Industrial and Orphan's Home at Macon, Ga., who writes: "We have used Electric Kidney Pills in this institution for nine years. It has proved a most excellent medicine for Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. We regard it as one of the best medicines on earth." It invigorates all vital organs, purifies the blood, aids digestion, creates appetite. To strengthen and build up pale, feeble, weak children or rundown thin, it has no equal. Best for all ages.

A Turkey Pool Was a Success.

It seems that all the turkey pools formed by Kentucky women during the season just closed the one conducted by the women of Harrison county was the largest and most successful. In all there were 12,000 turkeys in the pool and the organization was carried on with the greatest efficiency. That little was known of the movement until it had been perfected. Then the buyers were invited to Cincinnati, where the bidding took place. The birds went to a Louisville dealer, his price being 18 cents per pound alive. The whole amount paid over was $21,600 and the price the highest of the season.

Will Share in Big Money.

Kentucky may share in the $12,000,000 which the State of Virginia is claiming from the national government for portion in the vast territory ceded by Virginia out of which the States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and portions of Minnesota were carved. Gov. Wilson started the country by sending in a special message to the Virginia General Assembly setting forth the old dominion's claim on the ground that the government had expressly violated conditions under which Virginia ceded the territory. Kentucky was a part of Virginia at that time, as was also West Virginia, it is figured that each of these States would come in for about one tenth of the sum due the mother State. This would make Kentucky's share $2,000,000.

Carroll for Rouse, so Says the News.

Arthur B. Rouse, of Boone county, was in Louisville last week and told his friends that he had made up his mind to enter the race for Congress in this district. Mr. Rouse will probably be the only candidate from the country district as we know of no one from Carroll who anticipates entering the race, and Mr. Rouse numbers among his warmest friends in the district some of the boys from Carroll who "do things." One of the animals brought $3,200, while several others brought over $1,000. The proceeds were handed over by John P. Duncan, son of J. W. Duncan, of Burlington.

Took All His Money.

Often all a man earns goes to doctors or to medicines to cure a Stomach, Liver or Kidney trouble that Dr. King's New Life Pills would quickly cure at slight cost. See for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Constipation, Jaundice, Malaria and Debility. 25c at Bentler's drug store, Erlanger.

The Old Reliable Stable is again ready to accept horses.

Sandford Sisters, End Ft. Mitchell Car Line.

The Frankfort correspondent of the Courier-Journal has this to say to the sentiment for good roads: "Kentucky just now is much interested in the question of good roads, and there seems to be a general sentiment all over the state for better thoroughfares. The recent campaign for the passage of the amendment to the Constitution having stimulated interest and spread information. Until that campaign many persons in the State did not realize what good roads meant and how very important the subject was. Now there is an awakening and when the Legislature passes three bills relating to good roads, Kentucky will have taken a long step forward. Every class is joining the good roads movement. The ministers want good roads, the attendance at church will be better when the country people are able to reach town over good roads and therefore more quickly. Those interested in the cause of education want good roads for it means more children in the schools of the state. The roads have been largely responsible for illiteracy in Kentucky, there being thousands of children unable to attend school on account of poor roads and lack of roads."

Farmers Buying Autos.

We are told by dealers that more auto sales are now being made to people living on farms than to any other class, and that farmers west of the Mississippi river last year bought more autos than all other classes. Millions of dollars worth of auto orders are now on the books of the manufacturers to be filled as soon as possible.

I believe the above is authentic. We have heard from good authority that one third of the farmers around certain small villages in Illinois own automobiles. At a recent short course in agriculture at one of our western states a farmer who attended came many miles in a large closed car, as handsome and elaborate as any we see in the cities. The farmers want the best if they are able to pay for them and many of them are—Indiana Farmer.

A New Business in Christian County.

Down in Christian county a pair of two negroes have been arrested for working a slick and profitable scheme. For the past several months the stealing of valuable dogs was almost a weekly occurrence and the disappearance of the canines was a source of worry to the owner. When an advertisement appeared in the local paper offering a reward for the dogs were invariably returned, and it was finally noticed that two negroes happened to drop in and see the medicine aroused and a little detective work disclosed the fact that the two negroes and a white man were engaged in the traffic and had made a neat sum in gathering in the rewards offered.—Blue Grass Clipper.

Saved From Awful Peril.

"I never felt so near my grave," writes Lewis Chamblin, of Manchester, Ohio, R. R. No. 3, "as when a frightful cough and lung trouble pulled me down to 115 pounds in spite of many remedies and the best doctors. And that I am alive today is due solely to Dr. King's New Discovery, which cured me of my trouble. Now I weigh 160 pounds and can work hard. It also cured my four children of croup. Infallible for Coughs and Colds. It's the most certain remedy for Croup, Asthma, desperate lung trouble and all bronchial affections, 50c and $1.00. A trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Bentler's drug store, Erlanger."

They Want Marshall for President.

Governor Thomas R. Marshall was twice nominated for the presidency by the voters of Kentucky last week, at Ft. Wayne by E. G. Hoffman at the banquet of the Jefferson club and at Indianapolis by E. D. Haimbaugh, master at the Democratic Editorial banquet. Mr. Marshall is not an avowed candidate for the presidency being content with the office of governor and looking upon filling it well.—Lawrenceburg Register.

Farmers Hustling.

Farmers are beginning to think about their spring work now and already preparations are being made so as to be ready when the weather permits. Plant bed making and plowing will be about the first work done. Some plant beds were burned last fall, but the majority of them will be prepared this spring. Indications point to a very big crop of tobacco this year. It will not be long until things on the farm will assume a two-fold gait, and the farmer will be a busy man in the country.—Blue-Grass Clipper.

Brought Good Prices.

At the mid winter horse auction at Madison Square Garden, New York, the Walnut-Hall stock, being the best average of the sale. One of the animals brought $3,200, while several others brought over $1,000. The proceeds were handed over by John P. Duncan, son of J. W. Duncan, of Burlington.

Mr. Fink is just completing a $500 contract of painting for one of the principal Baptist churches at Cincinnati, and for his neat and artistic workmanship has received a number of nice compliments.

The heavy snow fall of last Friday, reaching a depth of about 18 inches, was a great impediment to travel. In Walton, clever Geo. W. Maines, the saw mill man, cleared the walks with an improvised snow plow drawn by a horse early Saturday morning before any travel had begun, and a grateful public expressed their appreciation of Mr. Maines' generosity and voluntary act that rendered travel very easy on the heavy snow burdened streets.

The debating session of the Walton High School, last Friday afternoon, was largely attended. The subject "Resolved, That a Territory should be set apart for the neoprene of the United States" was very fully discussed and decided in the affirmative, in favor of the Ciceronians, represented by Stanley Harvey, Misses Anna Gaines, Sallie Vest and Clifton Mayhugh. The Demosthenians were represented by Miss Anna Haley, Beulah Rusk, Jane Dicke and Harvey Whitson.

Wm. Brittenheim and Ralph Edwards, two of our popular young men, are enjoying the winter months in Florida, and spent the past week in Cuba, most of the time at Havana, the capital of the island. Both young gentlemen remember the many friends of many souvenir postal cards illustrative of the beautiful scenery of that quarter. Their inability to speak Spanish, however, has been a source of pleasure they would have enjoyed. The boys expect to remain in Cuba another week.

While at Havana, one day last week, and fell in O. K. Whitson's store, bruising his face considerably. He remained unconscious for some time, but was finally resuscitated by Drs. McCormack and Fennell. Mr. Wilson is unable to account for the sudden illness, but it must have been a sudden attack of vertigo. He is much better now and has about recovered from the shock. Walter is one of the best young men in this quarter and has many friends who are glad that no serious consequences attended his illness.

For several weeks parties have been endeavoring to work up a creamery for this locality, but with little success. They are meeting the Recorder has no information.

Jesse Kelly, of Clarksburg, and A. A. Noman, of Union, and ex-deputy sheriff W. D. Cropper, were among the Recorder's Monday callers.

Notwithstanding the bad weather that has prevailed much of the time this winter the local merchants have been doing a good business.

If the thaw-out is accompanied by rain up in the mountains, the probability is there will be a flood in the Ohio river again this spring.

Daylight is getting here earlier in the morning and staying later in the afternoon than it did a few weeks ago.

Miss Jennie Lee Castleman went to Latonia, last Friday, to spend several days visiting with relatives.

Dogs made a raid on T. J. Walton's sheep in the barn one morning last week, injuring two badly.

OBITUARY.

MRS. AGNES CALVERT GRANT.
Born December 27, 1837; died January 15th, 1910.

The first sentence in this sketch tells very briefly the story of a human life. The full record of her life and its influence upon the world can never be known this side of Eternity.

The subject of this sketch was the daughter of Samuel Calvert, born in Rising Sun, Indiana, moved to Kentucky early in life. November 4th, 1858, was married to Nathan W. Allen. To this union four children were born, three of whom yet survive—Mrs. W. W. Botts, Mrs. Jas. M. Thompson, and Miss Lou W. Allen. Several years ago her husband preceded her to the "better land." About 1888 she united with the Methodist church at East Bend, Ky.; later on she moved her membership to the Petersburg church, of which she was a most faithful and loyal member up to the time of her sickness and death. March 18th, 1884, she was married to Dr. Ernest L. Grant, who also has gone on before. She was a charter member, and later on was made a life member of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, and Corresponding Secretary of this auxiliary. She was also a member of the Ladies' Aid Society, and a most ardent worker.

She was most faithfully committed unto all the activities of the church, at all times, where ever she was needed. Her piety, her ripe judgment and wise counsel, her life of many years of experience, will be sadly missed. Therefore be it resolved, That the church with all her activities has lost a most valuable member, and the community a large most valuable friend.

Second—That the family has lost a loving mother, and a safe and faithful adviser, and the committee of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, who have tended the heart felt sympathy of the Society to the bereaved.

Third—That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, to the Missionary Advocate, and to the Central Methodist Advocate for publication, and a copy be spread upon the minutes of the Society to the bereaved.

We bow our heads in humble submission to the divine will. Committee—S. J. Bradley, Mrs. Myrtle Crouch, Mrs. Anna E. Snyder.

Want State Game Commission.

All the sportsmen of the State are said to be behind Senator Claude M. Thomas, who introduced a bill in the Senate creating a State Game and Fish Commission providing for a rigid enforcement of the game laws. Should the act become a law, both residents and non residents of Kentucky will be forced to take out license to hunt in this State. The bill also makes provision for a State Game and Fish Warden, who will have a deputy in each county. The bill fixes heavy penalties for violations. The advocates of a more stringent law for the protection of game and fish in Kentucky, declare that such a statute rigidly enforced is absolutely necessary to prevent game from becoming extinct.

Going On Crutches.

Kirk Tanner was put on crutches one day last week, by an operation which removed from one of his feet an unsightly growth that was beginning to give him considerable trouble. It had been increasing in size for some time, and had reached such proportions as to annoy him very much when he stepped on a rock or a shoe. Dr. Fennell performed the operation.

Albert Conner, who is handling the pooled tobacco at Burlington, requests the Recorder to state that the cost of handling pooled tobacco at Burlington is exactly the same as at other points in the county, and that the tobacco is insured when in the warehouse.

Won't Need a Crutch.

When Editor J. P. Sossman, of Cornelia, N. C., bruised his leg badly, it started an ugly sore. Many salves and ointments proved worthless. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve healed it thoroughly. Nothing so prompt and sure for Ulcers, Boils, Burns, Eczema, Cuts, Corns, Sores, Pimples, Eczema, or Piles. 25c at Bentler's drug store, Erlanger.

Resolution of Respect.

From Evergreen Rebekah Lodge No. 24, I. O. O. F. Whereas, the Supreme Ruler of the Universe, in His infinite wisdom, has removed from our order, and from the home and family our beloved brother, Thomas Wingate, an honored and respected citizen of Newport, Ky.

Resolved, That in the death of brother Wingate, who departed this life January 30th, 1910, age 57 years, we realize that we have lost a highly respected member, his family a kind and devoted husband and father, and to them the members of this lodge extend their deepest sympathies in their loss, and commend them to God, who doeth all things well.

Resolved, That a copy of this be sent to the bereaved family, a copy sent to the Boone County Recorder for publication, and a copy be spread upon the minutes of our lodge.

Committee, Emma Perkins, Sophia Clor, Stella Ryle.

Dissolution Notice.

Notice is hereby given that on the 15th day of Jan., 1910, the firm of Kelly & Roberts was dissolved. C. C. Roberts retiring from the firm. The business will be continued by Mr. E. E. Kelly, who has purchased the interest of C. C. Roberts. Parties indebted to firm of Kelly & Roberts, at their earliest convenience will please settle same with either member of the old firm.

Burlington, Jan. 17th, 1910. C. C. Roberts, E. E. Kelly.

NO. 19.

LATEST WEEKLY NEWS

There was quite a crowd in the afternoon, and instead of the target shoot that was scheduled for that time, nearly everybody took part in a football battle, and the white missiles flew thick and fast for an hour or so. The only way in which a man could appear on the street in any kind of safety was with a lady to escort him.

Lawrence Phipps, the accommodating driver of the Burlington and Brainerd bus, has been suffering of grip the past week. His work this winter has been rougher than that of any other driver since the Burlington and Brainerd mail line was established. He has had very few trips that were comfortable, so bad has been the weather.

No rural mail went out on the routes supplied by Burlington office last Friday and Saturday. The roads were reported in such bad condition on account of numerous snow drifts that the carriers were unable to get out until Monday, when they had a large quantity of mail matter to distribute.

The numerous heavy snows this winter have been very hard on the quail and other birds, and they have been upon the verge of starvation two or three times, and in many instances farmers have scattered small grain on the snow in order to assist them thru their trouble.

Atty. Joel C. Clore arrived home a few days ago from his trip around the world, which required four months. He enjoyed every minute of the time and saw all that was to be seen, and can give an account of his journey in a most interesting manner.

Crash after crash was heard in Burlington last Sunday as large areas of the heavy ice and snow slid from metal roofs, of which there is a large number in town. Fortunately no one was caught by any of these miniature avalanches.

W. J. Rice moved his telephone one day last week and got it adjusted. It would talk but one way. He sought information of N. B. Riddell as to how to remedy the trouble and soon had the phone restored to its normal condition.

Supt. Riley's school notes are proving of considerable interest to the people of the county, and are interesting in educational affairs. He has the faculty of putting his ideas in print in a concise matter that is easily understood.

Mrs. Dudley Rouse has two lemons on which three lemons have matured this winter, one of them a very fine specimen of that fruit, being as large and perfect as they are grown in this climate.

Rural route No. 3 from Burlington missed the mails last week, and the like may not happen again in years. It could not be helped all know who know the carrier.

Irvin Rus will move to James E. Smith's farm shortly to raise a crop of tobacco this year. He will occupy the house in which Mr. Smith's father lived so long.

This has been a bad winter for children in the county, especially where they had any distance to travel to get to the school house.

H. VonLshmen, the popular carriage manufacturer, has a new advertisement in this issue, to which your attention is called.

J. P. Duncan has returned to Walnut Hill Stock Farm, where he has been employed for another year as manager. Good luck to him.

Mrs. Jemima Conner has been very ill for several days. She lives with her granddaughter, Mrs. R. B. Carver, near town.

It begins to look like the Big Bone & Covington Fraction Company is about ready to begin talking about breaking dirt.

The growing small grain was not effected by the zero weather of last week, being so well protected by the deep snow.

John Clore, of Hebron, came over last Saturday in his double seated sleigh equipped with all the necessary comforts.

Mrs. J. G. Furbish, of Covington, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Revell.

AFTER MANY YEARS Visits the Scenes of His Childhood An Old Citizen of Former Years to Be Brought Back and Buried By the Side of Her

Gaines Sherrill, who was a citizen of Burlington from his birth to 1866, was in Burlington, last Friday, his first visit to his native town in many years. He was on his way from Mt. Sterling to his home in Chicago, where he had been to visit his aged mother, to spend a few days before at the home of his daughter, Anna, Eliza Waller, in Mt. Sterling. The remains will be brought to Burlington some time next month for interment in the Sherrill family lot in the old cemetery. The first man Mr. Sherrill met in Burlington, last Friday, was one who has grown up along with him in town, and it seemed strange to Mr. Sherrill that he had no knowledge of many of the old persons of the town, and that many of the old landmarks of the old landmarks were known to Mr. Sherrill by names entirely new to the young man. Mr. Sherrill's only call in Burlington, Friday, was on Mrs. Anna Kirkpatrick, an associate of his in younger days.

By Wireless from Florida. In wireless message from L. S. Beemon, at Ft. Myers, Fla., February 16, he says: "M. T. Garretts, W. T. Davis and I are taking in this beautiful place. The docks extend from 300 to 400 yards out in the river, and are visited by all kinds of craft. This is the prettiest town I have seen in this State. All the tropical fruits and vegetables abound here. We visited the place of Edison, the electrician, the handsomest to be seen almost worthless land, very poor. We will return to Bartow today, and tomorrow we are scheduled to go to Tampa, to inspect the air ships on exhibition there, and feast on fish and oysters. Warm and pleasant; health good."

Still Filling Suits. In which case is still filling suits in the Boone circuit court for the Burley Tobacco Society against persons who pooled their tobacco and have sold to outside buyers. He has filed about twenty actions of that character in the last five or six weeks, and Circuit Clerk J. A. Duncan's docket for the past few weeks has been growing as he has never before seen it grow. It is an ill wind, you know that blows nobody good.

Big Crop, Good Price. Ira Adams, of Sherman, Grant county, delivered 40,000 pounds of tobacco to a Falmouth, Pendleton county, buyer at fifteen and three-fourths cents a pound, realizing the neat sum of $3,300 therefor. Mr. Adams is only one of the several Boone county boys, who are doing things at their new home which they have sought out in the world.

Won't Need a Crutch. When Editor J. P. Sosman, of Cornelia, N. C., bruised his leg badly, it started an ugly sore. Many salves and ointments provided for the purpose failed, but Cornelia Salve healed it thoroughly. Nothing so prompt and sure for Ulcers, Boils, Burns, Bruises, Cuts, Colds, Throats, Eczema or Piles. 35c at Bentler's drug store, Erlanger.

Varied Considerably. Thermometers heard from in different localities in the county, last Saturday morning, varied considerably in their register of the temperature, ranging from zero to twelve below, which indicates that the cold wave was more intense in some spots than it was in others in the same neighborhood.

Another Dr. Cook. A scientist has discovered that potatoes are a dangerous article of food and urges that they be cut out as a culinary supply. It has taken a long time to discover that one of man's supposed best friends is his deadly foe and it will be another long time to convince people that such is a fact.

Took All His Money. Often all a man earns goes to doctors or for medicines, to cure a Stomach, Liver or Kidney trouble that Dr. King's New Life Pills would quickly cure at slight cost. Best for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Bloating, Constipation, Jaundice, Malaria and Debility. 35c at Bentler's drug store, Erlanger.

Sheep Fund Received. County Clerk J. H. Rogers has received a draft from the State Treasurer for the amount of the fund for Boone county, something over $600, and is ready to pay it to those whose claims for sheep killed by dogs that have been allowed against that fund.

Read "Little Brown Jug." The Little Brown Jug, a very interesting cereal, began in last week's issue of the Recorder. It is from the pen of one of the most popular authors in this country. Try an installment of it.

Old SOL took a few preps at the earth yesterday, something it has not been doing very often for the past several weeks.

MRS. SALLIE GORDON

Passes Away at the Home of Her Daughter in Eminence, Henry County, Aged Seventy-Nine.

(Henry County News) Mrs. Sallie Gordon died Wednesday morning at 5:30 o'clock at her home with Dr. J. W. Jett on North Main street from heart trouble, a malady she had been suffering with for several months. Mrs. Gordon was not taken seriously ill until last Wednesday evening and she grew steadily worse until death ensued. Mrs. Sallie Gordon was the widow of Mr. F. L. Gordon who preceded her into the great beyond about eight years ago. She was born in 1841 and would have been seventy-nine years old next May. For the last sixty years she has been a consistent member of the Christian Church and was noted for her many good deeds and charity to the poor. No outcast of humanity ever appealed to her in vain and many were the blessings heaped upon her by those she had benefitted. Her life was a model one in every particular. Her death was an inspiration to every Christian who is struggling to do the Master's bidding. The last words that ever came from her mortal lips were the clear and distinct sentences of the Lord's prayer which she uttered in the beautiful Christian faith that characterized her life.

Originally her home was at Hebron, Boone county, but she moved to her home with her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Jett for the last seven years. She is survived by six children—they are H. B. Gordon, Fern Bank, O. Mrs. Sallie Southern Hebron, Ky., Geo. Gordon, Hebron, Ky., Mrs. J. W. Jett, Miss Fannie Gordon and Prof. J. C. Gordon, of this place.

FRANCISVILLE. Last Saturday morning was the coldest of the winter. Miss Ada Seothorn is visiting her sister, Mrs. Clint Riddell, in Hamilton, Ohio. C. W. McFee will move to Latonia and take charge of Cincinnati Gun Club. The acceptable snow for many years fell here last Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday night. Two of Miss Sadie Reiman's brothers, Rising Sun, were her guests last Saturday and Sunday.

Wm. Reiman and wife entertained their brother and wife, of Cincinnati, Saturday night and Sunday. Mrs. Alice Rouse, who has been visiting her son, Eric, of Hopeful neighborhood for two months has returned. Manlius Goodridge and wife entertained Ed Brown and wife, Harlan, of Rising Sun, and Frank Aylor and wife, last Sunday.

AURORA FERRY. I have changed my residence and vocation, but I will try to give you news from a new location. Mrs. Mary Kiopp has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Lizzie Wingate, of Newport, and is at her son John's home. William Rice, of Manchester, O., crossed here yesterday enroute to G. T. Rue's and to visit his brothers and sisters in that neighborhood.

The river is rising with considerable ice in it, but a few more days like this will clear it out. Mrs. Clore has moved up over the phone for I like to hear from you often. Here is my ring long three throats and one long.

We moved here last Friday by the assistance of Ezra Aylor, O. N. Scott, E. L. Grant, W. S. Huey, Richard Lacy, Vester Fleck, and Albert Clore, who, with teams transferred us. When we arrived the house was surrounded by neighbors, and every article of furniture was soon put in place. We desire to assure all that we appreciated their kindness, and hope to be able to render them some favor in the future.

Unless it is killed later on there will be plenty of fruit in the Recorder's forecast. But boraean to a great deal to the fruit in the next few weeks if he gets a chance at it. So far the sleets have saved it.

Albert Conner, receiver of the pooled tobacco at the Burlington warehouse, requests the Recorder to say for him that he will not be able to receive any more tobacco until yesterday to rent the Hiram Long barn.

Col. G. W. Sandford, of Twin Oak Tree Fruit Farm, was in town one week, soliciting stock for the purpose of organizing a gigantic company for the purpose of embarking in an immense enterprise, where the funeral services were conducted by pastor H. B. Hensley. The relatives of the deceased wish to extend a word of thanks to the citizens of Bellevue for their kind sympathy and acts of kindness during the trying hours of interment.

All the farmers can do now is get ready for their spring work which will be along about the usual time.

GENERAL NEWS.

Six men were killed and ten others who are missing, are believed to have met instant death as a result of an explosion which occurred in the Trojan Powder works at Roberts Landing near San Lorenzo, in Alameda county, Calif. Two score more were wounded, several of them, is believed, fatally.

Senator Cough's counsel, James W. Osborn, strenuously resisted the efforts of counsel for Senator Alamy and other senators in the investigation of the bribery scandal at Albany, N. Y., to get from Congress what he knew about the distribution of the $4,000 alleged to have been paid to Assemblyman Burnett to defeat highway legislation which the bridge trust opposed.

Louis R. Glavin, when cross-examined by counsel for Secretary Ballinger at the resumption of the Pinchot inquiry, admitted that no evidence of fraud in the Alaskan coal cases had been presented to the department at the time Mr. Ballinger went out of office as land commissioner, in March, 1908.

Spain's new premier, Canalejas, is opposed by friends of former President Moret, who are demanding the return of Capt. Gen. Weyler, former minister of war, to form a new cabinet.

Eleven bodies of miners were recovered from the St. Paul coal mines at Cherry, Ill. To the amazement of veteran mine inspectors, the bodies entombed since November 13, 1909, when brought to the surface, were found to be almost perfectly mummified.

Louisianians have subscribed $50,000 to the Consumers' Household Supply Company, which has been given a charter at New Orleans for the purpose of buying a farm and supplying stockholders with vegetable, dairy and other products in the hope of solving the problem of the high cost of living.

Indictments were ordered by the New York grand jury at the close of its month-long inquiry into the milk trust. The names of the indicted dealers, of the number of them, cannot be announced until the indictments have been drawn, lest the ends of justice be thwarted.

Nearly a million paraffin-coated eggs have come to New York from Europe and are selling at lower prices than American cold-storage eggs.

Robbers granted the wife of the Citizens' bank of Chateaufort as escaped with $2,000 in currency and $2,000 in jewels.

Traffic in Europe's paraffin-coated eggs, which began to arrive in New York last week, has been checked suddenly by orders from the department of agriculture.

Miss Agnes Leslie Elkins, niece of Senator Stephen B. Elkins of West Virginia, who shot herself at the Willard hotel in Kansas City, is dead. The young woman apparently was on the road to recovery when suddenly she relapsed into unconsciousness.

All of the directors of the National Packing Company, commonly called the "beef trust," with one exception were indicted by the grand jury of Hudson county, N. J., sitting at Jersey City, on the charge of conspiracy. The indictment charges that the defendants conspired to raise the price of foodstuffs by putting them in cold storage and releasing them from time to time.

Another tong plot, according to the New York police, is responsible for the murder of Sam Wah, a Chinese laundryman, who died in the Harlem hospital.

With three companies of National Guards on the scene, the personal charge of Adj. Gen. Dickson, the riot situation resulting from a mob attempt to break into the county jail at Cairo, Ill., and Lynch a negro charged with picking women's pockets, is well in hand. The negro, John Pratt, who was the cause of the trouble, pleaded guilty on two counts for robbery and was sentenced to the penitentiary at hard labor for an indeterminate sentence not to exceed 14 years under each count, the second term to begin at the expiration of the first.

One man is dead and four others are wounded as the result of a mob attempting to break into the county jail at Cairo, Ill., with the avowed intention of lynching John Trapp and Lincoln Wilson, two colored boys charged with picking the pockets of two women. On request of the sheriff, Gen. Densen ordered Company K of the Fourth Infantry to Cairo to place themselves at the disposal of Sheriff Nellis and also ordered a company at Effingham to proceed to that city at once.

The Root amendment to the postal savings bank bill is to be abandoned, and in its original form the measure will pass the senate within the next few days. It was decided at a White House conference that the amendment should not be passed.

How often do you eat this food? A short time ago there appeared in the columns of one of the prominent newspapers an article on building brain and muscle by the proper selection of the foods you eat.

A good many people were surprised to find oatmeal placed at the top of the list of foods recommended; but if the article had appeared in an English or Scotch paper every reader would have expected to see first place given to good oatmeal.

As a matter of fact Great Britain and Europe come to us for tremendous quantities of Quaker Oats because it represents to them perfect food, being not only in flavor and best in cleanliness and purity, of all oatmeals.

Americans should eat more Quaker Oats; the results would soon show themselves in improved conditions of health and strength.

THE STORY OF THE PEANUT SHELLS.

As everyone knows, C. W. Post of Battle Creek, Michigan, is not only a maker of breakfast foods, but he is a strong individual who believes that the trades-unions are a menace to the liberty of the country.

Being a trades-union being a "natural-born" scrapper for the right, as he sees it, Post, for several years past has been engaged in a ceaseless warfare against "The Labor Trust," as he likes to call it.

Not being able to secure free and untrammelled expression of his opinions on this subject through the regular reading pages of the newspapers he has bought advertising space for this purpose, just as he is accustomed to for the telling of his Postum "story," and he has thus spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in denouncing trades-unionism.

As a result of Post's activities the people now know a whole lot about these organizations: how they are honeycombed with graft, how they obstruct the development of legitimate business, curtail labor's output, hold up manufacturers, graft upon their own members in an enormous way. Naturally Post is hated by the trades-unions, and intensely.

He employs no union labor, so they can not call out his men, and he defies their efforts at boycotting his products. The latest means of "getting" Post is the widest circulation of the story that a car which was recently wrecked in transmission was found to be loaded with empty peanut shells, which were being shipped from the south to Post's establishment at Battle Creek.

This canard probably originated with President John Fitzgerald of the Chicago Federation of Labor, who it is said, stated it publicly, as truth.

Post comes back and gives Fitzgerald the lie direct. He denounces Fitzgerald's statement as a deliberate falsehood, an underhanded and cowardly attempt to injure his business, having no other weapon but the public. As such an effort it must be regarded. It is significant that this statement about "the peanut shells" is being given wide newspaper publicity. In the "patent inside" of an eastern country paper I find it, and the inference naturally is that the labor unions are insidiously spreading this lie.

An institution (or a man) which will resort to moral intimidation and to physical force, that will destroy machinery and burn buildings; that will maintain and kill if necessary to effect its ends, naturally would not hesitate to spread falsehood for the same purposes.

We admire Post. While we have no enmity toward labor unions, so long as they are conducted in an honest, "live-and-let-live" kind of a way, we have had enough of the tarred end of the stick to sympathize with the man who is trying to do it. He deserves support. A man like Post can not be killed, even with lies. They are a boomerang, every time. Again, we know, for hasn't this weapon, every weapon that could be thought of, been used (and not simply by labor unions) to put us out of business, too?

I am going to drink two cups of Postum every morning from this time on, and put myself on a diet of Grape-Nuts. Bully for Post!—Editorial in The American Journal of Optimal Medicine.

Boone County Recorder,
BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.

The Big Bone and Covington Traction Road Co. seem to have come to an understanding as to the franchises to be granted the Traction Co. over certain Covington streets.

Fifty or sixty per cent. of the retail trade of the country is affected by means of checks and other credit instruments. Over 90 per cent. of the wholesale trade is done with credit instruments.

Live-stock receipts for the year 1929 at seven leading interior markets of the United States, were the lowest since 1904. Reports to the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor indicate.

It is claimed by some that to be profitable a traction boom must traverse a territory that has 5,000 citizens to the mile. Don't believe any such thing. It is true, the traction roads that operate in the central part of this state will soon be out of business.

The turnpikes in Nicholas, Bath and other counties have been allowed to go down until they are now about as bad as some of the roads. A report from Sharpburg, says it takes three or four mules to haul the loads now that two formerly did, and much more time is required.

A great many R-Republican papers are reminding President Taft of his utterances in regard to the revision of the tariff while he was a candidate and contrasting them with what he has been saying on the same subject since his election. They say he deceived them as to his position relative to the tariff.

The postoffice department has promulgated an order prohibiting rural route carriers from taking guns with them when on their route, for the purpose of killing game of any kind. Don't suppose that any of the carriers in this country have been carrying the mail and hunting rabbits or other game at the same time.

From what little information that has been obtained at this office it appears that a very large per cent of Boone county's wool crop for this year will be spoiled. The wool growers understand that the pool card manipulated very easy and at almost a nominal expense, and many of them are anxious to give it a trial. At the same time they will get several cents more a pound for their wool in a pool than can be realized by individual sales.

A bill increasing the salary of Circuit Judges $1,200 a year has been passed by the legislature and will become a law unless the Governor vetoes it. The bill will do away with the appointment of special judges by the Governor as all cases in the State will have to be heard by judges who hold commissions, their being sent to localities where a local preside. It is claimed that the amount paid to special judges each year will at least pay the increase in salaries to the regular judges.

The mad rush to get favored bills through the Kentucky legislature now is on. The daily grind of the two houses is advancing slowly those measures which happen to be favorably located on the calendar. But this progress seems painfully slow to those who are watching with feverish interest every move on the legislative checkerboard. In the whirlpool which toward the last will engulf the 700 measures after the two committees on rules take charge, it is hard to say which of them will ever again see the light of day.

The Louisville ripper bill passed by the lower house of the General Assembly is the result of politics run mad, and the manner by which it was passed was shameful—so disgraceful that it has been found who is willing to assume responsibility for it. It is being pushed through. Ripper bills, such as that suggested through the house, are good for nothing but putting Kentucky in the Republican column for keeps. There is no longer any denying that Kentucky politics are the worst ever, with no prospect of any improvement.

The College of Agriculture, of the State University at Lexington will hold a Boys' Corn School beginning Tuesday, March 1, and continue three days. This school should be largely attended as its object is to promote interest in improved methods of corn culture. The prospectus announces that the word "boy" will be interpreted to mean any one young enough in spirit to desire to learn. Limited to boys, but will be open to the attention of older persons. There will be no charge whatever for the school, and board may be arranged for at reasonable rates.

By calling for bank statements at irregular intervals Secretary of State Bruner has caught on to the tricks of some of the banks that have prompted him to ask the legislature to pass a law providing for a State Bank Inspector. Under the present law a bank can promulgate a law that an examiner to overlook the books, occasionally, such a thing would be very risky business. A large majority of the banks in the State have expressed themselves in favor of having a State Bank Inspector, consequently the enactment of a law so providing are not regarded by many as prepared to for the benefit and better protection of the public.

The partial success of the tobacco pool and that of wool and other crops by the growing years of Kentucky has opened the eyes of our industrious and intelligent husbandmen to the fact that greater achievements lie before them, the one thing needed being a harmonious just and equitable unity of forces to guide and direct the business of the State.

The Farmers Edition of the Lexington Herald, in discussing this activity amongst the farming contingent.

Central Kentucky farmers have turned attention chiefly, of late, to the question of pooling crops. The success of the tobacco pool has encouraged more to take interest in other pools and the next few weeks will in all probability see most of the hemp and the heavy owing of the wool pooled. Senator J. W. Newman, of Versailles, has taken an active interest in these pools and has visited nearly every county in this section of the State in the interest of pooling. Being a farmer himself, he endeavored to bring his brother farmers around to his way of thinking and has in most cases succeeded.

Kentucky produces about four million pounds of wool annually. Kentucky raises the bulk of the hemp grown in this state. The 1910 hemp crop will not be very heavy owing to the recent depreciation in prices, but those who do raise hemp want a reasonable price for their product.

Profit is apparently going to be the slogan of the Kentucky farmer for the future, and if the pooling movement must be adopted to bring this about that method will be adopted.

Tobacco raisers are hoping that the tobacco crop this year will not be ruined by a freeze, for, naturally, they want to see, for good prices next fall as possible, and do not want to see the thing they have been raising for years be raised in Kentucky this year, however, is a foregone conclusion.

Archbishops are optimistic about a good fruit yield this year, and do not believe that the frost will catch many of the tender buds. Smudge-burning will be indulged in by few, if the weather continues cold and there will be spraying and more general care of the orchards than ever before.

Land prices where land is good have kept up in Central Kentucky and while there have been a few farmers who have preferred to desert their "Old Kentucky" for the far west, the northwest, Texas and Canada, this exodus has been really slight when compared to other States.

A great deal of pooled tobacco of the 1903 crop has changed hands, going from the grower to the pool. The pool, the buyers expecting to reap their profit at the final sale of pooled crop. Some of this tobacco has been bought by the 7 and 8 cents, and as high as 10 and 12 cents per pound. Evidently the speculators who bought this tobacco have unquestionably raised its price in its ultimate sale at the pool. In that event, they will reap a substantial profit. It will be recalled that the great quantities of the pooled tobacco of the 1906 and 1907 crops changed hands in a similar manner, and several hands. Some of the tobacco was sold to speculators in the end. Whether or not history will repeat itself, no one can say. While at the low prices at which some of this tobacco has been bought, it is a comparatively safe proposition, no matter what break comes; still, if the market slumps badly in the face of untoward conditions, later on, the man who has paid 10 or 12 cents for tobacco and then has to bear the expense of its being rehandled, will be very well to come.

The effort on the part of some of the members of the legislature to have the State auditors' agents is a serious mistake, proven such by statistics presented by those members who are opposed to it. Those who want to do away with auditors' agents recognize the necessity for such an officer is proven by their desire to have the appointment of such an officer vested in some county official, in which case very little will hereafter be done except the line of work now executed by the auditors' agents, as it would be only occasional, as a local man will be willing to assume the responsibility of his office where his own will be confined to noising into the ears of his neighbors. As the law now stands, a local agent can be obtained to do the work, and when he can have a stranger behind whom he can dodge the action of some neighborly legislator which auditor's agents are in force for years, it has proven its efficacy and the legislature will well to let it remain as it found it.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.
(Furnished by Supt. Riley.)
Of the 35,000 trustees under the old three trustee system in Kentucky 5,000 of them could not read and write, 15,000 of them were actually interested in education. According to the last federal census, on the basis of the number of illiterate white voters, only three states have a higher per cent than Kentucky, North Carolina, Louisiana and New Mexico. There are more native white people in the Blue Grass of Kentucky, who can not read and write than in the State of Maine and Massachusetts combined.

In many of our sister States the rural teachers give experiments in testing seed corn, drawing plans for barns, growing flowers, raising chickens, etc., on school grounds. That is the teacher who teaches only the text books will find some one else in her place unless she keeps up with the times.

All sub-district trustees who happen to be in Burlington in the near future, are requested to call on the Superintendent's office for their county blanks.

The biennial report of Superintendent Crabbe will be ready for distribution next week. These reports about being sent to trustees and in September given to the teachers for use in the schools.

Money is given frequently by friends of education for special purposes. Why not some of our friends of Boone county pupils who are in high schools or in annual prize for the best essay in our high schools, or some other medal or prize for the purpose of showing interest in education? We have several high schools in the county and in the next few years we shall have many students who will be eligible to such a contest.

The proposition to put a heating plant in the court house will be disposed of by the fiscal court at its next term. The preservation of the building and county records require that there be adopted a means of heating that will keep the building in dry and habitable order all winter, as during certain weather conditions the walls of the structure are very wet and the county books are damp, which dampness is followed by a mold that is destructive to the large volumes of valuable and important records. The entire county is interested in the proper and secure preservation of not only the building but more especially in the records contained in the several offices. The heating proposition is not a whim of anyone or more of the county offices, as has been asserted, but was suggested by the very bad condition in which the building and records are often found during the winter months, and when the people come to understand that the heating plant is necessary for the proper preservation of the county's most important property, the county house and public records, they will say put the plant in by all means. The taxpayer by all county do not mind putting up money for meritorious improvements, but they want to know for what the taxes they pay are used, and the county should be in the information in detail, as the expenditure of public money is generally regarded as furnishing more or less graft.

John S. Steers, Perry Simpson, A. C. Webb, Jerry S. Carter, Hugh Lee Conrad, Fred K. Conrad, R. Lee Conrad, John Caldwell, William Mulligan Marion Bennett and Isaac Newton Childress, all of Boone county, and who were indicted last week by a special federal grand jury in Covington, appeared in Covington, Monday, and each gave bond in the sum of $2,000 for appearance in the federal court on April 4th. The indictment charges that the above named interfered with interstate commerce by preventing one of their neighbors, name Osborn, from shipping his tobacco out of the state for the purpose of selling it. One statement in regard to the case is as follows: Osborn had started to ship his tobacco. These men incited merely urged him not to ship his tobacco fearing it might incite some of the other growers of the county to violence. Osborn sent his tobacco back home from the railroad station, and invited these men and others to his home the next day to a love feast.

The Court of Appeals in the case of Proctor and others against the Board of Education, of Christian county, held the new school law unconstitutional, and that the new law only repeals so much of the old law as is in conflict with the new law. The court said, "The act is not unconstitutional in that it requires the fiscal court to make a levy sufficient to raise the sum found necessary by the board of education." The whole case we find nothing in the act that is unconstitutional. In regard to the act, the act provides that "Within two years after the passage and approval of this act, there shall be established a county board of education one or more county high schools." The first county high school to be established in the county seat, provided there is not already existing in the county seat a high school of the required grade."

THE GOOD FEATURES OF A BANK!

No business enterprise in a community, affords more conveniences to the public than a well governed bank, as it affords a medium of exchange that no other source can equal. It gives absolute protection to the safety of money entrusted to its care. It gathers together the surplus money of a community; and gives the money the most extensive circulation through loans to individuals of property wealth who need a volume of money to transact business in the purchase of plus and are wise enough to deposit in a bank in order to its fullest value; and affords a bank additional funds whereby loans are made to traders who are thus enabled to purchase from the identical people who have their money on deposit in a bank, which otherwise they would not be enabled to do. Money hid away in the corner of a cupboard is a dead weight, for as its value is constantly decreasing, the Equitable Bank and Trust Co., Walton, Ky., want your business. We pay depositors four per cent. on money. Our Trust department qualifies as executor, administrator, guardian, etc., of your estate. The business of all collected. Try us; you will be pleased. WORST OF THE SEASON

Was the Snow Storm of Last Thursday.

Snow Drifted Badly Making Travel on Public Roads Impossible.

Rural Mail Carriers Have Terrible Time Making Their Rounds.

And After a Hard Struggle Arrive at the Burlington Postoffice Several Hours Late.

About the worst snow storm that has had this part of the country in its embrace during the last century was that which prevailed last Wednesday night and all day Thursday. For several hours Wednesday afternoon what some call "hoary snow" fell and by night a mush covered the ground to the depth of about an inch. Some time during the night a heavy rain fell and by Thursday morning it had attained a depth of eight or ten inches. The snow was increased by about fourteen inches by fall during Thursday. The wind blew a pretty stiff gale, driving the snow with such force as to make it very uncomfortable to those out, while at times a person could see only a short distance. As a result the snow drifted badly, blocking travel in some places on the public roads and giving the mail carriers considerable trouble.

On his way to Erlanger in the afternoon Lawrence Phillips drove the team attached to the mail wagon on to a pile of stone at the road side, throwing one of the horses down. He called for help, when two or three persons responded and succeeded in getting his horse up when Mr. Phillips continued his trip without further accident, although considerably behind time when he arrived at the Burlington postoffice.

William Hughes, carrier on R. D. No. 1, went out on a sled and had the worst experience of his career of several years as a sleigher, out on the near Geo. Kreylich's, out on the snow drift. He drove into a snow drift. His horse fell and he had to call for assistance to get it up and thru the drift. He reached the Burlington postoffice about two hours behind his usual time, and looked like he was direct from the north pole.

Elmer Conley, carrier on R. D. No. 2, went out in his cart, taking two days mail, for most of his route, he was unable to make his rounds the day before, and the count of high water in Gunpowder creek. He had not gone far before he found it necessary to arm himself with a heavy club with which to beat the snow off of his cart wheels so his horse could pull it. He says the club served also to keep him warm.

At M. M. Ryle's he changes horses at this season of the year, and it was well that he had a fresh horse to ride on. He would not have been able to report at the Burlington postoffice that evening, which he reached about midnight and half an hour late, almost out of his scrape, and declaring he never had a trip like it before in his life.

William Gaines, carrier on R. D. No. 3, battled with the wild elements until he reached Bullittsville. He went to the store where he was to get his mail. He reported to the Burlington office that he would like to have permission to come no further than his home which is two miles from Burlington. Appreciating the conditions, Miss Olga Kirkpatrick, postmistress, readily granted his request, and he did not complete his trip until Friday morning. He says he does not believe he could have made the trip from Bullittsville to Burlington Thursday night. He was not annoyed much with snow drifts, but the travel was slow, while the wind and snow chilled him thoroughly. At one point on the route a thoughtful patron met Mr. Gaines with a steaming cup, the contents of which he supposed was coffee until he got it to his mouth, and although a strictly temperance man Mr. Gaines appreciated his friend's kindness and drained the cup between hearty smacks of his lips.

Neither of the three rural carriers attempted to make a delivery last Friday, and would have been a very great hardship on them had they been required to go out on their routes that day.

It cleared off shortly after dark, Thursday night, and the temperature began to fall, going down to below zero Friday morning, while old Mother earth was well protected by a spotless white blanket at least fourteen inches thick.

Saved From Awful Peril. "I never felt so near my grave," writes Lewis Chamblin, of Manchester, Ohio, R. R. No. 3, "as when a bright cough and lung trouble pulled me down to the ground in spite of many remedies and the best doctors. And that I am alive today is due solely to Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. Now I weigh 160 pounds and can work hard. It also cured my four children of croup."

And Colds, it's the most certain remedy for Lagrippe, Asthma, desperate lung trouble and all bronchial affections, and $1.00. A trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Bentler's drug store, Erlanger.

The Dearborn county Indiana, farmers had to institute yesterday and the day before.

SUNSHINE EVERY DAY

Writes Mrs. B. W. Adams of Her New Home in Texas.

In a letter dated Feb. 11th, received at this office from Mrs. B. W. Adams, then at Hereford, Texas, she says:

"I like this place fine. The country is beautiful and the people are filled with hospitality. I believe I state the truth when I say they are ahead of Old Kentucky. I know you will laugh and say I am crazy, but I am not. Hereford is a beautiful town, has 4,500 inhabitants, 1,400 wind mills and 81 or more autos. There is a railroad on the south side of the town, the four mails a day and freight trains pass every hour."

It is a live town. Send your paper to Hereford until I direct otherwise, as we go there tomorrow. Both are doing well now and have had sunshine every day but one since we came here, and that was ground hog day. We dined with Mr. and B. S. Arnold, Sunday the 8th of January, and had a fine time."

Crop Prospects Good.

Prospects for an excellent crop of fruit, small grain and other products of the Blue Grass farm are said to be bright this year, and no finer prospects for fruit could be asked for. Small fruit, such as raspberries, blackberries and currants have been unhurt by the winter. A big crop will be grown this year and much attention will be paid to the breed. Owing to the dryness of the snow all grass and small grain covered has been kept warmer than usual and early crops, generally expected.—Farmers Home Journal.

President Helps Orphans.

Hundreds of orphans have been helped by the President of the Industrial and Orphan's Home at Macon, Ga., who writes: "We have used Electric Bitters in this institution for nine years. It has proved a most excellent medicine for Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. We regard it as one of the best family medicines on earth. It invigorates all vital organs, purifies the blood, aids digestion creates appetite. To strengthen and build up pale, thin children or rundown people it has no equal. Best for female complaints. Only 50c at Bentler's drug store, Erlanger."

Sale To-Morrow.

On account of the very inclement weather last Thursday, the sale advertised by W. N. Early, Trustee of Solon Early, was postponed until tomorrow, when the personal property, consisting of everything needed by an up-to-date farmer, will be sold. Remember the time, 10 o'clock, place—time—February 14th; terms may be cash or on sums over $10; place, the farm immediately above Petersburg on the river.

Another Good Citizen Gone.

John Cocoran, an estimable citizen of Bullittville neighborhood, passed away last Sunday night, heart trouble being the cause of his death. Scott Chambers, of Walton, had charge of the funeral. Another good, quiet industrious citizen has been taken from a neighborhood which has lost quite a number of that class in the last two years.

Must Be Attractive.

The county board of education should bear in mind that the high schools it establishes will be judged very largely by the quarters they provide for them. A roomy, attractive building will have taken the public will upon the educational work that is to be done therein. Be careful, don't fall down right in the start.

Applicants for positions as census enumerators were not numerous as it was at first thought they would be. In fact, some who have taken the examination are praying that they won't pass, since learning the scant remuneration the Government is offering for this class of work, the positions are not nearly so desirable as first they seemed.

The board of directors of the North Kentucky Agricultural Association will hold its first meeting for this year on April 9th, to start arrangements for the coming fair, which will be held only three days this year.

James Bullock, of Hebron, was transacting business in Burlington yesterday. Mr. Bullock has many friends in the town.

Mrs. Harriet Rice, of Idlewild neighborhood, who was quite ill last week has improved very much.

William Carpenter and wife, of Locust Grove neighborhood, were in town shopping, yesterday.

Every time the weather changes this winter it snows some more.

No rural mails out yesterday—Washington's birthday.

The meat boycott has not struck this town very hard yet.

C. Presley Adams, who fills the position of cashier at the Gibson House, Cincinnati, came home here Friday to recruit, being on the sick list, and expecting to remain a week or two.

Squire Thos. F. Curley has received his commission and is now Public from Governor Willson for another four years, and gives prompt attention to the execution of all papers pertaining to notary.

Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Hopkins, who have been visiting friends at Meridian, Miss., and other southern points, including the Mardi Gras at New Orleans, returned to their home near Walton, last week, and report a most enjoyable visit.

March 1st, J. G. Tomlin left yesterday for Vanceburg, Lewis county, to preside as special judge in several cases in the Lewis Circuit Court, under appointment from Gov. Willson, who was so pleased with Judge Tomlin as special judge in several instances that he made request that he accept this appointment. Judge Tomlin will be absent about ten days.

The postoffice at Key West, Kenton county, has been discontinued and most of the mail matter of that office will get their mail via Walton, R. D. No. 1. F. C. Johns recently resigned as postmaster at Key West, and if he else would accept the appointment as his successor, there being no remuneration in the holding of that office.

J. E. Williams, of Augusta, was here last week, and bought the farm of Jas. W. Cleek, in Verona neighborhood, to take possession March 1st. The farm contains 303 acres, and the purchase price is $15,453, being $51 per acre. The farm is said to be about the best in this locality in the production of fertility. Mr. Williams expects to reside in Walton, and place a ten-acre on the farm, giving most of his attention to the breeding of fine horses. The sale of the farm was made through W. E. Vest, the real estate agent. Mr. Cleek has offered his fine residence for sale, and if successful will invest in other property in this neighborhood expecting to consolidate his interests in one body of land.

John C. Gibbs and Miss Barbara Ransler, both of Ludlow, were united in marriage last Tuesday evening, Feb. 15th, at the residence of the brides brother, Wm. Ransler. The ceremony was performed by Rev. P. R. Duncan of Ludlow, who accompanied the couple to Walton for that purpose. Only the family and a few relatives were present.

Mr. Gibbs is a retired grocery merchant, and he is a gentleman of high standing in his community.

His son, Prof. Walter Gibbs, was at one time principal of the Walton graded school. The groom was born and reared in Boone County, near Hebron, and went to the University of Kentucky, where he was engaged in the grocery business and prospered.

The bride was born and raised in this quarter and is a lady of many estimable qualities. She is the daughter of Wm. Geo. and John Ransler, of this place, and is greatly esteemed by our people. The best wishes of a host of friends are tendered the happy couple. They returned to Ludlow, last Wednesday where they will make their home.

A. Kirkley Johnson, the clever rural mail carrier, has been compelled to remain at home the past several days on account of the illness of his wife and children, all being laid low by the cold.

J. W. White Cross has been laid up by the cold, and will not be out the next day.

The snow was two feet deep on the roads in some places where it had drifted.

A. B. Tompkins, the hustling traveling representative of the Grand Southern Company, diery and harness, Cincinnati, spent Friday and Saturday here with his family. His little daughter, Marian, being ill, has about recovered from her severe illness.

The entertainments last Friday and Saturday evenings given by the piano and expression classes at the young people's school were largely attended and the audience was rewarded with a most entertaining program of a variety that was truly enjoyable.

The young people who so nicely rendered the program met every requirement in clever acting and artistic music, and all were favored so that it would hardly be fair to single out a few for special mention, and the number is too great to give names.

One feature was quite evident that the ladies who instructed the young people were not lax in their duties, and the worst was not lost on poor material, and all of the pupils being particularly bright and intelligent showed the results of careful training.

The entertainments were among the best given in Walton for a long time, and it is to be hoped that our people will be favored with a repetition before long.

Miss Irene Hudson is the teacher in education and Miss Rose Whitson teaches the music class.

Letter From Indiana.

Alexandria, Ind., Feb. 21.

The Recorder with its many attractions and interesting features came along in this week along with the roaring wind and whirling snow, but not a word of snow or snow can make us forget it is a good thing, and the editor a gentleman. We read the Recorder from end to end and feel interested in every item of news.

For some time the traction road from Covington to Big Bone has been discussed, and here is hoping it will come in the spring and fall. Indiana is a most progressive and has nearly every steam railroad in the State paralleled with a traction road. Traction roads seem to be O. K. as money makers, population increases and causes lots of other things too numerous to mention.

No State in the union can beat Indiana for traction roads. Still, perhaps, the leader in that kind of railroad.

State owned and operated a traction road from the Ohio river to the Canadian hills. It was constructed to be heard of but not to be seen. It is the entire distance under ground. Think of it! The work traction in this lar railroad is proper since tracks were in order and all "legged" in the same direction.

Day and age the kinks have been taken out of the K. dropped, and traction is in order. The promoters, organizers, stockholders and other kinds of folks who took an interest in this remarkable railroad have to be "checked out" and it is hoped, received what is coming.

The G. G. Traction road had many peculiar features. It was double tracked, 20 feet, parallel the H. & L., carrying only one kind of passengers, "rolling stock" consisted of "Jim Crow" cars only, passenger cars met at stations with the glad hand and well filled dinner pails.

Instead of them paying to them in cash the color line was drawn so close that it was any old color so it was black. Pictures of its leading stockholders were placed in the depots. Running orders were written in the light of a dark lantern, and supposed to be of divine origin. Not so.

Hoosters are not stuck up over their not-a-days, and it is a built on the back-traction order of it. Amora, Elwood and some other localities had a hand in it. Hunted along the line of this road was good and coons were plentiful. The sons and grandsons of those who were such enthusiastic hunters along the U. G. R. in those days cannot be deterred to hunt any, notwithstanding the high prices of coon hides.

Its charms to how time lendeth its charms to how time lendeth all railroads look alike to the stockholders.

In the olden histories of Indiana no mention is made of their wonderful traction railroad. It is strange, because younger generations are dependent upon history for knowledge of such things.

Here's hoping again that Boone county may have a traction road.

Following is the exact text of Judge O'Rear's opinion delivered, deciding the Kentucky Race Commission as constitutional. It is good reading but does not bristle with principles of law.

To ascertain it, recourse may be had, indeed must be, to the constitution and past history of the people and conditions, that the court may sit in the light of the enactors of the statute in determining what was in the legislative mind. The horse has always been particularly among Caucasian people, "the friend, companion, and servant of man," and it is to be hoped that our people will be favored with a repetition before long.

Letter From Indiana.

Alexandria, Ind., Feb. 21.

The Recorder with its many attractions and interesting features came along in this week along with the roaring wind and whirling snow, but not a word of snow or snow can make us forget it is a good thing, and the editor a gentleman. We read the Recorder from end to end and feel interested in every item of news.

For some time the traction road from Covington to Big Bone has been discussed, and here is hoping it will come in the spring and fall. Indiana is a most progressive and has nearly every steam railroad in the State paralleled with a traction road. Traction roads seem to be O. K. as money makers, population increases and causes lots of other things too numerous to mention.

No State in the union can beat Indiana for traction roads. Still, perhaps, the leader in that kind of railroad.

State owned and operated a traction road from the Ohio river to the Canadian hills. It was constructed to be heard of but not to be seen. It is the entire distance under ground. Think of it! The work traction in this lar railroad is proper since tracks were in order and all "legged" in the same direction.

Day and age the kinks have been taken out of the K. dropped, and traction is in order. The promoters, organizers, stockholders and other kinds of folks who took an interest in this remarkable railroad have to be "checked out" and it is hoped, received what is coming.

The G. G. Traction road had many peculiar features. It was double tracked, 20 feet, parallel the H. & L., carrying only one kind of passengers, "rolling stock" consisted of "Jim Crow" cars only, passenger cars met at stations with the glad hand and well filled dinner pails.

Instead of them paying to them in cash the color line was drawn so close that it was any old color so it was black. Pictures of its leading stockholders were placed in the depots. Running orders were written in the light of a dark lantern, and supposed to be of divine origin. Not so.

Hoosters are not stuck up over their not-a-days, and it is a built on the back-traction order of it. Amora, Elwood and some other localities had a hand in it. Hunted along the line of this road was good and coons were plentiful. The sons and grandsons of those who were such enthusiastic hunters along the U. G. R. in those days cannot be deterred to hunt any, notwithstanding the high prices of coon hides.

Its charms to how time lendeth its charms to how time lendeth all railroads look alike to the stockholders.

In the olden histories of Indiana no mention is made of their wonderful traction railroad. It is strange, because younger generations are dependent upon history for knowledge of such things.

Here's hoping again that Boone county may have a traction road.

saddler, who gets his ride, the ease and without discomfort to horse or horseman. And so Mambrino was the progenitor of a tribe of coach horses of great excellence and value. Indeed, it would seem not to require a knowledge of the history of the breeds of horses to appreciate the fact that where grace, beauty, strength, amiability, and sagacity are to be found in a breed of horses, those qualities imparted to any other breed of horses lacking in any of them will necessarily improve the latter stock. Hence it is a legitimate field for government action to foster and promote a breed of horses whose powers and qualities are of such great value and interest to so many people.

(Pendletonian.)

The County Clerks are quite busy now, on account of the claims of parties who were drafted in this county during the Civil war.

The history of the case is this: The draft was made in Pendleton county before the apportionment was made, and that was done it developed that Pendleton county already had her quota of men in the field before the draft was made, hence the draft, so far as Pendleton county concerned, was illegal. When the fact was found out a great many of the drafted men filed their claims before the Court of Claims of the United States at Washington, D. C. and they were adjudged by that court to be just claims, and to be paid.

John G. Carlisle represented the Sixth district in Congress he introduced a bill before the house to make an appropriation to pay these claims, and said that he could have had the bills passed, but by so doing he would have had to use his influence to have the bills passed.

He passed that he did not deem to be just, rather than do that he let this bill go. Since that time the matter seemed to have lain dormant until the present session of Congress. We understand that Congressman Rhinock has a similar bill before the house now and is urging its passage. In view of that fact the heirs of many of the original claimants who are now dead, are having administrators, etc., appointed and qualified by the courts, so that if it should ever rain pan cakes their plates will be right side up to catch them.

If girls were educated to take care of themselves, they would not be so ready to marry, and they would marry better, and they would have fewer divorces. If they were brought up to work, they would know better how to use the broom, the duster and the rolling pin. There are certain qualities which are just as valuable in the housekeeper and the mother, as they are in the man, and it is intelligence and good sense. When those qualities are rated a little higher in women, domestic machinery will run a good deal smoother, and children will be brought up to fight their own battles and earn their own bread. We all know what that means—less crime, fewer paupers, the press and the loom instead of the scaffold. Again and again the question is asked, how can we follow any special calling, and be a good mother? Love is born in good sense. The woman who has those good qualities, and is a hand-worker or head-worker, it is not difference in station or occupation that makes the good mother—it is the spirit. Furthermore, some of the best mothers, according to the old standard, women who took early and late hours, never leave their homes, who deny themselves every comfort and give up every right, have the worst children. They do the hardest work, they try to teach their children from every hardship, only to learn, when it is too late, that they have made them idle and selfish.

SYNOPSIS.
Thomas Ardmore, bored millionaire, and Henry Mainwaring, Griswold, take trains out of Atlanta, Griswold to his college, Ardmore in pursuit of a girl who had winked at him two days before, as their trains stop opposite each other.

CHAPTER I.—Continued.
Prof. Griswold's eyes wandered repeatedly from his manuscript to the car ceiling, then furtively to the unconcerningly averted shoulder and head of the young lady, then back to his lecture notes, until he was weary of the process.

The alligator-hide suitcase thrust under the seat bore the familiar label "A. Sybil, Hotel where Griswold had once spent a week." "A. Sybil," the girl's acquaintance with an ampler word, when Phoebe had brought it forth the initials "B. O." in small black letters suggested Baltimore & Ohio to Griswold's lazy speculations, whereupon he reflected that while Baltimore was plausible, the black servant eliminated Ohio; and as every Virginian knows every other Virginian, he tried to identify her with Old Dominion family names beginning with O, but without result.

He went out to supper, secured the only remaining table for two, and was giving his order when the young lady appeared. She had donned her hat, and as she stood a moment in the entrance, surveying the line of tables, her distinction was undeniable. There were but two vacant places in the car; one facing Griswold, the other across the aisle at a larger table where three men were engaged in animated discussion. The girl viewed the prospect with evident disappointment as the waiter drew out the vacant chair at Griswold's table. She carried herself bravely, but there still a triste air that touched Griswold's sympathy. He rose, told the waiter that he would sit at the other table, and with a forlorn little smile as she took his seat.

The appearance of Griswold aroused the Mississippian to a renewal of the discussion of the New Orleans incident. He was in excellent humor, and had carried to the car a quart bottle, which he pushed toward Griswold. "As the governor of North Carolina said to the governor of South Carolina—" "No, thank you," and as he spoke Griswold's eyes fell upon the girl, and he saw annoyance written fleetingly on her face.

town, whose scattered houses lay darkly against the hills beyond. The platform lamps of a station shone a quarter of a mile ahead. The feverish steel yielded reluctantly to treatment, and Griswold, intent forward, he watched the men at work for a few minutes, then returned to the end of the train. He swung himself into the vestibule and leaned upon the guard rail, gazing down the track toward the brakemen. The lanterns he held were impatient at the continued delay and dropped down again, pacing back and forth in the road-bed behind the becalmed train. The night was overcast, with hints of rain in the air, and a little way from the rear lights it was pitch dark. Griswold felt sure that the train would not leave without the brakeman, and he was further reassured by the lanterns of the trainmen beside the baggage car. Suddenly, as he reached the car and turned to retrace his steps, a man sprang seemingly from nowhere, and accosted him.

"I reckon y'ure the gov'nor, ain't yu?" "Yes, certainly, my man. What can I do for you?" replied Griswold, instantly.

"I reckoned it was y'u when y'u first come out on the platform. I'm appinted to tell y'u, gov'nor, that if y'u have Bill Appleweight arrested in South Carolina, y'u'll get something one of these days y'u won't like, and y'u'll try to find me y'u'll get it quicker. Good night, gov'nor."

"Good night!" stammered Griswold. The least irony had crept into the word governor as the man uttered it and slipped away into the darkness. The shadows swallowed him up; the faint light in the ditch beside the track chanted dolorously; then the locomotive whistled for the brakeman, whose lantern was already bobbing toward the train.

As Griswold swung himself into the vestibule the girl who had borrowed his newspaper turned about and hurried toward him. "Excuse me," she said to her section. The porter, who was gathering her things together, said, as she passed in the aisle by her seat: "Beginnin' to get ready, Miss Osborne. We're gwine into Columbia 30 minutes late all account dat hot box." Griswold passed on to the smoking compartment and lit a cigar. His acquaintances of the supper table had retired, and he was glad to be alone with his thoughts before the train reached Columbia. He dealt lightly with himself, but it was clear to him now that he was either the daughter or some other near relative of Gov. Osborne. In a few minutes she would leave the train at Columbia, where the governor lived, and being a gentleman, he would continue on his way to Richmond and then to the university, and the incident would be closed. But Griswold was a lawyer, and he had an old-fashioned southern lawyer's respect for the majesty of law. On the spur of curiosity he pushed up the curtain and received a threatening message intended for the governor of South Carolina, who, from the manner of the delivery of the message, had been expected on this train. Griswold argued that the man who had spoken to him had been deceived by the stranger. He felt the least bit guilty at having deceived the man, but it was now clearly his duty to see that the governor was advised of the threat that had been communicated in so unusual a manner.

South Carolina may be relied on to act with his usual high sense of public duty in this matter."

Prof. Griswold was not pleased to learn that the governor was still absent from the capital. He felt that he deserved better luck after the trouble he had taken to warn the governor. It was now Tuesday; he had no further lectures at the university until the following Monday, and after he had taken his bearings of Columbia, where it occurred to him he had not an acquaintance, he walked toward the capital with a well-formed idea of seeing the governor's private secretary—and, if that person appeared: to be worthy of confidence, apprising him of the governor's danger.

It was not yet nine o'clock when he entered the governor's office. He waited in the reception-room, adjoining the official chamber, but the several desks of the clerical staff remained unoccupied. He chafed a bit as time passed and no one appeared, for his north-bound train left at 11, and he could not fairly be asked to waste the entire day here. He was pacing the floor, expecting one of the clerks to appear at any moment, when a man entered hurriedly, walked to the closed door, opened it impatiently, and kicked it angrily as he turned away. He was a short, thick-set man of 35, dressed in blue serge, and his movements were quick and nervous. He growled under his breath and swung round upon Griswold as though to tax him with responsibility for the closed door.

"Has no one been here this morning?" he demanded, glaring at the closed desks.

"If you don't count me I should answer no," replied Griswold quietly.

GETTING READY
"When I decided to go south for a few weeks," said pretty Miss Carew, dolefully, "I thought I was going so very inexpensively that I deserved a medal for my cleverness."

"You haven't given it up, I hope?" asked her friend. "Your cousin has planned such a gay time for you that it would be too bad not to go."

"Oh, no; I'm going," said Miss Carew. "I couldn't back out now that my cousin has laid so many plans. She has a dance arranged for the very evening of the day I arrive, so I hope my trunk won't be late. But, you see, I've come to the conclusion that the economical way to go always turns out to be the most expensive. When my cousin wrote me not to fail to come I accepted her invitation at once, because I had so very little to buy in order to go."

"You always have nice things," said her friend. "You wouldn't need a single new garment."

"That's what I thought," said Miss Carew. "I decided that a little plying out would fix me up and that's where I made my mistake. If I had started by getting a complete new outfit it would have been cheaper."

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Milch cows need plenty of fresh water.

Cut the black knots out of the plum trees. Don't forget.

The gasoline engine is helping to keep the farm on the farm.

When scouring give the pigs a good dose of common baking soda.

A poorly nourished, stunted two-year-old filly should not be bred.

An excellent feed for yearling sheep is equal parts corn, rye and buckwheat.

The first step in keeping disease away from hogs is to keep filth away from them.

A horse that is perpetually stepping around while being harnessed is only half broken.

Get the brooder to work on the broiler crop as early as possible, delay means loss.

A bark disease, imported from Japan, has killed thousands of New York chestnut trees.

Young animals require a certain amount of warmth, but this must not be at the expense of fresh air.

Never give musty feed to fowls or chicks, especially the latter. Put it in the oven and parch it before feeding.

The pullets which are poor layers in the first winter never amount to very much, and are not worth keeping over.

The popularity of the show ring is educating the masses to quality, and nothing but the best will justify the breeding enterprise.

There is no more profitable sight than a mare and foal standing in the open with their coats turned the wrong way and shivering with cold.

Are there any water sprouts on those old trees? If so, get after them. You just can't afford to have water sprouts living off of bearing trees.

If the apples in the cellar are not keeping well the trouble may be too warm a temperature. The cellar should be kept just above freezing for apples.

A place should be petitioned off from the main part of the barn, where ewes that are expected to drop their lambs may be separated from the rest of the flock.

Kindness is a good thing to mix with the ration. It may not possess much food value, but it pays every time. Don't ask the stock to live on kindness alone, though.

The old trees bearing valuable varieties of fruits are very hard to replace and it takes many years to produce a young, bearing orchard that will properly take its place.

The ordinary farm bull does not receive the care that he deserves. Remember that he is half the herd and often more, and that good care will pay, and pay well, in dollars and cents.

The man who informs himself on any line of work he is undertaking, and then gives it his strict attention in all details is the one who will always have his flag floating in the air of success.

Do not neglect work that may be done now with sleighs, such as harvesting the ice crop, getting up the summer's stock, etc. It is much easier and cheaper to do such work on runners than on wheels.

In order to secure uniformity in the fat contents of the cream skim at running the separator smoothly and at a speed as set out by the makers, the milk being separated at a temperature of 90 to 100 degrees.

It is a mistake to think that horses at light work can be kept entirely on hay. Colds also require more grain and if left to grow up on straw and hay alone they never make as good horses as do those who are better cared for.

To the man who has warm buildings and the time to look after fall pigs should keep a few old sows over, and let them raise two litters a year. The man who cannot do that would better keep to the young sows for a few years, and when his sows get smaller and fall to raise good litters, go to the other fellow and get new stock.

The well fed hog is usually contented.

Out-of-season flowers can be forced by treatment with either.

In setting out trees remember it is useless to plant dead roots.

Bran is an excellent substitute for succulence in the sow's ration.

Don't leave a horse heated by driving to stand exposed in a cold wind.

Never sell the best stock. You always need that kind in your business.

When the calf is taken from the cow he must, of course, be taught to drink.

Keep the poultry yards clean. Don't have anything about that can breed disease.

Read the nursery and seed catalogues and get in your order for trees and plants now.

The breeder of to-day who succeeds must be a breeder, a feeder and an all-around stock man.

Provide a clean, dry bed and never allow a horse to lie on bare boards or stand on wet manure.

Feed the brood sow protein feeds as much as possible, and avoid feeds rich in fat-forming elements.

One cock to ten hens is sufficient, and these should be separated until the breeding season begins.

Never allow two or more cocks to remain in the same inclosure with the hens during the winter.

Provide a plank or cement feeding floor, "the hogs' soap" it clean; it's the hogs' table, you know.

Try shoving some young sweet corn, or even field corn, for the young chicks and see how they will go for it.

Keep ground charcoal before the poultry at all times. It is good for indigestion and corrects sour crop.

Don't feed good food to poor layers, and then grumble because there is no profit in the poultry business.

If it is possible to make a good cow from a poor calf the extra cost will be more than the calf was worth at the beginning.

The loss of condition at weaning time may be greatly reduced if the pigs have been accustomed to supplementary foods.

Most of the milk used in Siam is imported in condensed form; few of the natives keeping cows or goats or using their milk.

Look the spray pump over. Get all the parts in working order during the winter so as to be ready for active work early in the spring.

If you want lambs for fattening early a thoroughbred sire of one of the coarse wool breeds used on Merino ewes will produce excellent ones.

Pumpkins will keep fine in a corner of the cellar near the furnace. If there is no furnace in the cellar a better place for them is a warm closet near the fire.

Plant fruit trees on the uncultivated spots along the fence lines and in the fields. The investment is good—adds both to beauty of farm and to the value of it.

It is the poorest sort of economy to milk a cow up to within a short time that she is due to calve. Give her 60 days' rest and she will more than make up for lost time.

The fight against mites and insect pests must be kept up till the last one has been driven out. Your birds cannot do well so long as they are afflicted with these enemies.

If you keep guineas, turkeys and chickens, build separate houses and yards for them. If you confine all three varieties in one yard during the winter it will prove disastrous.

Bees won't thrive in a cellar where there are mice or any disturbing influence. It is well to partition bees off to themselves where it is quiet, plenty of ventilation and little light.

One reason why hens do not do well is because they are kept too long on the same ground. The very earth gets foul and full of insect pests. Change about every two or three years. It will pay.

The common method of cleansing wool produces great quantities of foul liquors, containing valuable substances that can be recovered profitably. Among these are wool grease and crude petroleum.

Try and be one that has fed a combined ration of roughage, grain and roots with plenty of water and you will have no worry about the ewes. The summer feed and the feed is largely wasted if the ewes lamb poorly.

The United States Department of Agriculture recommends the establishment of movable schools of agriculture by the state experiment stations wherever 15 farmers can be secured as students and the school may be conducted for a year or longer. The kind of instruction should depend on the needs of the section.

BURDENS LIFTED FROM BAD BACKS

Weary is the back that bears the burden of kidney ills. There's no rest nor peace for the man or woman who has a bad back. The distress begins in early morning. You feel lame and not refreshed. It's hard to get out of bed. It hurts to stoop to tie your shoes. All day the ache keeps up. Any sudden movement sends sharp twinges through the back. It is torture to stoop or straighten. At night the sufferer retires to toss and twist and groan. Backache is kidney ache—a throbbing, dull aching in the kidneys. Plasters or liniments won't do. You must get at the cause, inside.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS CURE SICK KIDNEYS

TWICE-TOLD TESTIMONY
A Cure of Severe Kidney Disease Verified by Test of Time
William M. Sears, 425 W. Cherry Street, Nevada, Mo., says: "I was convinced of the great value of Doan's Kidney Pills through personal experience. Four or five months ago I suffered from a pain in the small of my back, extending at times into my limbs and shoulders. When I stooped or did any work that brought a strain on the muscles of my back, my trouble was aggravated. I tried a number of remedies but without success. After a short time I could see that they were benefiting me, and the contents of two and one-half boxes cured me." (Statement given in May, 1905.)

How To Tell When The Kidneys Are Disordered PAINFUL SYMPTOMS
Backache, sideache, pains when stooping or lifting, sudden sharp twinges, rheumatic pains, neuralgia, painful scanty or too frequent urination, dizzy spells, dropsy.

URINARY SYMPTOMS
Discolored or cloudy urine. Urine that contains sediment, urine that stains the linen. Painful passages. Blood or shreds in the urine. Let a bottleful of the morning urine stand for 24 hours. If it shows a cloudy or fleecy settling, or a layer of fine grains, like brick-dust, the kidneys are disordered.

NEVER ANY RETURN
A Complete Cure of Kidney Trouble and Dropsy
Mrs. L. L. Babers, 1615 Terry St., Houston, Texas, says: "I hold a very high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills and with good reason. For years I have suffered from kidney trouble that had clung to me for several years. There was a dropping of my feet and limbs in addition to other symptoms of kidney complaint, and although I used various remedies, I was not helped until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills. Two boxes of this preparation cured me and I have never had the slightest return of my trouble. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to many people who have questioned me about them, and I know of several cases in which they have done the same good work."

IN AGONY WITH ECZEMA

"No tongue can tell how I suffered for five years with itching and bleeding eczema, until I was cured by the Cuticura Remedies, and I am so grateful I want the world to know, for what helped me will help others. My body and face were covered with sores. One day it would seem to be better, and then break out again with the most terrible pain and itching. I have been sick several times, but never in my life did I experience such awful suffering as with this eczema. I had made up my mind that death was near at hand, and I longed for that time when I would be at rest. I had tried many different doctors and medicines without success, and my mother brought me the Cuticura Remedies, insisting that I try them. I began to feel better after the first bath with Cuticura Soap, and one application of Cuticura Ointment."

"I continued with the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and have four bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, and consider myself well. This was nine years ago and I have had no return of the trouble since. Any person having any doubt about this wonderful cure by the Cuticura Remedies can write to my address. $125,000 net from 1200 acres grapes.

$3,200 from 20 acres raisins, in the San Joaquin Valley, California

A cow and an acre of alfalfa will earn $100 a year in the San Joaquin Valley.

Grapes will yield $100 to $200 per acre; peaches and apricots $150 to $200; while oranges will produce from $250 to $500, and in many instances more than $1000 an acre. There are ten million arable and irrigable acres here. You still may buy unimproved land for $50 an acre.

Ten acres are enough to comfortably support a small family. Twenty acres afford a fine living, with money in the bank. Forty acres should make you rich.

You pay from one-fourth to one-third down, balance easily can be paid for out of the crops.

Almost anything can be raised in the San Joaquin country—grapes and wheat, figs and apples, delicate grapes and hardy potatoes. Products of the temperate and semi-tropic zones flourish side by side.

Plenty of water for irrigation drawn from the nearby Sierra snows. It is easy for you to make a start. Land between the rows can be used while the orchard is young, for many profitable crops. The point is to make every square foot bear something.

What some farmers have done: Frank Thomas, of Fresno, Cal., bought twenty acres of land five years ago. He had but $200 to start on. Today his place is paid for and he has an income of over $2,000 a year.

William Shryver, R. F. N. Fresno, Cal., bought his first ten acres six years ago. Now owns sixty acres all paid for, and returns $12,000 for his place.

M. F. Tarpey, of Fresno, owns vineyard of 1200 acres, from which he takes an annual profit of $25,000.

On the Harold estate, twenty-two acres of peaches yielded a $16,000 crop.

Carson Reed, Reedley, Cal., from a twenty-acre crop of Sultan raisins netted $2,500.

I know this valley from end to end. I have seen crops planted and harvested in every one of its counties. I have interviewed farmers, ranchers and merchants. I have collected the testimony of crop experts.

All this valuable information is contained in its Southern Edition. The Company has no land to sell, but I will gladly refer your inquiry to reliable land owners who have.

The Burley Tobacco Company is now receiving tobacco at all the warehouses in the county, and has received about 400,000 pounds of tobacco to date. With favorable weather conditions, no doubt the receipts will be very heavy during the next few weeks. -Waraw Leader.

The legislative body that has no probe committee is not of the twentieth century class. The legislative probe has been very popular in the country with law makers, but it seldom makes an interest on the investment as it pays a committee better to use the whitewash brush in place of the probe.

The first bill to pass both houses of the legislature and going to the Governor was that making October 12th a legal holiday under the name of "Columbus Day." The measure was backed by the Catholic Knight of Columbus, and was opposed by the protestants as in contravention of a section of the bill of rights which declares that no preference shall be shown any religious body.

The Department of Agriculture has issued a warning against the opening up of new territory for the cultivation of tobacco. The department proceeds at length to forecast a gloomy future for the tobacco growers. It points out that foreign countries are more active than ever in promoting the home production of tobacco, which is ruinous to the export trade. The department predicts that in the future the demands for export will be refined more and more to the relatively high grades.

If the constitution of Kentucky provided for only one session of the legislature in five years, for forbidding special sessions, the state would have fewer and more perfect laws, in that the people would select their best and ablest men as members of that body, and they would be more careful that they were passed by them were needed and gotten up in the proper shape. If it was known that a bad law had to remain a law for five years there would not be so much crazy quill bills introduced in the legislature.

Members of the House may demand that Robert E. Peary exhibit his proofs to the world, a medal before voting him a gold medal and the thanks of Congress. It was learned that the Naval Committee was not entirely unanimous on the proposition of bestowing honors upon the discoverer of the pole. One of the members of the House, who declined to allow the use of his name, said he was opposed to accepting the proofs of Mr. Peary that he discovered the pole, merely because the National Geographic Society had accepted them. He charged a preconceived prejudice in favor of Peary on the part of the society, and said that before Congress took this step, the verdict of this society should be confirmed by other scientific bodies of the world.

Several members have expressed opposition to the proposed Peary honors and one or two have threatened to discuss vigorously the matter on the floor if it is brought up.

"It is little wonder that the people doubt the sincerity of Congress in its proposed high-living probe. There is every indication that the cost is due and traceable in eight out of every ten cases to the high-living probe. The voters have been told are for the purpose of protecting the high wages of the American workman from the foreign cheap labor. But the people have learned that tariffs have created trusts and lower wages if anything. In the past few weeks three separate resolutions have been introduced into Congress allegedly for the purpose of starting a high price investigation. Unless there is some true ring to the work of the trust-controlled political organization, the people will be justified in concluding that the Congress which made the high-living probe will not stand for any investigation which would show the people that the tariffs are the real source of the trouble."

No, gentle reader, the above quoted editorial is not the product of a Democratic writer's pen. It is taken bodily without the change of a line or a letter from the New Castle, Pa., Daily News, a Republican newspaper published in the very cradle of high tariff.

The News has formerly been an advocate and defender of protection. But, like an increasing number of Republican newspapers, its eyes have been opened to fraud and chicanery of the system it has been supporting, and it is honest enough to admit the truth. All honor to the New Castle News! Their numbers are few but their influence is great because they fearlessly proclaim the truth.

Hitting the Governor Hard.

In a report submitted to the Senate the Joint Committee on Military Affairs, through a sub-committee, set forth a deplorable state of affairs as existing in the State militia. It is asserted in the report that Colonel W. B. Hiderman was forced out as Colonel of the First Kentucky Regiment at Louisville in order to make room for H. C. Grinstead, a Republican, who had been entered largely into the conduct of the State militia.

It is further set forth in the report that on August 1, E. Wilson, by ordering out State troops having been made by civil authorities, violated a provision of the Constitution, that he further transgressed the law by presuming to act as Commander in Chief of the militia in active service instead of permitting the civil authorities of the counties to which troops were sent to direct the movements of these troops.

The report further sets forth that a vast amount of money has practically been squandered during the last two years on the State militia more than $200,000 having been spent, to no purpose, during the night-riding troubles. It is set forth in the report that men in the militia are paid as day laborers in Hopkinsville for horse hire and forage.

Decided to Pool 1910 Tobacco Crop.

The officers of the Burley Tobacco Society have decided that the 1910 crop of Burley tobacco must be pooled, and the district board has been called to meet at Lexington on Monday next to consider the pledge which has been drawn up to be submitted to the growers.

The pledge was drafted some time ago, but has never been formally passed upon by the district board. Until the district board has formally approved the pledge, its exact terms will not be made public, but it is practically the same as that used for the crop of 1909. It may be, however, that when it is presented to the district board changes will be suggested and adopted to make it more attractive to the tobacco growers. As soon as the pledge is approved by the district board canvassers will be put in the field to circulate it among the planters and vigorous efforts will be made to organize a pool which will embrace a majority of the crop to be produced this season.

The new pool will be entirely independent of that of 1909, and the officials of the society declare that they feel no uneasiness about the sale of the tobacco in the 1909 pool, but express the utmost confidence in it. It is only a question of time when this tobacco will be sold at a higher price than that which has been realized in the open market.

The judgment of the Christian Circuit Court has been affirmed by the Appellate Court in the case of the Commonwealth against Thomas Hodges, and the cause remanded to the lower court to overrule the demurrer to an indictment charging the offense of "unlawfully purchasing pooled tobacco," brought under the Creelius law. The court declared this law constitutional.

The Creelius law was an amendment to the pooling act of 1908, enacted by the legislature in 1909. It was not contained in the lower court, or here, that the indictment is itself defective, but the law under which it was based was invalid.

The opinion of the court, covering twenty-nine pages, was prepared by Court Commissioner Clay. Reviewing the acts regulating contracts, the statutes of frauds and others of like character, the court says:

"It seems to me the Creelius law does not differ in principle from the acts referred to. The conditions which gave rise to the act are known to all men. At the time of its enactment, there was but one buyer for the farmers' tobacco. As individuals, the farmers were unable to cope with the situation.

The Legislature of 1906 decided it wise to enact the law authorizing pooling of the crop and to secure a market for the same. While the law in question gives the right of injunction to prevent such sales, it is manifest that such means were not effective. To prevent such state of case the unlawful selling pooled products was made a misdemeanor.

The court says the fourteenth amendment of the Constitution is not violated, that no one is denied equal protection of the laws. The court says the act is not void because of a minor defect in the title.

Further, that the acts are not in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act of 1890.

"We cannot say that the Legislature exceeded its power when it made the unlawful sale of pooled products a misdemeanor."

"Having held that the law is within the power of the General Assembly to make it unlawful for the owner to violate his pooling contract by selling without the written contract of the agent, we think it was likewise within its power to enact that a party who knowingly purchased pooled products and brought about the violation of the pooler's contract, should also be punished."

Hon. Tim Neetham, for many years editor of the Williamstown Courier, has purchased a half interest in the Clark County Democrat, published at Winchester. It is one of the best papers in Eastern Kentucky. He is wishing Bro. Neetham abundant success in his new home.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

(Furnished by Supt. Riley.)

Roll of Honor of Boone County High School for second term: Juniors—H. A. Allen, Charver 90, Howard Huey 94; Sophomores—Class—Wilber Kelly, 85, and Ruth Kelly 92; Freshman Class—Marie Craven 92; Pauline Kelly 93; Arthur Kelly 92. Mr. Dir bases his estimates on daily recitations, monthly examinations, deportment, attendance and promptness.

There came to the Superintendent's office complaints concerning our present teachers in some communities. Lack of ability to control the children, etc. Many teachers had attended without normal training but now we want our teachers fitted for their work by special training in their professional school just as our doctors, lawyers and those of other professions are trained. It is a matter of getting a certificate, it is a matter of knowing how to impart knowledge, and what knowledge to impart.

By special arrangement with the authorities at Richmond, I can appoint all teachers, and those who really want to teach from this county to this school. Already ten or twelve have signified their intention of attending this spring and summer. Some of our teachers ought to stay for a session or longer and let themselves for high school work.

In looking over our list of teachers of years gone by, we find the names of many teachers whose ability was known outside of Boone county. We find a period in the history of our schools, where many teachers came from Indiana and Ohio and under bid these men and women thus securing their place in the school.

We supplemented the State fund and employed these teachers who had good schools and interest in education but with the coming of teachers who taught for State fund and the school cost the patrons nothing, interest in education was moving. Now with the local tax, our schools are costing us something. We are all interested in where this money goes. We want to see that every cent is spent properly. We demand returns from this investment.

Our school system can not be brought up to our ideal in one or two years. Give us the year to consolidate districts, repair and equip our houses; give us another year to lengthen our term of school, and then with teachers better equipped and all pulled together, patrons and students ashamed to talk against our schools, we shall see that we can have just as good schools as we want.

Where the teacher has given satisfaction in the place for him to apply for a school next year. We want the good teachers to stay for a long time in their present positions, and we want better teachers in the place of the others.

THE GOOD FEATURES OF A BANK!

No business enterprise in a community, affords more conveniences to the public than a well governed bank, as it affords a medium of exchange that no other source can equal. It gives absolute protection to the safety of money entrusted to its care. It gathers together the surplus money of a community; and gives idle money the most extensive circulation through loans to individuals of property wealth who need a volume of money to transact business. Money laid away in a bank, which otherwise they would not be enabled to do. Money laid away or kept at home is not only out of circulation but is dead so far as its value is concerned. The Equitable Bank and Trust Co., Walton, Ky., wants your business. It pays depositors four per cent. on money. Our Trust department qualifies as manager of estates, as executor, guardian, administrator, etc. Capital of bank, $200,000, showing assets Jan. 1st of 1910, $100,000. The business of all solicited. GENERAL NEWS.

Amassing a fortune of $100,000, by toll as a farmer, only to lose it through the irregularities of relatives, is the story of Byron L. Church of Holyrood, Kan., made public through the old man's arrest on a charge of wrecking the Bank of Holyrood. Maxwell Church, his son, and F. W. Thomas, a nephew, are being sought by officers on complaint of the state bank commissioner.

The heaviest blow yet struck the beef trust by way of punishment for arbitrarily raising the price of meat and poultry, came in Jersey City, N. J., where the grand jury of Hudson county filed a blanket indictment charging a criminal conspiracy in restraint of trade. Six corporations, including the parent organization, the National Packing Company and 21 individual directors, were named in the conspiracy charge.

The curfew bells rang for the entire negro population of Memphis by order of Edward H. Crump, Memphis' "Boy Mayor." All members of the black race on the streets after 12 o'clock were arrested.

Testimony by Louis D. Glavis in his charges against Secretary Ballinger and the general land office, was again corroborated when Horace T. Jones, special agent of the land office, took the witness stand before the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee. Mr. Jones proved to be as good a witness, if not better for the prosecution than Mr. Glavis himself.

Following the publication of a sensational statement alleged to have been made by John J. Murphy, president of the Central Labor union of Philadelphia, a warrant was issued for him, charging "inciting to riot." The statement attributed to Murphy was that "a general strike should be called immediately. I think it is inevitable. There are men in the northwest who can shoot as straight as any trooper who ever drew a breath."

New York detectives are searching for five men who rode all over that city to find Jacob Groenthal, a former political worker, who then stabbed him and all but severed his tongue. Groenthal is said to have talked too freely.

Charles Smith, a painter in desperate straits, told New York physicians he was so hungry that he allowed himself to be knocked down and run over to get the price of a meal. A woman whose buggy ran over him gave him five dollars.

England is beginning to send shoes to this country. Hitherto the trade has all been the other way, but the reduction of the duty from 25 per cent. to ten per cent. has changed the situation. Since February 12 separate consignments from Leicester have come in to the port of New York.

Attorney General Wickham, acting on instructions from President Taft, has directed the United States attorney at Philadelphia to report to his earliest convenience whether there has been any interference with the United States mails during the strike of the street-car employees.

Stockholders of the Midvale Steel Company of Philadelphia are to receive a stock dividend of 1,200 per cent., which is one of the largest stock dividends ever declared by an industrial company.

The coroner of Prof. James T. Vaughn's widow and her wealthy father, brought in a verdict finding from the evidence that Prof. Vaughn's death was the result of strychnine poisoning. Dr. Charles W. Hull of Monroe City was arrested there on a warrant charging him with murder in the first degree.

President Taft declared to callers at the White House that his legislative program has not been curtailed to four bills, as stated in the newspaper dispatches from Washington. The printed list omitted all reference to the conservative bills; whereas the president has repeatedly pointed out that he would insist, so far as the legitimately could, that some at least of the conservation measures should be enacted into law before the present session adjourns.

The Nicaraguan government reports a decisive victory over the insurgents at Tipitapa. Bulletins posted here announce that Gen. Chamorro's army practically has been annihilated. The dead and wounded will number nearly 15,000, according to reports. The insurgents are said to have lost 1,100 and the government 400.

The Adirondack Cottage sanitarium at Saranac Lake, N. Y., founded for the treatment of tuberculosis, has received from Mrs. E. H. Harriman a letter, inclosing a check for $35,000 and congratulating it upon the completion of its 25 years' existence.

Violet Gordon Charlesworth and her mother were each sentenced to five years' imprisonment in a London (England) court for fraudulently representing that she was younger woman was an heiress to a great estate. On the strength of a "falsified" $2,500,000 the girl had borrowed many thousand dollars.

"I'll get you," shouted Bowman B. Seybert, aged 80, as he sat dreaming in a chair in a Butler (Pa.) livery stable. He then began shooting and awoke to find himself seriously wounded.

President Taft came out flatly in favor of a budget system, by which the government's finances may be regulated, in a speech which he delivered before the board of trade at Newark, N. J. The president talked of waste in the various departments of the government and suggested that the way to curb it is to have a system such as is in vogue in other countries where a schedule of expenditures is made up with reference to the income. His speech with its various suggestions to government economy, was regarded as the keynote of a campaign to be carried on by the administration looking to the reduction in the high cost of living.

Following the discovery that the National City bank of Cambridge at Boston had been looted of $144,000, the doors of the institution were closed probably forever, by National Bank Examiner Pepper, acting on behalf of the controller of the currency. Later a warrant was issued for the arrest of George W. Coleman, the young bookkeeper of the bank.

According to the decision of Prof. L. R. Taft of Michigan Agricultural college, William Strong of Kalamazoo county has raised the most nearly perfect ear of corn ever grown, the ear scoring 97 points.

A Religious Movement Which Changed History

NO EVENT in human history has so profoundly affected the experiences of mankind as the life of Jesus of Nazareth. That a baby of poor parents, born in a stable in a little village in an obscure corner of the Roman empire, is a token of the divine energy in what we call Christianity. When we think that this has been the cry of poverty, the enemy of his contemporaries, the indifference of the political powers under which he lived, and the humble origin of his first followers, the wonder of the result grows. When we also remember that this reality has come to pass not by dependence upon the forces upon which world movements have relied, such as arms, wealth, intellectual powers, and social prestige, but purely through the inherent might of Jesus' religious ideals, the marvel reaches its maximum.

To produce this result, two great environments had to be affected. Jesus' venerable system of piety already fixed in formalism and legalism had to be displaced by a religion of vitalities which substituted love for law, and allowed love to use its own forms of self-expression. Heatenism, which was lacking in ethical content, had to be permeated by visions of living righteousness which were virtually create a pure code of morals, and in the great world outside of Judaism to the knowledge of a hitherto unknown God who is holy and loving.

A Superb Dream Made Real. No citizen of the world ever had such a dream as filled the heart of Jesus. He saw the kingdom of God—that social condition of humanity in which all men should live as sons of the heavenly Father, and therefore as brothers with one another. This ideal was to express itself, not in churches or ecclesiastical organizations, but in all social life. The realms of industry, the home, the parlor, government, and all other organizations in which mankind expressed its social instincts were to be the spheres in which this superb dream was to be made a living reality. So far as Jesus thought of churches, they were to be, not Noah's ark—into which a few of the elect were to be brought to save them from impending disaster, while the rest of mankind was committed to the flood, but social energies composed of those who shared his matchless dream, and who were to work to make actual his unique vision, every individual of them in the realms in which he lived.

This great achievement was to be realized, not by legislation, nor by mechanical and political means, but by the transforming power of human lives made over again so that they could themselves see and enter into this kingdom. The children of the world were the good seed in the field of the world. No one before him had ever dared to imagine that humanity could be transformed by the simple power of such goodness as was due to a sincere filial relation to God, incarnated in the lives of men. He rested the entire future of his work in the hearts of a few disciples, and believed that they, and others in successive generations, would so what he himself had stood for, that at last every human being would enter into his kingdom, and thus his hope should be realized.

Faith the Means of Conquest. No less striking is the means upon which he relied to accomplish this vision. He relied on simple faith in himself. In doing so, he leaned upon the most commonplace, the most energizing and the most rational power which we know. All men have confidence in some others, or some things. Every man knows that faith is the most vital thing in the world, for nothing comes to pass unless some one believes that it is possible. It is the most rational thing that humanity knows, for it begins with the child on the mother's breast, and continues through all the relations of life, and thus has the sanction of universal experience to vindicate its reasonableness. This faith does in religion what it does everywhere else. First, it gives us the vision of an ideal. It yields conviction of the reality of unseen things, and gives substance to things hoped for. The man of faith sees as concrete what is only a vision. Again, faith opens the life to all outside influence that can assist in realizing this vision. To this witness the child in the school, and all forms of our communication with others, and the whole story of education and commerce. Faith in the realm of religion opens men's souls to the power of God that pours itself through countless channels into every heart that has the hospitality born of confidence.

Again, faith stirs all energies within us. All things are possible to him who believes. Faith stimulates our intellects to devise, moves our feelings and enthusiasm to vitalize, and stirs our wills to act. When Jesus, therefore, declared that his matchless vision was to come to pass first of all in each personal heart by faith, and then in all social life by faith, he made the most daring experiment the world has ever known, and began a miracle which will not be completed until his dream is fully realized.

Inspired Vision of Jesus. This is the secret of Jesus' work. He saw a transformed humanity in spite of all adverse indications; he saw its possibility through despised instrumentalities; he seized upon a native human capacity, which we call faith, to realize his vision. From this program of Jesus there has come the stimulus that has revolutionized every life and nation it has touched, and has given to the Christian fraction of humanity the virtual monopoly of the learning, the arts, the industries of the world.

Jesus only "began to do and to teach" as Luke tells us. He has been doing and teaching ever since he left the earth. The Teacher who declared that "the truth shall make you free," has given us the spirit of free inquiry which has yielded our sciences, and all the precious fruits that have come from them. The Jesus who "wears the crown of thorns" is the continuous philanthropist, and all the mighty personal and institutional ministrations for the uplift and comfort of mankind which Christian nations have wrought are but the prolongation of his ministry. There is no one in the world to-day so alive as Jesus. And this life he reveals not only in the lives and social institutions of those who are his followers, but also in the very atmosphere of the Christian civilization which is inhaled by myriads who do not consciously fellowship the Christ.

Neighborhood and Brotherhood. To-day, as in the first century, other civilizations of the world are feeling the touch of his power. The arts and inventions of the Christian peoples have made communion between all nations so close that now "there is no more sea." The very air carries our messages to one another. This means neighborhood. What is called "western learning" is "Christian learning," and the unchristian world is asking for it. The double task of purifying our own civilization and giving it to other nations is upon us. To help us in this the living Christ is still teaching and working.

A recent writer ("The Three Great Forces," by William Wyndham, Pater), has treated of: "The Incarnation as a Dynamic of Western Civilization." To the coming of Jesus he ascribes the unification of the manifold sacredness around us; the unfolding of our sense of kinship with God and our fellows; the revelation of the unity of the human race, and consequent changes in the relations of men with one another; the calling of a sense of the essential worth of human nature; the unveiling of the spiritual quality of industry and drudgery; the enhancing of the worth of the body; the transfiguration of sex, with ensuing effect on morality and the family; and the glorification of love. These eight items by no means exhaust the catalogue of what Jesus has done—is doing all the time—but are some lines of the index to the divine volume "Gesta Christi," that records Jesus' contribution to civilization through Christianity.

Well may our religious Christmas be merry and exultant. The secret of the distance between Bethlehem's manger and our modern highest enlightenment is Jesus himself. He is the "light of the world." His life is "the light of men." All other great movements that have blessed mankind in the Christian era are only impulses from this dynamic of the incarnation in his foot-prints as he walks through the world there spring up mankind's noblest institutions. Only evil feels waste and woe where he reveals. Since he was born history is his story.—William C. Hitting in The Standard.

A Prayer.

Our Heavenly Father, we thank thee that thine ear is ever open to our cry and that thou never turnest away the soul in need. Our hands have been busy with many things, with striving and getting and laboring for the things which perish. But coming to thee we enter into peace and find rest unto our souls. Into our hearts we pray thou wilt come and make each one thy home, casting out all sin and selfishness till they are pure and childlike and fit for the spirit's indwelling. Uplift our hearts to praise thee for thy never-ending goodness through all the passing days. Quicken us to regard others' needs as our clear call and obligation to service, and strengthen us to do what our hands find to do for the advancement of thy cause and kingdom. Draw all thy children of earth into closer bonds of unity and brotherhood and hasten the time when all shall know thee, in whom is light and life eternal.

Every-Day Religion.

There is a tremendous amount of unutilized, unreported, and of an unrecognized religion in the world. Men are doing the deeds and living the life of religion who might well be unwilling to wear any of its formal labels. Whenever a man answers to the best in himself affirmatively, whenever he seeks the good of others, he is turning toward the ultimate good; he is religious.

Some men must regard religion as a rowboat, because they are never sure they're headed for religion unless they're facing the other way.

It is easy to make the Bible a curse by using it as a harrier between you and your brother.

No man ever lost any time in the heavenly race by going out of his way to aid another fellow.

Some men are so conceited they never know where they are confessing faults or advertising virtues.

WES HER LIFE TO

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I was troubled with falling and inflammation, and the doctor said I could not get well unless I had an operation. I knew I could not stand an operation, so I wrote to you sometime ago about my health and you told me what to do. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier I am to-day a well woman."—Mrs. WILLIAM ATKINS, 988 W. 21st St., Chicago, Ill.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any similar medicine in the country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every such suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and advice is free, and always helpful.

A GOOD CHANGE

A Change of Food Works Wonders.

The wrong food and drink causes a lot of trouble in this world. To change the food is the first duty of every person that is ill, particularly from stomach and nervous troubles. As an illustration: A lady in Mo. has, with her husband, been brought around to health again by leaving off coffee and some articles of food that did not agree with them. They began using Postum and Grape-Nuts food. She says:

"For a number of years I suffered with stomach and bowel trouble which kept getting worse until I was very ill most of the time. About four years ago I left off coffee and began taking Postum. My stomach and bowels improved right along, but I was so reduced in flesh and so nervous that the least thing would overcome me."

"Then I changed my food and began using Grape-Nuts in addition to Postum. I lived on these two principally for about four months. Day by day I gained in flesh and strength until now the nervous trouble has entirely disappeared and I feel that I owe my life and health to Postum and Grape-Nuts."

"Hisnand is 73 years old and he was troubled for a long time with occasional cramps, and slept badly. Finally I prevailed upon him to leave off coffee and take Postum. He had stood out for a long time, but after he tried Postum for a few days he found that he could sleep and that his cramps disappeared. He was satisfied and has never gone back to coffee."

"I have a brother in California who has been using Postum for several years; his whole family use it also because they have had such good results from it."

Look in pkgs. for the little book, "The Road to Wellville." "There's a Reason." Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

MOVABLE COLONY HOUSE FOR FARMER'S POULTRY

Nothing Will Give Better Satisfaction—Illustration of One, 8x12 Feet, Built on Two Skids.

PLAN OF INTERIOR. Movable Colony House.

For the farmer's poultry house there is nothing that will give better satisfaction than a movable colony house, such as is used at Macdonald college, a plan of which is shown here. This house is 8x12 feet, built on two skids and accommodates 25 hens and three males in the winter and portion of the poultry house double boarded. A hinged cotton frame to be placed in front of the roof is suggested; this cotton frame to be let down on cold nights in winter to protect the fowls.

In order to secure proper ventilation a cotton frame 12 inches deep by width of window should be placed at the top and bottom of the windows, or windows of the poultry house. The house presumably will face the south.

The Maine station has been experimenting for 20 years with one breed of chickens and the experimenters think they have learned something about feeding.

Early in the morning each pen of 22 birds receives one pint of wheat. One-half pint of oats is fed at 9:30. At 1 p. m. the same amount of cracked corn is given. All the mash they can eat in half an hour is fed them at 3 p. m. in winter and 4 p. m. in summer. The feeding is done in a deep litter.

The mash is made of 200 pounds of wheat bran, 100 pounds of corn meal, 100 pounds of wheat middlings, 100 pounds of linseed meal, 100 pounds of gluten meal, 100 pounds of beef scrap, enough to make one-fourth of its bulk. The clover is soaked in hot water for three or four hours before mixing.

Oyster shell, cracked bone, clean grit and water are kept constantly before the fowls, and two large mangels are fed to them each day. The mangels are stuck on large nails in the wall. Good results have come from this method.

It has been seen by the above that the "mash" when given is fed in the afternoon. We have always favored giving this mixture in the cold morning time, say the experimenters, well seasoned and with a few scraps of meat in it. This is objected to by many on the ground that the birds will not exercise enough early in the day. There is something in this objection, but it can be overcome, and should be, by not feeding a full meal of the warm mash.

MAKING A LAWN

Bramshank, after investigating the matter carefully, last spring decided that the best way to deal with the half-acre of ground surrounding his new suburban home was to seed it heavily and just let the grass grow at its own sweet will.

"If you don't cut the new grass all summer," Bramshank explained to his wife, "it gets a chance to thicken up and the next year you have a splendid lawn. I think we can stand the long grass for one season!"

"Oh, certainly," agreed Mrs. Bramshank, "but I'm going to do it all the same!"

Nobody could say that Bramshank was stingy with the seed. He got a huge quantity from a dealer who was going out of business and anxious to dispose of his stock at cut rates, and he painstakingly sprinkled all of it over his yard on the theory that if a little was good a great deal was better.

When the first tender shoots of green began to color the ground Bramshank positively chuckled with joy and pride. He took practically all the credit to himself for the rapidity and thickness of the growth though he did grudgingly allow a trifle of it to the seed man. "He said it was a special variety of seed," Bramshank told his wife, "and I believe he was right. Just look at it!"

After a few weeks that was all the Bramshank family did—look at the lawn. Indeed, the whole suburb contracted the habit of sauntering over to look at the Bramshank place, for nobody had ever seen anything like the grass that was growing there. It was Hacklinny who first broke the news.

"Say," he hailed Bramshank from the sidewalk, "when did you decide to take up truck gardening? Aren't you afraid so much grass mixed in will interfere with the vegetables?"

Bramshank after one pallid glance over his weird-looking estate reeled up against a porch pillar with a blinding light breaking over him. The reason his lawn looked so queer was that half the seed was the seed of assorted garden vegetables.

There was carelessness about the groupings which might have appealed to an artistic nature, but which only further agonized the Bramshanks. There would be a little bunch of tomatoes, plants, say, in the middle of the lawn and flanking them a thinly scattered array of feathery carrot tops. Green onions, lettuce, cucumbers, muskmelons and cabbages hilariously fraternized in the wildest confusion.

As he searched further Bramshank found Indian corn sturdily pushing its way up in various spots. Also there were turnips and parsley and many more things. In fact, as Mrs. Bramshank said, a banana grove was all that was lacking to make their half-acre a complete botanical collection for the entire western hemisphere!

Now, vegetables are all very well in their place, but nobody would choose to have them scattered all over a lawn. To be sure, Bramshank had moved them down, but he would have had to mow also such grass as there was—and anyhow Mrs. Bramshank had a frugal mind. She believed in accepting the goods that fate provided, so she refused to allow the garden-lawn to be destroyed.

Bramshank said the real reason for her refusal was that she had fallen in love with two tomato plants on the lee side of the library window and that she could not resist the appeal of the tender young carrots pathetically flourishing near the lilac bushes. There was something touching about the manner in which the cucumber vines trustingly spread out and strangled the struggling grass about them.

The worst of it was that all summer Bramshank toiled in the garden he hadn't expected to have at all. It seemed rank foolishness not to take care of the enthusiastic tomatoes and other garden truck. The whole neighborhood took to running over to get parsley from the Bramshank front lawn because the idea was so unique. And not every one can pick lettuce from along the front of his town property.

The Bramshanks raised several bushels of tomatoes, three dozen ears of green corn, cucumbers enough to start a pickle factory and untold quantities of small truck. Bramshank had to get up an hour earlier each morning all summer long, merely to care for his vegetables, besides hearing the jeers of his neighbors. And by fall there wasn't any grass at all.

This spring Bramshank is going to seed over his lawn. It will cost more, but he says it's safer.

New Arctic Expedition.
The Bulletin of the Geographical society of Italy announces another arctic expedition. The leader will be Baldwin, the leader of the arctic expedition of 1901-1902. He proposes an exploration of the polar regions and to reach the pole. He proposes to follow the route taken by Nansen in the Fram. It is proposed to spend four years altogether in the search.

DIAGRAM SHOWING GLIDDEN ROUTE AND MITSCHER'S RANGER PATHFINDER.

FRANK X. ZIRBIES (AT WHEEL), FRED J. WAGNER, OFFICIAL STARTER OF THE GLIDDEN TOUR, AND MRS. J. WAGNER, OFFICIAL PHOTOGRAPHER OF THE PRECEDING GLIDDEN TOURS, IN TONNEAU.

The Mitchell Ranger Pathfinder, with Frank X. Zirbies, the most famous road driver in the world, at the wheel, reached Walton just before dusk Wednesday, making their first stop of the long grind of 2300 miles on the Glidden tour route, which will save Cincinnati on June 15, to save ten states and wind up in Chicago three weeks later.

This is the same car which Zirbies drove on his famous war message carrying trip from New York to the Presidio, San Francisco, bearing dispatches from Major General Leonard Wood, U. S. A., to Major General Wood. Floods, ice, snow, trackless prairies and mountains were overcome and the trip demonstrated what the United States Army wanted to know that the automobile was practicable as a swift dispatch bearer. Zirbies was the first driver in the world to be called upon by any army for this purpose.

Before this man of iron nerve and desperate skill had recovered from his fatigue, he again sat at the wheel of the automobile, driving it from New York to Atlanta in the New York Herald-Atlanta Journal Good Roads National Highway Tour. A long, hard grind which has done much for that portion of the South, opening up as it did, the necessity of good roads for the farmer, and permitting capitalists to inspect a new country with a view of investment, at their leisure. It also taught the farmer, that automobilists as a class are neither "road hogs" nor "joy riders."

The Glidden tour of 1910 is going south for the first time in its history, traveling thru ten Commonwealths, most of which are south of the Mason-Dixon line. It will be an educational trip, one for the occupants of the 100 motor cars which will make the trip, for it will open up country absolutely new to the majority of the tourists, and make for the south business acquaintances which will be of much benefit to both seller and investors.

Some of the principal cities visited on the Glidden tour will be Louisville, Ky., Nashville and Memphis, Tenn., Little Rock, Ark., Texarkana, Dallas and Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Okla., Wichita and Topeka, Kan., St. Joseph, Mo., Des Moines, Cedar Rapids and Davenport, Ia., Rock Island and Moline, Ill., and terminating in Chicago.

The Mitchell Ranger Pathfinder takes the long and strenuous trip at this time of the year, facing snow, ice, frost and floods for the purpose of securing absolute information regarding the roads, distances from probable towns, hotel accommodations, and automobile regulations in the various towns and cities and states to acquaint the persons along the route of the Glidden tour of

For Sale—League Institute.

On Saturday, March 5th, 1910, at 2 o'clock p. m., The League Institute building in Verona, Boone County, Ky., will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, one third down, balance in six and twelve months with six per cent. interest on the deferred payments, a lien being retained on the property for security of the deferred payments. The property comprises about an acre of ground, set out in beautiful shade trees, and situated in the best part of Verona. The building is 32x50 feet, two stories high; school room below and public hall with scenery and stage, and chairs occupying the upper story. The school room is equipped with desks, cloak rooms and other accessories for a first class school, good location, fine citizenship, and an ideal site for a first class school. The building could be made into a commodious residence with little cost. Hot air furnace under building. Call and inspect the premises or for further particulars address W. M. WHITSON, Verona, Ky.

W. H. PHIPPS PAYS

DEBT TO NATURE
Dies After a Few Days' Illness of Pneumonia.

W. H. Phipps died at the home of his son, O. P. Phipps, in Burlington, at 6:30 a. m., yesterday after a few days' illness of pneumonia. He had an attack of illness about three weeks ago, from which he had not entirely recovered when the last attack came. The deceased was a native of Virginia, where he was born on February 29, 1844. While yet a youth he enlisted in the Confederate army, serving valiantly until the close of the war, taking part in nearly all the Virginia campaigns. He was 22 years of age when he came to Kentucky, where he married Mrs. Martha Ann Barker, who was a sister to W. H. and Samuel Pope. To them were born two sons, O. P. and Lawrence, who reside in Burlington. Mr. Phipps was of a jovial turn, had a big heart and was loved by his many neighbors, and he will be missed greatly by those with whom he associated. He had but recently sold his farm on Middle creek and come to Burlington to make his home. He was a very capable man, and he will be missed by all who knew him. He will be buried in the family burying ground on the hill near W. H. Pope's.

Jacob W. Rouse and W. T. Davis, both fresh from Florida, were here last Monday. Mr. Davis is by no means infatuated with that Stat, while Mr. Rouse is decidedly unconvinced.

CORN SCHOOL

IN BURLINGTON.

A strong and very commendable effort is being made on the part of Kentucky to get her people to observe the science of agriculture, which until within the last few years has been given no attention by the rural population. The farmers have been contending to plant and to reap year after year, without informing themselves as to what scientific principles it is necessary to observe and that the soil may retain its productive properties. All they consider necessary is to plant, cultivate and harvest, but science proposes to step in and assist them in making two blades of grass grow where heretofore only one has been produced. Hence the Farmers' Institutes and the Corn Schools that are being held, over the State. But as yet the tillers of the soil have not come to appreciate the value of these, it is only a question of time when they will comprehend the great advantages that are to be derived from them, and will furnish the lecturers good audiences at every appointment. It is understood that on the third Saturday in this month it is proposed to conduct a Corn School in Burlington, which will be for the benefit of the old and young alike. An experienced and interested lecturer will have charge of the school, and he should be greeted by a crowded court room. Farmers should come and instruct their boys, and spend a pleasant and profitable day.

INSTANTLY KILLED

BY FALL FROM MOW
Thos. J. Grimley was almost instantly killed by falling from the hay mow at the barn on his son's farm west of town in Pleasant township Monday evening, living only a few minutes from the accident. His son, J. B. Grimley, was within about 15 feet of him at the time of the accident but of course could do nothing to prevent the accident or to assist him.
Mr. Grimley was in the hay mow putting down hay for the stock and in some manner slipped and fell thru the hole which he intended to put the hay, striking the manger as he fell. His back was broken and he gasped a few times and died. Everything possible was done to revive him, but death was inevitable.
The body will be shipped on the south bound train Wednesday morning for his home in Lexington, Ill., for burial after a both a charter members of that order. The service will be held at the First Baptist church at Lexington after the arrival there. Mr. Grimley and his wife were charter members of the church when it was organized in 1855 and remained consistent members until their deaths. She died in 1890 and her body will be laid away beside hers at Lexington. Mr. Grimley and Mrs. Rosenberg will accompany the body.

Mr. Grimley was born in Boone county Kentucky and moved to Melean county, Ill., in 1852 and that was his home until he moved to this county to live with his son J. B. Grimley, trustee of Pleasant township in '07. He was 77 years old. In 1855 he was married to Miss Martha A. Fowler. He is survived by five children, J. B. Grimley and Mrs. H. R. Rosenberg of this county; Chas. J. Grimley of Centerville, S. D.; Richard W. Grimley of Lexington, Ill.; and Mrs. B. D. Starkey of Covley county. He was not a member of any religious body. He had made many friends since coming to this county to live with his son and he was taking life easily and working until his last hour. He was a very kind and humorous man and then only light work, and his untimely death coming so suddenly is a great shock to the family and friends.

The weather, yesterday, was exactly the kind Mr. J. C. Bedinger, of Kensington, had hoped for, even since he had decided to have the big sale that day. All the conditions being favorable an immense crowd had assembled on the premises at an early hour, and when the sale began it was soon evident that competition in the army of bidders was to be exceedingly lively. At no time did the bidding lag, and as a result, every article that was put under the hammer brought its full value, and the sale in the aggregate amounted to a small fortune. All the adjoining counties were well represented in the crowd.
It looks like the county board of education ought to have bought the League Institute building at Verona, if it expects to establish a high school there.
Grippe has been almost epidemic throughout the county for the past two or three weeks.
Remember Joseph Scott will have his big sale of dairy stock and dairy utensils tomorrow.
Miss Lucy Russell has made up a good school to teach here this spring.

Robert E. Peary has decided not to submit his north pole discovery proofs to the house committee on naval affairs unless guarantees are given by the committee that nothing of this data shall be made public. The committee will not accept the condition. Mr. Peary probably will not receive recognition by congress for his discovery as a consequence.

Wen Chung Tao, assistant resident in Tibet, has been recalled by the Chinese government to explain the escape of the disposed dalai lama from Lassa.

Don Juan Riano is said to be slated to succeed Marquis De Villalobar as Spain's minister to the United States. He married Miss Alice Ward of Washington in 1904.

President Taft gave a dinner at the White House in honor of Speaker Cannon. Socially and politically the affair marked something of an epoch, for not before in many years has a president entertained in honor of the speaker of the house of representatives.

Prof. E. A. Ross of the University of Wisconsin is censured in resolutions adopted by the board of regents because of the recent visit of Parker H. Sercombe and Emma Goldman to Madison. Count Hans von Schwerin-Loewitz, a member of the Conservative party, was elected speaker of the German Reichstag, succeeding Count Udo von Stotberg-Wergerode, who died on February 19.

George McCracken, ten years old, sat at his desk until the Freeport (Pa.) school was dismissed, though he had broken his leg while coasting during recess.

GENERAL NEWS.

The cross-examination of Gifford Pinchot, the ousted chief forester, before the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee was marked by repeated clashes of counsel. There was much quibbling between counsel and witness as to the meaning and interpretation of certain statements Mr. Pinchot had made and opinions as to the understanding of various letters and documents. Mr. Pinchot again accused Secretary Ballinger of having made misstatements.

A general strike of the Philadelphia labor unions in sympathy with the striking street car men went into effect promptly on scheduled time. Simultaneously it became known, despite the denial of Gen. Clay, head of the police force, that every National Guard regiment in the state of Pennsylvania had received orders to be ready to entrain for Philadelphia at an hour's notice.

State Senator E. L. Travis and Representative A. P. Kitchin, both of Gov. W. W. Kitchin and of Congressman Claude Kitchin of the Second North Carolina district, and Deputy Sheriff C. W. Dunn, all of Halifax county, were shot down on the main street of Scotland Neck, N. C., by E. E. Powell. Travis and Kitchin were seriously and Dunn fatally wounded.

A four-year scholarship in American citizenship has been established at the University of Missouri by the Missouri Society of the Colonial Dames of America.

The Russian government in a formal note submitted to the Chinese foreign board respects in toto China's proposal for the construction of the Aigun & Chinchow railroad.

Two Chippewa Indian chiefs, who went to Washington from Orr, Minn., to ask congress for additional land for the Bois Forte Indian reservation, were apoplexized by illuminating gas in their lodging house. One was Chief Bay-Bum-Mah-Ji-Wa-Skung, who signed the treaty between the United States and the Chippewas in 1866 and was said to be almost 100 years old.

A serious split is said to have occurred in the ranks of New York suffragists because Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont has retained a lobbyist to work for suffrage at Albany. Mrs. Clarence Mackay has joined the faction opposing Mrs. Belmont.

Announcement is made at New York of the formation of the National Housing association, headed by Robert W. DeForest. The board of directors, composed of 37 members, includes Miss Jane Addams, Mrs. Elmore Blaine, Charles B. Ball, Victor Elting and Allen B. Pond of Chicago.

One man is dead and four others are wounded as the result of a mob attempting to break into the county jail at Cairo, Ill., with the avowed intention of trapping John Trapp and Lincoln Wilson, two colored boys charged with picking the pockets of two women.

Judge Kennasaw M. Landis at Chicago, has ordered the federal grand jury to start an exhaustive inquiry into the methods employed by Congressman William J. Moxley and his son-in-law, John Dade, in the marketing of oleomargarine. The judicial order was the climax of sensational contention on the part of William Broadwell, seller of Moxley's oleomargarine, now under sentence of six years in the penitentiary for the offense of coloring it with matter also secured from Moxley and selling the compound as butter. Daniel Fortis, an employee of Broadwell, who admitted bringing the stuff from Moxley's place under cover of night and doing the mixing in a dirty barn; and Samuel Driesbach, partner of Broadwell, Fortis and Driesbach, are also awaiting sentence.

Congressman Lowden's bill to authorize the expenditure of $500,000 a year for American embassy buildings was defeated in the house at Washington after an exciting debate.

Van Norden's magazine, a semi-financial periodical of New York, which had been backed by Warner M. Van Norden, the banker, has ceased publication.

Eighty-six names are now on the list of gold and missing passengers, trainmen and postal employees who were carried down by the avalanche which destroyed two Great Northern trains near Wellington, Wash. Statements of the number of laborers fighting the snow who were sleeping on the tilted trains vary from twenty to thirty. An estimate of 150 dead is considered conservative.

The federal grand jury at New York city handed in a presentment against the American Sugar Refining Company, charging it with contempt of court in failing to produce books and papers called for by the grand jury.

A "bulldog" and a bull engaged in a battle to the death near Cheyenne, Wyo., driving the owner, A. B. Hawkins, to cover. After an hour's combat the dog secured a death grip on the bull and killed it.

The Oklahoma senate has passed a bill to suppress the "white slave" traffic in this state. The penalty is two to twenty years' imprisonment. The bill now goes to the governor.

Oriental Limited, train No. 2, east bound, on the Great Northern railroad, was the third train to fall a victim to an avalanche of snow and rocks in two days being wrecked. One person was killed and 12 others were injured, some of them seriously. The entire train escaped plunging down a 50-foot embankment 25 miles east of Spokane, Wash., by a narrow margin.

John D. Rockefeller has decided to give his vast accumulation of wealth for the benefit of his fellow man. Under the provisions of a bill introduced in the senate by Senator Jacob H. Gallinger of New Hampshire the oil king seeks a federal incorporation act for his wealth, with a view to distributing it under proper supervision for the good of mankind. The object of the foundation is to provide for a general organization to conduct philanthropic work among all lines.

None the worse for two serious operations at the Johns Hopkins hospital, Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood is again able to get around, and hopes to leave the hospital on Saturday. He will return to Governor's island.

Mrs. Grace Gayou, 19 years old, was shot and killed at a Kansas City store by Louis Hillison, who killed himself after he had beaten Jack Doyle, a rival for Mrs. Gayou's affections.

An admission by Senator Jeff Davis of Arkansas that he would draw a good fee from the passage of a bill that he was urging before the house committee on public lands has caused the greatest excitement in congressional circles. The sensation recalls the trouble of J. Ralph Burton, former senator from Kansas.

Walter Brown, former banker of Elkhart, Ind., was released from the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., at the expiration of a six-year sentence for his connection with the wrecking of the Elkhart & Chicago railroad.

Prosecutor Garvey requested Judge Swayze of the New Jersey supreme court to issue an order requiring the packing companies indicted last week to produce the minutes of their directors' meetings and their own records before the grand jury which is making further investigations into cold storage affairs.

Though the Seine river has risen to the flood maximum of 1882, due to recent heavy rains, Paris has no fear of further damage.

Eighty-four persons were carried to their deaths by an avalanche that swept down the steep sides of the Cascade mountains near Wellington. Caught like rats in a trap and with no chance of escape, the victims were enveloped in the mighty mass that came tumbling and roaring down the mountainside. They were caught in the irresistible mass of earth and snow; they were hurled over the side of a 200-foot precipice and were buried beneath hundreds of thousands of tons of debris.

James H. Rathke, Jr., of Orange, N. J., was arraigned in Jersey City on the indictment charging him and other beef packers with conspiracy in restraint of trade. The bill was furnished. Mr. Rathke is the New Jersey representative in the directorates of the National Packing Company and Swift & Co.

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM By William Pitt

Hens favor charcoal.

Grapes should be set eight feet apart.

High priced grain foods mean high producing dairy cows.

The farm is a sort of clock which reflects the time of year.

Early maturity is an important quality to consider in selecting sheep.

Blanket your horse during the sleet storms as well as when it is extremely cold.

A good way to make your calves healthy and weak is to keep them in a dark stall.

New land will always raise a crop but it takes care and labor to get old fields productive.

Some cornstalks may be fed to the porkers every day. They are sweet and do the hogs good.

If there is a fowl in the flock a little out of condition, that bird is apt to prove the most lousy member of the flock.

You can't have to wait for the incubator to get broody and then if you don't want to set it you don't have to break it up.

Late hatched chickens make fine fry in the winter time. They find a ready sale before the spring chickens come on the market.

To prevent throat and lung diseases among the poultry, put a piece of alum in the drinking water and repeat the dose every three or four weeks.

There is no reason why the bulk of the feeding cannot be done in a small yard, even though the cattle are allowed considerable range during the day.

A final condition of success with an incubator is not due to the incubator at all, but to the ability to successfully rear chickens, after they are hatched.

When clover is buried in the soil it will, of course, put more food in the form of humus and also more nutrient into the soil than if it is removed and sold.

Why not build up a private egg and poultry trade of your own, and get the profit the other man would make for selling and delivering them? It can be done very easily.

The trouble with alfalfa, and the reason why its use has not spread faster is that so many that try it as an experiment have a failure the first time. Then they give it up.

Any of the ailments such as colic, indigestion, milk fever, etc., come on after eating and drinking. Often the life of an animal is saved by visiting the stables just before retiring.

The best of the spring crop of lambs should be selected for breeders; inferior ewes, wethers, lambs, etc., disposed of. Ewes that have not been profitable should also be turned off.

It is said that an unusual noise will usually cure the stubborn hen of inclination to set. Put a set alarm clock in the nest. The ticking will annoy her and she will go off when the alarm does.

While the effect of the cow-peas in maintaining the fertility of the soil, were used as a catch-crop with wheat, is clearly shown by this experiment, the practice can hardly be recommended in general farming.

In feeding milk to right young pigs only a fraction of a teaspoonful must be given to each at a time, yet from five to seven feeds must be given during the day, gradually increasing the amount after the first day, but never giving them all they will drink.

The preliminary estimate of the corn crop in the principal states is as follows: Illinois, 356 million bushels; Iowa, 294 million; Nebraska, 196 million; Missouri, 215 million; Kansas, 156 million; Texas, 117 million; Indiana, 196 million; Ohio, 151 million; Oklahoma, 100 million.

The method of procedure by which a variety of potatoes is improved is very simple and easily carried out by any careful grower. When the crop is dug the most prolific blis may be selected and kept separate for a comparative test the following season. In this manner a prolific strain may be started.

Horses like milk.

The small incubator is expensive.

Cover the asparagus bed with manure.

Never feed corn alone to hogs. It is false economy.

Sheep do not interfere with, but fit nicely into modern farming.

The corn was situated, watered by the cutting manner of the farmer.

Damp houses are the greatest promoters of disease among fowls.

Thousands of young pigs are annually lost through lack of exercise.

It is not so much in the breed of a fowl or animal as in the care and feed.

On bright, warm days open up the stable doors and let the blessed sunshine in.

Slits accompanied by a certain degree of refinement is desirable in a dairy cow.

Ducks are fine layers, but make poor mothers. The incubator should be used to hatch the eggs.

The special dairy bred cow, the scales and the Blackcock test form the successful dairyman's Trinity.

The demand for draft geldings of great weight is a development of modern commercial conditions.

An excellent bedding for hogs is marsh hay or pulp from sugar cane meal. This gives out very little dust.

Two very important points in raising poultry are to keep plenty of grit before your fowls and not to overfeed them.

Seed potatoes in the cellar may look all right on top and be badly sprouted in the bottom of barrels and bins; better investigate.

Better get all the lazy hens ready for market. Of course, you have trap nests and know to a certainty which are the lazy ones.

Chicks hatched in June, July and August begin laying in February and March, and lay enough the first season to pay for the extra care.

It is the part of wisdom to handle a bull with a strong staff and a safe connection with his nose ring, no matter how quiet he may be.

English farm lands that have been tilled continuously for centuries still produce an average of 30 bushels of wheat to the acre every year.

Scientific feeding is one of the reasons why English agriculture has advanced rapidly during the past century. We in America are learning rapidly.

Every farmer sells his cattle. It is not always provided regularly or in any particular quantity, but each owner figures that his cattle are getting sufficient salt.

Long legged sheep are invariably good runners, but that is not what you want them for. Get sheep that are low on the ground and they will serve their purpose better.

The care of stable manure is of special importance in connection with live stock farming. It is pointed out, and proper handling will prevent much of the loss which now occurs.

Be sure that the pigs are not lousy. Kerosene oil rubbed on a hog's back is good for lice. But look out and not have it do too much to the pig's skin, or you may make a blither.

The thrifty farmer pays strict attention to the breeding of his animals. They are carefully guarded as to environment, diet, air and cleanliness so that the best market value can be reached.

Pick out the old and heavy gobblers to take to market. There is good demand for turkeys now. Full crops spot the appearance of turkeys for market so don't feed to today those you are going to kill to-morrow.

Prices of farm products now, as compared with those of a few years ago, afford ample and costly evidence that the farming industry is not keeping up with the general growth of the country, but confirmatory statistics may be easily compiled.

A swather attachment to a mower costs about $12, and an experienced clover grower claims that it saves its cost in clover seed in a very short time, say nothing of the three men it used to cost him to throw the ripened clover out of the way with forks.

To be a farmer of the present time one must be learned in chemistry, a good carpenter, a fair machinist, an ordinary house painter, an accurate bookkeeper, a good veterinary surgeon, a competent civil engineer, know enough about law to keep out of court, be a shrewd buyer, an affable salesman and a good citizen.

CONVINCING PROOF OF THE VIRTUE OF Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

What is the use of procrastinating in the face of such evidence as the following letters represent? If you are a sick woman or know one who is, what sensible reason have you for not giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? For 30 years we have been publishing such testimonial letters as these—thousands of them—they are genuine and honest, too, every one of them.

Mrs. S. J. Barber says:

"I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine in the world for women—and I feel it my duty to let others know the good it has done for me. Three years ago I had a tumor which the doctor said would have to be removed by an operation or I could not live more than a year, or two, at most. I wrote Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for advice, and took 14 bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today the tumor is gone and I am a perfectly well woman. I hope my testimonial will be of benefit to others."—Mrs. S. J. BARBER, Scott, N. Y.

Mrs. George May says:

"No one knows what I have suffered from female troubles, neuralgia, pains, and backache. My doctor said he could not give me anything to cure it. Through the advice of a friend I began to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the pain soon disappeared. I continued its use and am now in perfect health. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a God-send to me as I believe I should have been in my grave if I had not been for Mrs. Pinkham's advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. GEORGE MAY, 86 4th Ave., Paterson, N. J.

Mrs. E. F. Hayes says:

"I was under the doctor's treatment for a fibroid tumor, suffered with pain, soreness, bloating, and could not walk or stand on my feet any length of time. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice, followed her directions and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. To-day I am a well woman, the tumor was expelled, and my whole system strengthened. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female troubles to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 1890 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

Mrs. W. K. Housh says:

"I have been completely cured of a severe female trouble by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and want to recommend it to all suffering women."—Mrs. W. K. HOUSH, 7 Eastview Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

WANTED TO BE ON SAFE SIDE

Woman, Twice Described, Didn't Mean to Take Any Chances on Her Third Husbby.

The officers of the thumb print bureau were just wishing for something interesting to turn up when a telephone message offered timely diversion. A woman was speaking.

"Do you make prints of anybody's thumbs except criminals?" she asked. The bureau did.

"Well," said the woman, "if I will come down there right away with a man will you make a print of his thumb?"

The bureau would. The man and the woman came.

"We want his thumb prints for identification," said the woman. "We are going to be married tomorrow. He is my third husband. The other two ran away and I had the hardest kind of a time to find them because there was no sure way of identifying them. They say thumb prints can't be traced because that a man can't be fooled by them to the ends of the earth. I hope I shall never have to use them, but it is just as well to be on the safe side. Will you make them?"

The bureau did.

Traveling Man Got Even.

A traveling man called on the manager of a large New York concern the other day and sent his card in by the boy at the outside gate. The boy mumbled back lamely and told the traveling man that the manager wouldn't see him.

"Well, you go and ask him for the card I sent in," said the caller.

In a few minutes the boy returned from his second trip. "Say," remarked the boy, "the boss told me to tell you that he tore up that card, but he sent a nickel to you to pay for it."

"Traveling man was deeply insulted, but he decided to get back as best he could. He opened his card case and drew out another card, handing it to the boy.

"Give this to your boss," he said, "and tell him that I'll keep the money. My cards are worth five. Much obliged."

The manager rushed out of the gate to find the traveling man, but he was too late. The man had left.

What He Was After.

George Washington Henry Clay Lincoln Carter, one of Georgia's younger darkey citizens, was suddenly called upon not long ago to explain his presence at 1 a. m. in the henhouse of a white neighbor.

"Stealing my chickens, are you, you black rascal!" the owner demanded.

George W. H. C. L. C. rolled his eyes until they were all whites.

"Now, now, lookyeh, Mars George," he protested, "dat ain't no way ter ac—an please don't pint dat gun at me dat er way, cunnel, sah," he hastily added, holding up his battered hat as a shield. "Ah, 'lar Ah wasn't gwine steal no chickens; no, sah! Ah's writin' er d'lect'ory—ah Ah des' come moseyeh round hyah ter git local color—yas, sah, dat's all Ah was after, Ah 'clar to de Lawd hit waz!"

Thinking of Garden Time.

Bacon—I think much of the man who can make two blades of grass grow where one grew before.

Robert—I've not got my eye on him. I admire more the man who can make only one weed grow where a dozen grew before.

What Is Happening Throughout the State

Lexington, Ky.—The corn school for Kentucky boys opened in the State university with a class of 50 boys from various sections of the state.

Louisville, Ky.—The date for the enthronement of Bishop O'Donoghue, of Indianapolis, as the head of the diocese of Louisville, was fixed for March 30.

Louisville, Ky.—Bayless L. D. Guffy, former chief justice of the court of appeals, Kentucky's highest tribunal, died after two months' illness. He was 77 years of age.

Louisville, Ky.—Arthur M. Miles, who shot and killed Bessie Smith, attempted suicide in his cell at the county jail. Jail Physician Garvin says his wounds are not fatal.

Lexington, Ky.—As a compromise proposition, the city council at a special meeting passed an ordinance fixing the saloon license for 1910 at $225, payable $75 March 1 and $175 Sept. 1.

Lexington, Ky.—The Fayette Gun club has applied to the Interstate Trap Shooters' association for the dates May 19 and 20 for the state championship shoot that is to be held here.

Covington, Ky.—After hearing arguments in the preliminary trial in which Frank W. Tranter charged his brother, Rev. Watson W. Tranter, with forging a check for $5,000, County Judge Cleary held the minister over to the next grand jury for investigation.

Puduch, Ky.—The City National and American-German National banks consolidated, with total resources of about $2,000,000. The new institution will be known as the City National bank, which has just begun the erection of a ten-story building. The bank will have deposits of $1,211,696.11.

Louisville, Ky.—Eva Tanguay, the actress, was arrested here, charged with assault and battery by Clarence Hess, a "snoop" at Macaulay's theater. Hess also filed suit against Miss Tanguay for $2,000 damages, alleging that Eva had inflicted injuries upon him with her fists and also a hatpin.

Lebanon, Ky.—As the result of a fierce battle with three lions at the ranch of "Cherokee" Ed Baumeister, five miles west of this city, Samuel Rose, 32, practically had all the flesh torn off his arm, and the bones were crushed in four or five places. The member was amputated.

Owensboro, Ky.—E. H. Cady, of Toledo, O., purchased the properties in this (Davies) county of the Kentucky and Indiana Telephone and Telegraph Co. at a receiver's sale for $50,000. The property is valued at $250,000, with a debt of $175,000. It is said Mr. Cady acted for the bondholders.

Frankfort, Ky.—George S. Wilson, of Sturgis, speaker of the house of representatives, was put in the running for the democratic nomination for governor when 47 representatives, nearly two-thirds of the democratic members of the house, pledged themselves to support him for the nomination.

Frankfort, Ky.—At a meeting of the state railroad commission the interstate commerce commission's uniform demurrage code was adopted and will become a rule for the shippers and the railroads of this state. Rates on steam coal from all points in Western Kentucky to Mayfield were reduced from $1.10 per ton to 90 cents a ton.

Lexington, Ky.—C. M. McRoberts, formerly of Cincinnati and more recently of Lexington, was arrested at Kokomo, Ind., and brought back to this city to answer the charges of bigamy and larceny preferred by Mrs. Esther Halberstadt, McRoberts, who is designated as wife No. 1, and who resides in Cincinnati.

Ft. Thomas, Ky.—Word was received here of the death of Lieut. Col. Bernard A. Byrne, a retired officer, in San Francisco, after a lingering illness. Byrne served with the Sixth infantry, which was stationed in the Kentucky Highlands before and after the Spanish-American war, for 26 years, joining it immediately after graduating from West Point.

Danville, Ky.—James A. Stout, the wealthy woman who had sworn vengeance on the women of Danville, was arrested by a posse of officers, tried and adjudged a lunatic. The rooms of the crazy man had been bedded down in straw like stalls in livery stables, and he had a room full of cigar stubs and cigarette "snips" which he had picked up on the streets.

Lexington, Ky.—Secretary Horace Wilson, of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' association, made the announcement that the two-year-old division of the Kentucky Futurity, entries to which will close March 16, will in future be a special race.

Louisville, Ky.—The final day of grace for corporations brought an avalanche of reports to the office of Assignment Clerk Charles Warren. Mr. Warren stated that of the 1,700 corporations in the Fifth district more than four-fifths have complied.

CONFIDENT CAN DOUBLE YIELDS OF FARM CROPS

Wyoming Seedman Tells How Soil Can Be Made to Produce More Scientific Methods and Patience Required.

A doubling of the present production of farm staples is in sight, according to Prof. B. C. Buffum of Worland, Wyo., who is pioneer in the science of seed breeding.

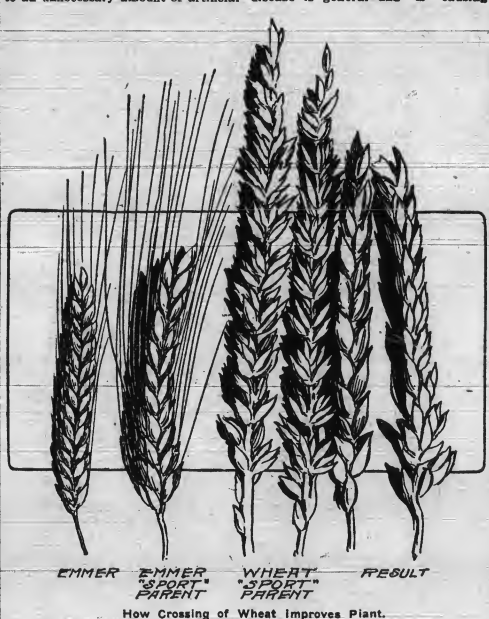

"We already have practically doubled the yield of corn by selection and plant breeding," said Prof. Buffum, who was in Chicago the other day, "but we need not stop with corn, as we can deal with all other crops in a similar way. The reason that this has not been done earlier is that plant breeding has been utilized heretofore mainly for the production of curiosities. Men who brought out anything new were 'wildards.' Few saw any practical value in what was being done. Much was accomplished in an esthetic way with reference to improvements of flowers, but the great farm crops were neglected.

"The condition of our agriculture and its improvement is being given serious consideration by all thoughtful men. It is the foundation of our social economy, for production from the soil means the creation of new wealth. The high cost of living is, in my opinion, due to conditions resulting from the neglect of the farm. The city has held out alluring charms to the country youth in the form of greater advantages for education, more of the comforts of life, more excitement and more liberties to the individual with regard to little vices that would cause ostracism among provincial citizens, but as overlooked in a crowd of strangers in the city, this rush to the cities has brought about a lack of balance in the business of the country. It has given rise to an unnecessary amount of artificial but he has not given much attention to practical features that appeal to the farmer.

"Alfalfa is the basis of western agriculture, yet it has never been pedigreed or improved by scientific breeding. It is a mongrel plant, with probably the greatest value of any mongrel on earth. I now have in my breeding gardens 70 varieties and strains of alfalfa, including those raised from seed from every part of the world where the plant is grown, in addition to my own hybrids. The method pursued in improving alfalfa is to make crosses and hybrids between all of these varieties and then select the one that shows the best quality, combined with the greatest productive-ness. This last season I had two hybrids that grew to a height of three feet in 90 days from the date of planting the seed. Any one who has grown alfalfa can appreciate the significance of these figures. By fixing some type of this sort I can put into the hands of the farmers improvements that greatly will increase the yield.

"Those who are trying to improve alfalfa have three objects in view. The first is to develop a quick growing, heavy-yielding strain. The second is to obtain fine stems, with a large percentage of leaves, for the leaves are of the most value to the stock farmer. The third object is to gain power to resist disease. One troublesome disease is known as leaf spot. It is a new fungus disease affecting many plants that can be made immune by proper treatment. This disease is general and is causing business. There are too many middlemen, all of whom must share the profits from land and labor.

"The great hope of the future is better farming. Vast improvements have been made in our crop and stock production through experimental investigation, scientific study, and agricultural education. The physical sciences, such as chemistry, physics, improved machinery, and some of the principles underlying crop production and animal feeding are being worked out, and, as a general statement, it may be said that farming is our most stable and prosperous business.

"At present there is a strong movement for the improvement of the staple farm crops and I do not believe there is a question but that the work now going on will result in a doubling of the yield in the mountain region of arid America on land that is either irrigated or not irrigated. The government 'average' yield as the present standard. I know the average yields through many years of experience, and also realize what can be done by the best methods of farming. The great industries of the west are the production of live stock and fruits. With the breaking up of the range we are now producing better live stock at less hazard. Anything that enables the ranchman to increase the production of stock food would be one of the greatest factors in increasing the wealth of any region.

"Cereals can be improved much faster than live stock, but, nevertheless, the development of horses and cattle in the past has been much more notable than the progress in grains. At a recent convention the statement was made that it would require about 8,000 years of live stock breeding to duplicate the advance made with grains in one year's work at my experimental farm. The reason for the delay with regard to grains is that it is only a few years since the principle of hybridization has been discovered. Burbank has done more in this line than any one else, much trouble, especially where alfalfa has been introduced.

"The old statement that wheat is a direct gift from God to man needs some modification in the light of recent discoveries. Wheat is a splendid gift, but development was necessary before it could fill all of man's needs. This fact, however, does not in any way detract from its value as a benefit to mankind. It had been supposed for a long time that the true wild form of wheat was not known, but we have discovered that one of the early forms is Einkorn, which is found wild in Mesopotamia. About three years ago Dr. Aaronsohn discovered a wild emmer growing in barren places in Palestine, and the fact that it can be crossed with other wheat indicates that it may have been an ancestor from which have come important improvements.

"At the Worland ranch we have been working with winter and spring wheat, oats, barley and rye. Although operations have been going on at the present site, only three years, some remarkable results have been obtained. From the department of agriculture I obtained a black wheat, which is an early form of wheat, differing from the common grain in that it remains in the hull when threshed, like barley. By throwing this grain under unusual conditions a 'sport' or mutation, was obtained from which the yield was better and better than from the original.

"Emmer is bearded, like barley, so we crossed it with winter wheat for the purpose of eliminating the beard. From this cross has arisen a remarkable series of new types of grain. Between 8,000 and 10,000 variations were obtained. From those I have selected 16 of the best, which are being developed so as to be of practical value. In addition to working with what are known as 'feed' grains, I have developed a type of winter wheat that appears to be superior to the popular turkey red, now generally grown throughout the northwest."

Cincinnati people are making much ado about the coal smoke in their city, and bless their souls had it not been for coal smoke Cincinnati would now be an insignificant speck on the industrial map in this country.

Gov. Willson has certainly learned by this time that there is no use to call a special session of the present members of the General Assembly to enact into law any of his favorite measures. They are forlorn and anything he wants.

Senator B. M. Arnett says Kentucky chivalry was shocked the other day when two senators refused to vote for the Humane Society bill. This was being urged by the woman, Kentucky courage was just a bit shocked recently when Senator Arnett could not be found when he was sorely needed. —Blue Grass Clipper.

The Elizabethtown News augurs the following ticket to lead the democracy in the next State election: For Governor, J. C. S. Blackburn; Lieutenant Governor, James B. McCreary; Attorney General, J. C. W. Beckham; Auditor, S. H. Hagg. The worst ticket this ticket would unite all factions of the democracy and sweep the State.

Mr. W. E. Cropper, carrier on rural route No. 2, is several years past the four score mark, yet he performs his duties with promptness and satisfaction to the large number of his patrons. During the bad weather of the winter he never missed a day on his route. He is probably the oldest carrier in the employ of the government, but there are none more faithful than he. —Blue Grass Clipper.

Bill Nye had the truth well told when he said: "A man may use a wart on the back of his neck for a collar button; use on the back of a railroad train to save interest on his money till the conductor gets around; hop watch at night to save wear and tear; leave his 'I' or 'O' without a dot or cross to save ink; pasture his mother's geese to save corn, but a man of this sort is a gentleman and a scholar compared to the fellow that will take a newspaper two or three years and when asked to pay for it put it back into the office and has it marked 'refused'."

During the last few months about 100 families from Kentucky have moved to Northwestern Missouri to take up the cultivation of tobacco. About two years ago extensive experiments were made at that section is adapted to tobacco culture. Last year 2,000,000 lbs. of tobacco was raised in Platte county and about 800,000 pounds in Clay county. During the present year thousands of acres of tobacco will be cultivated, and Kentucky families are moving there to teach the native farmers the best methods of culture. At present Weston, Mo., is the center of the tobacco business. Hundreds of tobacco barns are being built, and many farmers are growing five to ten acres. —Maysville Public Ledger.

Ten years ago when the twelfth census was taken it showed the population of the United States was 75,000,000. In the year 1900 the people have to stand up and be counted again. Census taking every 10 years is an enormous task. That of 1900 cost Uncle Sam about $13,000,000. Since then his land possessions have increased and his family has gained about 15,000,000 members. It is claimed that the American people are the largest, costliest and most accurate taken in the world. The enumeration must be finished within two weeks in the cities that had 50,000 population or over at the last census and within thirty days in all other areas. To perform this task promptly Uncle Sam will employ the service of 75,000 men.

It is a well-known fact that the express companies carry packages over the railroads of the United States for a distance of 500 miles at half a cent a pound, and for 1,000 miles at one cent a pound. And yet the postal rate on packages over the same route is 16 cents a pound, and they are limited to four pounds. It is also well known that the express companies are competing for business for their health, as they announce big dividends to their stockholders annually. The rural people, about 80 per cent of all here in the Central West, who cannot get the benefit of this low rate of the express companies as they live off of the railways, would like to know how long Congress is going to "hold them up" by its present 16-cent-a-pound policy. That is the meat for the whole proposition. —Ex.

Commissioner of Agriculture M. C. Rankin announces that he will not send out gratuitous garden seeds to people over the state this season, as has been the custom of the Department of Agriculture in the past. He declares that the purpose of sending out free seeds has been to secure reports of the best varieties so that the department would be enabled to deal intelligently with the best seed to the farmers of the state. Practically no reports were received, however, the recipients of the seed apparently believing themselves beneficiaries of these gratuities of the department and letting it go at that. The department has gotten good results from seed corn which it sent out last year, and will supply it in a reasonable degree and where record can be kept of the results. Seed corn is not to be distributed indiscriminately, however, but will be sent to certain counties of the state where corn growing conditions were not held last year. —Stown News.

Editor Recorder:

It has been my intention to write a letter to my friends ever since I have been here, but the time has passed off so rapidly that I can hardly believe that it has been over two years since I left Kentucky, so you can understand by this that it has been very pleasantly spent. I miss my friends and my home, and I look forward to the arrival of the Boone County Recorder as I would a letter, and devour the entire contents. You never know how to appreciate it until you move away, but I always feel disappointed whenever I fail to see any news from the home town. I know there are plenty of news items and talent there. I was glad to read a letter from the editor of the Union last week. It brings me back to childhood days, and I enjoyed the letter from Mrs. B. W. Adams, now at Bovina, Texas; was sorry the best seats in the good people leaving Kentucky and know they will be greatly missed, but don't blame them for going where all is new and bright. I like to read more letters from other friends. I hope to read in the paper ere long that the graded school building in Union is now under construction and will be ready by the first of September for educational instruction. It seems that the prospects are very bright for the traction road and hope you will succeed in getting it through Boone county. It will be something rare and a thing long sought for by the enthusiastic people, and there can be no failure as the results of the effort being made in that direction will be such energetic as you have mentioned at the head of it. Then Union will no longer be a back number, but a place where a fine, fine creamery and competent men to run it, both in mental and physical culture. I came here on a visit and was favorably impressed with the climate, the town, and surroundings. Real estate seemed to be on the increase all the time, and I had disposed of my property there and nothing social to call me back. I have never and have never regretted doing so. I had it was good for me. I have the very best of health. This is quite a business town, a city of unusual recuperative powers, and financial flourish have not hurt it much, as it is a place of business. It is one of the most historic cities in the United States, and the grandest scenery in the world. I can hardly believe the atmosphere of Eden was more aromatic than the waves of air that float over these rustic mountains.

December, 1901, the twelve story Janus building was made ready for occupancy. We also have a commodious hotel of fine office accommodations of twelve city blocks in the heart of the town, and the new terminal station is quite an addition. It is the grandest diversified manufacturing plant in the South. Number of factories is three hundred; hands employed, fifteen thousand; capital invested, 35 million, six hundred and seventy five thousand dollars. The load one hundred cars a day here. There are churches here galore, seven in a radius of two blocks, and a Y. M. C. A. building. I attend the first Baptist church, which is next door to my boarding house. —Dora Bannister.

Gov. Willson is said to be contemplating calling an extra session of the Legislature immediately after the adjournment of the regular session. The call is expected to include a recommendation for legislation providing for the payment of the State's obligations and for the consideration of the county unit bill. The House of Representatives defeated the bill making appropriations for the Kentucky State University and normal schools. The Democrats in the Kentucky General Assembly, last fall, and now the General Assembly seems to be going to the state legislature out of power. The trouble with the body is it contains too many political fanatics, who are worse than yellow dog Democrats. Wyoming is doing well. The top in sheep and wool growing, and is in close touch with the wool industry of the United States. A correspondent who is touching the future of wool, writes the American Sheep Breeder, and says that many others have been misled by Wyoming sheepmen for their 19.0 clip, prices ranging from 20 to 22 cents. This is regarded as an indication that the price of 1902 will be about 20 cents a pound, and sheepmen are slow to dispose of their wool, very few contracts having been signed. Leading sheepmen predict that 20 and even 21 cent a pound will be reached the coming season, and point to the recent sale of the Green River, Wyo., Live Stock and Wool Growers' Association of what may be expected in the spring. The Green River Company's clip was sold through the Chicago Wool Warehouse and Storage Company and brought 26 1/2 cents per pound. This is an advance of 1 1/2 cents over the highest price received by any Wyoming clip, who sold by the old method of direct dealing with commission men and representatives of eastern manufacturers. This sale is big let for the co-operative plan of storing and selling wool inaugurated at Chicago by the National Wool Growers' Association, which plan had its inception in Wyoming. The Chicago house began to be prepared a year ago by an Omaha concern which was organized by the Wyoming Wool Growers' Association.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

(Furnished by Suppt. Riley.)
Many of our schools have closed, and yet the Auditor's check for the sixth month has not been received.

Boone County Board of Education will meet Monday, March 18. With the coming of spring we should welcome back our bird friends. Teachers and students should study the habits of our birds to the end that they may know their value to us. If these birds should all die we would be unable to raise our crops, all trees would be killed by insects also. The Thirteenth General Census of the United States will be taken beginning April 15, 1910, to be completed within the next thirty days. The meaning of this census, the questions asked and the purpose for asking these questions should be discussed in our schools. Already six applicants have been appointed to free tuition in the Eastern Kentucky Normal College, and others have gone under their old appointments. On the third Saturday in this month will be held in Burlington an all day meeting in the interest of organizing "Boy's Corn Clubs" and special lectures on "Testing Seed Corn" and "How to Grow Corn" by Prof. Roberts of Kentucky State University. Teachers, boys and farmers should attend this meeting. Prof. Roberts is an expert in this matter and this day's work will be very profitable to all who attend. Teachers, bear in mind that this kind of work will be expected of you next year. You should grasp this opportunity of gaining this knowledge.

OBITUARY.
In loving remembrance of my dear father, James H. Eddins, who died Feb. 8th, 1910, age 72, years 5 months and 13 days. Oh, how cruel it seems to take him that is left of us our dear one and put it away under the sod, to moulder and decay the fairness of his life. He was a true man, eyes and crushed hearts, while we almost choke with the sobs we can not stifle when we know we are parting from that loved one, we come slowly away from that mound with a heavy heart, leaving three alone in that cruel earth, sleeping so sweetly that long, last sleep, and the tears came again to our eyes, as we turn to go home again. We know nothing we can do will bring back to us one look from those eyes always had a smile for us. We came silently home for we feel that we must be alone in our sorrow or we shall be driven mad. We go by, we busy ourselves with our daily duties to still the heart throbs which come when we think of our loss and somehow get closer to our minds the thought that some day we shall know what means it all, for some day our friends will take our tired body out to that beautiful cemetery and lay us gently down to rest. His Loving Daughter.

THE GOOD FEATURES OF A BANK!

No business enterprise in a community, affords more conveniences to the public than a well governed bank, as it affords a medium of exchange that no other source can equal. It gives absolute protection to the safety of money entrusted to its care. It gathers together the surplus money of a community; and gives idle money the most extensive circulation through loans to individuals of property wealth who need a volume of money to transact business in the purchase of the products of the farm and factory. Thus the money of those who have a surplus and are wise enough to deposit in a bank is utilized to its fullest value; and affords a bank additional funds whereby loans are made to traders who are thus enabled to purchase from the identical people who have their money on deposit in a bank, which otherwise they would not be enabled to do. Money hid away or kept at home is not only out of circulation but it dries up as far as its value is concerned. The Equitable Bank and Trust Co., Walton, Ky., wants your business. It is a deposit on money. Our Trust department qualifies as a manager of estates, as executor, guardian, administrator, etc. Capital of bank, $500,000, showing assets Jan. 1st, or 1910, $1,000,000. The business of all collected. Try us; you will be pleased. Telephone collection.

Local Happenings.

Get ready to sow your oats. Some tobacco plant beds have been sowed.

Grover Snyder killed a large fox last Saturday.

Not many more snows scheduled for this winter.

Not a very large crowd attended county court last Monday.

The sunshine of the last few days has given the grass a start.

Indications are that nature will be of service to the farmer's early this spring.

County Attorney N. E. Riddell transacted business in the city, last Thursday.

C. W. McFee had a very large crowd at his sale and everything brought good prices.

Remember tomorrow is the big sale of J. E. Scott, Jr., on the pike above Florence.

C. L. Gaines can apply the Cincinnati Post, Cincinnati or Kentucky Post daily for $2.

Miss Beale Hall spent several days the past week with relatives in Newport and Covington.

Several of the public schools in the county have completed the term in the last few weeks.

James Slayback has sowed a tobacco plant bed one hundred and four feet long and nine feet wide.

Fine weather last week for the lambs which were proving a source of so much care on the part of their owners.

There will be a public sale of a lot of household furniture at the Catholic parsonage in Verona, next Saturday afternoon.

Last Saturday afternoon lightning struck and damaged considerably a corn crib belonging to Peter Hager, of East Bend.

Joseph L. Rich, one of the good old time people of Big Bone neighborhood, was transacting business in Burlington, one day last week.

If the three first days of a month rule it, March will be a dandy month this year. The three first days were very fine spring weather.

W. J. Rice was notified one day last week of the death of his brother, Robert, at his home in Kansas. From what he died was not stated.

Remember the date of the entertainment to be given the latter part of this month at Library Hall. It will give you your money's worth.

S. W. Tolin has erected a professional sign at the corner of the Recorder office to direct clients to his sanctum in the second story of the building.

March has been very much lamb-like so far, but remember in the matter of weather it is very treacherous and yet tear the country all to pieces.

Bills were printed at this office last week for John Rensler and C. R. Best's fine saddle and harness stallion, which they will handle at Walton this season.

Lightning killed a goose for Charles White, last Saturday afternoon. Mr. White, his wife and daughter were built a short distance from the goose when it was struck.

The sunshine last week incited industrious farmers with a desire to begin doing things. They have had several months enforced rest, and are anxious for a good workout.

Robins began singing at early dawn last week, even though we believed that bad weather had run its course. Let it be hoped that they will not be disappointed if it they so believe.

Considerable water, soap and muscle was used in preparing the Boone House for occupancy again. It does not take an unoccupied house long to get into a deplorable condition.

Mrs. Benton Vickers, of Constance, was a business visitor to Burlington, one day last week. She has moved back to her home overlooking the towns of Constance and Anderson's Ferry.

When subscribing or renewing your subscription to the Cincinnati Post, Times-Star, or any newspaper or magazine, remember C. L. Gaines is agent for periodicals of all description.

Ed Tupman, of Erlanger, was over Sunday, guest of the county. Having disposed of the farm on which he resides, he will have a big sale on the 3rd inst. See his advertisement in another column.

William Wilson left at this office, one day last week, a double lot of tobacco. The leaf started from the stalk as all ordinary leaves do, but about six inches, forming two well defined leaves.

Frank Hoesman, the hunting Hebron farmer, carpenter and architect, was transacting business in Burlington, last Thursday. Among his transactions was the purchase of a fine Shorthorn bull of W. J. Rice at a good round figure.

Richard Stephens, of Rabbit Hash, was in Burlington, last Thursday. His daughter will attend the State Normal school at Richmond. She has an ambition to be one of the best teachers in the county.

Depositions were taken in the action of Flick against Rogers, on Wednesday and Friday, of last week, the first noticeable stir in the legal atmosphere indicating that something was doing in the way of preparation for the approaching term of circuit court.

Waller Ryle, of Waterloo neighborhood, was among the callers at this office a few days ago. He took a good look at the typewriter, but concluded he would not build one for his own use during the high price of the material necessary to its construction.

WOOLGROWERS HOLD MEETING.

The wool growers of the county held a meeting at the court house, last Monday. Clinton Gaines was elected chairman, and J. H. Stevens, secretary, of the meeting.

The wool pool was thoroughly discussed, after which the following district committees were appointed:

Burlington—L. T. Clure, Bullittsville—Clinton Gaines, Petersburg—J. H. Stevens, Bellevue—James Rogers, Rabbit Hash—P. Hager, Hamilton—J. H. Stevens, Verona—Ed Ferrell, Walton—Dr. J. P. Clure, Union—James A. Huey, Florence—J. H. Stevens, Constance—J. J. Rucker.

The meeting adjourned to meet again in Burlington on the first Monday in April.

Gordon Gaines and wife came out from the city last Friday evening and spent several days with his parents and relatives here.

So far the month of March has been very spring like, and the several thunder storms of last Saturday emphasized the spring features of that day.

Saved a Soldier's Life.

Facing death from shot and shell in the civil war, we were agreeable to J. A. Stone, of Kemp, Tex., than facing it from what doctors said was consumption.

"I contracted a stubborn cold," he writes, "that developed a cough that stuck to me in spite of all remedies for years. My weight ran down to 130 pounds. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. I now weigh 175 pounds."

For Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough and all lung troubles its supreme. 50c and $1.00 at Bentler's drug store, Erlanger. Trial bottle free.

Card of Appreciation.—We desire to express our heartfelt thanks to the ever thoughtful relatives and neighbors for the many little acts of kindness shown us during the serious illness of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. G. H. Walton, especially do we wish to extend our gratitude to Dr. Riffe for his heroic and successful treatment.

The tender sympathy expressed in the death of the ever and loving son and brother, L. C. Walton, of Knightstown, Indiana.

The Bereaved Family.

Card of Thanks.—I desire to thank one and all of my sincere friends who so kindly in remembering me during the days of my illness, and may the Great Giver bestow the best of blessings on all of them, and with an unceasing joy and willing hands, I stand ready to return any and all the acts of kindness shown to me and mine during the mortal form of any man, and with a bowed head and sincere heart I beg the Allwise God to give me knowledge and strength to restore all acts of kindness to a hundred folds.

B. S. O'Neal, Esq., Verona, Ky.

Once more the death angel visited our home and took away the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vest, Archie Lee, who was born March 2, 1903, and died Feb. 23, 1910, being 6 years, 11 months and two days old. The remains were laid to rest in New Bethel cemetery. He leaves a father, mother, and two sisters to mourn his death. They have the sympathy of all father and mother, don't weep your little one has gone on before to sleep with Jesus.

Card of Thanks.—We desire to extend our sincere thanks to our kind friends and neighbors during the sickness and death of our little son and brother, and also to Rev. Evans for his kind words and consolation.

Father, Mother and Sisters.

John Orsler, who recently purchased of John W. Williams his farm in Union precinct, was in Burlington, last Thursday. He is pleased with his new home and more than delighted with his neighbors. His house occupies an elevation from which he can see counties in three States. He and S. A. House are calculating on doing things in the way of farming this season, and expect their neighbors to marvel at the results they obtain.

The very high prices which urkeys command at last year are apt to stimulate many persons to engage in raising them this year who heretofore have been content with the few favorable seasons may result in the country, being heavily stocked with them next fall. But it will require a tremendous run up to beat prices down again to where they were four or five years ago. High prices for turkeys have come to stay.

High water in Willoughby creek undermined a pier of the iron bridge that spans that stream near Bernard Rogers', one night last week, and the structure fell, but was not injured. Hands were spared to the call of the overseer and it was not long until the pier was repaired and the bridge put back in place and is good and strong as before the water began its ravages.

Stubborn As Mules

are liver and bowels sometimes; seem to balk without cause. Then there's the trouble—Loss of appetite—Indigestion, Nervousness, Depression, Headache. But such troubles (as before Dr. King's New Life Pills, the world's best Stomach and Liver remedy. So easy, so sure. Bentler's drug store, Erlanger.

Letters from Florida.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feby. 24. When I left home I was requested to write back to our county paper, but having been on the go all the time, I deferred until now.

We left Burlington on the morning of January 8th, when the ground was covered with about seven inches of snow, which had increased to about fifteen by the next morning with thermometer two above zero. We left Cincinnati. The depth of the snow diminished as we journeyed south, and when we reached Chattanooga it was about all disappeared.

After a ride of 25 hours we reached Jacksonville, Fla., and found beautiful weather and the thermometer at 69. We stayed there all night, and called on Kirby Foster and wife, whom we found well and enjoying life. Our next stop was at Sanford, after a ride of five hours. There we were met at the depot by Mr. DeCoursey, who took us to his home, where we were entertained royally. We met Lute Adams, also, and he had a real estate man take us over the city and out into the country in his automobile. In the country we saw a celery farm of 350 acres and all in fairly good condition, and part of the crop ready for market, although the freeze had hurt it some. At Sanford we met A. W. Smith, of Walton, who was visiting his daughter, Mrs. Noll and family and other relatives. Sanford is a good business place and appears to be building up rapidly.

Another run of six hours brought us to Tampa, of which place we saw but little, although it seems to be a city of considerable size. From Tampa we enjoyed an 18 mile boat ride down Tampa bay to St. Petersburg. This is the largest body of water we were ever on.

We arrived at St. Petersburg on the 12th inst. and found a temperature of 76 which went down to about 50 at night. We soon ran across Dr. Rouse and family, his father, Jacob Rouse and wife, Mr. Jackson Barnett and wife and Kenneth Clure, all of whom we found well. Dr. Rouse has bought a farm on part of which is a good sized orange grove and a good sized strawberry patch. The remainder of the farm will be put in vegetables. The doctor is interested in a garden adjoining him, and from it vegetables of all kinds are brought to the city daily by the wagon load. Their strawberries are also ready for the market. I have had several rides with the doctor, who does his practice in an automobile. I do not speak from observation, when I say the doctor has good practice. I have seen a great deal of it.

I like this place very much. The surrounding country is settled up with oranges, grapefruit and tangerine orchards here.

We visited Ft. Dade over on the Gulf of Mexico, where 218 soldiers are stationed. We took a look at the big guns, which we saw loaded, it requiring 17 men to do the work. Torpedo mines are being laid to better protect this point from invasion by a foreign enemy. They were tested for the first time, last week. We visited this place through the Hoosier Club. Tourists here organize themselves into clubs, and on occasion of this kind everybody takes lunch, but were given ice cream free, while Uncle Sam furnished coffee free. Dinner was served in Mess Hall. There was a very large crowd but not all Hoosiers. I mean as nearly all the States are represented here this winter.

My old friend, John Clure and wife, of Crawfordville, Indiana, are here for a short stay. He is trying the fishing act. They will go home next week.

We have been to Clear Water, 20 miles north of here. On this place Proctor, Tilly and wife are and citizens. We stayed with them one night and had a most delightful visit. Mr. Tilly has a fruit farm on which he is growing oranges, grapefruit and tangerines of a most excellent quality, and which I pronounce the best I have sampled. He has invested much money and labor in his farm and orchards, and now has them in a condition to be good revenue producers. He has a nice home, delightfully situated on Cheate bay, and in hearing of the ceaseless roaring of the waves on the Gulf of Mexico two miles away. This is a splendid part of the State, and here I have seen the largest and oldest orange trees. Handsome houses are numerous, and the finest hotel I have seen is in the suburbs—the Bellevue, to which all trains back up to. The rates being $5 a day and up, I could only stand outside and take a look at this magnificent hotel.

St. Petersburg celebrated with a Washington's birthday parade. About 10,000 people were in the parade, a great many veterans who were the blue and the gray. It was like a 4th of July celebration to us everybody waving the summer clothes and carrying umbrellas to protect them from the sun.

Many tourists are permitted to send their children to school here during their stay, which makes it quite convenient.

The Panama Canal celebration at Tampa this week, will be worth seeing.

The following wireless is from L. S. Beemon, who is touring Florida: "I struck St. Petersburg a few days ago, coming down from Tampa. At times on the bayland was about out of sight, which was a land lubber an all-over-kind of sensation, as the tide was coming in and the wind was pretty stiff. I was accompanied by my father and wife, who have had his father and wife as guests for several weeks. Jake is getting work brittle and will leave for the north in a few days, wanting to get home to take up farming as soon as the weather will permit. I am somewhat struck on this place for streets, fine stores, handsome residences, clever citizens and beautiful women.

I have been in Tampa one week. On the 22d of February there was a big celebration here, and it was claimed that 100,000 tourists were in the city, many of them in the parade. The floats were very fine. The darkeys had their rally on the 25th and they were in evidence by the thousands.

"Uncle Sam has two gun boats here, on which are 300 of his boys. There is also here an imitation man-of-war on which are several hundred men. A large cavalry force is camped at the fair grounds, so you see this place has very much of a warlike appearance.

There are several vessels in the harbor from New York, and they will take out large cargoes of lumber."

L. S. Beemon."

How Good News Spreads.

"I am 70 years old and travel most of the time," writes B. F. Tolson, of Elizabethtown, Kentucky. "Everywhere I go I recommend Electric Bitters, because I owe my excellent health and vitality to them. They effect a cure every time. They never fail to tone the stomach, regulate the kidneys and bowels, stimulate the liver, invigorate the nerves and purify the blood. They work wonders for weak, run-down men and women, restoring strength, vigor and health that's a daily joy. Try them. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by Ben Ler's drug store Erlanger."

J. F. Blyth and wife visited friends in Cincinnati, last Saturday and Sunday.

J. H. Clor, of Florence neighborhood, was a business visitor to Burlington, yesterday.

Miss Charlotte Hall spent Saturday night and Sunday with her parents, F. A. Hall and wife.

M. J. Castleman, of Latonia, was the guest of his brother, Atty. D. E. Castleman, last Thursday.

Mrs. J. E. Gaines is visiting her brother, Rev. O. M. Huey and family, of Somerset, Pulaski county.

Supt. Riley was at Verona a day or two last week in the interest of the public school at that place.

R. Lee Huey, of Big Bone church neighborhood, was transacting business in Burlington, last Thursday.

Howard Kelly and wife moved, last Thursday, to Bert Berkshire's house recently vacated by Irvin Rue.

J. T. Stephenson, of Limaburg neighborhood, had a consolidated phone put in his residence, last Friday.

Jeane Kirkpatrick is building an addition to the house on the Burlington and Florence pike near Florence.

County Clerk J. H. Rogers made a visit to his father and sister near Walton, the latter part of last week.

H. F. Blase, the old reliable Covington merchant tailor, has something to say to Boone county people in this issue.

C. C. Roberts spent several days last week at Verona, visiting his brother, John Tom Roberts, who is in poor health.

Miss Nellie Martin is acting as cashier of the Florence Deposit Bank while Mr. Bunker, the cashier, is away on a visit.

Joseph Bullock, the popular Hebron tailor, came over last Friday to show the boys his patterns for spring suits. He had some nice fabrics.

Read the public sale advertisements of Betty Long and Mrs. John Cahill, which appear in this issue. Each contains a long list of property.

The Recorder has printed bills for six sales during the past four weeks which, when all are made, will amount to a good sized fortune.

Some attribute the heavy death rate among the lambs this season to the fact that the ewes were cut off entirely from grass all winter by the frequent snows.

An old confederate soldier to get the benefit of the Kentucky pension has to be a resident of the State, besides complying with several other specifications that will confine the pension to only a few.

The legislature which will adjourn in the next few days has distinguished itself by its liberality with taxpayers' money and its obedience to the mandates of political bosses. That is all that can be said for it.

In renewing his subscription W. E. Vest, of Ord, Nebraska, writes: "I have been in Nebraska twenty-seven years, but when the Recorder gets here all work stops until the home news is all read from our old Kentucky home."

W. L. H. Baker, of Big Bone, until recently employed in the postoffice at Louisville, writes to have his paper changed from Louisville to St. Thomas, where he is now doing business for Uncle Sam. "Uncle Sam has no more conscientious employes than Mr. Baker."

An Awful Eruption.
Of a volcano excites brief interest, and your interest in skin eruptions will be as short, if you use Bucklen's Arnica Salve, their quickest cure. Even the worst boils, ulcers, or fever sores are soon healed by it. Best for Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Sore Lips, Chapped Hands, Chills and Piles. It gives instant relief. 25c at Bentler's drug store, Erlanger.

Held An Interesting Meeting.
The literary society was entertained in a royal manner, last Friday night by Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Peddico. The leading feature of the program was the discussion of the subject, "Affirmed that doctors and teachers have been of more benefit to mankind than lawyers and preachers." Dr. Peddico and Prof. Dix affirmed while Atty. D. E. Castleman and Rev. Edgar R. Huey took the negative. The judges decided in favor of the affirmative.

Entertaining "Weary Willies."
Jailer Adams had a run of "Weary Willies" last week. The night after the last of the night lodging at the jail was a woman about forty years old, who claimed to be on her way to Aurora. She was lodged and fed, and the next day she went on her way rejoicing. In a day or two after the woman had gone a son of Erin applied for lodging over night and was locked up and given his supper and breakfast for which he displayed his gratitude by denouncing the jail the next morning in terms more emphatic than elegant.

How Good News Spreads.
"I am 70 years old and travel most of the time," writes B. F. Tolson, of Elizabethtown, Kentucky. "Everywhere I go I recommend Electric Bitters, because I owe my excellent health and vitality to them. They effect a cure every time. They never fail to tone the stomach, regulate the kidneys and bowels, stimulate the liver, invigorate the nerves and purify the blood. They work wonders for weak, run-down men and women, restoring strength, vigor and health that's a daily joy. Try them. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by Bentler's drug store Erlanger."

An Eloquent Eulogy.
Quite a large crowd of the friends and old neighbors of Wm. Phipps, attended his funeral last Thursday afternoon. Rev. A. H. Stith, of the Baptist church, read a chapter and prayed at the vault, which was the singing of a couple of hymns, constituted the funeral services. Everybody had a good word to say of the deceased, and some kind and neighborly act of his to relate, which, after all, is the most eloquent eulogy that can be pronounced when the death and the use of respect is being paid the departed.

Taken Suddenly Ill.
Mr. George Thomas, who kept the toll-gate on the Bullittsville and Dry Creek turnpike, near Idlewild, was taken suddenly ill one day last week. He was talking to Wm. Hughes, carrier on rural route No. 14, when he fell. Mr. Hughes assisted him into his house and notified some of the neighbors, who went to look after him and found him in a very bad condition. He was brought to the county infirmary where he remains in a bad condition, one of his hips having been badly hurt by the fall. Mr. Thomas had been a faithful and appreciated neighborhood contributor to the Recorder and his new items will be missed greatly by the readers during his illness.

Saved a Soldier's Life.
Facing death from shot and shell in the civil war was more agreeable to J. A. Stone, of Kemp, Tex., than facing it from wet doctors said was consumption. "I contracted a stubborn cold" he writes, "that developed a cough that stuck to me in spite of all remedies for years. My weight ran down to 130 pounds. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. I now weigh 175 pounds." For Coughs, Cold, Gripes, Asthma, Hemorrhage, Hoarseness, Croup, Whooping Cough and Lung trouble it is superior. The only reliable Bentler's drug store, Erlanger. Trial bottle free.

From Indiana.
By agreement the township assessors will list timothy and alfalfa hay at $10 per ton, clover hay at $8, wheat 80 cents per bushel corn 45 cents and potatoes 35 cents.

John Doenges, the poultry fancier, has received 900 eggs from eighteen single comb Black Minorca hens in the past three months of December, January and February. Averaging 35 cents a dozen, they brought him $26.25.

If a brood sow owned by Frank Stevens, who lives near Moores Hill, could have her way "race suicide" among her kind, and the pork market would each be smashed to smithereens. A few days since she gave birth to eighteen pigs, which average a weight of one pound and ten ounces. Two are dead, but the remaining sixteen are in perfect health. Lawrenceburg Press.

While at work in the woods near Manchester a few days ago John Gillmore picked up what he thought to be a stick of wood. John soon changed his mind, when the object began to wiggle. It proved to be an adder. The snake was killed, and it measured three feet six inches in length. Lawrenceburg Press.

Death of L. C. Walton.
Mr. L. C. Walton died Sunday last about 1:30 o'clock at the M. E. hospital in Indianapolis from hemorrhage of the bowels, following an operation about three weeks ago for gall stones. Mr. Walton was taken ill a few days after Christmas. His condition grew worse, and as a last resort to preserve his life he was taken to the Indianapolis hospital, where an operation took place. Up to within three days of his demise the attending physicians were optimistic of recovery, but the dreaded hemorrhages set in and claimed him.

Only last June, Mr. Walton was married to Miss Margaret Dunn, daughter of a courtship of sixteen years. They were married at Cincinnati. Mr. Walton's home was at Erlanger, a suburb of Covington, Ky., where his aged parents live.

The body of Mr. Walton was brought to his home in the north east portion of town on Sunday evening, where friends and brother Odd-Fellows and Knights of Pythias looked after the wants of the distressed and bereaved widow and cared for the remains.

The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Christian church, attended by citizens and the membership of the two lodges in which he held his membership. In respect to the deceased the business houses generally remained closed for two hours.

Lachester C. Walton had been identified in a business way with Knightstown some thirteen or 14 years. He dealt in anyway with him. After two years of business life he sold out and returned to his home, returning after a year's absence and engaging again in the grocery business. For ten years he followed his vocation, treating courteously and kindly everyone who dealt in anyway with him. By his strict adherence to honesty and upright transactions Mr. Walton succeeded financially, and passed from our midst highly esteemed and greatly respected by all citizens of Knightstown. He was a quiet and unassuming gentleman, but sensible to the wants and wishes of those near him and never hesitated in extending a helping hand to the needy wayfarer. In distress, Mr. Walton died at the age of 49 years—Knightstown Banner, Feb. 11.

Judge Cammack is fixed in his determination to break up the habit in this county of ignoring subpoenas from the grand jury. Quite a number have learned this court to their sorrow that it is a bad business. They have drawn fines of $5.00 and $10.00 with the trimmings with a hurtful regularity. Dodging the officials don't pay, and then it is a hardship on the sheriff to compel him to chase witnesses all over the country and finally have to bring them into court with an attachment. It is safe to say that there won't be so many attachments hereafter. Owen County Democrat.

The farmers will be a very busy class of citizens from now on as the continued bad weather during the winter prevented them from doing anything towards preparing for the coming crop.

The Kentucky legislature has just passed into history again.

Willson may call a special session of the legislature after the members have had time to hear from their constituents.

A Cincinnati policeman was retired from the force a few days ago, because his badge of office was found in a chicken coop out in the suburbs. A colored brother found the badge and reported it.

A Cincinnati preacher has inaugurated a praying campaign in which all the other preachers in the city are invited to take part. The object of the campaign is to convert Geo. B. Cox, the political boss which will be a hard job.

Three million, five hundred and eighty thousand and five hundred and twenty eggs were thrown on the wholesale market at Chicago one day last week. The deluge caused a reduction to twenty-four and one-half cents from 28 cents per dozen, a drop of one and one-half cents overnight.

Broom corn bush is worth $110 per ton. This price should make the growing of it profitable. An acre of fair soil will grow three-fourths of a ton with no more labor in the growing than corn requires. Expert growers say $10 will put an acre of the product on the market. If so there certainly is big profit in it.

We believe the demand for mules will continue and that the prices will keep pace with it. There may be variations, of course but we are sure good prices will be realized upon mules based upon utility are the safest to count upon, and this coupled with the high prices now paid for horses, undoubtedly insures good prices for mules.—Exchange.

The democratic senators would not go into caucus on the county unit bill, which the great majority of the people of the State want; but they bound themselves in caucus to put thru the Louisville Ripper bill, a measure wanted only by the Louisville office holders. That's political sagacity with a big S. Or was it just some more work of the Whallen barbecue?—Blue Grass Clipper.

The Indianapolis, Indiana News prints that a farmer of Salem, N. J., brought two hogs to a local butcher and offered them for sale. A price was quickly agreed on, and the farmer said he would sell, but wanted the hams and shoulders. To this the butcher agreed and after the weight had been taken the desired parts of the hog were cut off and handed to the farmer who asks for the balance coming to him. After figuring a moment the butcher replied, you owe me $2.85, and the farmer had to pay it. The butcher had bought the hogs at wholesale price and charged the farmer retail rates for the parts he reserved. In effect the farmer had made the butcher a present of two hogs, and then paid him $2.85 for certain parts of them.

It doesn't require close observation to see that farming must become a real business enterprise; that every detail must be attended to in farming as it is tended to in other business institutions. Every "leak" must be stopped; the farm must no longer rest upon props; it must be made as substantial as the strongest enterprises in the country. Indeed, it should be the strongest of our commercial life. In the past, and at the present time, the business methods of the farmer have been, and are entirely too loose. An acre of ground is treated indifferently; no effort is made to redeem it from the destructive roots of the annual corn crop; it is permitted to waste its vitality in growing corn, until it is no more than an acre of bare points and gullies. The fact is, if the average farmer is not as careful with an acre of ground as he is with a pair of $1.50 brogue shoes. He will not put his shoes too close to the fire, because he is afraid they will burn, but he burns up his acres with apparent indifference. The day has come in this country when it is absolutely necessary to inject business into farming; the farmer must get into the red-tape habit; he must measure and weigh and calculate. He must not, as the farmer deliberately, and look upon it with "cold cash eyes," strengthening the weak places and building in the strong places, just as the railroads watch their properties and strengthen their roadbeds. The farmer must take the kinks out of his farm, just as the railroad companies take the kinks out of their roadbeds. Farming will then be easier and more profitable, and happier.—Hodenville Herald.

Chickens and turkeys are raised throughout Mexico, but in a haphazard way. The demand for poultry is always greater than the supply, while the fowls, as compared with those in the United States are very inferior. About the same precautions should be taken in going into the poultry business there as is taken by the prudent investor in the United States, bearing in mind, however, that there are no winters to be provided against. Growth fowls can run in the open year round. With the Mexicans, poultry raising and the sale of eggs is a very profitable business. Given a good variety of table chickens and good laying hens, with the prices obtained there for both chickens and eggs, the poultry industry seems to offer a much better return for investment and labor than could reasonably be expected in any part of the United States.

The Family Physician

The best medicines in the world cannot take the place of the family physician. Consult him early when taken ill. If the trouble is with your throat, bronchial tubes, or lungs, ask him about taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Then take it or not, as he says.

We publish our formulae for the benefit of the public. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a household name.

Bilious attacks, sick-headaches, indigestion, constipation, dizzy spells—these are some of the results of an inactive liver. Ask your doctor if he endorses Ayer's Pills in these cases. The dose is small, one pill at bedtime.

Made by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

(Furnished by Supt. Riley.) Supt. J. G. Crabbe has ruled that the common school graduates examination can be held in only one place in the county. We are sorry that it can not be held at Walton this year as has been the custom. We find something new and entertaining in many of our rural schools. In the Kensington school house are many large pictures of birds and different kinds of fruit. By all of these pictures children are taught the different kinds of apples, fruit, etc. When children learn the birds by the pictures it is an easy matter to identify them in life. Miss Nannie Chambers is the one to whom credit is due for this work.

There are books in many schools that are out of date and arranged on a book shelf as a nucleus for a library. With a little effort teachers can convert a goods box into a book case. By papering the box or by the use of a little paint the book case can be made neat and attractive.

Remember the Corn School at the court-house, Saturday. Boys and girls as well as farmers should attend this school. Teachers, be sure to encourage others to come but be sure to present yourselves. The increased yield of all farm products is the demand of all scientific farmers. The success of the Corn School is a special interest in this field. We hope to organize corn shows and corn clubs. Census taking is being distributed. Each trustee should be careful to get every pupil. It means dollars to us from the State fund. The consolidation of two districts at Verona and of four districts at Richmond is being considered by your Board of Education.

1910 Pooling Contract.

By April 12 the campaign for the new pool is expected to be well under way.

The contract adopted is as follows:

"This contract made this day witnessed by..." "That, in consideration of the benefits to be derived herefrom by the parties hereto, and that this contract is made by the undersigned, and is hereby accepted by, hereinafter named Board of Control and Burley Tobacco Society, as a mutual contract with other contractors of like kind, and that the title and right of possession to said tobacco shall not be sold below the general price fixed by said society on like grades of tobacco."

"This pledge shall also include all tobacco grown or owned or hereafter bought by undersigned and all crops that may not be specified above."

"The undersigned, by reason of this contract, becomes and is entitled to all the privileges as a member of said Burley Tobacco Society."

"Upon our failure to fully comply with the terms and conditions of this contract, we hereby agree to pay to said society as liquidated damages 20 per cent of the value of said tobacco for the benefit of the members of the said society, this shall not be construed as a waiver of the right of said agent or agents to enforce the contracting equity."

THE GOOD FEATURES OF A BANK!

No business enterprise in a community affords more convenience to the public than a well governed bank, as it affords a medium of exchange that no other source can equal. It gives absolute protection to the safety of money entrusted to its care. It gathers together the surplus money of a community; and gives idle money the most extensive circulation through loans to individuals of property wealth who need a volume of money to transact business in the purchase of the products of the farm and factory. Thus the money of those who have a surplus and are wise enough to deposit in a bank is utilized to its fullest value; and affords a bank additional funds whereby loans are made to traders who are thus enabled to purchase from the identical people who have their money on deposit in a bank, which otherwise they would not be enabled to do. Money hid away or kept at home is not only out of circulation but is dead so far as its value is concerned. The Equitable Bank and Trust Co., Walton, Ky., wants your business. It pays depositors four per cent on money. Our Trust department qualifies as a manager of estates, as executor, guardian, administrator, etc. Capital of bank, $50,000, showing assets Jan. 1st, of $188,000. The business of all solicited. Try us; you will be pleased with telephone connection.

An Awful Eruption

of a volcano excites brief interest, and your interest in skin eruptions will be as short, if you use Bucklen's Arnica Salve, their quickest cure. Even the worst boils, ulcers, or fever sores are soon healed by it. Best for Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Sore Lips, Chapped Hands, Chills, and Piles. It gives instant relief. 25c at Bentler's drug store, Erlanger.

Held An Interesting Meeting.

The literary society was entertained in a royal manner, last Friday night by Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Peddicord. The leading feature of the program was the discussion of the subject, "Affirmed that doctors and teachers have been of more benefit to mankind than lawyers and preachers." Dr. Peddicord and Prof. Dix affirmed while Atty. D. E. Castleman and Rev. Edgar Riley took the negative. The judges decided in favor of the affirmative.

Entertaining "Weary Willies."

J. H. Adams had a run of "Weary Willies," last week. The first one to apply for a night's lodging at the jail was a woman about forty years old, who claimed to be on her way to Aurora. She was lodged up and the next day she went on her way rejoicing. In a day or two after the woman had gone a son of Erin applied for a night's lodging. He was locked up and given his supper and breakfast for which he displayed his gratitude by denouncing the jail the next morning in terms more emphatic than elegant.

How Good News Spreads.

"I am 70 years old and travel most of the time," writes B. F. Tolson, of Elizabethtown, Kentucky. "Everywhere I go I recommend Electric Bitters, because I owe my excellent health and vitality to them. They affect me every time." They never fail to tone the stomach, regulate the kidneys and bowels, stimulate the liver, invigorate the nerves and purify the blood. They work wonders for weak, run-down men and women, restoring strength, vigor and health that is a daily joy. Try them. One bottle is guaranteed by Bentler's drug store, Erlanger.

An Eloquent Eulogy.

Quite a large crowd of the friends and neighbors of W. H. Phipps, attended his funeral last Thursday afternoon. Rev. Albie Stith, of the Baptist church, read the eulogy, which was the vault, which, with the singing of a couple of hymns, constituted the funeral services. Everybody had a good word to speak of the deceased, or some kind and neighborly act of his to relate, which, after all, is the most eloquent eulogy that can be pronounced. The eulogy was a tribute of respect is being paid the departed.

Taken Suddenly Ill.

Mr. George Thomas, who kept the toll-gate on the Bullittville and Dry creek turnpike, near Idlewild, was taken suddenly ill one day last week. He was talking to Wm. Hughes, carrier on rural route No. 1, when he fell. Mr. Hughes assisted him into his house and notified some of the neighbors, who went to look after him and found him in a very bad condition. He was brought to the county infirmary where he remains in a bad condition, one of his hips having been badly hurt by the accident. He is a faithful and appreciated neighborhood contributor to the Recorder and his new items will be missed greatly by the readers during his illness.

Saved a Soldier's Life.

Facing death from shot and shell in the civil war was more agreeable to J. A. Stone, of Kemp, Tex., than facing it from what doctors said was consumption. "I contracted a stubborn cold," he writes, "that developed a cough that stuck me in the chest. All remedies for years. My weight ran down to 130 pounds. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured my cough, and now weigh 175 pounds." For Coughs, Colds, Grippe, Asthma, Hemorrhage, Hoarseness, Croup, Whooping Cough and all troubles by supernatural cure at Bentler's drug store, Erlanger. Trial bottle free.

From Indiana.

By agreement the township assessors will list timothy and alfalfa hay at $10 per ton, clover hay at $8, wheat 80 cents per bushel corn 45 cents and potatoes 35 cents.

John Doenges, the poultry fancier, has received 900 eggs from eighteen single comb Black Minorca hens in the past three months of December, January and February. Averaging 35 cents a dozen, they brought him $32.25.

If a brood sow owned by Frank Stevens, who lives near Moore's Hill, could have her way "race suicide" among her kind, and the pork market would each be smashed to smithereens a few days since she gave birth to eighteen pigs, which average a weight of one pound and ten ounces. Two are dead, but the remaining sixteen are in perfect health.—Lawrenceburg Press.

While at work in the woods near Manchester a few days ago John Ollmore picked up what he thought to be a stick of wood. John soon changed his mind, when the object began to wiggle. It proved to be an adder. The snake was killed, and it measured three feet six inches in length.—Lawrenceburg Press.

Death of L. C. Walton.

Mr. L. C. Walton died Sunday last about 10:30 o'clock at the M. E. hospital in Indianapolis, from hemorrhage of the bowels, following an operation about three weeks ago for gall stones. Mr. Walton was taken ill a few days after Christmas. His condition grew worse, and as a last resort, to preserve his life he was taken to the Indianapolis hospital, where an operation took place. Up to within three days of his demise the eminent physicians we hoped of recovery, but the dread hemorrhages set in and claimed him.

Only last June, Mr. Walton was married to Miss Margaret Dunn, after a courtship of sixteen years. They were married at Cincinnati. Mr. Walton's home was at Erlanger, a suburb of Covington, Ky., where his aged parents live.

The body of Mr. Walton was brought to his home in the north part of town on Sunday evening, where friends and brother Odd-Fellows and Knights of Pythias looked after the wants of the distressed and bereaved widow and cared for the remains.

The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Christian church, attended by citizens and the membership of the two lodges in which he held his membership. In respect to the deceased the business houses generally remained closed for two hours.

L. C. Walton had been identified in a business way with Knightstown some thirty years, coming here from Erlanger, Ky., and opening a grocery store. After two years of business life he sold out and returned to his home, remaining after a year's absence and engaging again in the grocery business. For ten years he followed his vocation, treating courteously and kindly everyone who dealt in anyway with him. By his strict adherence to honesty and upright transactions Mr. Walton succeeded financially, and passed from our midst highly esteemed and greatly respected by all citizens of Knightstown. He was a quiet and unassuming gentleman, but sensible to the wants and wishes of those near him and never hesitated in extending a helping hand to the needy wayfarer in distress. Mr. Walton died at the age of 49 years.—Knightstown Banner, Feb. 11.

Judge Cammack is fixed in his determination to break up the habit in this county of ignoring subpoenas from the grand jury. Quite a number have learned this court to that sorrow that it is a bad business. They have drawn fines of $5.00 and $10.00 with the trimmings with a hurtful regularity. Dodging the official don't pay and then it is a hardship on the sheriff to compel him to chase witnesses all over the country and finally have to be run into court with an attachment. It is safe to say that there won't be so many attachments hereafter.—Owen County Democrat.

The farmers will be a very busy class of citizens from now on as the continued bad weather during the winter prevented them from doing anything towards preparing for their coming crop.

ROOSEVELT AT KHARTUM

EX-PRESIDENT IS AGAIN IN TOUCH WITH CIVILIZATION, HOMEWARD BOUND

Greeted in Historic, Egyptian City by His Wife, Daughter and Hundreds of Correspondents and Friends---Chronological Review of a Remarkable Expedition

Khartum, Egyptian Sudan.---Ex-President Roosevelt is again back in touch with civilization and is at this place as the guest of the Egyptian and British governments, being entertained at the governor-general's palace by Gen. Sir Reginald Wingate. He was met here by Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel and by a host of American and European correspondents and numerous delegations of political and other friends from the United States. In fact this historic town is literally filled with visitors brought here to greet the returning traveler.

With his arrival at this place, Col. Roosevelt completed one of the most notable journeys through the wilderness of Africa that has been undertaken since the days of Livingston and Stanley. It was a remarkable journey both in number of animals slain and preserved as specimens, and because of its lack of accidents and of the Blue Nile. The river passes directly through the city, and along its banks, fronted by the barracks of the British soldiers, lies a magnificent driveway three miles in length.

British Policy is Seen. Northwest of Khartum is Omdurman, the city occupied by the Mahdi after the death of Gordon and the scene of the lincenous reuelries that occupied the native soldiery up to the time that they were confronted and overwhelmed by Kitchener. The British, true to their policy of colonization, have not attempted seriously to interfere with Moslem customs here. The ruins of the Khalifa's body guard headquarters, the military prison, the remnants at the Arab fortifications have all been allowed to stand.

Still further north is the field of Kerreri, the shambles in which Kitchener with mathematical exactitude slashed to pieces the Arab forces. The

Jesus' Idea of Religion

THOU shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength; "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."---Luke 10:27; Mark 22:37-40; Mark 12:30. These words are twice found in the story of the life of Jesus. In both cases they occur in conversation with Jewish lawyers. One of this class questioned Jesus, and asked him: "What shall I do to inherit eternal life?" Evidently he was not in earnest, for he threw his back upon his knowledge of his chosen realm. "What is written in the law?" how readest thou?" In answering, this expert avoided all mention of externals. From a corner of the law book he quoted two words about loving God and men which had been overlooked in practice at least, by his own class. Jesus replied: "Thou hast answered right; this do, and thou shalt live." In other words, eternal life is eternal love, and a man inherits it by living it here and now. On the last Tuesday of his earthly life, Jesus in the beginning of his ministry he had called out a Samaritan woman from her ambush behind the current sectarianism that disputed over the proper place of worship, whether in Jerusalem or in Gerezim, by a great truth about God, and, and by making her conscious of her moral need. So now, at the close of his ministry he shifts the mind of the lawyer from side issues to the main question.

True Religion Defined. Religion does not consist in debates over metaphysical dogmas, nor in battles of logic where cataputs hurl lawless inferences, and cannon discharge chain shot of perfect syllogisms, nor in tight ecclesiastical fences to guard divine legislation, nor in pious conventionalities. True religion is the love for God and men. These words of the text have the highest authority. They are venerable and majestic with the age and glory of the Old Testament law; they come as the expression of the deepest convictions of the human heart voiced even by the legend of Jesus day; and they record our Lord's summary of all that was best in the historical revelation of human duty as contained in the Bible of his day, and his assertion that no ideal for life could be higher. He thus freed religion from bondage to legalism and stated the truth that it belonged to the realm of vitalities. Here as everywhere else in his teaching he insisted that religion is not a matter of law, but of life, forming to statutes but an outgoing of love, not ritual but righteousness.

The Characteristics of Love. And what is this love? No intelligent person will for a moment think that it is mere sentiment. It is not luxurious emotion that vents itself in pious phrases, or sanctified interjections, or ischrymism, shapades, and vagrant uses in these outputs. Nor is it the merely mystical passion that ecstasies have coveted, and that has tried, often irreverently we fear, to adapt to the deity the endearing terms appropriate to the holy intimacies of human life. It is not a matter of sentiment, or of ethics. It is not a vague, capricious feeling far too often sought for mistakenly by many who are really anxious to make actual in their lives the ideal that Jesus presented. Love is a strong, vital, rational, imperial consecration of the self. It is in serving our fellow men that we find its true expression. It is described by Paul in his noble hymn in the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians. It is duty charged and discharged with delight. It is service which is rendered with joy in the whole being.

What then is Jesus' idea of religion, at once the highest in the Old Testament, and the conception approved by the depths of our own hearts? It consists in glorifying God by the fullest possible normal use of all the powers that belong to selfhood, and in serving our fellow men as a proof that all these powers are consecrated to God. Loving God with the "heart" does not mean the experience of the same passionate emotion which we feel toward one another in the flesh. That is impossible. It means that love is to be exercised without restraint toward "whatsoever is lovely." No man can stifle his affections toward anything pure without so far forth smothering his love for God. It is not unmanly to keep the holy flame of tender affection burning as brightly as possible. It is inhuman, and, therefore, irreligious to quench it. To love truth, beauty, goodness, in all their myriad manifestations, is to love God from the heart. Heaven does not mock earth by having a separate dictionary. God's vocabulary is the same as ours, else there can be no fellowship.

Where He Drew the Line. Great Author---Did you tell that magazine editor that I was too busy to see him? Boy---Yes, sir; but he says he can't understand it; that you have been writing for his magazine for years. "Well, I may write for a magazine, but that's no reason why I have to associate with the editors of it."---Life.

Revolving Plums. "I always used to wonder," said Willoughby, "what the ornithological reason was for there being no birds in last year's nest, but now it is clear as pikestaff." "How do you account for it?" queried Jiggers. "Why, look at the women's hats," said Willoughby.---Harper's Weekly.

GATHERING OF THE TRIBES AT KHARTUM COL. ROOSEVELT AND HIS AFRICAN SMILE

sickness of every kind. Ordinarily a traveler, through the regions through which Col. Roosevelt has passed, comes out of the jungles loaded with malaria and fever germs. Up to the present time, neither Col. Roosevelt nor any of his party have shown any symptoms of having contracted any of the numerous contagious diseases.

Gen. Sir Reginald Wingate provided countless ways for the entertainment of his distinguished guest. Representatives of the many tribes of the desert have been gathered here into one great encampment, and for Col. Roosevelt's entertainment, have indulged in every possible form of native amusement, giving dances, races, etc.

The town of Khartum is a mass of color. Flags of Egypt, England and America are everywhere, and the ex-president has probably appreciated nothing more than the opportunity of visiting this historical spot.

Khartum is virtually built around the grave of "Chinese" Gordon. The city itself is a gigantic monument to that soldier's deeds and his heroic death. In the center of it stands his effigy in bronze, mounted on a camel, gazing with fixed eyes out toward the desert which mocked him during the terrible year that he lay there waiting for relief. Behind the statue stands the British governor's palace, an imposing structure in the Gothic style, typical of British power and British permanence.

Name Gordon Everywhere. Not far away is the Gordon Memorial college, a school built with funds raised by Gen. Kitchener by subscription throughout Great Britain, in which the Sudanese newer generation is trained for service in the government which conquered its fathers.

Everywhere throughout the city the name Gordon appears. There is the Gordon hotel, the Gordon drive and up the White Nile the Gordon tree. Gordon's memory will live so long as Khartum exists. The British have transformed the city of his death into a memorial to his glory that can laugh at time.

Khartum stands at the confluence of the White and Blue Niles, and some day with the development of the wilderness south of it will become a metropolis as important to the commerce of Africa as Chicago is to the commerce of North America. Properly speaking, however, the city itself does not extend beyond the banks of the Blue Nile. The river passes directly through the city, and along its banks, fronted by the barracks of the British soldiers, lies a magnificent driveway three miles in length.

Henry Claycamp and his granddaughter, Miss Mabel Claycamp, of Cincinnati, were here Saturday, the guests of Mr. Jones, and his daughter, Mrs. B. K. Menefee and family.

Judge Chas. C. Roberts, of Burlington, was a visitor last week to relatives and friends, and spent a part of last week at Crittenden, where he was looking over the field with a view to engaging in business.

Walton Odd-Fellows lodge had an enthusiastic meeting last Saturday night, when Lawrence Warth was initiated into the mysteries of the order in a very impressive manner. The lodge is in a flourishing condition.

Mrs. Jesse Franks spent the past week at Covington with her daughter, Mrs. T. F. Blackwell and husband. Mrs. Franks has been ill for some time and this is the first time she has been able to go away from home.

G. Wesley Murphy, who is employed in the offices of the L. & N. Railway Company near Cincinnati, is spending the evenings here with home folks since the weather has become pleasant, making the trips on the commutator daily.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Scott Wayland and son have moved from Dry Ridge to Walton, occupying the house of O. S. Watts. Mr. Wayland bought the farm of J. F. Clegg and his son will reside here, but his wife being in delicate health he preferred to reside in the town.

Henry Coates has sold the farm he bought from Anna Hind, near Richmond, to Samuel Taylor, for $13,000. The farm contains 173 acres. Mr. Coates then bought "White Haven" a farm of 120 acres from Samuel C. Hicks, for $10,000. The transfers will be made at once.

Walton Masonic Lodge, at its meeting Friday night conferred the fellow craft degree on J. Waite Cross, and received two petitions for initiation to be acted on at the next regular meeting. Friday, April 1st, when the master's degree will be conferred on Bro. Cross.

W. J. Bibb, of Indianapolis, Indiana, has accepted a position in the flouring mill of W. O. Rouse & Co., having charge of some of the milling work. The business of the mill has greatly increased owing to the superior quality of its products and Mr. Bibb was added to the force to enable the mill to keep up with its orders.

The sale of personal property at the farm of John C. Bedinger near Richmond was one of the largest in this section for many a year. Over $6,000 of personal property was sold, and there were at least five hundred people in attendance. J. D. Daubman of Walton, was the auctioneer, and he gave excellent satisfaction.

Rev. Will B. Campbell, pastor of the Methodist church at Walton, was here Saturday and Sunday, holding a revival meeting which was most successful.

results, his efforts being rewarded with twelve accessions to the church and other satisfactory evidences of the awakening of religious spirit.

Rev. Edgar Riley, of Burlington, the efficient County School Superintendent, was at Verona a part of last week endeavoring to enlist the public in the establishment of a graded school at Verona, and he made a splendid address on the subject before the people at that place and awakened much favorable comment on the mannerly manner with which he handled the subject.

John C. Bedinger, who bought the farm of Jas. W. Coates near Verona, has moved to the place, bringing his household effects from Berea, Madison county, where he kept house so as to send his children to school there, and his farming property he moved from his home in Bracken county. Mr. Williams is a splendid citizen and will be a valuable acquisition to this community.

Rev. J. L. Clark, of Covington, the learned Presiding Elder of the M. E. church of this district, held the quarterly meeting of the Walton M. E. church last Saturday and Sunday, preaching excellent sermons both days to large sized congregations. The church is being greatly strengthened by the able ministrations of its excellent pastor. Rev. Will B. Campbell and his loyal wife, both of whom are very popular with our people.

Betty Long, of near Richmond, was a visitor here last Thursday and ordered some sale bills from the Recorder for the sale of personal property at his farm Thursday, March 24th. Mr. Long has sold his farm of 113 acres near Richmond, to John C. Bedinger, for $7,300, and will move to near Florence to spend the year with his daughter, and family. One of his neighbors, Samuel Taylor, has sold his farm to Columbus Bedinger at $75 per acre, the farm containing 150 acres.

Clarence W. Worthington, of Ellettsburg, Iowa, was a visitor here last Friday on business. Mr. Worthington will leave next week for Saskatchewan, Canada, where he will homestead 160 acres and chase a similar amount of land. His brother is now a resident of his daughter, having gone there about three years ago, and he is well pleased with that locality.

Wheat and other small grain continue to be the main products, but the yields are very large, wheat going as high as sixty bushels per acre. Mr. Worthington will be accompanied by his wife, and they expect to make their home in that quarter.

The debating societies of the Walton High School held their session last Friday and discussed "Resolved: That no county, Joseph C. Hughes, of Richmond, on account of race or nationality," and the judges, Miss Kennedy, Lee Hind and Clifton Mayhugh, decided in favor of the Demosthenians, who took the affirmative side, while the Epistemonians took the negative. The orators were represented by Prof. J. R. Robinson, Harvey Whitson and Wilcox by Fred Hill, C. O. Taylor, and the Demosthenians by John C. Bedinger. This makes three victories for the Demosthenians and five for the Epistemonians.

W. C. RESPESS DEAD.

Breathes His Last While Surrounded by Family.
Served With Distinction As Confederate Soldier.

Another of General Morgan's warriors, Mr. William C. Respass, and a Kentuckian in its truest meaning, died last night at the residence of his son, Charles Respass, Ohio avenue, former Latonia, of uremia. Mr. Respass was born and reared in Bourbon county, Kentucky, 13 years ago, and when the Civil war broke out he was one of the first to pick up his weapons and go to the front for the cause. He married a Miss Bristol, a sister of the late Julius Bristol, of a prominent Kentucky family. When Jerome Respass, the well-known owner and trainer of race horses, was 12 years old the mother passed away leaving Mr. Respass to care for the others, who were younger than "Rome." Like his father he kept his little ones in the best of comfort on a farm near Union, Boone County, Kentucky, giving them, at the time, the best of the schooling after the children grew up they moved to Covington, Mr. Respass, along with his brothers, Frank and Charles Respass, becoming interested in the stock and horse raising business, and have been successful, while Miss Pearl Respass became a newspaper writer. Not forgetting the many kind deeds of the family they made life comfortable for him, he making his home with Mrs. and Mr. Frank Respass, and when the time came last night about 7 o'clock all of the children were at the father's bedside, including Master Forest Respass, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Respass, who is home from the Kentucky State University. The deceased was a lover of fancy chickens and blooded stock, and was stern, but characteristically indulgent. His funeral will take place from the residence of his son, on Ohio avenue, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock and the interment at Independence cemetery at 1:30 o'clock.—Monday's Enquirer.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

(Finished by Supt. Riley.)
Boys' Corn Clubs are being organized all over Kentucky. One was organized in Burlington last Saturday. Many prizes are being offered to the members of the clubs for the best ear of corn, the best bushel of corn and the largest yield on an acre of corn. Trustees who take the school census must bear in mind the colored children in every district must be listed by the white trustees on the separate blanks sent to you. There are no colored trustees in this county.
Arbor Day exercises of the school at Burlington were appreciated by those patrons who attended last Friday. Burlington now has three literary societies. Many entertainments can and should be given by these societies.
Trustees are requested to send all deeds of school property and insurance policies on school houses to the county superintendent.

Section 443 of Kentucky Statutes, gives the directions for levying and collecting taxes in graded school districts. It provides that the graded school treasurer shall give bond in the county court. Within ten days after the levy has been made by the board of trustees the treasurer must deliver to the chairman of the board of trustees a list of the property of said district that is subject to taxation. This list has been delivered to the chairman of the board of trustees shall fix the time in which said taxes shall be paid, which shall not be more than two nor more than four months from the time of making such order. The board shall cause to be posted in three public places in the district the amount of the levy, and also the time and place for paying this tax. All delinquent taxes shall have a penalty of five per cent added, and the treasurer shall collect the delinquent list within ninety days after said delinquent list is made out, by sale or otherwise.

The Corn School.
The Corn School held at the court house, last Saturday, by W. H. Clayton, district committee under the Kentucky Corn Growers' Association, was well attended, especially by the boys, about twenty of whom signified their intention to join the boys' corn club. The lecture delivered by Prof. George Tolbert, of the Kentucky Experiment Station, was highly entertaining, and received the very closest attention. The effort to organize the boys in corn clubs throughout the county is highly commendable, and a vast amount of good will result from them. There should be a boys' corn club in each voting precinct in the county, and every farmer's boy or girl in the county should become members of these clubs. The time has come in Kentucky when farming to be profitable must be conducted along scientific lines, and these clubs are intended to give the boys such a start.
For Sale—Lot good alfalfa hay. Apply to Stevens Bros., Idelwild.

John Rich was in Cincinnati, Friday.
Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Slater, of Walton, spent Thursday here with friends.
Miss Ethel Allen, of Limburg, is the guest of her aunt, Misses Emma and Mary Clure.
C. A. McLaughlin, of Covington, spent the past week here bottling Big Bone water, which was shipped to Cincinnati and Covington.

MIDWAY.

Jacob Reib returned last week after a six weeks' visit to his children in Dallas, Texas.
Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Powers, of near Verona, were guests of her mother, Mrs. N. P. Neill, Sunday.
Charles Johnson, of Idelwild, is spending a couple of weeks here with his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jackson.
Miss Mary Markberry, left last week for Covington, where she has secured a lucrative position with a family on Bank Lick street.
The Ladies' Missionary Society of the M. E. church, held a very interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. C. C. Sleat, last Thursday.
Dr. Omer Cleek, who is attending school at Danville, was home Saturday and Sunday and passed here enroute to Hathaway, where he attends lectures.
The citizens of Midway are so sanguine that the Covington and Big Bone traction road is a go that they hear any strange noise they look up the creek to see if it is a car coming.
At a meeting, last Saturday, of the directors of the Big Bone Odd-Fellow and Masonic Hall, W. C. Johnson was awarded the contract for removing the laths and plaster from the hall and replacing with new laths and plaster.
A letter from Miss Sarah Hughes, who has spent the winter at Phoenix, Arizona, states that her health has improved very much. She took daily drives and of late has been able to do her own driving, a fact that is very gratifying indeed to her many friends here.

FLORENCE.

Jim Meeks is much improved.
Mrs. J. R. Whitson has been quite sick for several days.
The guest of Irene Cahill, Friday.
Albert Lipp and family were guests of Mrs. Susie Adams, Sunday.
We are glad to see Mrs. Mike Cahill, who has been ill for some time, able to be out again.
J. C. Carter and wife are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a nine pound boy.
John Cahill will move to Florence and occupy the house known as the Lucy Connor place.
Mrs. Sallie Renaker, of Cynthia, is the guest of her son, Garret Renaker, cashier of Florence bank.
Virginia Belle Buckner has returned from a three weeks' visit with her uncle, J. R. Sells, in Cincinnati.
James Cary, who has been ill in health is much improved and is very hopeful of being strong once more.
Prof. A. M. Yealy will move this week to the residence he bought of Ed Sidnor, and to which he has built an addition.
Mrs. Mike Cahill had as her guests, last Thursday, Mrs. Henry Myers, of Erlanger, and Mrs. Anderson, of Ludlow.
Hear that Florence Marquess has bought the old Aheran home on Shelby street, to which she will move after improving it some.
We gladly welcome O. B. Utz and family, formerly of Union, as citizens of our town. They occupy the T. B. Castleman property on Pike street. They have room for more such citizens.
We understand that an effort is being made to locate a creamery here, and we hope they will succeed, as we feel certain this would be a splendid point for such an enterprise. There are enough splendid cows in this locality to make a creamery a great success.
David Osborn, an old and respectable citizen of our town, died on the 15th inst. He was a Confederate soldier and experienced many hardships during the civil war. He was a native of this State. One by one are the old Confederates crossing over this happy land buried several in the past year.
Milton Goodridge, a native of this county, who is a prosperous and wealthy farmer in Oldham county, near LaGrange, is here visiting his brother. He left here thirty years ago, but still has a very warm spot in his heart for old Boone and her people. He regards the Recorder as a letter from home every week.

AURORA FERRY.

River receding.
John Kopp and family spent Sunday with Nat Rogers and family.
Mrs. Hogan Wingate was visiting her sister, Mrs. Geo. Rue, in Cleves, Sunday.
Mrs. Aylor took his family to Athens Saturday, and supplied them with their spring outfit.
Glad to learn the sick are improving and able to get out to work again, am one of them.
It is reported that Elder Edgar C. Riley surpassed himself last Sunday at Bellevue Christian church.
Eugene Witham and family entertained the Epworth League of the Petersburg M. E. church, Saturday night.
Ed Witham helped Omer McGuire run the ferry a couple of days last week, the old wheel horse laying off for repairs.
Mrs. Thompson and Vest Gaines came Sunday evening and drove four fine work and driving horses they purchased in Marion, Ind.

RABBIT HASH.

Albert Clure and wife spent last Sunday at Sam Wilson's.
Miss Fannie Bailey will teach a spring school at Maple Hill.
Ben Bob Stephens' new residence in Rabbit Hash is under way.

F. D. and Mrs. Norman, of Ansonia, arrived Sunday and are guests of Mrs. C. Norman. Felix is convalescent from his recent illness, and hopes to be benefitted by the change of climate.

At the family home in Union, March 17th, the last year of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Smith Carpenter, entered triumphantly upon her long cherished and heavenly rest. She was widely and highly respected by all who knew her. In all the walks of life Mrs. Carpenter was ever the model Christian woman, one who knew her duty to God, to her country, to her family, to her friends, to her neighbors, to her fellow men. As an humble earnest Christian, she lived her life for the glory of her Savior. "Well done!"
A Card—Through the medium of the Recorder I wish to thank all who so kindly ministered to my dear mother in her last illness, especially my cousin, who were uniting in their efforts to alleviate her suffering through all the weary weeks she lay sick.
—Glad Carpenter.

An Awful Eruption

of a volcano excites brief interest, and your interest in skin eruptions will be as short, if you use Bucklen's Ointment. It gives the quickest cure. Even the worst boils, ulcers, or fever sores are soon healed by it. Beat for Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Sore Lips, Chapped Hands, Chills, Piles. It gives instant relief. 25c at Bentler's drug store, Erlanger.

MAY HE REST IN PEACE.

George Thomas Passes Away At The County Infirmary.

Mr. George Thomas, who, for many years, has been one of the Recorder's most faithful and newsworthy correspondents, passed last Saturday afternoon, never having improved from his attack of illness mentioned in these columns last week. Mr. Thomas' age was somewhere in the seventies, he was a man above the average intelligence and fearless in the expression of his opinions. He came to this county about twenty years ago and began working at his trade, that of blacksmithing, in a shop in McMinnville. From whence he came no one knows, and so reticent was he about his life that no person was able to learn anything about him before landing at McMinnville. He was an honest, upright gentleman and took a pleasure in serving his fellowman. His contributions to the Recorder were in the seventies, this office as well as by the readers for whose instruction and entertainment it was a pleasure for him to labor. His lot in this world was not the pleasantest, but he accepted conditions as they presented themselves and murmured not. May he rest in peace.

Saved a Soldier's Life.

Facing death from shot and shell in the civil war was more agreeable to J. A. Stone, of Kemp, Tenn., than facing it from doctors' said was consumption. "I contracted a stubborn cold" he writes, "that developed a cough that stuck to me in spite of all remedies for years. My weight ran down to 130 pounds. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. I now weigh 178 pounds." For Coughs, Colds, Lagripes, Asthma, Hemorrhage, Hoarseness, Croup, Whooping Cough and all other ailments of the lungs, Dr. King's New Discovery is supreme. 50c and $1.00 at Centler's drug store, Erlanger. Trial bottle free.

Tobacco Meetings.

The Boone County Board of Control will hold a regular meeting in Burlington, April 4th, at 10:30 a. m. Business of importance will be transacted. Mr. W. W. Conner will be with us and will deliver an address to the Burley Tobacco Growers at the court house at 1:30 p. m. Conner is one of the best planted men in the State of the Burley Tobacco situation. Every grower in the county is cordially invited. Come and you will hear much of interest to you. J. C. Hughes, Pres.

Died Suddenly.

A. B. Renaker, cashier of the Peoples Deposit Bank, was notified last Thursday night, at 10 o'clock of the death of his father, Paul J. Renaker, 76, of Dry Ridge, Grant county. Mr. Renaker was a native of this county, and was a health until he was in the grasp of death. He was preparing to retire when he died in an instant. Mr. Renaker was one of the oldest and wealthiest citizens of Grant county, and besides a widow, he leaves several children.

Surprised Her Friends.

Miss Sadie Cluder surprised her friends in Burlington one week, with the information that she and Henry Conner, son of W. W. Conner, of Union, had been married for two weeks. Miss Sadie taught school at Union during the fall and winter, and it was known by her Burlington friends that Mr. Conner was paying her attention, but were surprised when she announced the marriage. They were married in Cincinnati.

The Lawrenceburg Press published an item recently from Moore's Hill that a brood sow owned by Frank Stevens of that county had birth to eighteen pigs, which averaged a weight of one pound and ten ounces. Ohio county can beat that. Alex. Birdsell, residing on Salem Ridge, has a lady pig that brought 20 little pigs into the world a few weeks ago that weighed two lbs. each. They are all living and Alex. expects to realize a handsome sum from them next fall.—Rising Sun Local.

Rev. S. J. Bradley, of Petersburg, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Robbins, at their home down on Gunpowder, last Monday, where he was entertained in true old Kentucky style by these two good people.

Stephens & Phipps have an advertisement in this issue informing the farmers of the line of goods they propose handling in Burlington, which will prove of great advantage to the farmers.

Several loads of pooled tobacco were brought into the equity warehouse from Locust Grove neighborhood, last Monday.

Charles Westbay has another horse and is happy, but would be happier if the horse was 400 pounds heavier.

The spring season began Monday, that being the day the sun crossed the line on its northward journey.

Entertainment at Library Hall next Friday and Saturday nights.

WERE NO TROLLEY CARS THEN.

Abel Stringham—I tell you, my boy, Shakespeare could never have written a drama like yours.

—wright—You are very compementary. Abel Stringham—Not at all. Take for instance, that trolley car accident in the third act.

Follow this advice.

Quaker Oats is the best of all foods; it is also the cheapest. When such men as Prof. Fisher of Yale University and Sir James Crichton Browne, LL.D., F.R.S. of London spend the best part of their lives in studying the great question of the nourishing and strengthening qualities of different foods, it is certain that their advice is absolutely safe to follow.

Professor Fisher found in his experiments for testing the strength and endurance of athletes that the meat eaters were exhausted long before the meat who were fed on such food as Quaker Oats. The powers of endurance of the non-meat eaters were about eight times those of the meat eaters.

Sir James Crichton Browne says—eat more oatmeal, eat plenty of it and eat it frequently.

Fighting Disease in Greece.
Consul General George Horton has made a report from Athens on the conspicuous work of Greek physicians in combating the country's chief scourges—malaria fever and tuberculosis. An annual average of 2,000 persons die each year from the former, while in epidemic years, due to excessive rains, the number exceeds 4,000, which was the case in 1905. The population of Greece is 4,433,806. The people have been interested through lectures, pamphlets, etc., to fight the malaria-carrying mosquito by draining stagnant ponds and throwing petroleum on them. A tuberculosis congress will be held at Athens next year, to which will be invited not only physicians, but all the mayors and other prominent people of Greece.

A WONDERFUL CHANGE.

From Daily Wretchedness and Pain to Normal Health.

Mrs. R. Crouse, Manchester, Ia., says: "For two years my back was weak. Rheumatic pains racked my lower limbs, day and night. The action of the kidneys was annoyingly irregular. When I started using Doan's Kidney Pills, these troubles soon lessened and the dull backache vanished. The kidneys now act normally and I give Doan's Kidney Pills credit for this wonderful change."

Remember the name—Doan's. For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Right Spirit.
Apropos of Valentine's day, a passenger on the Bermudian said: "Mark Twain once told us, in a little Valentine day speech on this boat, of an Irish wooer who had the right Valentine spirit. Acceptance or rejection he could take with equal grace."

"Will ye be my valentine?" he said, on February 14, to the girl he loved. "No," she replied; "I am not a Valentine." "He heaved a sigh and said: 'Sure, then, darlin', I wish ye was twins, so that I could have at least the half of ye.'"

Airing the Poodle.
The messenger boy towed the leading lady's pet poodle in front of the big ventilation fan and tied him. "Great Scott, boy!" exclaimed a bystander, excitedly. "Do you want to blow that dog away? Why, that fan is worse than a cyclone."

"Naw!" snapped the messenger boy with a pout. "Let him stay there and get aired. That blooming actress hires me two hours every day to air her blooming khoddie, and I want him to get enough of it."

An Honest Policeman.
Judge.—What is the charge against this man, officer?
Policeman.—There isn't any, your honor; business was dull and I arrested him just to keep my hand in.

Coming Down.
"How have the mighty fallen."
"Don't bother me with your alarsh accidents."

EASTER AT ATLANTIC CITY

THE GREAT EASTER PARADE AT ATLANTIC CITY

It is no commonplace sight, this panoramic of 100,000 people, all attired in their most impressive raiment, tramping up and down an esplanade five miles long to see and be seen.

Perhaps, if you haven't been initiated, you raise your eyebrows at the thought of Atlantic City as an Easter resort. We are wont to think of seashore resorts as bleak places in winter, with biting winds sweeping over the sand stretches and whipping mournfully the tattered remnants of last season's ice cream signs. Surely no person bent on enjoying an Easter vacation would go elsewhere than to a southern resort—certainly not farther north than Old Point Comfort, at any rate. That logic is passing, however, for all that it was very well in its way and sounds plausible even today. The people of the eastern part of the United States have come to accept Atlantic City generally as the pre-eminent Easter mecca and the pleasure loving residents of the middle west and the far west are gradually taking the same view, although they had long been accustomed to recognize it only as a summer paradise and the middle west to this day reserves its main pilgrimage for August, when one may see in bathing at one time as many people as reside in the state of Wyoming.

Just what converted Atlantic City from a summer playground into an all-the-year resort, with special fascinations at Eastertide, is difficult to determine, although the residents of this pleasure metropolis ascribe it all to their discovery that the Gulf stream comes nearer to the coast off Atlantic City than at any other place north of Florida and thus moderates the temperature and softens the ocean breezes in a degree not enjoyed elsewhere. Candor compels the confession that there have been Easter Sundays when Atlantic City presented a decidedly chilly aspect out of doors, and even under the best conditions

"Palm Mattress," each flourishing a festive gold-embroidered handkerchief, go from house to house singing their happy carols.

Holy Thursday, radiant with red sashes from every balcony—buttering symbols of the brightness of the spring—is the great egg-dyeing day. With the first egg dyed the food mother forms the sign of the cross upon the face and neck of her dear, wee nestling, saying: "Mayest thou grow as red as this egg and strong as a stone." Then gently she places it beside the icon of the Virgin where it remains during the coming year—perhaps for a tender reminder to the holy image of the wish that the earthly mother has just uttered that the divine mother may grant its fulfillment.

At 12 o'clock Easter even a midnight mass is celebrated. The Gospel is read in the churchyard "beneath the silent stars." There follows the joyous hymn "Christ is Risen"—the glad outburst of freemans, the clattering tongues of bells. The priest, holding up a lighted candle, bids all "Come and receive light," and in happy confusion the throng lights its candles.

With these little flickering torches in their eager hands, they turn to the church. The doors are closed and locked. Loudly they knock, their voices raised in solemn chant:

"Lift the gates, O ye rulers of ours, and ye eternal gates be lifted, for there will enter Christ, the King of Glory!"

A voice within demands: "Who is this King of Glory?"

And the answer breaks forth exultantly: "He is the Lord strong and powerful. He is the Lord mighty in war!"

Home from the service, many slip red eggs under their sleeping children's pillows that when the little ones awake Easter morning they may discover that Pascha, the female personification of Easter, has surprised the household with a fairy visit.

RESURRECTION.
A magic wand hath touched the sleeping earth. And at its summons, lo, a glorious dawn! To countless joys rock, field and hill give birth, And myriad triumphs in a breath are born.

Old winter's woe, like mist, hath rolled away And over all a rose-hued splendor glows; Love, pleasure, hope—as flowers—adorn the day; Ecstatic peace in every streamlet flows.

Sweet spring is here! The Easter of our souls! O'erfilled with promise; burdened with delight; A noble purpose in each hour that rolls; A precious treasure in each moment's flight.

O magic wand! O faithful hand and true! We give thee praise and gratitude for this—Thy touch hath quickened blood and brain anew And thrilled our lips with fresh-iced cup of bliss.

—Lurana W. Shelden, in Metropolitan Magazine.

STRANGE EASTER RITES.
In no corner of this whimsical old world of ours can there be found more naive traditions of Eastertide than those treasured in the heart of the Macedonian race, on the border between Europe and Asia.

Even before the 40 days' fast is quite over, the rejoicing that is to follow full-blown at Easter begins, crouching, to push its bright way upward through the gloom of abstinence and vigil, as a writer in Housekeeper, On Palm Sunday, in little bands of three and four, the most of the women in the Easter parade wear furs, but as a rule the air is bracing and mild enough to encourage lengthy constitutional. Incidentally it may be remarked that the luxurious roller chairs which constitute a distinctive feature of life at Atlantic are not so well patronized at Easter as in dog days. Easter weather is of a kind to encourage walking and the chairs which are abroad at this season are housed in with glass.

The student of human nature—and there is no better place in the world for such study—instinctively draws contrasts between the Easter throng and the summer vacation crowd at Atlantic City. In July and August, when the city by the sea is entertaining some 300,000 visitors a day, this whirlpool of humanity is filled for the most part with wage earners and salaried folk and their families who can afford but one vacation a year and elect to enjoy it here, tarrying beside the sea for a week or ten days or two weeks.

A FAVORITE AMUSEMENT OF THE LITTLE FOLKS

At Easter, on the other hand, the assemblage at Atlantic City is recruited largely from the wealthy and leisure classes—it is the rendezvous of fashion at this period, just as are Newport and Bar Harbor in midsummer.

For all that the influx at Easter does not equal that when the summer excursion business is at flood tide, almost all of Atlantic City's one thousand hotels and boarding houses are open to receive the spring merry-makers who pour in at the rate of 300 carloads a day for several days before Easter. What the Easter invaders lack in numbers they make up in spending power and this insures them a double welcome on the great amusement highway where the opportunities of retail trade are such that as much as $5,000 a year rental is charged for a tiny store room. That the Easter-rush seaward means such a golden harvest for the hotel keepers and merchants at the Brighton of America is all the more significant when it is taken into consideration that many of the Easter visitors come only for the "week-end," that is, for the interval from Friday afternoon to Monday morning.

Atlantic City at Eastertide is the board walk and the board walk is Atlantic City. In the summer the great bathing beach is, of course, the prime attraction for many of the visitors, but nobody cares to indulge in a dip in old ocean at Easter unless, perhaps, he be some venturesome individual in quest of notoriety. This being the case, the board walk becomes the center of attraction and right well does it meet the responsibility. Following the example of Atlantic City, almost every seaside community has erected a board walk, but the one at Atlantic City is in a class by itself. It is upward of two miles long, is 40 feet wide throughout its main section and cost more than a quarter of a million dollars.

On the one hand this board walk affords promenade an unobstructed view of the sea, while on the other the marine esplanade is lined with hundreds of restaurants, amusement places of every imaginable kind and the most fascinating shops in America. Interspersed at frequent intervals are art auction rooms. A large proportion of the visitors to Atlantic City are women and of course no woman can resist the temptation of real bargains—a fact of which the wily Japs who conduct these auction emporiums are manifestly well aware. Aside from the never-ending procession of variegated humanity, unlimited free amusement is provided by the picturesque "dancers," the fakirs, the street musicians and the sand sculptors who line the board walk. Finally great amusement piers of steel construction—each, in effect, an "amner" of the board walk—extend seaward from the beach a third of a mile or more and afford visitors all the sensations of life on an ocean liner—save the seasickness. On these piers are the great music halls and concert auditoriums, where are held the popular dances for which Atlantic City is famous.

HAVE YOU TRIED THIS?

Simple Prescription Said to Work Wonders for Rheumatism.
This has been well known to the best doctors for years and is now given to the public. "Get one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound and one ounce of Toris compound. Then get half a pint of good whiskey and put the other two ingredients into it. Take a tablespoonful of this mixture before each meal and at bed time. Shake the bottle before using." Good effects are felt the first day. Many of the worst cases here have been cured by this. Any druggist has these ingredients on hand or will quickly get them from his wholesale house.

HIS WAY OUT

Prospective Tenant (noticing several inches of water in the cellar)—My, this cellar leaks.
Landlord—It don't leak a drop. That water has been in here for two months and not a single drop has escaped.

"How Sharper Than Serpent's Tooth."

An irritable old farmer and his ungainly, slouching son were busy grubbing sprouts one hot, sultry day, when the old man suddenly stumbled over a small stump.

"Gosh darn that everlasting stump!" he exclaimed. "I wish it was in hell!"

The son slowly straightened up from his work and gazed reproachfully at his father.

"Why, you oughtn't to say that, pap," he drawled. "You might stumble over that stump ag'in some day." "Everybody's."

What a Trained Nurse Says About Resinol.

I get absolute satisfaction from Resinol and use it constantly. One of my patients has had ulcers for 15 years, and Resinol has helped her more than anything else. She will continue using it until cured. I have made some remarkable cures with it. Mrs. Agnes T. O'Neill, Somerville, Mass.

Optimism.

Kicker—Look how easy it is for flies to get in through these screens! Landlord—Yes, but look how easy it is for them to get out again!

RELIEVES URINARY AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, BACKACHE, STRAINING, SWELLING, ETC.

Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the aches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; nervousness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, K-261 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering power.

It will quickly show you its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it will without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

COULDN'T SPEAK

Record for Strangers.

A Niagara Falls man tells this story:

"A Buffalo man brought a relative from Scotland here to see our grand spectacle. The two gazed at the fall in silence a long time. Then the Buffalo man heaved a sigh and said:

"Ah, Cousin Donald, did you ever see anything so beautiful and strange?"

"The Scotchman, after a moment's thought, answered calmly:

"Weel, for bonnie, yun's a richt; but for strange, no fur I once saw in the Town of Peebles a peacock with a wooden leg."

"Determining Sex.

Mark Twain says that he has always taken woman's part.

"For instance," he relates, "I once strongly reprimanded a woman out in Hannibal, Mo. Here was the occasion:

"So this is a little girl, eh? I said to her as she displayed her children to me. And this sturdy little urchin in the bib belongs, I suppose, to the contrary sex."

"Yassah," the woman replied. "Yassah, dat's a girl, too."—Everybody's Magazine.

An Ungallant Outlook.

"Again, the ungallant outlook of some husbands causes divorce," said ex-Gov. Pennypacker, in a witty after-dinner speech in Philadelphia.

"It is amazing what an ungallant outlook some men have. I said one day to a Bucks county farmer:

"Have you got a wife, Hans?"

"Why, yes, to tell the truth, I have," Hans replied. "For the little bit the critters eat, it ain't worth a man's while to be without one."

A LITTLE THING

Changes the Home Feeling.

Coffee blots out the sunshine from many a home by making the mother, or some other member of the household, dyspeptic, nervous and irritable. There are thousands of cases where the proof is absolutely undeniable. Here is one.

A Wis. mother writes:

"I was taught to drink coffee at an early age, and also at an early age became a victim to headaches, and as I grew to womanhood these headaches became a part of me, as I was scarcely ever free from them."

"About five years ago a friend urged me to try Postum. I made the trial and the result was so satisfactory that we have used it ever since."

"My husband and little daughter were subject to bilious attacks, but they have both been entirely free from them since we began using Postum instead of coffee. I no longer have headaches and my health is perfect."

If some of these irritable women would only leave off coffee absolutely and try Postum they would find a wonderful change in their life. It would then be filled with sunshine and happiness rather than weariness and discontent. And think what an effect it would have on the family for the mood of the mother is largely responsible for the temper of the children.

SERIAL STORY THE LITTLE BROWN JUG AT KILDARE

SYNOPSIS.
Thomas Ardmore, bored millionaire, and Henry Maine Griswold, professor at the University of Virginia, take trains to Kildare, Va. Griswold, who is a student at the university, is a girl who is a student at the university. He is a student at the university. He is a student at the university.

CHAPTER III.—Continued.

"Thank you, Mr. Maine. While I regret missing your worthy father, yet I beg to present my compliments to your kind and thoughtful mother."

Ardmore had dropped the jug carefully into the vestibule, and he was surveying them critically when the train started. The wheels were beginning to grind reluctantly when a cry down the track arrested his attention. A man was flying after the train, shouting at the top of his lungs. He ran, caught hold of the rail and howled:

"The governor ain't out yet! Gimme back my jug!"

"Indian-giver!" yelled Ardmore. He stooped down, picked up the first jug that came to hand, and dropped it into the man's outstretched arms.

The porter, having heard voices, rushed out upon Ardmore, who held the remaining jug to the light, scrutinizing it carefully.

"Please put this away for me, porter. It's a little gift from an old army friend."

Then Mr. Ardmore returned to his berth, fully pleased with his adventure, and slept until the porter gave warning of Kildare.

CHAPTER IV.

Duty and the Jug.

Mr. Thomas Ardmore, one trunk two bags and a little brown jug reaching the hotel house, Raleigh, at eight o'clock in the morning, Ardmore had never felt better in his life. He assured himself, as he chose a room with care and intimacy to the landlord, his intention of remaining a week. But for ill luck of having his baggage marked off as belonging to the governor, he should have registered himself faithfully on the books of the inn; but feeling that this was not quite respectable he assured the landlord, in response to the usual question, that he was not Ardmore of New York and Ardrey, but an entirely different personage.

The Gulfport house coffee was not just what he was used to, but he was in an amiable humor and enjoyed hugely the conversation of the commercial travelers with whom he took his breakfast. He did not often escape from himself the burden of his family reputation, and these strangers were profoundly entertaining. It had never occurred to Ardmore that man could be so amiable so early in the day and his own spirit rallied as he passed the sugar, abused the host and nodded his approval of bitter flings at the inn of other southern towns of whose existence he only vaguely knew.

"I wonder if the governor's back men yet?" asked one man.

"The morning paper says not, but he's expected to-day," replied the man with the newspaper.

"About the first thing he'll have to do will be to face the question of arresting Appleweight. I was in Columbia the other day and everybody was talking of the case. They say—" attention of his hearers—"they say Osborne ain't none too anxious to have Appleweight arrested on his side of the line."

"Why not?" demanded Ardmore.

"Well, you hear all kinds of things. It's only whispered down there, but they say Osborne was a little thick with the Appleweight crowd before he was elected governor. He was their attorney, and they were a bad lot for any man to be attorney for. But they haven't caught Appleweight yet."

"Where's he hiding; don't the authorities know?"

"Oh, he's up there in the hills on the state line. His home is as much on one side as the other. He spends a good deal of time in Kildare."

"Kildare?" asked Ardmore, startled at the word.

"Yes, it's the county seat, what there is of it. I hope you never make that town! and the inquirer bent a communicating glance upon Ardmore.

"Well, they use jugs there, I know that!" declared Ardmore, whereat the table roared. The unanimity of their applause warmed his heart, though he did not know why they laughed.

"You handle crockery?" asked a man from the end of the table. "Well, I guess Dillwilt county consumes a few gross of jugs all right. But you'd better be careful not to whisper jug too loud here. There's usually a couple of revenue men around town."

They all went together to the office, where they picked up their sample cases and sallied forth for a descent upon the Raleigh merchants; and Ardmore, thus reminded that he was in the office, and that he had a sample in his room, sat down under a tree on the sidewalk at the inn door to consider what he should do with his little brown jug.

As Mr. Ardmore pondered duty and the jug a tall man in shabby corduroy halted near by and inspected him carefully.

"Good morning," said Ardmore pleasantly.

The man nodded, but did not speak. He was examining Ardmore with a pair of small, shrewd, gray eyes. In his hands he held a crumpled bit of brown paper that looked like a telegram.

"I got a telegram yeh say y'u got a jug that y'u ain't no right 't last night at Kildare. I want that jug, young fella."

"Now that's very unfortunate. Ordinarily I should be delighted, but I really couldn't give away my Kildare jug. Now if it was one my other jugs—even my Omaha jug, or my dear old Louisville jug—I shouldn't hesitate a minute, but that old Kildare jug? My dear man, you don't know what you ask!"

"I'll give me that jug or I'll be the worse for y'u. Y'u ain't in that game, young fella."

"Not in it! You don't know whom you are addressing. I'm not in the game, but I'm in to the finish," declared Ardmore, sitting upright in his chair. "You've got the wrong idea, my friend, if you think you can intimidate me. That jug was given me by a friend, a very old and dear friend."

"A friend of yours?"

"We've been little gray eyes were blinking rapidly.

"One of the best friends I ever had in this world," and Ardmore's face showed feeling. "He and I charged side by side through the bloodiest battles of our civil war. I will cheerfully give you my watch, or money in any sum, but the jug—I will not part with my life for it! And now," concluded Ardmore, "while I should be glad to continue this conversation, my duties call me elsewhere."

As he rose, the man stood quickly at his side, menacingly.

"Give me that jug or I'll shoot you right yeh in the street."

"No, you wouldn't do that, Old Corduroy. I can see that you are kind and good and you wouldn't shoot down an unarmed man. Besides I can't miss up the street."

"Y'u took that jug from my brother by lyn' to 'im. He's telegraphed me to get it, and I'm a-goin' to do it."

"Your brother sent you? It was nice of him to ask you to call on me. Why, I've known your brother intimately for years."

"Known my brother?" and for the first time the man really seemed to doubt himself. "When did y'u know him?"

"We roomed together at Harvard, that's how I know him, if you force me to it! We're both Hasty Pudding men. Now if you try to bulldoze me further, I'll slap your wrists. So there!"

Ardmore entered the hotel deliberately, climbed to his room and locked the door. Then he reached the little brown jug, drew the stopper and poured out a tumblerful of clear white fluid. He took a swallow and shuddered as the fiery liquid seemed instantly to cause every part of his being to tingle. He wiped the tears from his eyes and sat down. The corn-cob stopper had fallen to the floor, and he picked it up and examined it carefully. It had been fitted tightly into the mouth of the jug by the addition of a bit of saltpetre, and he gazed at it with a grin on his face.

He was about to replace it when, to his astonishment, it broke in his fingers, and out fell a carefully folded slip of paper. He carried it to the window and opened it in clear round characters these words:

The Appleweight crowd never does you harm. If you have any of them arrested you will be shot down on your doorstep.

When Mr. Thomas Ardmore had read this message half a dozen times with increasing satisfaction he folded it carefully and put it away in his pocket-book.

Taking half a sheet of note paper he wrote as follows:

Appleweight and his gang are cowards. Within ten days they must be hanged will be in jail at Kildare.

He studied the phrasing critically, and then placed the paper in the jug stopper, whose halves he tied together with a bit of twine. As the jug stood on the table it was, to all appearances, exactly as it had been when delivered to Ardmore on the year of the train at Kildare, and he was thoroughly well pleased with himself. He changed the blue scarf with which he had begun the day for one of purple with gold bars, and walked up the street toward the statehouse.

This venerable edifice, meekly reposing amid noble residences, was ably upon Ardmore's fancy. Here was government enthroned in quiet dignity, as becomes a venerable commonwealth, wearing its years like a veteran who has known war and tumult, but finds at last tranquility and peace.

He experienced a feeling of awe, without quite knowing it, as he strolled up the walk, climbed the steps to the portico and turned to look back from the shadow of the pillars. He had never but once before visited an important public building—the New York city hall—and he felt that now, indeed, he had turned a corner and entered upon a new and strange world.

He ascended to the toylike legislative chambers, where flags of nation and state hung side by side, and where the very seats and desks of the lawmakers spoke of other times and lawmakers.

Mr. Ardmore, feeling that he should now be about his business, sought the governor's office, where a secretary, who seemed harassed by the cares of his position, confessed Ardmore's knowledge of the governor's absence.

"I didn't wish to see the governor on business," explained Ardmore pleasantly, leaning upon his stick with an air of leisure. "He and my father were old friends, and I always promised my father that I would never pass through Raleigh without calling on Gov. Dangerfield."

"That is too bad," remarked the young man sympathetically, though with a preoccupation that was eloquent of larger affairs.

"Could you tell me whether any members of the governor's family are at home?"

"Oh, yes; Mrs. Dangerfield and Miss Jerry are at the mansion."

"Miss Jerry?"

"Miss Gertrude. We all call her Miss Jerry in North Carolina."

"Oh, yes; to be sure. Let me see: it's over this way to the mansion, isn't it?" inquired Ardmore.

"No; out the other end of the building—and turn to your right. You can't miss it."

The room was quiet, the secretary a young man of address and intelligence. Here, without question, was the place for Ardmore to discharge his business and be quit of it; but having been snatched a commission from feeling opportunity it was not for him to throw it to another man. He opened the door to leave, the secretary arrested him.

"Oh, Mr.—pardon me, but did you come in from the south this morning?"

"Yes; I came up on the Tar Heel express from Atlanta."

"To be sure. Of course you didn't sit up all night? There's some trouble brewing around Kildare. I thought you might have heard something, but of course you couldn't have been awake at two o'clock in the morning."

The secretary was so anxious to acquit him of any knowledge of the situation at Kildare that it seemed kindest to tell him nothing. The secretary's face lost its anxiety for a moment, and he smiled.

"The governor has an old friend and admirer up there who always puts a jug of fresh buttermilk on board when he passes through. The governor was expected home this morning, and I thought maybe—"

"Of course, all the world knows that. But I'm afraid all jugs look alike to me; but then, the fact is I'm in the jug business myself. Good morning."

The governor's mansion was easily found, and having walked about the neighborhood until his watch marked 11 Ardmore entered the grounds and rang the bell at the front door.

Well identified.

A severe looking woman moved up to the window at the Citizens Savings & Trust Company with a small check to be cashed. The teller said she had to be identified and she suggested that he call up the man who had drawn the check and have him describe her.

The teller decided to take the chance, and called the man on the 'phone at his elbow.

"Oh, it's probably all right," came the word over the 'phone. "Wait, I'll describe her for you and you can see if it's the same woman. She had on a faded brown dress and pains just like it, and is about as old as my dear old mother. Oh, yes, and she wore a big brooch with a shower of imitation stones in it."

The teller looked the woman over and cashed the check. She hadn't heard the other end of his telephone conversation and went her way smiling.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mrs. Jackson Quite Confident She Had Picked Out a Biblical Name for Her Boy.

The late Bishop Gailley was once asked to baptize a negro baby boy. "Name this child," he said, addressing Mrs. Jackson, the mother of the black mile.

"Hallelu!"

"That's a strange name, Mrs. Jackson," remarked the bishop, hesitatingly.

"Scripture name," rejoined the happy mother, with a confident grin.

"Why, bishop, how kin yuh stan' up dar kiddin' a ole ignorant nigger laik I is? Yuh says dat name whenever yuh says de Lawd's prayer—'Hallelu be thy name!'—Success Magazine.

A Big Shortage in Seeds.

From almost all sections comes the report of a serious shortage of seed corn. It is also in some sections of seed barley, oats, rye, wheat, flax, clover and the early varieties of corn.

This is particularly noticeable in the great corn and oat and potato growing states.

Thus: The great states of Nebraska and Iowa are suffering a shortage of seed corn as never before.

Many of the farmers in these and other states are placing their orders early for seed in order to be on the safe side, and we can but urge farmers to write at once to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box 32, La Crosse, Wis., for their farm seed and corn catalogue.

The magnitude of the business of this long established firm can be somewhat estimated when one knows that in ordinary years they sell:

100,000 bushels of seed corn,
100,000 bushels of seed potatoes,
100,000 bushels of seed oats,
100,000 bushels of seed wheat,
100,000 bushels of seed clover and timothy seeds, together with an endless amount of other farm seeds and vegetable seeds, such as onions, cabbages, carrots, peas, beans, lettuce, radishes, tomatoes, etc.

There is one thing about the Salzer firm they never disappoint. They always fill your order on account of the enormous stock they carry.

Send them 8 cents for a package of their great 800 prize Corn and Catalogue. Address, John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box 32, La Crosse, Wis.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female illness—menstrual irregularities, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

President Taft celebrated St. Patrick's day by delivering seven speeches in Chicago.

The wet and the dry vote in Chicago is expected to aggregate four hundred and twenty thousand.

Gov. Willson has been wielding his veto as very industriously, and in many instances for the good of the State.

Gov. Willson vetoed the Bank Examiner's bill and the appropriation of $5,000 for the Jefferson Davis Home in Christian county.

No man on earth is more in the lime-light just now than Theodore Roosevelt, and President Taft's fate as a candidate for renomination for election as president is entirely in Roosevelt's hands.

As the very few bills passed by the last legislature that are satisfactory to the people are disapproved by Gov. Willson, he would have done the proper thing had he vetoed the whole shooting-match.

The Democrats and the insurgent Republicans in the House gave speaker Cannon a knockout blow, one day last week, and once successful they are encouraged to go after the old gentleman every time an opportunity offers.

The State Board of Equalization has increased the values of taxable property in some counties to the extent of twenty per cent. It would seem that the State Board recognizing the financial condition in the State is endeavoring to relieve the State Treasury by increasing its receipts from taxes.

The Legislature gave $38,000 to pay off the indebtedness on the State fair and buy an additional piece of land for extra buildings. The state fair property is worth about $300,000 of which the State has given $15,000, the rest was donated by Louisville and Jefferson county together with the state fair profits.

Fertilizer tests with corn show clearly that plowing more green leguminous crops is a highly beneficial practice, and that where this is followed only moderate amounts of fertility will be necessary to give increased yields; when vegetable matter is lacking, however, heavy applications of fertilizers seem advisable.

There were enough Democrats in the State Senate, whose party fidelity caused them to join hands with the Republican minority to defeat the proposed infamous ripper bill intended to apply to Louisville. There is a difference between party fidelity and a complete surrender to a retinue of political bosses who are out for office and revenue only.

The contest for the Republican congressional nomination in the eleventh district between Congressman Richards and Caleb Powers is being shown up in a bad light as regards his work for his party, but he expects to overcome all opposition by a free use of the fortune he collected from Republicans while he layed in jail charged with complicity in the Goebel assassination.

The Democrats of Starke county in convention assembled last week spontaneously pledged their delegates to the State convention to vote and work for Henry W. O'Brien of this city for the nomination for state auditor. This action was taken without the knowledge or consent of Mr. O'Brien and is certainly a marked compliment to our distinguished fellow townsman.—Lawrenceburg Register.

North pole Peary has run up against a snag in the lower House of Congress, to which he refuses to submit his proofs of having been to the north pole. Enough, however, is known about the rate he claims to have traveled while in the vicinity of the pole, to make thinking people begin to suspect he is faking somewhat, as he covered about as many miles in a day's travel in the arctic region as he could cover the average roads in Kentucky.

Rural conditions are infinitely more attractive today than they were half or a quarter of a century ago, says Secretary Wilson. The average farmer, especially in the eastern part of the country, is far better off than the average city dweller in point of sufficiency of supplies, while he is almost as well equipped with conveniences. The trolley car, the telephone and the rural free delivery have brought him into close touch with the cities and widened his sphere of industrial and intellectual activity. He is within the current of the world's thought and has a far broader range of resources than his farm-boy to remain on the farm or had.

The problem of inducing the farm boy to remain on the farm is no longer a problem for the farmer. The city dweller is menaced with a decreasing supply of food and it is his business to adopt some method whereby country life will be so attractive as to keep the boys on the homestead and also to induce some of the city dwellers to migrate farmers.—M.

The exodus of tobacco growers and farmers to other States is causing the withdrawal of considerable cash from circulation in various counties. On this subject Mr. Oliver Advance says: About $75,000 has been withdrawn from the money circulation of this county, being taken out by persons who have disposed of their lands and moved to other States. This out go of cash is beginning to be felt in business circles.

Representative Ollis James gave out a scathing statement on Gov. Willson's veto of the joint resolution of the Kentucky Legislature on the income tax. He declares that if Willson's act should defeat the amendment the Kentucky Governor will have to bear the responsibility of destroying the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments of the United States constitution, and it would have the effect of disfranchising 100,000 negro voters in Kentucky and others all over the nation.

Have you got $34.87 in your pocket or in the bank? If you have not then you are shy on the per capita circulation of money in the United States, as shown by the books of the Treasury Department, which is reaching this calculation, estimates the population of the United States at $3,838,000 and announces the amount of money in circulation on March 1, as $3,131,093,250, which if equally divided, would give every man, woman and child in the country $34.87. There is in circulation today, $49,315,244 more than there was a year ago.

The hog and corn proposition is one of which farmers should be thoroughly posted in all its phases, but they all miss their bearings occasionally and lose out when a small fortune could be realized from a small investment in hogs and corn. Suppose, when it was apparent that a short crop of corn was imminent a farmer had invested a few hundred dollars in hogs and corn. Is it not plain what good a thing would have come to him? And then is it not plain that a short corn crop produces a scarcity of hogs, which results in long prices? The man who is wise to these propositions and has a moderate sum of money and the nerve to take advantage of the conditions will always come across with a fat pocketbook.

A number of our exchanges have commented on the recent sale of loose tobacco at 40 and 42 cents on the Lexington market, stating that this was the record price for white burley. The veteran editor, Brer John Zollar, of the Mt. Olivet Tribune-Democrat who has a remarkably long memory, says that a hog was sold on the Cincinnati market some forty years ago at $1.25 per pound. In the summer of 1875 two growers of Robertson county sold 50 hogs heads at an average of 40 cents per pound and some least of the lot brought as high as fifty cents. As the hog is a coarse animal of very fine texture, twenty cents per pound would not be an unreasonable price in the opinion of the sage of old Robertson.—Pendletonian.

Nothing agriculturally is more fascinating than to study the corn crop of the United States. Cotton used to be king, but corn has thrived cotton, and has rolled up figures that simply take you off your feet, writes J. George Frederick in the Travel Magazine. Corn grows in 120 days from its planting time. Out in the great corn belt, during 1909, the corn farmers made the ground give up to them $10,000,000 every day of those 120. In other words, every day from the time the corn farmers put the seed in the ground, fifteen millions of dollars were poured into their laps until a grand total of $1,720,000,000 was rolled up. All the gold and silver in the whole United States today isn't equal to this corn crop of last year; it was worth enough to buy entirely new clothing, jewelry and personal adornment for every man, woman and child in the country. And this is only corn! Wheat and cotton are not far behind. Wheat never fetched such a price for the farmer since 1881, as it did last year. And no cotton planter has received such a price for his cotton since 1871. No wonder farmers are buying automobiles! No wonder that the rural and semirural districts of the country are positively the most interesting part of our country today.

GENERAL FARM NOTES.

The horse in regular work should have his mash on Saturday night. Plan to raise a lot of scolling crops for use during the coming season.

Every horse should have a good separate the ewes that are to his evening meal.

Separate the ewest hat are to drop their lambs early from the main flock, and give special care.

Wool is quite like a sponge. It holds a lot of water and water is heavy. Try to keep the sheep in out of cold storms.

Do not think that a mule eats thistles because it likes them. It isn't as much for that.

If a ewe loses her lamb, she can be taught to mother a twin by confining her in a narrow stall.

Don't be fooled when buying a cow, with the assertion that "she is an easy keeper. You want a cow that is hearty eater and a big drinker."

Mature cows produce large litters of strong pigs, and if quiet at farrowing time should be retained for years.

Feed very sparingly and carefully until the pigs are able to take all her milk, or there will be trouble with fever and she will be liable for housekeeping.

THE GOOD FEATURES OF A BANK!

No business enterprise in a community, affords more convenience to the public than a well governed bank, as it affords a medium of exchange that no other source can equal. It gives absolute protection to the safety of money entrusted to its care. It gathers together the surplus money of a community; and gives idle money the most extensive circulation through loans to individuals of property wealth who need a volume of money to transact business in the purchase of the products of the farm and factory. Thus the money of those who have a surplus and are wise enough to deposit in a bank is utilized to its fullest value; and affords a bank additional funds whereby loans are made to traders who are thus enabled to purchase from the identical people who have their money on deposit in a bank, which otherwise they would not be enabled to do. Money hitherto kept at home is not only out of circulation but is dead so far as its value is concerned. The Equitable Bank and Trust Co., Walton, Ky., wants your business. It pays depositors four per cent. on money. Our Trust department qualifies as manager of estates, executor, guardian, administrator, etc. Capital of bank, $50,000, showing assets Jan. 1st, of $100,000. The business of all solicited. Try us; you will be pleased. Telephone connection.

GENERAL NEWS.

Bob Austin and Charles Richardson, negroes, were lynched at Marion, Ark., by a mob of 200 men. The victims were charged with aiding and abetting a jail delivery.

Half a million dollars, a record price for a painting, was paid for the celebrated portrait of Franz Hals, the Dutch painter, and his family, painted by himself. The purchaser was Otto Kahn, the banker.

Declaring that the administration railroad bill contained a joker in the package preventing consolidation of competing lines of Pennsylvania, the Iowa made another attack on the rate bill. He declared that the phrase "direct competition" would prove so elusive that few mergers would come within its prohibition. He intimated that this phrase was very acceptable to railroads now operating on parallel lines and that they would find no hardships in its enforcement.

The last word by the lawyers was said on the constitutionality of the corporation tax provisions of the Payne-Adair tariff law, and the Supreme court of the United States took the 15 cases in which the question under consideration arose.

President Taft at Rochester, N. Y., sounded a call to the Republican party members of congress to bury their differences and proceed to the enactment of laws promised by the party's platform. The president's plea was that congress should subordinate and sacrifice individual opinions in order that the measures he had recommended in fulfillment of his pledges should be enacted into law. He expressed the hope that the party would show that it has "the sense and the discipline" to meet its responsibilities.

Peace in the Chicago railroad world was given additional impetus when the dispute between the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the roads was adjusted by the state board of arbitration. The award of the board was accepted by both sides to the controversy. The board decision granted an increase of wages of two cents an hour and limited the working day to ten hours.

153 MEASURES, SOLOWS WORK

House Leads Senate in New Laws Acted Upon—Two Passed Over Governor's Veto—
Thirteen Already in Force.

Frankfort, Ky.—One hundred and fifty-three bills were passed by the last general assembly. Of this number thirty have become laws, either by receiving the signature of the governor, automatically, or being passed over his veto.

Only two measures were over the governor's veto, however.
One of these was the bill introduced by John W. Holland, of Shelby county, and aimed at the location of the proposed Lincoln Institute in Shelby-ville. The other was the bill introduced by W. F. Klar, of Lexington, providing for the recording of names of persons pooling tobacco or other farm products.

Two bills have become laws automatically, they having remained in the hands of the governor ten days without his signature having been attached. Both these bills were introduced by Conn. Lind, of the House.
One increases the salaries of circuit judges $1,200 a year, and the other appropriates $30,000 annually for use by the state board of health.

Seven more house bills passed the house and senate than did senate bills.
Of the bills that are now law
seven originated in the house.

HIGH VINE,
No. 2733.
Chestnut Stallion, coming 6 years old, weighs 1,100 pounds, stands 16 hands high and is a picture of symmetry and beauty.
HIGH VINE, No. 2733, lady Highland Gaines, No. 1667; Grandaire, Highland Denmark, No. 730; dam, Bessie Sable, No. 2882; by Shropshire's Kentucky Squirrel, No. 1385; second dam, Macey by Granger; fourth dam by Expert, No. 77.
HIGH VINE has proven himself a first class breeder and his colts are growing into very promising horses every day, as the history of his colts is that they grow better in all the attractive qualities with age, and some fancy prices have been offered for the colts, one offer of $175 being refused for a colt foaled in 1908. An inspection of the colts and the horse will convince breeders of their superiority, and that a colt from High Vine means a profitable investment. His colts were shown at various fairs last year and were never defeated in their class, and in addition awakened public admiration everywhere.
HIGH VINE will make the season of the stable of W. Lee Gaines, at Richmond, Boone County, Ky., at $20.00 to insure a live foal, season money due if mare is parted with. Make your engagements ahead as his services are limited, and it saves annoying delays.
For the accommodation of those at a distance, W. L. Gaines has agreed to pasture mares at $25.00 per month, and has the best facilities for their care and keeping.
PREMIUMS—A first premium of $20.00 (the season) will be given best colt and a second premium of $10.00 will be given the second best foal, born on breeding of 1910. Show to be held at Florence fair.

A rush of advertisements late the past week has compelled a reduction in the usual amount of reading matter this week. It will pay you well to read the advertisements every week.

The oldest inhabitant was put clean off of the boards by the month of March. He has no recollection of ever having seen the weather warm and dry the month through like it has been this year, or approaching it.

Why not the people of Burlington make the most pride in the look of the streets of the town and give them a cleaning and then keep them clean. There is a good load of scraps of paper and other trash on the streets that mars their appearance very much. Let all join hands and give the streets a much needed cleaning.

The remains of one who lived in the town were taken from the vault by undertaker H. G. Blanton, of Erlanger, last Friday, and conveyed to the Pope family burying ground at W. T. Hill to read and attend to their last earthly resting place. A very large crowd of the old friends and neighbors of the deceased were present at the interment.

THE LITTLE BROWN JUG
AT KILDARE

SYNOPSIS.

Thomas Ardmore, bored millionaire, and Henry Maing Griewald, professor in the University of Virginia, are out of Atlanta, Georgia, to see Governor of South Carolina, Griewald is threatened. He goes to Columbia to see the governor and meets Barbara Osborne. He remains to assist her in the absence of her father, Ardmore learns that his winning lady is the daughter of Gov. Danglefield of North Carolina. He follows her to Raleigh, and on the way given a brown jug at Kildare. In Raleigh he discovers that the jug bears a message threatening Danglefield unless Applewhite, a criminal, is allowed to go free.

CHAPTER IV.—Continued.

Once within, the air of domestic peace, the pictures on the walls, a whip and a felt hat with a blue band, on the hall table, and a book on a chair in the drawing-room, turned down to mark the absent reader's place, rebuked him for his impudence. He would take the earliest train for Ardrey and bury himself there for the remainder of his days. He had hardly formed this resolution when a light step sounded in the hall, and Miss Geraldine Danglefield stood at the threshold. His good resolutions went down like a house of cards.

"Miss Danglefield," he began, "I had the pleasure of meeting your father in New Orleans the other day, and as I was passing through town unexpectedly, I thought I should give myself a little call upon you—in fact, he gave me a line on to call on you, and I sent, but I stupidly left it at my hotel."

"They faced each other in the dim, cool room for what seemed to him endless centuries. She was much younger than he had imagined; but her eyes were big, just as his, and she smiled, and he felt a sudden light hair curled away from her forehead in pretty waves, and was tired to-day with a large bow of blue ribbon."

"Won't you please sit down, Mr. Ardmore?" And when they were seated, there was another pause, during which the blue eyes continued to take account of him, and he fingered his tie, feeling sure that there was something wrong with it.

"This warm, isn't it?" "I suppose it is. It's a way summer has, of being mostly warm."

He was quite sure that she was laughing at him; there was a tinge of irony in the very way in which she pronounced "warm," lingeringly, as though to prolong her contempt for his stupidity in not finding anything better to say.

"I enjoyed meeting your father so much, Miss Danglefield. I think we are always likely to be afraid of great men, but your father made me feel at home at once. And he told such cozy tales—I've been laughing over them ever since I left New Orleans."

"I suppose, Mr. Ardmore, that you saw papa at the luncheon at the Pharoas club in New Orleans?" "Why, yes, Miss Danglefield. It was there I met the governor!"

"Are you sure it was there, Mr. Ardmore?" "Why, I think that was the place. I don't know my New Orleans as I should, but—"

Ardmore was suddenly conscious that Miss Danglefield had risen and that she stood before him, with her fair face the least bit flushed, her blue eyes alight with anger, and that the hands at her sides were clenched nervously.

true that I was not in New Orleans, and I never saw your father in my life. I came to Raleigh on a mission that has absolutely nothing to do with Mr. Billings; he did not know I was coming. On the way here a message intended for your father came into my hands. It was thrown on the train at Kildare last night. I had gone out on the platform because the sleeper was hot, and a warning to your father to keep his hands off Applewhite was given to me. Here it is. It seems to me that there is immediate danger to me. I want to help you. I want to do anything I can for you. I didn't come here to pry into your family secrets, Miss Danglefield, honestly I didn't!"

She took the piece of paper into her slim little hands and read it, slowly and steadily, as if the words only confirmed some earlier knowledge of the threat they contained. Then she lifted her head, and her eyes were bright with mirth as Ardmore's wondering gaze met them.

"Did you get the jug?" "I got two jugs, to tell the truth; but when they seemed dissatisfied and howled for me to give one back, I threw off the buttermilk!"

"You threw back father's buttermilk to the man who gave you the applejack?" "Oh, oh!"

Miss Jerry Danglefield sat down and laughed; and Ardmore, glad of an opportunity to escape, found his hat and rushed from the house.

CHAPTER V.

Mr. Ardmore Officially Recognized. "She never did it; she never, never did!"

Mr. Ardmore, from a bench in the statehouse park, thus concluded a long reverie. It was late afternoon, and he had forgotten luncheon in his absorption. There was no manner of use in recurring again to that episode of the lonely siding. He had found the girl—(Indubitably the girl)—but not the wink! Miss Jerry Danglefield was not the wink! She was well satisfied on that point, and so thoroughly ashamed into the bargain that he resolved to lead a different life and be very heedful of the cry of the poor in the future.

As he sat dejectedly on his park bench, he was unaware that Miss Geraldine Danglefield, walking hurriedly through the park on her way from the governor's mansion to the statehouse, passed directly behind him. His attitude was so eloquent of despair that it could not have failed to move a much harder heart than that of Miss Danglefield, yet she made no sign; but a few minutes later the private secretary came out on the steps of the statehouse, and after a brief survey of the landscape crossed the lawn and called to him by the name of "Mr. Ardmore."

"I beg your pardon, but Miss Danglefield wished me to say that she'd like to see you for a minute. She's at the governor's office."

A prisoner, sentenced to death, and expectedly relieved with the rope already on his neck, could not experience greater relief than that which brought Mr. Thomas Ardmore to his feet.

"You are sure of it—that there's no mistake?" "Certainly not. Miss Danglefield told me I was to bring you back."

Enthroned at the secretary's desk, a mass of papers before her, Miss Geraldine Danglefield awaited him. He was ready to place his back on the back in sheer contrition for his conduct, but she herself took the initiative, and her tone was wholly amiable.

"This morning, Mr. Ardmore—" "Oh, please forget this morning!" he pleaded.

"But I was rude to you; I threatened to have you thrown out of the house, and you had come to do us a favor. You traded buttermilk for moonshine!"

"I shouldn't exactly call it moonshine. It's more like dynamite than anything else. I've written a reply to the note and put it back in the cork, and I'm going to return it to Kildare."

Miss Danglefield had picked up a spool of red tape, and was unwinding it. They were such nice little hands, and so peaceful in their aimless trifling with the tape that he was sure his eyes had betrayed him into imagining she had clenched them in the quiet drawing-room at the mansion. This office, now that its atmosphere enveloped him, was almost as domestic as the house in which she lived. Miss Danglefield threw down the spool of tape and bent toward him gravely.

"Mr. Ardmore, can you keep a secret?" "Nobody ever tried me with one, but I think I can, Miss Danglefield," he murmured humbly.

"Then please stand up." And Ardmore rose, a little sheepishly, like a schoolboy who fears blame, or will be pretty soon.

"I, acting governor of North Carolina, hereby appoint you my private secretary, and may God have mercy on your soul. You may now sit down, Mr. Secretary."

"But I thought there was a secretary already. And besides, I don't write a very good hand," Ardmore stammered.

"I am just sending Mr. Bassford to Atlanta to find papa. He's already gone, or will be pretty soon."

"But I thought your father would be home to-night."

Miss Danglefield looked out of the open window upon the park, then into the silent outer hall, to be sure she was not overheard.

"Papa will not be at home to-night."

Unaware That Miss Danglefield Passed Directly Behind Him.

or probably to-morrow night, or the night afterward. I'm not sure we'll wait next Christmas dinner for papa."

"But of course you know where he is! It isn't possible—" and Ardmore stared in astonishment into Miss Danglefield's tranquil blue eyes.

"It is possible. Papa is ducking his official responsibilities. That's what the matter with papa! And I guess they're enough to drive any man into the woods. Just look at all this!"

Miss Danglefield rested one of those distinctly handsome hands on the pile of documents, letters and telegrams the secretary had left behind him; with a nod of the head she indicated the governor's desk in the inner room, and it, too, was piled high with documents.

"That in the absence of the governor the lieutenant-governor would act. I think I read that once."

"You must have read it wrong, Mr. Ardmore. In North Carolina, in the absence of the governor, I am governor. Don't look so shocked; when I say I, I mean I—me! Do you understand what I said?"

THE MODERN HOME—A WORD TO PARENTS

HOMES are not what they should be until fathers and mothers realize the value of the souls of their children. Two years ago in Arkansas, a man bought 243 acres of land for $200. In passing over it one day he found a crystal, which attracted him, and when he took it into a neighboring city he found that it was a diamond. He sold the farm for $25,000, but now you could not buy for $1,000 an acre, so great is the value of it. For years it was in the possession of its owner, and he was insensible to its priceless worth; but this is nothing as compared with the worth of an immortal soul, and one never will be concerned about having a mother by the hand to Christ until he realizes their value in the sight of God and also that the only hope for them is in Jesus Christ.

This is for all without discrimination—none too rich and none too poor, none too wise and none too ignorant, none too young and none too old. It is the blessing of the peace-makers who were the children of God, gave an invitation to all who would accept him to come forward, and a little street urchin, with ragged clothes and dirty face, pushing his way to the front holding his mother by the hand, speaking in the vernacular of the street, said: "Say, boss, I would like to be one of them chilluns of God, if I am not too small, and," pointing back to his mother with his thumb, he said, "she would like to be one of the chilluns of God, if she is not too big." That is the beauty of it. The Eternal Life, Jesus Christ, is for all, and it is this that makes the home beautiful.

Two Homes Contrasted.

The best way I know to teach my lesson is to give the picture of two homes. One was an old-fashioned one, like the man who came into his boy's room when he was dying to tell him that he would soon be with Christ, and the little fellow drew him by his knees beside the bed and said: "Father, don't cry, for as soon as I see Jesus I will tell him that you're still here. I can remember you sought to bring me to him."

Such a father is unlike the one on the Mississippi river, with a great plantation, his million of dollars in the bank and his name spoken everywhere as a synonym of wealth and power. He came to his house to learn that his boy had fallen in front of a great reaping machine and was a frightfully mangled. When the boy found that he must die, he said: "Father, I cannot die; you never told me how to die. You must pray for me," but his father could not pray. He called the minister came, the boy was dead, and the father said he would give all he had if he could have him back, or if he could have offered one brief prayer.

The Old-Fashioned Mother.

There is a home where an old-fashioned mother presides like a queen. Thank God, some of us have, and others have had, old-fashioned mothers. Dear, old-fashioned, sweet-faced mother! Eyes in which the love-light shone, her brown hair threaded with silver, lying smoothly on the faded cheek; her hands, worn with much toil, gently guiding our tottering steps in childhood and smoothing our pillow in sickness, ever reaching out to us in yearning tenderness. Precious memory of an old-fashioned mother! It floats to us now, like the powerful perfume of some fragrant blossom. The music of other voices may be lost, but the entrancing memory of her will echo in our souls forever. Other faces will fade away and be forgotten, but hers will shine on until the light from heaven's portals shall glorify our own.—Christian Herald.

Helpful Experiences.

It seems to me it is the same with love and happiness and with sorrow—the more we know of it the better we can feel what other people's lives are or ought to be, and so we shall only be more tender to them and wishful to help them.—George Eliot.

A German Trade School.

Vice-Consul James L. A. Burrell describes the operation of the German School for Blacksmiths at Halberstadt, in the Magdeburg district: "Young smiths receive instruction in shoemaking, and are prepared for the examination in shoemaking which was made compulsory in the German empire by the imperial act of July 1, 1883, and is held in the various provinces by state examining commissions. The school is supported by appropriations from the city and province and from the two agricultural associations in Halberstadt 25 marks ($3.95) for the course Board and lodging can be had in the school very cheaply. For young blacksmiths without means four free courses, with board and lodging, are provided each year. Candidates who pass excellent examinations receive premiums. Only six persons may take part in each course of instruction."

New Definition of Gentleman.

"A gentleman," says the Philosopher of Folly, "is a man who is so dead sure that he is one that he doesn't think he has to tell people so."

From Lucile's Diary

I have often told mother that I think our maid should wear a cap, since good form really demands it. "Tilly is so faithful and efficient and has been with us so long that I don't like to suggest any such unnecessary innovation," said mother the last time I brought up the subject.

I made no reply, but I determined to see what I could do. So I bought the daintiest kind of little French cap and one morning when Tilly was dusting I put it on my own head. It was quite becoming and I could see that Tilly admired me in it.

Soon I took it off and, pinning it on her yellow hair, I said: "Ah, look in the glass! Aren't you perfectly done in it? I'll make you a present of the cap, Tilly."

"Thank you, Miss Lucile," she returned, a little ungraciously, "but I have never worn caps."

"But this such a pretty one," I said, "and it looks so nice on you, Tilly. I should think you'd like to look as nice as you can. That reminds me that I've been thinking about your teeth. Why it is that you don't have them attended to?"

"It costs so much for filling," she said, "and when one hurts very much I have it pulled out."

"That is just what makes your mouth look so bad. If you were seriously, for I am quite sensitive about such things, and the vacancies in Tilly's front teeth had made me uncomfortable for a long time. If you'll have your teeth fixed I'll pay the dentist's bill."

"Oh, Miss Lucile!" exclaimed Tilly, quite overwhelmed with the offer. "Will you, really?"

"Yes, indeed, I'll be glad to. Now, you'll wear the pretty cap every day, won't you?"

"Yes'm," she answered.

"I'm glad," said mother, a few days later, "that Tilly at last is having some dentistry done, but it is inconvenient for her to be out so much. She says she will have to be at the dentist's nearly all day to-morrow, and as Fannie and I each have an engagement for the day I'm afraid you'll have to stay at home with your grandmother, Lucile."

"I don't mind it in the least, mother," I replied. I immediately decided to invite Arthur Knight to run up in his automobile for luncheon.

In the morning I went out and bought some of those imported pickled fish that Arthur likes especially. Then I got some wieners, caviar, roquefort cheese, dry bread and ripe olives. I knew that these things with ginger ale would make just the kind of meal that Arthur would enjoy.

"I think it is unkind of mother to speak harshly to me when I had stayed at home all day so cheerfully at her request. I think mother doesn't realize how often, in doing things for the family, I deny myself pleasure."

One evening last week Tilly came to me just before dinner with a slip of paper. "All through at last, Miss Lucile," she said, with a happy smile that displayed two complete rows of front teeth. "I congratulate you," I remarked, as I opened the paper. "Thirty-eight dollars!" I exclaimed. "Why, Tilly, there must be some mistake."

MADE UP HIS MIND QUICKLY

Prospective Juror Evidently Was Not Favorably Impressed with Prisoner's Appearance.

In a southern county of Missouri, years ago, when the form of questioning was slightly different than now, much trouble was experienced in getting a jury in a murder trial. Finally an old fellow answered every question satisfactorily; he had no prejudices, was not opposed to capital punishment and was, generally, a valuable find. Then the prosecutor said, not smilingly:

"Juror, look upon the prisoner; prisoner, look upon the juror." The old man adjusted his spectacles and peered at the prisoner for a full half minute. Then, turning to the court, he said:

"Judge, durm if I don't believe he's guilty."

The unconscious humor of it so convulsed the court and everyone else, except the prisoner, that the loss of another juror was overlooked.

HIS SPEED.

"He leads a terribly fast life." "Who is he?" "Mr. Paytheff's chauffeur."

Ever Eat Soapy Soap? My! Isn't it nasty! When they use cheap old yellow soap to wash the dishes some of it always sticks there and smells like you can taste it all the time. There isn't any excuse for it, if you folks know about Easy Task soap, which makes dishes perfectly and antiseptically clean; and doesn't cost any more than the yellow soaps that cause the trouble.

An Exception. "There is one thing I like about Blinks. No matter what he does, he comes out in the open to do it." "I know of one action he always is careful to do under cover." "I dare you to name it." "Going home in the rain."

make traveling on some of the turnpikes very unpleasant.

Miss Bessie Berkshire, who has been very ill for several months, is improving slowly, and her many friends hope to see her out again soon.

Misses Carrie Graves and Lucille Cropper, of the Bullittsville neighborhood, were guests of Misses Susan and Mary Roberts, a few days the past week.

Several days ago Ed Burres, who resides out on the Bellevue pike, stuck a thorn in one of his fingers near a joint, and for the past week it has caused him considerable pain.

W. I. Rouse, a close observer of the fruit prospects along in the spring, says peaches are pretly badly done up, and cherries are badly damaged. He says it is yet too early to tell anything about the apples.

C. C. Hughes, unthoughtfully, accired to a stump out on his farm north of town, last Sunday, and soon after he left it the first started and burnt over a considerable area, before the neighbors could stop it.

Mrs. E. K. Stephens and Miss Graham Roberts, of Walton, and Lewis Riddell and wife, of Hebron, were guests of M. L. Riddell and wife from Saturday afternoon until Sunday afternoon, while Messrs.
E. K. Stephens and Roy Stamer, of Walton, were their Sunday guests.

L. S. Beemon arrived home a few days since from Florida, where he spent several weeks very pleasantly. He took in a considerable portion of the State which he says is a good place in which to spend the winter. He is glad to be back among his old Kentucky friends.

Mrs. Timothy Westbay, of Covington, came out last Friday evening and visited her Burlington friends until Sunday evening. She is looking well but has not recovered entirely from the injury she received when getting off of a street car the last time she returned home from a visit to Burlington.

On the first of March farmers were behind with their work as compared with the progress they had made at the corresponding time last year, but the very fine weather that has prevailed during the month has brought the preparation for crops to an advanced stage that is entirely satisfactory to the greatest hustlers among the farmers.

Bristow, the trotting stallion owned by James A. Huey, of Union, for several years, was bought by
B. B. Hume, this spring, and last week Mr. Hume sold him to Dr. V.
F. Hopkins, who shipped him to Bovine, Texas. Bristow is one of the best bred horses ever owned in Boone county, and no doubt but what he will make a great reputation in the Lone Star State.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

(Furnished by Supt. Riley.)
All students who desire to attend the Boone County High school next session, will please send their names to Prof. Dix or the County Superintendent.

An architect has been employed to draw plans for the high school building and contractors who desire to make bids can file their applications for plans and specifications with the building committee at any time.

The next term of the Eastern Kentucky Normal School will begin April 5. Many Boone county teachers will enter this term. In California one is ineligible to teach who has not attended a full term of normal school. It will soon be hard for a young person to get a school here without special training.

Facing death from shot and shell in the civil war was more agreeable to J. A. Stone, of Kemp, doctors said was consumption. "I contracted a stubborn cold," he writes, "that developed a cough remedies for years. My weight ran down to 130 pounds. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Dis-

DENTISTRY.

Dr. T. B. CASTLEMAN.

Will practice at Burlington the first Monday and following day of each month; also at Florence each Saturday EXCEPT the one before and after the first Monday. Remember "extending teeth painless." Prices reasonable. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Prof. Yeager, President of Georgetown College, will occupy the pulpit with Rev. Brooks at Bullittsburg church next Sunday.

The entertainment last Friday and Saturday nights was well patronized, in the crowd on Saturday night being delegations from nearly every neighborhood in the county, and when the curtain rose that evening the audience was composed of at least 300 people jammed into a space calculated to accommodate comfortably not to exceed 225, while about 100 more were out side acrambling for positions at and about the windows from which a view of the stage could be obtained. The program each evening was immensely pleasing and the audience was generous in applause throughout the performance. The want of space and the long list of those taking part forbids comment on the individual characters, but it must be said that the entertainment surpassed, by far, any that the literary club has given and those in the future will have to be burners if they compare favorably with that of last week. It was the intention of the management to give an entertainment again next Saturday night, but it reconsidered, and no entertainment will be given on that evening, but they expect to announce a date in the early future.

O. P. Phipps will have several nice, new buggies on exhibition in Burlington next Monday. If you want to buy give him a call that day.

WM. STEPHENS, THE HOME of GOOD CLOTHES!

"From This Home of Good Outfitting" Suits at $7.50 and $8.50.

Comes an urgent invitation for you to come see the choice selection of good things we have chosen for Spring Outfitting. One of the most satisfactory things in buying anything is to feel sure that the seller is absolutely faithful to the highest standards of quality in his goods; to know that the mark of excellence he sets for himself is as high as you set for yourself as a buyer. You may not always have such a sense of security in buying clothes; but you can have; there is such a thing. You'll find it here; clothes that are the best possible for the money; doubly guaranteed clothes—guaranteed by us and the makers as sure to give you satisfaction as a government bond. These clothes are specially made for us by the best tailors in the Hart, Schaffner & Marx shops. Every fiber and stitch in these clothes is a demonstration of fidelity to high ideals of clothes making. With experienced eyes and with great care we have selected the best things that could be obtained for our spring trade. We are aware that it is very easy for any clothing house to say, "OUR CLOTHING IS THE BEST AND THE CHEAPEST," and then quote a few prices to convince you of the fact. Prices, however, without values attached are meaningless, and so we ask you if you will not kindly favor us with a call in order to ascertain whether or not it will be to your advantage to buy spring outfitting here. It seems that people of Covington and surrounding country appreciate a store like ours—men have learned that the best way to get the best is to go where it is. Another reason for our growing success is that we try to serve our customers. Now that we're ready, we do want you to see what we have. Come just to look, without feeling obliged to buy anything. We take pride in our merchandise; we like to show it, and look at ourselves. Whatever merits clothing can have in your opinion you'll see in these goods.

We call your attention to our splendid suits at $7.50 and $8.50. If you wish to invest just $7.50 or $8.50 for a suit come here and get the best suit $7.50 or $8.50 was ever known to buy. It is a great hobby of ours to sell the best medium priced suit—the fabrics are good, the tailoring is correct, and we think that you'll have difficulty in distinguishing these moderate price suits from their higher priced associates.

Our $10.00 and $12.00 Suits

Our $10 and $12 suits stand right out from the crowd—the values are extraordinary. These suits are made for the man who insists upon having a good looking, perfect fitting, stylish suit at a moderate price. Made for men who appreciate a good, medium price suit—the fabrics are new and stylish—the suits are cut over the same patterns and models used for higher priced suits. We can fit any form. Now we will lead you a little higher in our fine suit department, say $15.00, $16.50, $18.00, $20.00, $22.00, $25.00. We stand head and shoulders above all as regards quality, workmanship and fit. You will have to see them to appreciate these fine goods.

Our Furnishing Department is complete with all the New Spring things. Lion Brand Shirts $1, $1.50, $2. Neckwear, 25c, 50c, 75c, $1—they are beauties. Men's Hose 10, 15, 25 cents—all the new shades to match the ties. Underwear, Collars, Handkerchiefs, Suspenders, Belts, Gloves, Tie-pins, Cuff Buttons, Garters—everything you want.

MEN'S AND BOYS' SHOE DEPARTMENT.

The Shoes we offer you were selected from among the best productions of the country's most noted makers of each sort of Shoes. Good Shoes are a valuable consideration in every house; good Shoes always mean a great saving in shoe bills. With every pair of Shoes we guarantee perfect satisfaction or a new pair in place—the factory guarantees them to us, so we do to you. For fine dress shoes we handle the Crawford make, made in Brockton, Mass.; Roberts, Johnson & Rand Star Brand, made in St. Louis. We recommend these shoes to our best trade.

At the John Cahill sale, last Wednesday, cows brought from $38 to $50; bacon, 20-25 cents a pound; lard, 20 cents; chickens $9.84 cents a dozen; sow and 11 one day old pigs, $7; corn, 82 cents a bushel; hay, $10 a ton; sheep, $9 per head; 13 year-old horse, $180.

At the sale of Edward Tupman, near Crescent Springs, Kenton county, last Thursday, stock sold away up yonder, especially milk cows, which brought from $40 to $75, the highest price cows being one with a calf by her side only a few days old.

THE GOOD FEATURES OF A BANK!

No business enterprise in a community, affords more convenience to the public than a well governed bank, as it affords a medium of exchange that no other source can equal. It gives absolute protection to the safety of money entrusted to its care. It gathers together the surplus money of a community; and gives idle money the most extensive circulation through loans to individuals of property wealth who need a volume of money to transact business in the purchase of the products of the farm and factory. Thus the money of those who have a surplus and are wise enough to deposit in a bank is utilized to its fullest value; and affords a bank additional funds whereby loans are made to traders who are thus enabled to purchase from the identical people who have their money on deposit in a bank, which otherwise they would not be enabled to do. Money laid away or kept at home is not only out of circulation but is dead so far as its value is concerned. The Equitable Bank and Trust Co., Walton, Ky., wants your business. It pays depositors four per cent. on money. Our Trust department qualifies as a number of estates, as executor, guardian, administrator, etc. Capital of bank, $200,000, showing assets Jan. 1st, of $120,000. The business of all solicited. Try us; you will be pleased. Telephone connection.

Latest Personal Information.

PERSONAL.

Mary Davis, a 13-year-old New York girl, is in good health and cheerful spirits despite the fact that she fell backward from a five-story fire escape, landing in a basketful of wet clothes. She was scarcely scratched. Andrew Carnegie is making a study of the heavens through powerful telescopes in the great observatory which he founded on Mount Wilson, near Pasadena, Cal.

GENERAL NEWS.

Twelve lives were lost in a fire in the building of the L. Fish Furniture Company, at 1906-1908 Wabash avenue, which in its occurrence and aftermath duplicated on a minor scale the fire which destroyed the city of Chicago. The fire broke out in the rear of the building, and the flames quickly caught a number of young women trapped in the sixth floor of the building being quenched than investigation revealed that the building in which the fire occurred had never, so far as the records of the building department show, been inspected, and that the structure was erected and maintained in direct violation of the city ordinances.

Laying bare the appalling details of Pittsburgh's dire misdeeds, the city councilmen are making a demand upon the directors of the city departments to investigate their own boards and ascertain the bribe-givers in connection with the ordinance despoiling their institutions and the city, formed the meat of two presentments made by the grand jury. The eruption of Mount Etna is increasing in violence hourly. Fifteen new craters, opening laterally, are sending forth blue and gold flames, burning clinders and meeting lava, accompanied by terrific earthquake shocks and violent explosions. Panic and despair have seized upon the peasants, who plant images of favorite saints and then flee. Cardinal Francis Nava visited Nicolosi recently, in which he met the prefect, in order to stop the eruption of lava.

At the request of Frank Febr, cousin of Alma Kellner, the child kidnapped at Louisville, Ky., last December, Gov. Willson of Kentucky has withdrawn the offer of $500 reward, which is believed to have kept the abductors from making terms. That the British government actually fears for the safety of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, owing to Cairo being the hotbed of the Egyptian national movement was demonstrated by the strong efforts of the British government to guard the president from the moment his train arrived in that city until the khedive's royal carriage had deposited him at the doors of Sheppard's hotel. Col. Roosevelt's speeches at Khartoum and Assuan, in which he had expressed his co-operation with the British authorities, has aroused the resentment of the Nationalists and in view of their recent assassination of Boutros Pasha, the premier, the government decided that every precaution should be taken to guard the president. The colonel, himself, laughed at the idea of danger and requested that no special police guard be furnished.

By a unanimous vote the house adopted a resolution naming a committee on rules and resolutions. Republicans and four Democrats, under the provisions of the Norris resolution, Dalsell was named as chairman.

Sensation followed sensation in the Pittsburgh, Pa., councilman—graft cases. Six more councilmen confessed their connection with graft in this city's affairs.

Towels have been tabooed at the Michigan college of mines at Houghton as being relics of barbarism, insanitary and expensive. Students now use big sheets of paper instead of drying.

That co-operation between Great Britain and the United States is impossible as a means of reforming things in the republic of Liberia, is the main decision of the report of the Liberian commission transmitted to congress in a special message by President Taft.

Congressman Norris wielded the gavel over the house for ten minutes during the temporary absence of Speaker Cannon.

According to the jury's verdict before the case of the "J. J. the word 'damn' was used."

Mrs. Charles T. Yerkes, widow of the Chicago traction magnate, who died four years ago, will sell at auction the mansion at Fifth avenue and Sixty-eighth street, New York, together with all its art gems, to satisfy claims of creditors.

Although facing a charge of embezzling $250,000 from the National City bank of Cambridge, Mass., George W. Coleman has taken out a license to marry Miss May Hightower of Kansas City, Mo.

John M. Hayes, an Oklahoma City (Okla.) prohibition-enforcement attorney, acting for the state, has sued the Santa Fe road for $365,000 on the charge of storing liquors consigned to dealers.

Attorney William B. Pinchot, representing Glavis and others, sprung a decided surprise before the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee by declaring that he wished to call Secretary Ballinger as one of his witnesses. Attorney Ventresca, representing Mr. Ballinger, objected. The committee will decide the matter in executive session.

Enraged because his wife had gone to the theater with her brother, Alfred Mitchell, a New Orleans carpenter, shot and probably wounded his 13-year-old daughter and then shot himself in the head, dying instantly.

United States senators are to be rubbed down and massaged at government expense in the magnificent bathhouse in the new senate office building. A professional masseur will officiate in these baths at a salary of $1,800 a year.

Mount Etna suddenly has become active and four new craters have been opened, due to seven violent earthquakes, which were followed by a curfew at Mileto, Province of Catanzaro, Italy. Similar shocks were felt at Messina.

The house committee on Interstate and foreign commerce reported favorably the administration railroad bill, which it took precedence of all the Taft measures for consideration in the house. It will follow the navy appropriation bill.

The special grand jury that has been investigating the work of the mob that attacked the county jail at Cairo, on the night of February 17, and tried to take precedence of all the Taft measures for consideration in the house, found indictments against 12 persons charging them with forming a mob.

The new house committee on rules will consist of the following members: Republican—John A. Bland, Pennsylvania; Walter I. Smith, Iowa; J. Slat Fassett, New York; Henry S. Boutell, Illinois; Sylvester C. Smith, California; George P. Lawrence, Massachusetts. Democrats—Champ Clark, Missouri; Oscar Underwood, Alabama; John A. Johnson, New York; John A. Dixon, Indiana. The committee, when elected by the house, will supersede the committee composed of Speaker Cannon, Dalsell, Smith of Iowa, Republicans; Clark and Fitzgerald, Democrats. Dalsell is picked for chairman.

The continued confessions of Pittsburgh councilmen, past and present, together with the rumors that the grand jury will hand down another batch of indictments, increases the terror among a certain class in that city.

Stockholders of the American Drug & Chemical Co., of New York, voted to increase its capital stock from $200,000 to $250,000 to further an attack upon cut-rate drug stores throughout the country.

As a result of the affectionate regard of Minnesota for the late Gov. John A. Johnson, a fund of $25,000 has been raised in the state to provide an income for his widow for the remainder of her life.

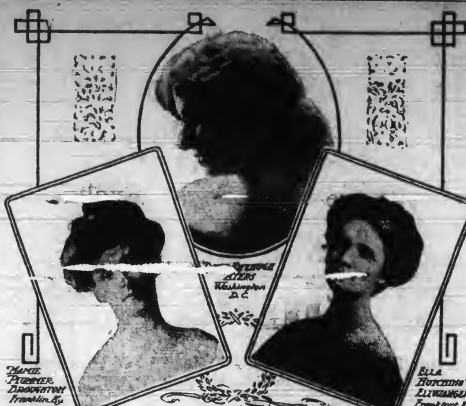

All existing difficulties between the 32,000 locomotive firemen, members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Firemen, and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers have been worked out of the state. The controversy, which for a time threatened a strike of serious proportions, was definitely settled, when a committee of the brotherhood officials accepted the terms offered by the railroad. The demand of the firemen for an increase in wages will be arbitrated.

A royal reception was given Col. Theodore Roosevelt and his party on their arrival at Cairo, Egypt, the khedive sending his state carriage to the airport to convey the city's distinguished guest to the hotel. During Mr. Roosevelt's six-day stay here the program for his entertainment includes several dinners, a visit to the University of Egypt, where he will deliver an address, a visit to the American mission, where the colonel will dedicate the city's distinguished guest to the khedive. The program for his entertainment includes several dinners, a visit to the University of Egypt, where he will deliver an address, a visit to the American mission, where the colonel will dedicate the city's distinguished guest to the khedive.

The Republican caucus selected the following members for the new rules committee: Walter I. Smith of Iowa, John A. Johnson of New York, J. Slat Fassett of New York, Sylvester C. Smith of California, Henry S. Boutell of Illinois. All the "insurgents" with the exception of Gardner of Massachusetts were present and voted for the caucus and declared they were satisfied with the result.

Theodore Roosevelt has called Gifford Pinchot to meet him as early as possible following the former president's arrival in Europe, and Mr. Pinchot sailed for Copenhagen on the steamer Grant last Friday in response to the summons. He will go to southern Europe immediately after reaching Copenhagen, and probably will meet Col. Roosevelt in Naples.

Three persons were killed in a collision of freight trains on the Louisville & Nashville railway near Berea, Ky. The dead are George Devore, Richmond, Ky.; James Rourke, and a "flyer" Sanford Paris.

KENTUCKY WOMEN SUCCEEDING IN NEWSPAPER WORK

BY A. Louise Babbage

Arthur Brisbane, the highest salaried newspaper man in America, who spoke before the Chicago's Woman's club in that city recently, said journalism is "the greatest thing in the world." Not even love did he hold as an exception. Simply because journalism itself is just a big bundle of love, and all that is not love in this magnificent profession is pitched into the waste basket. This has proven true in the careers of Kentucky women who are succeeding in newspaper work today.

Especially in the experiences of Mrs. Daisy Fitzhugh Ayers, a Kentucky, now engaged in newspaper work at the national capital. She uses more love than words as a correspondent for the seven largest papers in seven other states besides Kentucky. Mrs. Ayers has been on the staff of the Courier-Journal bureau in Washington nine years and is connected with several New York publications. She is the author of "The Conquest," a novel of Washington life. Mrs. Ayers was reared in the newspaper home of Lexington and she has been writing ever since she was a school girl. She is the widow of a Yale honor man. Her parents are Capt. and Mrs. R. H. Fitzhugh, who came to the Blue Grass capital from Virginia.

Girls of the "Pennyville."

In Breckinridge county Miss Eva McGlothlin and Miss Mayne DeHaven are bright young women who are making more than a pin money by corresponding for The Breckinridge News and The Fourth District Leader. Miss McGlothlin is correspondent for the News from Irvington and Miss DeHaven is representative for The Leader at Cloverport. They are paid well for their correspondence. Miss McGlothlin had never written for a newspaper before she took up the work for The News and the way she learned to write items may be helpful to the girl who wants to learn reporting. She clipped reports about fires, deaths and daily occurrences from different papers and by these she learned to write the news happenings of Irvington. Connected with The News is a most remarkable young girl, Miss Esther Jackson, who has been in Mr. Babbage's office nearly six years and she began work when she was fifteen years of age. When the local editor is off duty, she can write the news matter with perfect ease, although her regular duties are confined to the printing department.

Writers of Central Kentucky.

At Lexington are five young women who have attained journalistic accomplishments and whose efforts have been remunerative. They are: Miss Mary B. Bryan, Miss Katherine Hill Billingsley, Mrs. Mary Bradley Bailey, Mrs. Desha Breckenridge and Miss Alice Loyd.

Miss Bryan is society editor for The Lexington Leader. She has been with that paper thirteen years and has never missed but two months from the office in that time. Miss Bryan is an enthusiastic club woman of Kentucky, belonging to the Lexington Chapter of the D. A. R., the Woman's Club of Central Kentucky and the Filson Club of Louisville.

Miss Billingsley is society editor of the Lexington Herald. She is the daughter of the well-known lawyer, George E. Billingsley, who married Miss Nannie Davidson, daughter of one of the most successful bankers in the South.

Mrs. Bailey has been with Mrs. J.

to for The Enquirer. To hear Mrs. Duncan talk of journalism is indeed inspiring, for she is desperately in love with her work. She says the newspaper woman is a part of one of the most powerful forces of the world, The Fourth Estate.

One of the best correspondents in Mercer county is Miss J. H. Westerfield. She is local editor at Perryville for the Kentucky Republican, published at Harrodsburg. Mrs. Westerfield's letters are always bright and interesting.

In Letchfield lives one of the most distinguished writers of the middle-west, Mrs. Hattie Beall Grinnell, who all her life has been for country weeklies and various publications. She has dropped most of her newspaper correspondence, but still writes instructive and wholesome articles for The Meade County Messenger and The Letchfield Gazette, her home papers.

Mrs. Mamie Plummer Broughton, society editor of The Franklin Favorite, has won laurels in journalism by her tact and winsome manner. She gathers her material by attending entertainments, receptions and club meetings, and she is extremely popular in the club circles of Franklin. Mrs. Broughton has learned that a reporter can not get much news matter by asking persons the question, "Have you any news?" News is something one has to pick up quietly, so quietly that one must fifteen many times to get an item.

What will be a surprise to a number of southern newspaper people is that Miss Ora Leigh, a former newspaper woman of Paducah, has recently married. After leaving Kentucky she was city editor on a leading daily in Salt Lake City, and little did one dream that this gifted journalist would take time to entertain Cupid.

Ella Hutchinson Ellwanger.

The Courier-Journal's special correspondent at Frankfort is Mrs. Ella Hutchinson Ellwanger, who has not only made a name for herself in journalism, but is now being recognized as a magazine writer. Some note. Nine years she has been connected with the Kentucky State Journal, but two months ago she severed her connection with that paper to devote all her time to writing articles for New York publications. It is said that Mrs. Ellwanger is responsible for the handsome Louisville and Nashville home at Frankfort, for through her efforts she aroused a public sentiment and demand for this building. E. C. Walton, who recently retired from the editorial department of that paper, allowed Mrs. Ellwanger full scope in writing up the mayor and the city funds of Kentucky's capital, and by this she did much for the civic betterment of Frankfort. Once Mrs. Ellwanger got "drunk" that is, she became intoxicated with success when her first article of any length was published. She said she was completely overcome with joy and surprise when she saw her article on the first page of the illustrated section of a leading newspaper. That was in 1901. About that time she started the first society page in Frankfort newspaperdom. Mrs. Ellwanger has written many magazine articles and has had many skits in Lippincott's. Her Sunday letter to the Courier-Journal is one of the most enjoyable features of that paper, and it has been complemented by writers all over the United States. This month she and W. E. Bridwell, an ex-newspaper man, published a book—an edition de luxe of the General Assembly and the state capitol. Her admiring readers will be glad to learn that in May or June her article, "Evolution of Punishment as Applied to State Prisons," will appear in Hampton's magazine. Mrs. Ellwanger's success is due to persistence in exercising the Golden Rule in her daily social and business affairs.

Copies of "The Lady of the Quill" have just come from a Louisville publishing company and all southern and eastern friends of Mrs. Jennie C. Morton will welcome this little book of sketches of her life. This biography of Mrs. Morton is written in a loving and picturesque manner by Mrs. Ellwanger, who is receiving many flattering notices by the press and the public on her life-story of this famous woman.

May Have Her Day.
"A Newspaper Woman's Day" has been suggested for the program of the mid-summer meeting of the Kentucky Press Association in June, which in all probability will be held at the Mammoth Cave. Dan Bowman, editor of the Woodford Sun, and secretary of the association, favors the idea, and no doubt, this will be the most attractive occasion of the forty-first annual gathering of the Kentucky editors.

The Kentucky newspaper women, as a whole, are the happiest and most cultured society in any state in the Union. Their ink bottles be full and running over with glory and honor forever!

Successful Journalists.
In Western Kentucky Mrs. Virginia Duncan has achieved a brilliant success in journalism on the editorial staff of The Owensboro Messenger. And for the last five years she has also been dramatic and music critic.

Abolish the compass of the ancient mariners. Then, too, it will annihilate much that is picturesque in ocean navigation.

In the old days the skipper would come out of his cabin, and yell gruffly to the mate at the wheel, "How's she headin'?" "West, nor'west by west, sir," would be the answer. That has the true ring of the sea.

—Popular Mechanics.

ARMY ADOPTS NEW COMPASS

For the purpose of securing clearness, simplicity and precision in the application of compass errors, the hydrographic office of the United States Navy has adopted a new form of compass on which there is no north, south, east nor west, but which consists of a circle divided into 360 degrees, beginning with 0 at the true north point and reading to the right.

To head northeast, for example, by this new marking, the order would be to make the course 45 degrees; for a course southeast by south, the order would be 135 degrees.

NIGHT RIDERS INDICTED.

Charged with Being Implicated in Hopkinsville Raid.

Hopkinsville, Ky.—Indictments charging Dr. D. A. Amos, J. B. Malone, Guy Dunning, Newton Nichols, John Wilson and Irvin C. Cline with implication in the night rider raid in this city on the morning of Dec. 7, 1907, were returned. All of the parties named live in Trigg, Caldwell and Lyon counties. Three separate charges are lodged against the defendants, all six of whom are named in each indictment. Under the law it is an offense to confederate and conspire together for the purpose of going forth to molest and destroy property, and one of the indictments is of this nature. The other two charges are based on the actual destruction of the warehouses of John C. Latham, deceased, New York banker, and the warehouse of W. T. Tandy. The grand jury is still in session and more indictments are to follow. It is said that members of the night rider organization have turned state's evidence, and that they have told details of the plans under which the night riders were organized, how governed and how they operated in the sensational raids. The raid on this city was the climax of the troubles and was followed immediately by the putting of soldiers on duty throughout the infested regions.

FATAL TRAIN WRECK.

Four Lives Lost and Damage to Property $150,000.

Richmond, Ky.—The bodies of Engineer Sanford, of Paris, and Fireman Geo. Devore, of this city, who were lost in a head-on collision between freight trains Nos. 76 and extra 913, on the L. & N. railroad, near White's Station, were taken from the wreckage. The bodies had been mashed and cut almost beyond recognition. James O'Rourke, of Paris, fireman, who was removed to a hospital, having been scalded from head to feet, died, making the total dead four, as Russell Sloan, of Paris, a fireman, is dead. Ollie Pike, of Paris, a fireman, may die. Young Hayes, engineer at Berea, whose failure to execute a message to hold one of the trains, caused the accident, is almost a nervous wreck. After letting the train out and discovering his mistake he resorted to every effort to get into communication with some farmer along the line by telephone in hopes of having the trains flagged. The property loss is estimated at $150,000.

AUDITOR JAMES

Refuses to Pay for Jefferson County Assessment Until Work is Done.

Frankfort, Ky.—Upon the advice of Atty. Gen. Breathitt, Auditor James refused to pay to Edward A. Barry, assessor of Jefferson county, any part of the salary provided by a recent act of the legislature, under which Barry is to be paid $1,500 a month for him and his associates in their work of making the assessment. Barry was paid $5,000 by August, Auditor James says, before he began his real work of assessment. The auditor says that he knew of no law or provision of the constitution that provided for the payment of a salary or part of a salary until the work was done.

COUNCIL PASSES RIPPER BILL.

Louisville, Ky.—Depriving City Attorney Blakey of the power of appointing all his assistants save two, vested in him by existing ordinances and transferring this power of appointment to the mayor, a "ripper" bill was passed by the lower board of the city council.

The ordinance gives the mayor, with the approval of the board of aldermen, power to remove present incumbents at will and appoint a mayor's counsel, a tax attorney, a title attorney, a law accountant and three stenographers, to take the place of the city attorney's bookkeeper and three stenographers.

This measure virtually accomplishes the objects sought in the "ripper bill" which failed to pass over the governor's veto in the senate, at Frankfort.

Louisville, Ky.—Mrs. Margaret Wickliffe Beckham, wife of Attorney J. C. Beckham, died of uremia at her home in Shelbyville. She was a daughter of Robert C. Wickliffe, former governor of Louisiana, a granddaughter of Charles A. Wickliffe, former governor of Kentucky and postmaster general in President Tyler's cabinet, and an aunt of J. C. V. Beckham, former governor of Kentucky.

Lexington, Ky.—When the case of Captain J. R. Sams, charged with having shot at Mrs. Florence Combs in her apartments, was called in police court, City Attorney Muir communicated to Judge Southgate a request from Commonwealth's Attorney Allen that there be no prosecution. Judge Southgate, without argument, entered an order dismissing the case, and at the same time ordered that the attachments that had been issued for Mrs. Combs and other witnesses be also dismissed.

CONTINUES TO WIELD AX.

Governor Willson Vetoes Two More Measures.

Frankfort, Ky.—The governor's latest veto was on the bill appropriating $5,000 for the Jefferson Davis homestead. He says he asked for exemption of taxes on the homestead, and the legislature did not grant it. To sign the bill, he says, would be discrimination.

The executive ax was also wielded on the bank examiner bill, claiming that it would put the banks in politics and draw the official branch of the government into affairs of the executive branch.

It seems impossible for Gov. Willson to write a veto message that there is not something in it about the effort on the part of the legislature to encroach upon the rights of the executive branch of the government. Two of the very important bills passed at this session were killed by Gov. Willson for that reason.

But there is a still more important bill that is before Gov. Willson. It is the bill providing for the interest-bearing warrants. Treasurer Farley is for the bill, and Auditor James is against it.

It will be but a short time now until the state board of equalization hands out some of its tentative raises. It has been the policy of the board all the way through to raise the assessments higher than a kite. The increases have been all the way from 20 to 25 per cent, and if the increases stick there will be so much money in the treasury that the treasurer will not know what to do with it.

COUNTY UNIT WILL BE AN ISSUE.

Practically Certain that Question Will Come Before Next Legislature.

Louisville, Ky.—Opponents of the county unit bill, termed during the recent session of the general assembly as "The Old Man of the Sea," "Father Time," and other similar names, are wearing a smile of satisfaction. As usual, the old man of the sea was put to death after a terrific battle in both sessions. He fought hard, but was finally given the count. The opponents of the measure declare that the sentiment for the bill is losing force, and that by the time the next general assembly meets that there will be even a stronger opposition to the measure than there was at this session. On the other hand, the representatives of the temperance element are already making the claim that at the next session of the legislature the county unit bill will surely pass.

Representative G. C. Waggoner, who was the author of several temperance bills, including the statewide prohibition measure introduced at the last session of the assembly, wants to go back to the legislature, so, it is said, to continue his fight for temperance legislation. It is claimed that the temperance forces and many friends of Representative Waggoner want him to become a candidate for the state senate.

At any rate, it is practically certain that there will be men in the next legislature who will favor the extension of the present county unit bill, and until the next legislature convenes the question as to whether the temperance sentiment is gaining force or is waning in strength, will be a matter of much speculation.

Lexington, Ky.—Sculptor Charles J. Mulligan, of Chicago, has completed the statue of Henry Clay, which is to take the place of the headless statue given by Commodore in Lexington cemetery, and plans are in the making for formal dedication exercises on April 12, the anniversary of the birth of Henry Clay.

Hopkinsville, Ky.—Guy Dunning, G. N. Nichols and John Robinson, three of the six persons indicted by the grand jury on the charge of complicity in the night rider raid here Dec. 6, 1907, were presented in circuit court by Sheriff Hammond, of Trigg county, who had arrested the men on bench warrants. They were released on bond of $3,000 each.

Lexington, Ky.—The Army and Navy Journal brought to the numerous friends and relatives in Kentucky of Capt. Lucien Young, of the United States navy, the first official information of his promotion to rear admiral. Adm. Young, as he became on March 17, is a native Kentuckian, and was appointed to the Naval Academy by former Gov. Proctor Knott when the latter was a congressman.

Louisville, Ky.—Rev. Charles Mockridge, 36, rector of All Saints' Protestant Episcopal church, at Dorchester, Mass., died in Louisville of cancer. Dr. Mockridge was married only three weeks ago to Miss Louise Tyler, of Louisville.

Jackson, Ky.—Ned Strong, a negro, is under arrest for improper conduct in the presence of two small white girls. Public feeling is high, especially as Strong is alleged to have neglected the sister of a business man last week.

MANY PRACTICAL POINTS OF RHODE ISLAND RED

One Writer's Strong Argument in Favor of This Celebrated Strain of Fowls—Make Rapid Growth.

Rhode Island Red.

(By E. T. DE GRAF.)

After 16 years' experience with fowls I have concluded that Rhode Island Reds combine more practical qualities and fewer undesirable ones than any of the 20 varieties I have kept.

Their popularity is due to their rapid growth, oblong bodies, with wide, plump breasts and yellow skins. Besides their early maturity, they are very hardy and lay large eggs, especially in winter. As mothers they compare favorably with Plymouth Rocks and Wyandottes.

In raising these birds to table sizes, the following is my regular practice: In a corner of the house cellar is an asbestos-lined incubator room.

When a hatch is made, 50 of the liveliest chicks are removed at about 20 hours old in the afternoon and placed in a thoroughly clean, lice-proof painted brooder, each chick having its bill dipped in water to teach it to drink. The other chicks remain in the incubator until next morning.

The first feed consists of stale bread soaked in either sweet or sour milk and squeezed out.

The second day they are given range of the brooder scratching floor, upon which is scattered sand and charcoal dust, with some litter.

Until they are six weeks old they get mostly chick feed and meat scrap in a hopper. All utensils are kept scrupulously clean; they are boiled once a week. The chicks are fond of dry wheat bran, which is always before them. Feed little and often is the rule. Milk is often given in addition to water. All liquids are protected so the chicks cannot wet themselves.

I know of no breed that possesses more vitality right from the shell. One of the reasons for this is that the chicks feather out rather slowly until about two months old.

When three weeks old the chicks weigh about eight ounces and when they reach the first broiler stage at six weeks they weigh about 1½ pounds.

Two weeks later they weigh about two pounds.

At this age the cockerel is commercially more profitable if plump and hatched at the right season than he ever will be afterward, if feed and care are considered. In the roasting stage at three months they weigh three pounds and will gain a pound per month thereafter until they weigh five pounds.

In this stage they appear awkward because of their rapid growth and development of their second feathers, but their well-shaped bodies and long, plump, white breasts make them very attractive when dressed for market.

IMPORTANCE OF DAIRY SCHOOLS

Young Men Learn to Work Intelligently, and Then Continue Their Own Education by Reading.

(By B. E. LARA.)

It is possible that there is many a young man who has worked a couple of years under a good butter-maker or cheese-maker who never went to any dairy school and who, in the pride of his success, makes light of their value, just as he does the dairy papers.

This young man is liable to hesitate to "lose" (as he calls it) the time and wages, and the saved-up capital means to take a term at the dairy school.

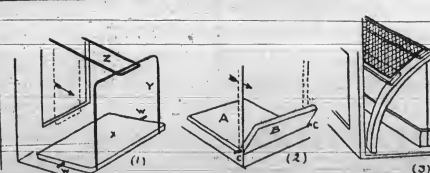

We use the term "lose" because we have heard that expression used by many of the class referred to above; the proper word is "invest," and a mighty good investment that few men take one term but that they are anxious to take another.

The value of the dairy school is not so much in what the students actually learn in practice and theory, but that they learn to work with their brain more, learn to work intelligently, and learn to continue their own education by reading technical papers and books and thus acquire a desire for an investigation of the whys and wherefores of every little phenomenon observable during their dairy work.

It is not only for the teachers that they receive their education, but it is from their fellow students, who have worked under various conditions; indeed, we feel inclined to believe that this is really the most valuable part of the course.

We do not hesitate to urge the young men in the creameries and cheese factories, as well as all young farmers, to attend the dairy schools, even at a most serious sacrifice. It will be the best investment they will ever be able to make.

GOOD FORM OF TRAP NEST

Three forms of trap nests used by English poultrymen are shown in the above illustration. In No. 1 a bolt-hung wire arrangement is used: X is a pivot-hung board, with stout wire, Y, supporting Z, the trap wire which falls across the hen's entry, and is usually held there by an iron rod, which drops after it into a slot. The hen's weight on the nest side of board, X, tilts the wire, Y, and releases the trap-wire, Z, which falls to the dotted position. Illustration 2 shows another method:

while 3 shows a shallow trap hung on pivots or hooks at the side for the nest. At one front corner an upright wire, E, rises through a hole in one of the curved levers which carry the curved shutter, consisting of two wood rails, carrying fine wire netting, D. The hen, entering, steps on front of the nest, which, dropping, carries the wire down and releases the trap, the latter sliding down the curved bearers, D, and catching the hen, who can, however, see out.

Tomlin, attorney.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

(Furnished by Supt. Riley.)

There are two wide awake teachers at Beaver Lick. On Monday night, April 4, the teachers with the help of the friends of Education, gave a candy pulling from which about $25 was realized. Every school in the district gave $10 and this amount to be spent for books, the nucleus of a library for the school. Every school should have a library. A good box and a government bulletin is a beginning. The patrons and teachers at Beaver Lick are to be congratulated on this movement. The State Auditor has not sent out the money for the 6th month. As soon as it is received the teacher's checks for this month will be sent out.

Joint Program—Arbor Day Exercises will be held at the court house at Burlington, next Saturday evening, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. There will be a combined program of the schools and citizens. There will be orations, songs, drills, recitations and yells by the school and speech by some of our best county orators. The object of this program is to arouse interest in the planting of trees, the beautifying of lawns, streets, roads and farms, and the conservation of our timber resources, all of which will be considered in its social relation to the taking of Boone High School. The whole county should be interested. Don't fail to attend. You will find it worth your while. No charge. Good music.

The base ball season was opened here last Saturday afternoon by a game between the Burlington and Bellevue school teams, the former winning by a score of 13 to 10. The feature of the game was the home run drive made by Wilber Kelly, of the Burlington team, who drove three men over the base and the score was 2 to 0 in favor of Bellevue. The visitors fought to the last ditch. It was a nice game, and the game of the week. The base ball team picked up the game on the Burlington aggregation 6 to 2.

Judge Lassing, of the Court of Appeals, was in Burlington, last Friday, where he met several of his old friends. The Judge is not looking as robust as he has at times in the past, but his attributes are in no way lessened by the fact that he is in training for his race for reelection to the appellate bench this fall. He says that he will talk better now in the future. He is ready to tackle the strongest man the Republicans can find to put against him.

Supt. Riley has the first draft of the plans for the high school building to be erected at Burlington. It will be a commodious structure of two stories and two above, heated by furnace in the basement. All the sanitary requirements have been looked to very closely when completed on the beautiful site just east of the town, the building will have an imposing appearance.

Otto Crisler arrived at home last Sunday from Indianapolis, Indiana, where, a few days before he graduated with honor from the veterinary college, having taken three years' course. He is now ready to attend to professional calls, and will make Burlington his headquarters until further notice. He is well posted on the diseases of horses and cattle as any person in this part of the country, being right up-to-date.

THOMAS JEFFERSON'S HOME AS IT APPEARS TODAY

By WALDON FAWCETT

THE ARRIVAL of the month of April, with its recurring anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson, has served again to direct public attention to the project for securing as a national memorial the mansion in Monticello, Virginia, home of the author of the Declaration of Independence. Next to Mount Vernon, Monticello is undoubtedly the most historic and most interesting private habitation in America. Not only was it the residence for more than half a century of one of the most admirable heroes of the republic and the last century's most celebrated rethe sleeping chamber in which Jefferson died.

The house at Monticello was 32 years in building. Begun in 1770, it was not completed until 1802 and it cost, according to the account books of the famous architect and builder, the sum of $7,200. The bricks were not imported from England, as in the case of many of the old Virginia mansions, but were made on the ground by the slaves, of which Jefferson had at one time several hundred. The ornamental vous for statesmen, but this stately mansion, designed and built as well as occupied by Thomas Jefferson stands to-day in a perfect state of preservation, the finest remaining example of the old southern plantation manor-house of the colonial period.

This noble seat, which ranked as the most imposing in Virginia at a period when the Old Dominion was dotted over with baronial holdings, is situated in the broken and picturesque Piedmont region and is reached from the quaint little city of Charlottesville via a winding road that has a sharp incline. En route to the eminence on which the mansion stands the visitor passes the tomb in the woods where repose the remains of the famous master of Monticello.

The nucleus of Thomas Jefferson's Virginia estate he inherited from his father, the tract comprising some 1,900 acres. At that time "the best highlands of Albemarle" were rated as worth not more than $2 per acre, but the earning capacity of the property is indicated by the fact that from the outset it netted Jefferson not less than $2,000 a year. The founder of the Democratic party gradually increased his holdings and in the year 1774 possessed more than 5,000 acres. Then several fine farms came to him as his wife's dower and thus the period of the Revolution found him one of the richest landed proprietors in the south.

Jefferson chose as the site of his home the crest of a hill which he designated Monticello, the Italian for Little Mountain. Assuredly no more beautiful or inspiring location could be imagined and veteran travelers all agree that the magnificent panorama which lies spread out before the gaze of the observer on this height is unsurpassed anywhere in the world. The little mountain on the apex of which Jefferson placed his residence is 580 feet high and in the form of a cone. It slopes eastward one and one-half miles to the Rivanna river.

Jefferson's birthplace is in sight of the portico at Monticello. Seemingly almost directly below is the University of Virginia, which was founded by Jefferson. President Monroe lived eight miles down the valley and the home of President Madison was but a few miles north. Incidentally it may be mentioned in passing that these three ex-presidents of the United States assembled at Monticello to welcome Lafayette on the occasion of his visit to the United States. From the cupola of his mansion Jefferson could gaze upon 12 of the richest counties of Virginia, and in one direction the view extends to the Blue Ridge mountains, nearly 50 miles away.

The top of the hill which Jefferson had designated Monticello he had leveled off for a building site, 600 by 200 feet in size. On this he erected his spacious mansion, which, with its wings or colonnades, is in the form of a gigantic letter E. The center of the letter is the mansion proper, while extending from it in positions somewhat corresponding to the arms of the E are wings, the flat roofs of which form promenades. The arrangement of the house is so far as these wings or colonnades are concerned is very similar to that of the restored White House at Washington, in the designing of which Jefferson had a hand.

The mansion at Monticello is of the Doric order of Grecian architecture, with heavy columns and massive balustrades. The interior is in the Ionic style and it must be admitted that there is little about this magnificent home suggestive of Jeffersonian simplicity. The front hall recedes six feet within the wall of the building and a portico projects about 25 feet, with stone pillars and steps.

In the interior the hall or main room of the house extends to the full height of the building and is typical of the spaciousness of the house. There is a gallery under the ceiling where the ladies of the household could observe all that went on at the receptions which Jefferson frequently gave and where the band was stationed when he gave a ball. Opening from this hall are the salon or drawing room, the library, where Jefferson housed the major portion of his famous collection of 13,000 books, the dining room and the resources of the Sage of Monticello, who had not at any time in his life a fortune of much more than a quarter of a million dollars. In entertaining his guests, many of whom were almost total strangers, who came from "idleness or curiosity," Jefferson went heavily into debt. In an effort to extricate himself he sold a large portion of his estate and even wished to dispose of Monticello by lottery, but the legislature of Virginia would not sanction this. He did, however, sell to the United States congress his material for the house was brought from Philadelphia and every nail used in the construction was forged in a nail factory which Jefferson established on the place and a memento of which is found in the vine-covered ruin of the brick building provided for this purpose.

After serving two terms as president of the United States Jefferson took up his residence at Monticello and there led a life very similar to that of Washington at Mount Vernon. Monticello was, from this time forward, the scene of the most lavish hospitality ever known even in a land famous for its hospitality. In the end Jefferson, kind-hearted as he was, was required for the domestic service, as can be imagined when it is stated that as many as 50 guests were frequently entertained over night at Monticello.

Naturally such "gratifying" was too much for whole families journeyed to Monticello in their coaches—parties made up of fathers and mothers, children and nurses—and remained for periods of from three to six months. One family of six persons came from Europe and made a visit of ten months. After a short tour of the United States they returned and remained six months longer. One man came to present a letter of introduction and remained three weeks. Thirty-seven house servants were required for the domestic service, as can be imagined when it is stated that as many as 50 guests were frequently entertained over night at Monticello.

Naturally such "gratifying" was too much for valuable library, a sacrifice that cost him more mental anguish than any other he could have made. However, he died with many of his obligations yet undischarged, but he is said to the credit of his heirs, every debt was ultimately paid.

After the death of Jefferson Monticello passed into the hands of a man who found himself unable to keep up the estate and who eventually sold it to Commodore Levy, a retired officer of the United States navy, for the sum of $10,000. Levy several times offered it to the United States government or to patriotic societies, but none of them ever accepted his offers—it is said because he wanted too high a price. At his death the property passed to his son, Jefferson M. Levy, a New York lawyer, who has made some effort to preserve Monticello in its pristine glory. Monticello is visited by increasing numbers of tourists every year and bids fair to become in time the strongest rival of Mount Vernon as a shrine for patriotic Americans.

Golden City's Hindu Temple

The city, it appears, is honored by having built quite recently the first Hindu temple in the western world, or, to be more exact, in the United States, a San Francisco letter to the Portland Oregonian says. The temple has been constructed under the supervision of those of the Vedantic faith.

The temple is in charge of two Hindus, both swamis, or high priests of their faith, the chief of these being a Hindu named Prakashananda, who directs affairs. The building, which is a three-story structure, is copied after the great temples of India. The first two stories are after the style of the ordinary American dwelling, but the third takes on the Oriental style. There is a balcony with Moorish columns and it is on this balcony that the Brahmanacharya, or neophytes, as the ten white men who aspire to priesthood are known, take their daily exercises. Some of these neophytes work at daily labor, but for the most part they remain in the temple and do only sacred work.

On the roof of the temple are small towers, which are duplications of the predominating features of the big temples in India. In view of the fact that this is the first temple of its kind erected in America, there is, surmounting all, an American eagle.

Inside, the first thing that strikes the visitor is the absolute lack of the Oriental in the furnishings. Everything is severely American. There is an assembly hall capable of seating 200 people and it is here that the lectures are given. Across the street is a sunnery, in which there are installed seven American women, who have taken the vows of the Vedantic faith. Although closely secluded, they are permitted to attend the daily services that are held in the temple.

Strangely enough, the Hindus in charge do not minister to those of their own faith, but cater to Americans and particularly to those of wealth. They have a society, known as that of the enlisted members. They are the ones who keep the bills paid and the ones who attend the lectures that are given. A prominent member of the firm that operates the emporium is said to have become an enlisted member recently. He also lives in the temple, along with the swamis and their neophytes.

Once every year the swamis and their band make a pilgrimage to a place in the Santa Clara valley, known as the San Antonio valley, not more than 20 miles from Mount Hamilton and the Lick Observatory. In that secluded nook they remain for a month, going through their meditations or yoga, as they are known. The swamis say the faith was first established in the United States some 16 years ago and in San Francisco ten years ago.

Editor—Maggies, that was a good idea of yours to interview the sausage manufacturers as to what they thought of the wholesomeness of a mixed diet. It was a regular inspiration. New Reporter—Er—no, Mr. Humble, the idea was exclusively my own.

Speech Vulgar and Profane

HERE is no need of going to Webster for the definition of a cigarette. Every body knows that it is a little cigar. It is a bit of tobacco rolled up in a bit of paper, and made to look both attractive and harmless. It is a cigar in its infancy. In time, if the indulgence in cigarette smoking lives on, enough, it will grow into a cigar. But the weed done up in the fine style of a cigarette is not thought to be quite so offensive and vulgar as when enjoyed in the form of a pure Havana or a big black Conestoga, or a clay pipe. It is tobacco all the same, whether held together by a leaf from its own stem, or wrapped up in fine papers, or crammed into the bowl of a meerschaum. For obvious reasons it is the cigarette that is most affected by ladies.

However, it is not with cigarette smoking that we are now concerned, but with cigarette swearing. For there is a kind of profanity which bears the same relation to the coarser sort of taking the name of the Lord in vain that the tempting little cigarette does to the full grown cigar. This, too, is the form of swearing which is most indulged in by the fair sex. It is not often, fortunately, that one hears a woman plump oath from the lips of a woman. When one does, it is unutterably shocking, especially if it be from the lips of a mother in the midst of her children.

"Polite" Profanity.

But 'profanity akin' to this 'loud-mouthed' and repulsive type, and which suggests a very strong inclination to use the more emphatic words, were it allowable to do so, is not uncommon in the conversation of large numbers of our well-meaning and even cultivated ladies. At every turn of surprise in the talk that is going on, on every little occasion when there seems to be a call for protest, it is "Good Lord!" "Good heavens!" "My gracious!" and so on through the list. Sometimes there is more boldness in the expletive employed, and one whose opinions on actions are not satisfactory is denounced as a "blatant idiot." Every one who hears the expression knows exactly what the speaker wishes to say, and the softened substitute does not much relieve the situation; nor does the smile which goes round in the circle of listeners do much toward atoning for the suggested blasphemy.

Habit a Vicious One.

Now there is no need here of wandering off into wide ethical discussions, and trying to fix the precise measure or the comparative measure of guilt in God's sight which there may be in this or that or the other form of profanity. It is enough to say that the cigarette habit of swearing is not good. It is a mild type of profanity; and because it is mild is more frequent in evidence by women than men; but it is not good. It is an offense to a refined taste. It is a debasement of language, and tends all the time to reduce one's vocabulary of choice and appropriate words. It lowers the mental tone of individuals and circles and under the delusive guise of vivacity reduces thought to the cheap quality of a bargain counter.

The atmosphere of a home which is filled with these expletives is not a wholesome one for children to breathe. It is bad anywhere and everywhere. It is impossible to believe that a disciple of our Lord can be quite so close and vital a relationship with him who made that startling deliverance about our responsibility for even the idle words that we use, and be quite so much like him in mind and aim and character, if there is no restraint of the kind of speech which savors, even in a mild degree of the profane. If one cannot express one's opinion, and say one's say, whether man or woman, without swearing or so much as indicating a desire to swear, it is better to remain silent.—Northwestern Christian Advocate.

Answers to Prayer.

The answer to prayer—to most prayers—begins on two sides—God's and our own. We must be willing to work toward it and sacrifice for it, and the sacrifice is sometimes so heavy that we shrink back. If we ask for health, for education, for prosperity, we know that we must work in the direction of our desire. If we ask for spiritual gifts we realize that the same is true, but often when we plead for some special blessing for those we love, for the lifting of a burden from their lives or ours, for some charge that holds good and happiness, we forget that our grating will surely claim from us some private sacrifice or renunciation. Whatever our prayer, we needs must have a share in its answering—not because of the Father's unwillingness, but because of his love—that knows us through and through.

When a man's heart is drying up in the desert of conceit he tries to comfort himself by looking at the size of his head.

Unless a man makes the most of his opportunities he can't expect his opportunities to make the most of him.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her

Knorrville, Iowa.—"I suffered with pains for down in my right side for a year or more and was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am glad to say that your medicines and kind letters of directions have done more for me than anything else and I had the best physicians here. I can do my work and rest well at night. I believe there is nothing like the Pinkham remedies."—Mrs. CLARA FRANKS, R. F. D., No. 2, Knorrville, Iowa.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

Local Happenings.

Fishing poles have begun to show up at intervals.

The maple trees are showing signs of the spring weather.

Already have several big fish stories been launched this spring. Cecil Gaines has been considerably indisposed for several days past.

Something wonderful, the values you get in muslins now at Green's cash store, Rising Sun, Indiana.

The merchant who tries to do business without advertising is like the man who tries to catch fish on a bare hook.

A drought beginning with the first of March and continuing for a month or more was unknown in this country previous to this year.

After paying all expenses of the entertainment, a snug little sum was left on the right side of the ledger for the benefit of the Boone Library.

Harry Roberts reports unearthing a great many snakes in a field he is plowing near town. It may be well to add that this is strictly dry territory.

Edward Hawes and wife, of Lakeland, have notified their relatives in this county of the arrival of another fine girl at their home. She is now about ten days old.

Clifford Hedges sold a pair work mules and their harness to Mr. Beuchert, of Cincinnati, last Friday for $450, and then bought a pair of black horses and a new set of double harness.

C. C. Monroe, colored, of Todd county, has been sentenced to the penitentiary for selling school teachers' examination papers. Monroe has been a conductor of colored teachers' institutes.

If you want an up-to-date cook book, "Helps to Twentieth Century Housewives," write the Ladies' Society of Union Presbyterian church. Price, 25 cents per copy. It should be in every house.

Kirk Tanner and his faithful dog killed two very large spreading vipers, one day last week. The dog located the snakes under a large rock, which Mr. Tanner turned over, not expecting to find vipers.

The owners of horses and jacks were busy distributing their advertising matter last Monday. The Recorder can say, speaking from the pedigrees of the animals for which it did printing, that each and everyone has a most excellent line of ancestors.

Deputy Sheriff D. M. Snyder and wife moved to Burlington from the county, last Thursday, and are occupying a partments in the Clure flat building on Jefferson street. Their son, Grover, and wife, are occupying the suburban home Mr. and Mrs. Snyder vacated.

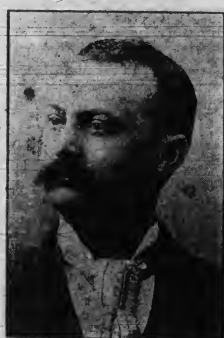

The entire force in this office rushed to the doors and windows, last Friday just before noon, to see a procession of ponies, when it soon dawned upon the boys that it was April 1st, while the writer's better half was convulsed with laughter at her success at making an April fool of them.

Persons traveling on railroads in Kentucky desiring to take a nip out of a bottle had better be careful. The Governor has signed the bill making it a fine of from $10 to $20 for each offense, and confers upon conductors power to make arrests and turn the offender over to the authorities at the first stop.

Misses Addie Lee and Tina J. Norman entertained the following guests at dinner Sunday: J. Carroll Jones, Miss Katharine Klappert, Walter R. Klappert, of Ludlow, Mr. and Mrs. Holt, Norman and daughters, Sarahell, and Dorothy, and son, Henry L., of Covington, Milford and Mrs. Afterkirk and daughter, Katharine, and Shelley and Claud Norman.

The Boone County Fair board will meet on their grounds at Florence, Kentucky, next Saturday, April 9th, 10th, at 2.30 p. m. All of the members of the board will be present, it being the most important meeting during the year, as it is necessary for the board to revise the premium list. The fair will be held only three days, September 1, 2, 3, and the rings must be so arranged that all can be exhibited within that time.

C. S. BALSLEY DEAD.

In the death of C. S. Balsley, of Bullittsville neighborhood, that part of the county mourns the death of another of its most estimable citizens, many of whom have answered the summons in the last two years. Mr. Balsley's wife who was Miss Anna Clure, daughter of William Clure and wife, survives him; their only child, a son, Kenneth, having died several years ago shortly after reaching manhood. The funeral took place from the residence, last Monday, at 2 p. m., Rev. Brooks conducting the services. Mr. Balsley was in his 55th year, and a most estimable, gentleman in every particular, and will be missed greatly in the neighborhood where he lived so long. He was a son of the late J. S. Balsley by his first wife, and leaves two full brothers, Irvin and W. M., and two half brothers, William and Ralph, and a half sister, Mrs. John Early, of Petersburg.

Following a picture of W. T. S. Blackburn, Grant county's traction road magnate, last week's Grant County News says: For something over three years one man in Grant county has been working on a proposition which is calculated to do a whole lot of good to the people of the county, and he has worked this proposition with very little help or sympathy from the people that his project proposes to help and make richer.

This man is W. T. S. Blackburn, of Dry Ridge, who is a born optimist if nothing more. He has gone along in the even tenor of his way talking electric railroad, morning, noon and night, and no doubt when he is sleeping, dreaming electric railroad. He has met some encouragement in Grant county, but has met with enough discouragement to have caused any ordinary man to give up the undertaking. But Blackburn is not an ordinary man. He has proved that he has a dogged determination, and has succeeded in convincing a great many people that he is on the right track and that ultimately he will win out.

Lots of people believed that Blackburn would give up the proposition in the face of all the discouragement he has met with, but no sooner had spring arrived and the snows melted than Blackburn was up and at it again with just as much vigor as when he started three years ago.

Blackburn has worked three years on this project like a trojan, day in and day out. He has met with enough opposition and criticism to have made a rank pessimist out of the most optimistic optimist, but he still retains his good humor, his smiling demeanor and the only change noticeable being that his hair is a little grayer and maybe a littlet thinner, and the lines of his face have grown a little deeper. He is just as firm in the conviction that he is going to win as he was when he started out, and he has won many

The docket for the April term of the Boone circuit court, which begins next Monday, is unusually large for this county, here being 26 new suits on the Ordinary and 23 on the Equity docket. Of the 26 Ordinary appearances 15 were brought by the Boone County Board of Control against persons for selling pooled tobacco, while 12 on Equity docket are the same kind of suits. The indications that the court will be a very busy one during the two weeks' term to which the county is entitled, the business requiring that much time.

We are told from various parts of this and adjoining states that the usual hard month of March, with its freezing, thawing and heaving, which is the hardest period of the year on wheat, has passed this year without much damage to the wheat plant, and with the rain on the 26th the promise for a good growth is fine, as the plant is in good condition—Indiana Farmer.

IN HOSPITAL FOR NINE MONTHS.

Awful Tale of Suffering From Kidney Trouble.

Alfred J. O'Brien, Second St., Sterling, Colo., says: "I was in the Baltimore Marine Hospital for nine months. I had a dull pain in the small of my back that completely wore me out. The urine was in a terrible state, and some days I would pass half a gallon of blood. I left the hospital because they wanted to operate on me. I went to St. Joseph's Hospital at Omaha and put in three months there without any gain. I was pretty well discouraged when I was advised to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I did so and by the time I had taken one box, the pain in the back let me. I kept right on and a perfect cure was the result."

Remember the name—Doan's. For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Vindictive Cuss. "Ugh!" spluttered Mr. Jones. "That nut had a worn in it."

Stops Lameness

Much of the chronic lameness in horses is due to neglect.

See that your horse is not allowed to go lame. Keep Sloan's Liniment on hand and apply at the first sign of stiffness. It's wonderfully penetrating goes right to the spot—relieves the soreness—limbers up the joints and makes the muscles elastic and pliant.

Here's the Proof. Mr. G. T. Roberts of Racine, Ga., R.F.D. No. 3, writes: "I have used your Liniment on a horse for swiney and it cured him. I also removed a spavin on a mule. This spavin was as large as a gull's egg. In my estimation the best remedy for lameness and soreness is."

Sloan's Liniment

Mr. H. M. Gibbs of Lawrence, Kan., R.F.D. No. 3, writes: "I have used your Liniment on a horse for swiney and it cured him. I also removed a spavin on a mule. This spavin was as large as a gull's egg. In my estimation the best remedy for lameness and soreness is."

Sloan's Liniment will kill a spavin, curb or splint, reduce wind puffs and swellings, joints, and is a sure and speedy remedy for catarrh, aweney, founder and thrush.

ROUND ABOUT THE STATE

What Is Going on in Different Sections of Kentucky.

ANOTHER INSURANCE SCANDAL.

Stockholder Alleges Fraud and Seeks to Prevent Merger.

Louisville, Ky.—General indictment against the officers of the Citizens' Life Insurance Co., charging fraud, mismanagement and extravagance, contained in a suit by William G. Rau, a stockholder, in which he seeks to head off an alleged proposed merger of the Citizens' Life and the Citizens' National Life Insurance Co. An injunction, preventing the transfer of the assets of the Citizens' Life to the Citizens' National Life is requested, and the plaintiff asks that the officials be required to appear before the court to answer orally regarding the financial condition of the former institution. If it is found insolvent a receiver is asked. Among the charges is one that W. H. Gregory, president of the two companies, and L. W. Key, fourth vice president of the defendant firms, have used funds of the Citizens' Life to take up two holes executed by each of them for $9,750 each. The expenses of the company were excessive, he said, and that in 1909 the company wasted $558,000 of an income of $770,002. There are many other similar charges, one being that one firm had some $30,000 on deposit in the Owensboro Savings Bank, which went to pieces. Chas. B. Pierce, first vice president of the Citizens' Life, acting for W. H. Gregory, who is out of town, denied all the charges, adding that Rau was acting for some one else behind a scheme to wreck the institution.

BANKER IN JAIL.

Unable to Give Bond After His Second Arrest.

Grayson, Ky.—W. J. Rice, of the Imperial Bank of Olive Hill, who was indicted for making false statements in his report to the secretary of state, for which he gave bond, has been arrested again under indictments made by the Carter grand jury for embezzlement and obtaining money by false pretenses. He is now in jail here, so far unable to give bond of $5,000. He was arrested in the western part of Kentucky and brought here by the sheriff of Graves county. The Imperial Bank is in the hands of Receiver W. T. Womack. A few questionable notes were found in the safe when opened.

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Willson will take up the applications for appointment as superintendent of public instruction to succeed Superintendent J. G. Crabbe, who will become the president of the Eastern Kentucky Normal School at Richmond. So far he has not considered any of the applications, but it is understood that Prof. Ellsworth Regenstein, of Newport, will be appointed if he wants the position. Regenstein is the present superintendent of the Newport public schools.

Springfield, Ky.—The Hon. W. H. Strange, of Hart county, who is connected with the office of commissioner of agriculture, addressed the farmers at the courthouse, and succeeded in organizing the Washington County Corn-Growers' association. There were about 80 of the leading farmers present. After his speech he distributed three bushels of seed corn among the farmers. The following were elected as officers of the association: W. D. Claybrooke, president; C. J. Hayden, secretary; J. Pollin, treasurer.

Louisville, Ky.—Louis Doerhoefer is defendant in a suit filed by Mrs. Pearl Devine, in which she asks damages for personal injuries in the sum of $10,000. She avers that Doerhoefer unlawfully assaulted, kicked and beat her upon the head, arms, legs and body with his fists and feet, and that one or more of her ribs was broken.

Covington, Ky.—According to figures compiled by City Auditor Gould a large boom in building and construction work struck this city during the past month. Total permits granted were as follows: Brick, $58,000; frame, $12,700; remodeling residences, brick and frame, $5,100.

St. Thomas, Ky.—Orders have been received from Washington directing the Second Infantry to prepare to participate in the military maneuvers at Gettysburg, Pa., in July. Seven companies, headquarters and band are designated for duty there, one of the eight companies stationed here to be left for garrison duty. This is the first time that the regiment at this post has been ordered out of the Department of the Lakes for maneuvers.

Leighton, Ky.—Andrew McMullen, a young man of near Natural Bridge, came to the Eastern Kentucky lunatic asylum to visit his mother. Mrs. McMullen failed to recognize him. The boy was so affected by this that half an hour after he left the institution he became himself violently insane. It took the combined efforts of four patrolmen to prevent his harming pedestrians on Main street and to get him to the police station, where he is detained pending the arrival of relatives.

POLICE ARE KEPT BUSY.

Girl Stemmers Quit Work and Riots and Arrests Follow.

Louisville, Ky.—Several riots, in which the police were twice forced to level their revolvers upon women and children, 10 arrests including girl strikers and sympathizers, attended a walkout of 3,500 stemmers, mostly women and girls at the three plants of the American Tobacco Co. That 4,500 tobacco workers will join the strike now seems inevitable, and a mass-meeting has been called, when the strikers will perfect an organization. Led by Miss Hazel Spaulding, 5,000 striking women have warned about the plants of the company, and armed with sticks, stones, brickbats and all weapons that lay handy. No demands have yet been made by the strikers, but efforts to effect a settlement have been made by the employers. The strikers will ask a 20 per cent increase in wages, an increase of one cent per pound for piecework. They now receive two cents a pound for stemming.

Carlisle, Ky.—While descending stairs at his home at Morning Glory, Henry L. Brinker, aged 85, a leading farmer of Nicholas county, fell, sustaining a broken neck and dying almost instantly.

Louisville, Ky.—Forest fires which have raged at intervals for 10 days surrounding South Park, near here, broke out again, and destroyed a tract of 150 acres of fine timber, causing a loss of $20,000. Twenty men fought the flames throughout the night, and while the fire is still burning it is believed that the danger to surrounding property is over.

Frankfort, Ky.—Capt. W. G. Bullock, brother-in-law of Senator Thomas H. Paynter, in point of service the oldest employee of the Kentucky penitentiary, having served continuously for 12 years, sent his resignation to the prison commission, to become effective April 1. It is understood that 15 employees of the penitentiary will lose their jobs between April 1 and 5.

Cynthiana, Ky.—Postmaster George M. Dickey, representing the city council; R. V. Bishop, president of the Cynthiana Commercial club, representing the Commercial club, and a representative of the fiscal court left for Washington to present Cynthiana's claim for a $100,000 appropriation for a postoffice building to the congressional committee having the bill in hand.

Mayking, Ky.—Line Fork creek, a rich coal and timber territory in this county, has splendid prospects for a new railroad in the near future, as a survey of the road has just started by the Letcher county court clerk's office. This is thought to be a branch of the Lexington and Eastern, which was recently surveyed from Jackson through to the Elkhorn coal fields in this county.

Henderson, Ky.—All of the tobacco of the Stemming District association for 1908 has been sold. The association holdings for 1908 was 4,500 hogsheads, and a sale by Manager William Elliott and the committee of 2,400 hogsheads of strips cleaned up all of the 1908 association export tobacco. This sale means the distribution of $500,000 to the growers in the stemming district.

Lexington, Ky.—A telegram to relatives here announces the death of Rev. Arthur Brooks, the noted singing evangelist, of diphtheria, at Little Rock, Ark. Rev. Brooks was a graduate of Transylvania college, here, and with his brother, Rev. W. T. Brooks, conducted many great revivals for the Christian church in the south and west. About two years ago he was married to Miss Fite, of Kansas City.

Frankfort, Ky.—Endeavoring to prevent frauds from creeping into the examination of schoolteachers in this state, Superintendent of Public Instruction Crabbe has had the examination questions, 80 forms, and more than 1,000 lists, printed some place 1,000 miles distant from Frankfort. The questions have been received here.

Louisville, Ky.—Mrs. Elizabeth Orr, who had the remarkable record of having borne 13 children, although only 81 years of age, died of pneumonia. Mrs. Orr has given birth to two sets of twins and one set of triplets. The latter was born one week last, but died three days later.

Louisville, Ky.—While dodging the main issue and all questions to the point, Col. Albert Scott, chairman of the state board of control for charitable institutions, practically confirmed by his attitude the report that there would be a change in the board management of the Institute for Feeble Minded at Frankfort.

Asked if some change were contemplated, Col. Scott said: "There may be changes of that sort any time."

Far more should eat more oatmeal. Although the farmer of today is able to buy almost anything he wants to wear or eat he isn't paying enough attention to food values when it comes to his own table.

He feeds his stock carefully, avoids over-feeding and selects the stock food that he believes will give the best returns in strength and general efficiency. If he has been watching the extensive researches and experiments on the question of the best human food for muscle and brain he will heed the advice from all sides to "eat more Quaker Oats."

Quaker Oats is mentioned because it is recognized in this country as being as the best of all oatmeals. Feeding farm hands on Quaker Oats means getting more work out of them than if you feed them on anything else.

National Tuberculosis Sunday. Present indications point to a general observance of National Tuberculosis Sunday in more than 500,000 churches in the country on April 24. Reports from heads of local anti-tuberculosis associations, health officers, pastors, mayors, governors, and numerous interdenominational bodies show much enthusiasm over the movement. The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis has prepared an outline for a tuberculosis sermon for use on April 24, which will be sent free of charge to any clergyman applying at 105 East Twenty-second St., New York. Thousands of these outlines are being sent out weekly to all parts of the country.

Prominent churchmen, including bishops and heads of all the leading denominations, have expressed their approval of the movement.

Money and expense are not essential to artistic homes and attractive rooms. One dollar and fifty cents' worth of material will completely transform a crude, inartistic room into a graceful, dainty apartment.

Really it is good taste and skill that makes the home homelike. That dainty touch is worth twice as much as money. Wall paper is expensive—it costs money to buy it, to hang it and again to remove it. The time and labor of the laborer will there is only the slight cost of the material—any one can brush it on—and it is not necessary to wash it off the wall when a fresh coat is required.

It is very easy to mix, very simple to apply, but the results are simply beautiful. A whole house can be done at just a little more than the cost of a single room when ordinary materials are used. And this is true, that now that we have so much better materials for use in the decoration of our homes, that wall paper, wallpaper, linoleum and paint are now, as never before, the old-time white wash, yellow candles and rough brown floors. More money is no longer an essential in good housefurnishing in artistic home making.

The modern materials and labor-saving machines are most welcome to us all—and every thoughtful woman, every woman who cares for her home, is quick to utilize them.

Good Work in Denmark. Under legislation enacted in 1905 the Danish government pays "three-fourths of the expenses of all poor persons who desire to be treated in tuberculosis sanatoria. When the hospitals under construction are completed Denmark will have one bed in tuberculosis hospitals or sanatoria for every 1,200 inhabitants, a fact which will mean that the length of treatment can be considerably extended. In the United States there is one bed for every 4,500 inhabitants.

How to Make Good Coffee. First, last and all the time, have a clean coffee pot. Don't wash it with common yellow laundry soap or powder because that makes it smell bad and gives the coffee a sickening taste. Easy Task soap sterilizes coffee pots and all cooking utensils, making them clean, sweet and wholesomely healthy. That's the beauty of Easy Task soap—it is just as good for cooking vessels as for cloth or painted work or glassware or china. Not an expensive soap—five cents a cake.

Alas. A little five-year-old who had been watching her mother dress for an evening entertainment surprised her mother with the following question: "Mother, didn't you say you were almost 40 years old?" "Yes," replied the mother. "Well," answered the little girl, "you don't look it tonight, but you will tomorrow morning."—Judge.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed it has a tendency to close, and hearing is lost. If this inflammation is not taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, deafness is permanent. Deafness is caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflammation of the mucous membrane. We will give you Brander's Balm for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by other means. Send for circular, free. Sold by Druggists. Take Small's Family Pills for constipation.

Absolute Equality. The Women—The tax office is one which I simply love to go to. The Man—Very few people do. Why do you like it? The Women—Because it is absolutely the only place where no discrimination is made against me because I am a woman. They let me there pay just as much as if I were a man.

Resinol is a Perfect Remedy for Pruritus and All Itching Skin Troubles. Have used Resinol with the utmost satisfaction. A case of Pruritus Vulvae which seemed to defy all known remedies was at once relieved and promptly cured. It also acted in the manner of a severe case of eczema that had almost driven the patient crazy. It is indispensable to this day and generation. F. C. Imes, Philadelphia, Pa.

Pain.

Nearly all women suffer some pain at times, due to the ailments peculiar to their sex. If your trouble is yet in a mild form, take Cardui to prevent it becoming more serious. Women who have suffered long years, get Cardui at once. Use persistently and it will help you.

Take CARDUI

Mrs. L. Eells, of New Hartford, Ia., was afflicted for 24 years. She writes: "For the past 24 years I have been afflicted with womb trouble, causing extreme nervousness, pain in right side and back—altogether making life a burden. I tried doctors and various other remedies without relief. Finally I began using Wine of Cardui. Now I am entirely cured. I cheerfully advise all women similarly afflicted to try Cardui." Sold everywhere.

Public Sale.

Having sold my farm I will offer at public auction on premises one and a half miles south of Florence, Boone County, Ky., beginning at 12:30 p. m., the following described property: One horse, one cow, one pig, one mare—in foal to jack; one bay driving and work mare in foal, one two-year old draft filly, two Jersey milk cows—no fresh; 175 fat chickens, one good farm wagon, a hay bed, one heavy spring wagon, one light spring wagon, one family carriage break cart, mowing machine, hay rake, binding plow, vibrating harrow, other plows, etc., 18 square double wing crimp iron roofing, new; 500 pounds new, stout, heavy, 300 locust posts, stack of hay, hay in barn, straw stack, 50 bushels of potatoes, plow harness, buggy harness, spring wagon harness, etc.

Terms—All sums of $5 and under cash; on all sums over $5 a credit of nine months without interest will be given, purchasers to execute notes with approved security, negotiable and payable at Florence Deposit Bank.
C. C. TALBOT.

The Standard Bred Stallion, Robert Willis, 47254.

Robert Willis is a chestnut horse with star in forehead, stands 16 1/2 hands high, and when in stud condition weighs 1550 pounds, foaled in 1906. Individually he is a horse of grand finish with plenty of substance, a fine disposition, deep, strong shoulders, stout back, very strong loins and stifles, strong bone and good feet and legs. His blood lines are of the best, as his pedigree will show the most popular and prolific producing combination in trotting blood lines, the kind that get the money on the race course and the prizes in the show rings. Ordinary horses bred to this horse will not fail to produce foals that will find a ready market as carriage horses and roadsters as well as general all-purpose horses.

He will make the season of 1910 at Clover Leaf Stock Farm, unless otherwise notified, at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, money due when colts foaled or mare is parted with. Parties breeding must follow up the season.
Care taken to prevent accidents, but we will not be responsible should any occur.
For further particulars and tabulated pedigree, address
GALATIUS BROS. Union, Ky.
Mares pastured at reasonable rates.

B. C. GRADY, Bullittville, Ky.

Delinquent Taxpayers.

The delinquent Taxpayers of Boone County for the years 1908 and 1909 are hereby notified, unless they have paid said taxes by April 1910, I shall proceed to levy on and sell property for same. No property out of which their taxes can be made, I shall garnish their wages. Please pay up and avoid extra expense.
J. F. Blyth, Delinquent Tax Collector Boone County.

The High Class Saddle and Harness Horse.

BELL'S FITZSIMMONS.

will make the season of 1910 at the W. L. Norman Stock Farm at Walton, Ky., and if you want a show horse breed to him.
Bell's Fitzsimmons is a dark bay, 16 hands, weight 1200 lbs., with three white feet, snip and star, and lots of style and action. He was bred by
BY BRACKEN Chief 2148

By Harrison Chief 1404 by Clark Chief (89); dam K. H. Hardy (853) by Indian Chief (1718); 1 dam Miss Berry (484) by Roderick 101; by Mambrino Lord Grande (89); 3 dam by Well's Yellow Jacket 113; 3 dam by Eagle (thor).

Miss Berry also the dam of Woodland Chief, one of the finest show horses in Ky. Woodland Chief is a full brother to Bell's Fitzsimmons and a full brother to Rhodora, and one of the finest geldings ever showed, and sold to a party in Texas for $1,000.
Bell's Fitzsimmons is also the sire of the champion No. 1883 trot gelding, Matt Coyne, showed at the Horse Shows in the fall of 1908 and sold for $3,000, and also a pair of harness horses shown by C. C. Harris.

L. T. Anderson, of Mayville, one of the largest dealers in the state, says that of the highest class horses he has handled have been by Bell's Fitzsimmons.
The greatest show, harness and saddle horses of our State have sprung from the stable of Harrison Chief and Indian Chief. Where can you find a horse of better breeding than Bell's Fitzsimmons? He has been a winning show horse ever since a suckling colt, and has proven himself a successful sire. Some of the highest priced saddles and harnesses of the State horses that have left the State have been sired by him.
Personal care over all stock. Mares laid on good grass at ten cents a day, at owner's risk. Fifteen dollars to insure a mare in foal or parted with.
JOHN R. RENSLE, Walton, Ky.

Phone 14. Walton, Ky.

Also prepared to break colts and handle Saddle and Harness Horses.

HIGH VINE.

No. 2733.

Chestnut Stallion, coming 6 years old, weighs 1100 pounds, stands 16 hands high and is a picture of symmetry and beauty.
HIGH VINE, No. 2733, sire Highland Gaines, No. 1687; Grandfather Highland Denmark, No. 730; dam, Beale's Sable, No. 2842; by Shropshire's Sable, No. 1687; second dam, Maxey by Granger; fourth dam by Expert, No. 77.

HIGH VINE has proven himself a sire of champions, and his colts are growing into very promising horses every day, as the history of his colts is that they grow better in the highest prices have been offered for the colts, one offer of $175 being refused for a colt foaled in 1908. An inspection of the colts and the horse will convince breeders of their superiority, and that a colt from High Vine means a profitable investment in every way.
HIGH VINE will make the season at the stable of W. Lee Gaines, at Richmond, Boone County, Ky., at $20.00 to insure a live foal, season money due when mare is parted with. Make your engagements ahead as his services are limited, and it saves annoying delays.

For the accommodation of those at a distance, W. L. Gaines has agreed to pasture mares at $2.50 per month, and has the best facilities for their care and keeping.
PREMIUMS—A first premium of $200 (the season) will be given to the owner of a colt, a second premium of $10 will be given the second best colt, foaled from breeding of 1910. Show to be held at Florence place.

HIGH VINE HORSE CO.

Walton, Ky.

The Great Imported German Coach Stallion,

Plutarch, 3183.

Will make the season of 1910 in Burlington on Monday of each week, and the remainder of the time at my stable one mile west of Idlewild, Ky., at $12 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, money due when colt is foaled, or mare is parted with after being bred. Any one party owning and breeding mares and getting two colts from this horse shall be entitled to $4 discount on the two seasons, but should only one of the mares get in foal the regular full season, $12, will be collected.

I will give a return season for the best colt, the 1909 get of this stallion, regardless of sex, to the owner of the Boone Co. Harvest horse show.
For pedigree and particulars call on or address the undersigned owner.

The Fine Black Jack, JOE.

will make the season at my stable at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck.
In handling the above stock care will be taken to prevent accidents, but I will not be responsible should any occur.

Miss Jeanie Tanner, of Florence, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Trella Ayth, the past week.

The community was greatly shocked when the news came Saturday morning that Wilson Conner while taking a load of hay to Cincinnati, had been killed near Sedamsville. The remains were brought to his home late Saturday and on Sunday at 2 o'clock they were buried in the cemetery here.

He was a member of Greenwood Grange 263 and will be greatly missed. He leaves a father, mother and three sisters to mourn his loss. They have the sympathy of the community.

We take this means of thanking our neighbors and friends for their sympathy and assistance in our sad bereavement, and expressing our appreciation to Greenwood Grange and Hebron Grange Lodge for the beautiful floral tributes, sent to the funeral of our wife and mother.

BOONE'S CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

Before The Democratic Primary Election, To Be Held Saturday, June 18th.

ARTHUR B. ROUSE.

The above is a good picture of Arthur B. Rouse, of Burlington, Boone's candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this congressional district. Mr. Rouse has taken an active part in State politics for several years, and has spent about six years in Washington, D. C., as the private secretary of the Congressmen from this district, consequently he is familiar with the duties of the office, to which he aspires, and if nominated he will be elected and will make the district a pains-taking and faithful representative. He has several elements of strength that no other candidate from the country can command, therefore the most available candidate the rural portion of the district can present. He will make a lively campaign, and the man who polls more votes in the primary than he will, will be the nominee. Mr. Rouse will visit every voting precinct in the district between now and the primary election; to meet every voter. His friends are sanguine of his success. Being only 35 years old and fine looking it is already conceded that the ladies will be for him, and they are a power in an elections. Boone county's Big Democratic majority has always made Democratic success in the district a certainty, but she has never had a Congressman, and is now asking that her party fidelity be awarded by nominating her favorite son for that office.

Kentucky Crop Report.

Frankfort, April 4.—One of the causes of the high cost of living is told in the crop report of Commissioner of Agriculture M. C. Rankin for the winter and spring, which is the first of the year, for it is shown in almost every line of the report that there has been a decided falling off in the production of every kind of food stuff and live stock. The eleven cent hog is not a surprise when the report shows that the brood sows in Kentucky alone have decreased 38 per cent during the last six months, and that the other live stock has decreased in proportion to it.

The report indicates that the tobacco crop, both in the dark and white, hatter district will be larger this year than ever before. A summary of the report follows:

This is the first report for the year 1910. An extremely cold and severe winter has been passed through and has affected stock and crops. The month of March has been the warmest of the year with but one shower of rain which was not general throughout the State, which has afforded the farmers splendid opportunities for early plowing and spring work.

"Last year in our April crop report the percentage for the State was 87 and the percentage of condition was 84, while this year the percentage of acreage is 103 and the percentage of condition is 84."

"There has been a larger acreage of oats sown than usual, and only needs rain to cause germination and good prospects for a good crop. A number of reports show that some wheat fields have been plowed up and sown in oats."

"Many reports show that in many parts of the State the peaches have been killed."

"There is much uncertainty about the small fruits and other fruit crops, and barring freezes during April, prospects for a full crop of fruit are fairly good. The percentage of condition is 103 and the percentage of condition is 84."

"A great deal of the young clover has been killed or badly injured, while alsike clover looks fairly well. There was a heavy frost during the winter the young grasses have been injured and are backward."

"Preparations for a very large tobacco crop have been made, and more especially is this true with burley tobacco. Many counties have raised little or none in the past year, and are preparing to raise especially the mountain counties and those bordering along the mountains are becoming interested in growing tobacco. The prospective acreage of burley for the State was 88 as against 105 for this year, and the percentage of plant beds sown April 1, 1910 as compared with April 1, 1909, is 187."

"Much enthusiasm and interest has been aroused in the growing of corn throughout the State by the organization of corn growing associations of hogs, and the distribution of pure seed corn and bulletins on same. The acreage is being increased and much care is being given to the preparation of the ground. The prospective acreage last year at this time was 99 for the State, and this year is 103 and the percentage of condition is 103 and the percentage of condition is 103."

"A kind of olive stock has been raised and the number of hogs and brood sows are less than they have been for at least five years. The number of brood sows has decreased 38 per cent since April 1, 1909, and there are few litters of pigs. There is much complaint of high prices of pork, and the above figures show conclusively the reason of same. I will advise the farmers of Kentucky, as the prevailing high prices of hogs, that it is an opinion that a very strong effort on the part of the farmers to raise more and better hogs that it will take the above two years to produce a sufficient number to lower the present prices and supply the demand at the same time. Nevertheless, I favor profitable prices for all farm products."

A special dispatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer from Lexington, last Thursday, says that James B. McCreary, who has been the foremost of Kentucky statesmen; who has served his people in succession as State Senator, as Congressman, as Governor, and as U. S. Senator, has consented to again make the race for Governor and will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination to fill the office.

Mr. McCreary is at present in New York, serving as President of the American Arbitration and Peace League, and will not make formal announcement of his candidacy until some time after his return to his home at Richmond, which will be about April 20.

It is hoped that the Enquirer's dope is correct, and that Gov. McCreary will have no opposition for the nomination. He is a grand man, and has rendered Kentucky excellent service in many official capacities, and the State would be doing herself an honor by honoring him again with the Governorship.

The case of the Commonwealth against Mrs. Edith McCreary, charged with the burning of the residence of John B. Rankin, of Lexington, last fall, was called for trial yesterday afternoon, and after some skirmishing on the part of the attorneys, the work of securing a jury was begun. The case will consume a day or two. The prosecution is represented by Commonwealth's Attorney E. W. Ward, John L. Vest and D. E. Castleman, the defense, by Graziani & Boughner, of Covington.

Everett M. Millan, of Williams town, official court stenographer for this judicial district is taking in short-hand the evidence in the McCreary trial.

Committed Suicide.

William Tanner, about 55, of Gunpowder neighborhood, shot himself near the heart with a pistol in the morning of Sunday about 10 a. m. No cause can be assigned for the act, except bad health, and trouble resulting from the death of his son, Calvin, a few weeks since. He died at 3:20 p. m. yesterday.

G. T. Gaines lost a $5 bill between the Boone County Deposit Bank and his home, last Monday.

New Libel Laws.
The following new libel laws were enacted by the last Legislature in an effort to make the part of the Kentucky Press:

Be enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

Section 1. That in any civil action for libel, charging the publication of an erroneous statement alleged to be libelous, it shall be relevant and competent evidence for either party to prove the fact that the plaintiff requested retraction or omitted to request retraction.

The defendant may also allege and give proof that the same alleged to have been published, and to be libelous, was published with malice, and that the defendant in the next regular issue of the newspaper or publication, after receiving demand in writing or within seven days if no such demand is made to correct and retract said statement, or in the next regular issue of the newspaper or publication did publish a sufficient correction, retraction, explanation or rectification, conspicuously and publicly as that in which said alleged libelous statement was published in the same type and in the same place in at least two successive issues of the same periodical publication accompanied by editorials in which the alleged slander is specifically repudiated.

Upon proof of such facts, the plaintiff shall not be entitled to punitive damages; and the defendant shall be liable only to pay actual damages. And upon the publication of such correction, retraction, explanation or rectification, the defendant may plead same in mitigation of damages.

Section 1. That Section 7, Title 5, of the Civil Code of Practice, be, and the same is hereby amended by adding thereto the words: "Provided, that in actions for libel the action shall be brought in the county in which plaintiff resides or in the county in which the newspaper or publication is printed or published," so that said section as amended and enacted shall read as follows: "Every action for an injury to the person of the plaintiff, and every action for an injury to the character of the plaintiff, against a defendant residing in this State must be brought in the county in which the defendant resides or in which the injury is done: Provided, that in actions for libel the action shall be brought in the county in which the plaintiff resides or in the county in which the newspaper or publication is printed or published, or in the county in which the transaction, or act, or declaration to which publication relates is stated, or purported to have been done or taken place."

Lincoln Cabin Logs.
The logs of the Lincoln cabin, which have been stored in a Louisville warehouse for nearly four years have been taken to Paducah, where they will again be erected into a structure like the original in which Abraham Lincoln was born. The cabin was constructed inside the memorial hall on the Lincoln farm, near Hodgenville, where it will probably remain for ages. The logs were taken to Paducah under the care and direction of T. W. Miller, superintendent of the Lincoln farm. The logs have been in Louisville since they were home coming, which took place in 1906. They were brought from New York by a special representative sent from Louisville, and played a prominent part in the exercises during the home-coming week. The cabin as reconstructed will stand in the center of Lincoln Memorial Hall and will no doubt be the center of attraction for Americans who revere the name of Lincoln so long as the republic lasts.

In The County Court.
In the county court on the 4th inst., the viewers appointed to view the proposed change in the Burlington road, and beginning at a point near Ezekiel Rice's and extending to a point near William Pope's, filed their report. The parties over whose lands the proposed change will pass, have filed a written agreement to donate the land necessary for the change.

The will of Hays L. Miller was admitted to probate. The testator gave all his property to his wife, and she was allowed to qualify as executrix without bond according to the terms of the will. The following claims for sheep killed by dogs were allowed:

J. J. Rucker, $181.
G. W. Goodridge, $20.
B. H. Tanner, $135.

Arbor Day.
Last Friday was a beautiful day for Arbor Day exercises, and it was generally well attended by Kentucky schools. Supt. Crabbe, then county superintendent, having worked up considerable interest on the part of teachers and pupils. Supt. Crabbe proved to be the liveliest worker that ever occupied the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and his resignation is regretted by all.

The county wool pool will carry at least 80 cents of every fleece in this county, and will no doubt prove very beneficial to wool producers, besides giving buyers a chance to handle it to a better profit on a less margin than heretofore.

Some of the farmers in the county could plant their corn in the next few days if there is no change in weather conditions and they were not afraid there is yet a few installments of winter in store for this part of the country.

H. G. Gaines had his fine two-year-old Dandy Jim colt in town a few days ago. It looks now like it will make a great individual.

FISCAL COURT NEWS.

The Court Met Tuesday of Last Week And Made A Few Allowances.

The Following Order In Regard To Working The County Roads Was Made.

At the special term of the fiscal court held on the 5th inst., the following officials were present: County Judge P. E. Cason, Esquires Wm. Stephens, J. S. Noel, Moses Scott, R. H. Tanner, E. J. Aylor, County Attorney N. E. Riddell, county clerk J. H. Rogers, Deputy Sheriff D. M. Snyder and Jailor Sam Adams.

J. F. Blyth, superintendent of the county infirmary, filed his report, which shows that the expenses of the infirmary for the first quarter this year, were $617.89. He was allowed $600 to be applied to the expenses of the infirmary for the second quarter.

The sum of $25 was allowed to be expended on the county road extending from the town of Petersburg to the cemetery below the town.

The court made no orders in regard to the proposition to put a heating plant in the court house basement.

The following order in regard to working the county roads was made:

It is ordered by the court that the roads of this county for the year 1910 be and they are ordered to be worked by taxation and the allotment of hands.

It is ordered by the court that all grading be done by the first of July, and all dumps of dirt shall be leveled and smoothed down at the time they are placed on the roads, and all large clods and lumps of dirt shall be broken up and the road smoothed and made fit for travel at the time it is worked.

All metal shall be placed on the road, brot and spread not later than the first day of November, except repairs with knapped stone which may be done at any time. Eight hours constitute a day's work on the roads.

The overseers shall report to the Fiscal Court, which holds its terms on Tuesday after the first of January, in January, April, July and October, the amounts and kind of work done by them, and the date on which it was performed and in which district their dirt, and any supplies purchased or furnished by him, which report must be accompanied by receipts for money expended for such supplies in the Fiscal Court. After auditing said accounts, will order said overseers to be paid for their services and money expended.

Overseers shall find out from the sheriff the amount of money due their respective districts, and shall not cause to be expended by work done, supplies furnished or purchased and drafts issued, more money than is due such district, and they shall use the money set apart for their respective districts this year except a few dollars may be kept on hand for emergencies, and as much of the road fund as is practically used in placing metal on the road.

It is recommended that when practical overseers drag their roads in early spring.

Overseers execute bond in the County Court in double the amount of money due their respective districts, and properly qualified before the court, and on the discharge of their duties. The overseer will be allowed the sum of $150 per day for time so engaged in seeing hands, but he shall make no charge for overseeing unless he has four hands or more at work under his direction, at one time, and the overseer's charges for such work shall not exceed $15 for the year. He will pay for one man and a team of two horses, per day, not to exceed three dollars and fifty cents in addition thereto for each extra horse, and for a man not to exceed $100, except when he employs stone masons, carpenters or other tradesmen, and they will be contracted for at the customary price in that locality.

Overseers may work at $1 per day, but will receive pay in full at one capacity at the same time, and will not be paid as an overseer when in charge of a team.

Overseers may use as much of the work themselves as they see fit, under the above regulations, but shall not issue drafts to themselves.

Overseers will be furnished blanks upon which to make out their reports, and receipts for money expended by them, and drafts to be given hands as above set out, and each overseer will be expected to comply with the terms and directions of this order.

The Sheriff will keep a book to be furnished by the county showing the name of each overseer, and the amount due him in each district, and he will charge to said district the amounts paid such overseer and the sums of money paid to hands on the roads of the overseer.

The drafts above mentioned, when paid by the Sheriff, shall be kept by him and filed as vouchers with his settlement.

When Sick

Women suffering from headache, backache, pain inside, or nervousness, or any other ailment resulting from female trouble, should get Cardui and see it regularly. Cardui has been found by thousands of ladies to relieve female weakness, by restoring to health the weak womanly organs.

Take CARDUI

Mrs. F. S. Mills, Marietta, Calif., tried Cardui and writes: "I don't think anyone can recommend a medicine more highly than I can Cardui. I had a mishap, followed by inflammation. I positively believe I would have died, had it not been for Cardui. When I began taking it, I could not stand on my feet. After taking two bottles, I was cured, and I now weigh 165 pounds."

Try Cardui—it will help you. Sold everywhere.

John Baldon, Carbondale, Colorado.

The Standard Bred Stallion, Robert Willis, 47254.

Robert Willis is a chestnut horse with star in forehead, stands 16 1/2 hands high, and when in stud condition weighs 1,800 lbs. He was bred in 1906. Individually he is a horse of grand finish with plenty of substance, a fine disposition, deep, strong, and well set on his legs, and strong loins and stifles, strong bone and good feet and legs. His blood lines are of the best, as his pedigree will show the most popular and prolific speed-producing combination in trotting blood lines, the kind that get the money on the race course and the prizes in the show ring. Ordinary marsh-bred stallions will fail to produce foals that will find a ready market as carriage horses and roadsters as well as general all-purpose horses.

He will make the season of 1910 at Clover Leaf Stock Farm, unless otherwise notified, at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, money due when colt is foaled or mare is parted with. Parties breeding must follow up the season.

Care taken to prevent accidents, but I will not be responsible should any occur.

The High Class Saddle and Harness Horse, BELL'S FITZSIMMONS.

—2844 A. S. B. A.—

will make the season of 1910 at the W. L. Norman Stock Farm at Walton, Ky., and if you want a show horse bred to him.

Bell's Fitzsimmons is a dark bay, 16 hands high, weighs 1,500 lbs., with three white feet, snip and star, and lots of it, and action. He was sired.

BY BRACKEN CHIEF 3:16—sired by Harrison Chief 1898 by Clark Chief 1891, dam Kit Hardy (2850) by Indian Chief (4718); 1 dam Miss Berry 4:04 by Rho 1:04; 1 dam Mambrino Le Grand (89); 2 dam by Well's Yellow Jacket 1:13; 3 dam by Gray Eagle (Thor).

Miss Berry is also the dam of Woodland Chief, one of the finest show horses in Ky. Woodland Chief is a full brother to Bell's Fitzsimmons and a full brother to Rhoderick, and one of the finest geldings ever showed, and sired a party in Texas for 1898.

Bell's Fitzsimmons is also the sire of the championship walk-trot gelding, Mat Coyne, showed at the Horse Shows in 1908 and 1909 and sold for $3,500, and also the championship harness mare showed by C. C. Harris.

J. T. Anderson, of Mayaville, one of the largest dealers in the state, says some of the highest class horses he has handled have been by Bell's Fitzsimmons.

The greatest show, harness and saddle horses of our State have sprung from the loins of Harrison Chief and Indian Chief. Where can you find better horses for breeding than Bell's Fitzsimmons? He has been a winning show horse ever since a suckling colt, and has proven himself successful since.

Some of the highest priced saddle, harness and walk-trot horses that have left the State have been sired by him.

Personal care over all stock. Mares left on good grass at ten cents a day, at owner's risk. Fifteen dollars to insure a mare in foal or parted with.

JOHN RENSLE, C. R. BEST, Phone 14, Walton, Ky. Also prepared to break colts and handle Saddle and Harness Horses.

HIGH VINE.

No. 2733.

Chestnut Stallion, coming 6 years old, weighs 1,100 pounds, stands 15 hands high and is a picture of style and action.

HIGH VINE, No. 733, by Highland Gaines, No. 1687; Gainsire, Highland Denmark, No. 789; dam, Belle 3:28 1-3, sire of Mambrino Patchin 3:28 1-3, sire of Liston, Jr. second dam, Macey by Granger; fourth dam by Expert, No. 77.

HIGH VINE has proven himself a first class breeder, and his colts are growing into very promising horses every day, as the history of his colts is that they grow better and take attractive qualities with age, and some fancy prices have been offered for colts, one offer of $175 being refused for a colt foaled in 1908. An inspection of the picture of a horse will convince breeders of their superiority, and that a colt from High Vine means a profitable investment. His colts were never defeated in their class, and in addition awakened admiration everywhere.

HIGH VINE will make the season at the stable of W. L. Gaines, at Richmond, Boone County, Ky., at $20.00 to insure a live foal, and money due when the colt is foaled or mare is parted with. Make your engagements ahead as his services are limited, and it saves annoying delays.

For the accommodation of those at a distance, W. L. Gaines has agreed to pasture mares at $2.50 per month, and has the best facilities for the care and breeding of mares.

PREMIUMS—A first premium of $20.00 (the season) will be given best colt and a second premium of $10.00 will be given the best colt, foaled from breeding of 1910. Show to be held at Florence fair.

HIGH VINE HORSE CO.

Walton, Ky.

The Great Imported German Coach Stallion,

Plutarch, 3183,

Will make the season of 1910 in Burlington on Monday of each week, and the balance of the time at my stable, 1 mile west of Idlewild, Ky., at $12 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, money due when colt is foaled, or mare is parted with after being bred. Any one party owning and breeding two mares and getting two colts from this horse shall be entitled to $40 discount on the two seasons, but the colts must be given the regular colt the regular full season, $12 will be collected.

I will give a return season for the two colts, but not get out of this station, regardless of sex, to be shown at the Boone Co. Harvest home this fall.

For pedigree and particulars call on or address the undersigned owner.

The Fine Black Jack, JOE.

will make the season at my stable at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck.

In handling the above stock care will be taken to prevent accidents, but I will not be responsible should any occur.

No business done on Sunday.

Parties breeding to either of the above animals must follow up the season.

CALL FOR PRIMARY.

A primary election is hereby called to be held in the several regular voting places or precincts in each of the counties comprising the Sixth Congressional District of Kentucky between the hours of six o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., on Saturday June 18th 1910 for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for Congress to be voted for at the regular November election 1910.

No. 2. The right to vote at said primary election shall be limited and restricted to those who affiliate in good faith with the Democratic party and who possess the qualifications prescribed by law.

No. 3. An assessment of four thousand dollars is hereby fixed for the purpose of defraying the expenses of said election, to be paid by the candidates; and any person who desires to become a candidate shall not later than the 3d day of June 1910 give written notice to the Chairman of this Committee and pay to said Chairman not later than the 3d day of June the sum of two thousand dollars to cover his portion of the expenses of holding said primary election. Provided, however, that if more than two persons shall qualify as candidates by complying with the foregoing provisions of this section, the Chairman shall at once... each of said candidates the sum he has paid in excess of his proportion of the said four thousand dollars. In the event the assessment herein provided for is insufficient to defray the expenses of this election the deficit shall be paid by the successful candidate.

No. 4. If on the 17th day of June 1910, only one candidate has complied with section three of this call, then in that event, the Chairman of this Committee shall call this Committee together at the Master Commissioner's office in the city of Covington and they shall declare said candidate the nominee of the Democratic party for Congress to be voted for at the regular November election 1910 and refund to said candidate the amount of his assessment less the amount of expense in holding for said primary.

The polls shall be opened in each and every precinct of all the counties in said Congressional District in the usual and regular voting places.

No. 6. Upon the closing of the polls the officers of election shall proceed to count the ballots and to make returns and in so doing shall be governed by the provisions of the general election law and the returns shall be made to the Chairman of the respective county or legislative district committee in said district, who will deliver the stub books, questioned ballots and certificates to this Committee.

No. 7. The order in which the names of the candidates shall appear on the ballots shall be determined by lot in the manner decided upon by the sub-committee hereinafter determined upon.

No. 8. The officers of the election shall be selected from lists submitted by the candidates in accordance with the provisions of the primary election law by the sub-committee hereinafter provided for.

No. 9. Each candidate shall be entitled to designate by written notice to the chairman of each county committee in the district not later than five days before the date of the election the name of one person for each voting precinct in each county, to act as challenger and inspector for said candidate at said primary election.

No. 10. On the third day after the returns shall have been made to the Chairman of the County Committee, this committee shall meet at the Master Commissioner's office in Covington and canvass the vote cast and issue to the successful candidate the certificate of election.

No. 11. In order that the provisions of this call may be carried into full force and effect, a sub-committee, consisting of the Chairman of this committee and Mr. R. B. Brown of Gallatin, Mr. J. F. Butts of Carroll, Mr. Geo. Lohre, of Kenton and Mr. Geo. Traver of Campbell is hereby appointed, which committee shall have power and is directed to cause to be printed and prepared for use the requisite number and kind of ballots, which shall bear the signature of this Committee and it will procure the necessary election supplies and cause them to be delivered to the officers of the election as required by law and to do any and all other acts necessary and proper to the holding of said primary election.

The Boone County Medical Society will hold a meeting in Florence on the 20th inst., for which an interesting program has been prepared. Dr. Hafer, of Florence, is president and Dr. Peddicord, of Burlington, is secretary of the society.

It is hoped that Boone county people, who are being served by rural mail carriers, will give the government no excuse for discontinuing their routes because of their failing to take enough interest in the public roads to keep them in good condition.

Halley's Comet is soon to be visible to the naked eye. It can now be detected with the aid of a good field glass and about the latter part of April can be seen without any such aid. It will increase in brilliancy until the 18th of May when it will gradually disappear as it pursues its course toward the infinitude of space. Seventy-five years hence it will again visit our sphere.

Local Happenings.

The farmers are too busy this week to attend court.

Some of the potatoes planted this spring are coming up.

So far the fruit trees that have bloomed indicate a full crop.

N. E. Riddell has been suffering of quinsy since last Saturday night.

The oats crop is said to have come up nicely and is making a nice start.

B. T. Kelly will take the census in the Burlington and Bullittsville precincts.

Some claim that the few days cool weather last week was snow ball winter. Hope it was.

J. F. Blyth will leave next Monday for a business and pleasure trip to Iowa and Illinois.

Most of the maple trees about town are in full foliage, while few have shown no signs of life this spring.

In some country towns playing ball on the streets is prohibited, but in Burlington anything of that kind goes.

Rev. A. C. Hamby, evangelist, will preach at Sand Run church at 7 o'clock every evening this week and next. Come.

George Riley, who has been in North Carolina for several months, returned to his old home again last week, looking well.

How is the boys' corn club progressing? Nothing has been heard of it since the day of the corn school in Burlington. Come, boys, make it a go.

There does not appear to be much of an effort on the part of the farmers to stock up with hogs, a specie of stock that can be replenished quicker than any other.

Ed Hawes, bass painter at Lakeside Asylum for the insane, returned home last Friday night and Saturday, on business. He is very proud of that new daughter of his.

It does not appear that Boone county has been the last term of circuit court, consequently the grand jury will not have much to do.

The Kentucky Court of Appeals has decided the road poll tax of $1.00 unconstitutional. The case was appealed from Trimble county by McIntyre, etc., vs. Sheriff Fyles.

Jacob Reisman, of Francesville neighborhood, hung out the "I'm done planting corn" sign last Saturday at noon, the first farmer in the county to compete that work this season.

In another column in this issue will be found the professional card of O. S. Crisler, veterinary surgeon. He is well prepared to treat any disease to which domestic animals are subject.

The Boone Literary Society had a very interesting meeting at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Castleman, last Friday evening. The attendance was good and all were prepared with their parts.

In some localities in this State tobacco plants will be backward on account of the drought. In some instances it has been necessary to carry water and put on the beds to keep the plants from perishing.

Mine host at the Boone House will look closely after the comfort and pleasure of his guests, and those who favor him with their patronage will be shown by nice treatment that their favors are appreciated.

County Clerk Rogers is doing his part of the work on the sheriff's tax book, which the sheriff will complete so soon as he is notified by the State Board of Equalization as to its action in regard to Boone's assessment.

The White's Run Lamb Association sold their 1910 crop of lambs to Williams & McCrackin, Wednesday of last week at 3-4 cents.

This is a strong organization and the members are well pleased with the price—Winchester Democrat.

Owing to the very high prices horses and mules have been bringing for some time the owners of stallions and jacks anticipate a harvest this season. The farmer should remember that it costs no more to put a good colt on the market than it does a bad one.

The Call of the Blood.

Stabbed To Death.

Thomas Owen, 19, and Arthur Murphy, 23, of Kentucky, employed by J. J. Wright & Sons of Aurora and sleeping in what is known as the old Strunk house on Third street began quarrelling in bed at 1 a. m. Tuesday over $20 alleged to be due Murphy. Murphy, it is charged, struck Owen in the face with his fist. Owen retaliated by plunging a knife into Murphy's chest and died as a result of same at 9 o'clock Tuesday. Owen dressed and left Aurora immediately presumably walking up the B. & O. S. W. railroad to Law. Policeman John Spanagel heard the loud barking of a dog in the south end of the city and began a quiet investigation as to the cause of the disturbance. Finding a man prowling about the freight cars on the switch he arrested him on suspicion and took him to the county jail awakening Sheriff White, who having heard of the cutting affray asked if he was not the person wanted for the deed. Owen admitted the fact and was locked up.—Lawrenceburg Register.

Charged With Forgery.

Tilford Miller, who will be 18 years old on the 3d day of May, was lodged in jail here Friday evening, by Sheriff B. B. Hume, charged with forgery. Miller is a gentle looking young man, and says he was born near Independence, Kenton county, and that his father and mother are dead, his only relative being a sister, who lives near Richmond, Ky. Miller admitted one of whom resides in Washington, D. C., and the other in Chicago. Miller had been working for Charles Bowles, near Richmond, and boarding with Mrs. Bedinger in same neighborhood. The forgery with which he is charged consists of his signing Mr. Bowles' name to four checks, one for $25 which he cashed at Beaver, and each of the others was for $9, one of which he got cashed in Walton, and one at Richmond. The fourth check gave Mrs. Bedinger in payment for his board. Miller claims that a man, who is a stranger to him, solicited him by the display of a pistol, and threatening to do him and his people a personal injury, to sign the checks. He says the man is a desperado, about 30 years of age, and that he is a Big Bone. Miller will probably be indicted and tried at this term of the circuit court.

Notice.

After this week the Recorder will be printed on Thursday instead of on Wednesday as now which will result in its delivery to its readers one day later in the week. This change in the day of publication is made believing that its patrons can be better served in the way of local news. Correspondents must continue to mail their communications at the same time they have been mailing them, as there will be no certainty in the publication of anything in the way of neighborhood news that is received later than Monday night, but accidents, deaths and other unusual incidents may be reported to this office as late as noon on Wednesday and they will receive attention. The Recorder wants all the important happenings in the county, and its friends should take a pleasure in reporting them. Many real news items escape its columns simply because those who know of them trust to luck in their reaching this office. Deaths (not obituaries) marriage, births, accidents, stock and crop items, farm improvements, etc., constitute real news items.

Leonard Kite, of Waterloo, passed through Lexington last Friday afternoon enroute to Erlanger to receive a fine yearling Jersey bull, which he and several of his neighbors bought of B. A. Farra, of Nicholasville, and which was to be sent to Erlanger by express. Mr. Kite says there are many good rows in his lot—hood, and this fine animal will make the stock still better. The animal cost $100.

SERIAL STORY

THE LITTLE BROWN JUG

AT KILDARE

By HEREDITH NICHOLSON

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

Copyright 1926 by The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

SYNOPSIS.

Thomas Ardmore, bored millionaire, sends Henry Maine Griswold, professor in the University of Virginia, to take train out of Atlanta. Griswold is a girl who has been kidnapped at him. Mistaken for Gov. Osborne of South Carolina, Griswold's life is threatened. He goes to Columbia to warn the governor. He meets Barbara Osborne. Ardmore learns that his kidnapping lady is the daughter of Gov. Dangerfield of North Carolina. He follows her to Raleigh, and on the way is given a brown jug at Kildare. In Raleigh he discovers that the jug bears a message threatening Dangerfield unless Appleweight, a criminal, is allowed to go free. Ardmore becomes allied with Jerry Danford to run the affairs of the state in the absence of the governor. A stunning telegram is sent to Gov. Osborne.

face the fact that his absence just now is most embarrassing. This Appleweight matter has reached a crisis, and a failure to handle it properly may injure your father's future as a public man. If you will pardon me, I would suggest that there must be some one whom you can take into your confidence—some friend, some one in your father's administration that you can rely on.

"Yes; father has many friends; but I cannot consider acknowledging to any one that father has disappeared when such a matter as this Appleweight case is an issue through the state. No; I have thought of every one this afternoon. It would be a painful thing for his best friends to know what is—what seems to be the truth." Her voice wavered a little, but she was brave, and he was aware that she straightened herself in her chair, and when wayward gleams of light fell upon her face, that her lips were set resolutely.

"You saw the attorney general this morning," she went on. "As you suggested, he would naturally be the one to whom I should turn, but I cannot do it. It is a reason—and she faltered a moment—there are reasons why I cannot appeal to Mr. Danford this time."

She shrugged her shoulders as though throwing off a disagreeable topic, and he saw that there was nothing more to be said on this point. His heart-beats quickened as he realized that she was appealing to him; that, though he was only the most casual acquaintance, she trusted him. As he pondered for a moment, a messenger rode into the grounds, and Miss Osborne slipped away and met the boy at the steps. She came back and opened a telegram, reading the message at one of the windows. An indignant exclamation escaped her, and she crumpled the paper in her hand.

"The impudence of it!" she exclaimed. He had risen, and she now turned to him with anger and scorn deepening her beautiful color. Her breath came quickly; her head was lifted imperiously; her lips quivered slightly as she spoke.

"This is from Gov. Dangerfield. Can you imagine a man of any character or decency sending such a message to the governor of another state?"

She watched him as he read: Raleigh, N. C. The Honorable Charles Osborne, Governor of South Carolina, Columbia, S. C.: Have written to-night's mail in Appleweight matter. Your vacillating course not understood.

WILLIAM DANGERFIELD, Governor of North Carolina.

"What do you think of that?" she demanded.

"I think it's impertinent, to say the least," he replied guardedly.

"Impertinent? It's the most contemptible, outrageous thing I ever heard of in my life! Gov. Dangerfield has dilly-dallied with that case for two years. His administration has been marked from the beginning by the worst kind of incompetence. Why, this man Appleweight and his gang of outlaws only come into South Carolina now and then to hide and steal."

As he reached the outskirts of town and rode on toward the governor's mansion, his mood changed, and he laughed softly, for he remembered Ardmore, and Ardmore was beyond question the most amusing person he knew. It was unfortunate, he generously reflected, that Ardmore, rather than himself, had not been plunged into this present undertaking, which was much more in Ardmore's line than his own. There would, however, be a great satisfaction in telling Ardmore of his unexpected visit to Columbia, in exchange for his friend's report of his—

He only regretted that the nature of things Columbia is a modern city, a seat of commerce as well as of government, a place where bank clearings are seriously computed, and where the jaunty adventurer with sword and ruffles is quite likely to be afraid of the police. Yet his own imagination was far more fertile than Ardmore's, and he would have hailed a troop of mail-clad men as joyfully as his friend had met them clanking in the highway. Thus, modern as we think ourselves, the least venturesome among us dream that they may some turn of a street corner will bring him face to face with what we please to call our fate; and this is the manifestation of our last drop of medieval blood. The grimmest seeker after reality looks out of the corner of his eye for the flutter of a white handkerchief from the twisted tower he affects to ignore; and, in spite of himself, he is buoyed by the hope that some day a horn will sound for him over the nearest hill.

Miss Osborne met him at the veranda steps. "Indoors a mandolin and piano struck up the merry chords of 'The Dut-Girl.'"

"My young sisters have company. We'll sit here, if you don't mind."

She led the way to a quiet corner, and after they were seated she was silent a moment, waiting for the light from the windows showed clearly that her perplexity of the morning was not yet at an end. He felt that she was seriously anxious and troubled, and he wished to lighten her if he could. The soft dusk of the faintly-lighted corner told him that he had whispered in his heart a man's first love of the woman he is destined to love, in which he sets her apart; above and beyond all other womenkind—she is different; she is not like other women.

"It is very nice," she said, her voice thrilling through him. "My father should have been here an hour ago. We have heard nothing from him. The newspapers have telephoned repeatedly to know his whereabouts. I have put them off by intimating that he is away on important public business, and that his purpose might be defeated if his exact whereabouts were known."

"I have no doubt in the world that the explanation you gave the newspapers is the truth of the matter. Your father must be absent a great deal of a governor's business."

But we say as well

CHAPTER VI.

Mr. Griswold forsakes the Academic Life.

Miss Osborne had asked Griswold to await the outcome of the day, and, finding himself thus possessed of a vacation, he indulged his antiquarian instincts by exploring Columbia. The late afternoon found him in the lovely cathedral churchyard, where an aged negro, tending the graves of an illustrious family, leaned upon his spade and recited the achievements and virtues of the dead.

As the shadows lengthened, Griswold walked back to the hotel, where he ate supper, then, calling for a horse, he rode through the streets in a mood of more complete alienation than he had ever experienced in a foreign country; yet the very scenes of the summer night, stealing out from old gardens, the voices that reached him from open doorways, spoke of home.

As he reached the outskirts of town and rode on toward the governor's mansion, his mood changed, and he laughed softly, for he remembered Ardmore, and Ardmore was beyond question the most amusing person he knew. It was unfortunate, he generously reflected, that Ardmore, rather than himself, had not been plunged into this present undertaking, which was much more in Ardmore's line than his own. CHAPTER VII.

An Affair at the Statehouse.

Barbara filed the message herself with the manager of the telegraph company, who lifted the green shade from his eyes and smiled upon her.

"We'll rush them, Miss Osborne. Shall I telephone the answers if they come to-night? No; your father likes his telegrams delivered, I remember."

"I will call for them," said Griswold.

"Gov. Osborne was only at home a few hours this evening and he left me in charge of these matters."

The manager's face expressed surprise.

"Oh! I didn't know the governor was at home," he remarked, as he finished counting the words and charging them against the state's account. "I will send them myself, and ask the operators at the other end to look lively about the answers. You are Mr.—"

"This is Maj. Griswold," said Barbara, conferring the title with a vague feeling that it strengthened her cause.

"Major," repeated the manager, and he nodded to Griswold with an air that implied his familiarity with official secrets. "You will call? In a couple of hours, major."

NOTABLE CEREMONY IN SIAM

Presentation by the King of Yellow Robes to Priests of Buddhist Temples.

Once a year, says a writer in the Wide World Magazine, all the Buddhist temples in Siam are visited by the king, or his deputies, bearing the Phra Kathin (yellow robes), in conformity with an ancient custom by which the priests were made to seek their apparel from the king's treasury. During the lifetime of Buddha, monks and priests were sent out to beg for old, cast-off garments, which were afterward dyed yellow and patched together to form the required robes. This ancient mendicant custom gradually came to place in a degraded condition the robes of the king, and making the garments from new cloth of a bright canary yellow, provided by joint contributions of king, princes, nobles and commoners. When the king goes in the royal throne barge down to with a pomp and ceremony. The priestly garments, folded in bundles, are carried to the door of the temple to await the appearance of his majesty and his suite. The king, on arriving, takes a priestly robe and places it in a decorated barge. The chief priest then lays his hands on the garment and chants an acknowledgment.

State News Happenings

POLICE ARE KEPT BUSY.

Girl Stomachs Quilt Walk and Riots and Arrests Follow.

Louisville, Ky.—Several riots, in which the police were twice forced to level their revolvers upon women and children, 10 arrests, including girl strikers, and wild disorder among 100 strikers and sympathizers, attended a walkout of 3,500 stemmers, mostly women and girls at the three plants of the American Tobacco Co. That 4,500 tobacco workers will join the strike now seems inevitable, and a mass-meeting has been called, when the strikers will perfect an organization. Led by Miss Hazel Spaulding, 2,000 striking women have warned about the plants of the company, and all weapons that they had. No demands have yet been made by the strikers, but efforts to effect a settlement have been made by the employers. The strikers will ask a 50 per cent increase in wages, an increase of one cent per pound of piecework. They now receive two cents a pound for stemmers.

MONARCH FOUND DYING.

Was Son of Former Well-known Kentucky Distiller.

Owensboro, Ky.—Daniel Monarch, son of a former well-known distiller of Kentucky, was found dying at his home on South Fredericks street with a bullet hole through his left side. Death came at night. The members of the family heard the report of a pistol in Mr. Monarch's room, and rushing in, found him with a revolver by his side. Monarch is 35 years old and leaves a widow and five young children. He was married to Mrs. Pauline Mettling, one of the most beautiful girls of Owensboro. He is a son of the late M. J. Monarch, who was at one time one of the largest distillers in the country. Daniel Monarch was in the liquor business in Owensboro for a number of years. Until two months ago he was connected with the Illinois Central railroad in Louisville. He had been contemplating going to St. Louis to accept a position. He had a brother, Lamar Monarch, who resides in Cincinnati, and his brother-in-law is D. J. Geary, of Oil City, Pa.

INCREASE MEMBERSHIP.

Knights of Columbus Install Fifty-Five New Members.

Lexington, Ky.—Fifty-five new members were taken into Blue Guard council, No. 762, Knights of Columbus, increasing the membership to more than 300. The initiation was witnessed by many visiting knights from Cincinnati, Louisville, Covington, Newport and other points in Kentucky. The first and second degrees were conferred by Richard Crane, of Cincinnati, and the third degree work was done by a team from Louisville, headed by District Deputy P. H. Callahan. In Jackson hall a banquet was spread for the knights by the ladies of the Altar society of St. Mary's church.

"TRIM IT UP, DOC."

Said Boy to Physician After Left Foot Was Crushed.

Louisville, Ky.—"Say, stop this elevator; you've torn my foot off," was the startling statement made to the boy running the elevator at the Louisville & Nashville office building here by Heron Stanley, aged 15, when his left foot was caught between the elevator and the second floor landing. The boy was game to the core, and when the elevator had been taken to the lower floor he hopped over into the surgeon's office and said without the suggestion of a tremor: "Say, doc, my foot has been mashed off. Won't you trim it up a little?" Dr. George Robertson, the surgeon who attended the boy, said he had the most wonderful nerve of anybody he had ever seen.

Lexington, Ky.—A telegram to relatives here announces the death of Rev. Arthur Brooks, the noted singing evangelist, of diphtheria, at Little Rock, Ark. Rev. Brooks was a graduate of Transylvania college, here, and with his brother, Rev. W. T. Brooks, conducted many great revivals for the Christian church in the south and west. About two years ago he was married to Miss Fite, of Kansas City.

Lancaster, Ky.—Edward H. Walker died at his home in this county after a lingering illness of blood poisoning. Mr. Walker was the eldest of the famous Walker brothers, and was himself a man of national note as a fox hunter. Several times he has been president of the National Fox Hunters' association. He will be buried at Paint Lick, Ky.

Hopkinsville, Ky.—Eugene Poole, mail clerk on the L. & N., was arrested at Nashville by Special Agent C. L. Patterson and brought here, charged with robbing mails. He waived examination and bond was filed at $2,000.

Louisville, Ky.—According to reports from Washington, Robert E. Glover, a wealthy Republican leader of Louisville and Kentucky, is being strongly backed by Senator Bradley to succeed Robert E. Woods as postmaster here.

SELF-DEFENSE WAS PROVED.

McNamee Exonerated and Brother of Victim Shakes Him by the Hand.

Lexington, Ky.—Robert McNamee, who shot and killed Thomas W. McNamara in the home of Blanche Patterson, March 23, was dismissed of the charge of murder at his examining trial before County Judge Scott. The testimony of Blanche Patterson, Emma Morgan and himself, McNamee proved a case of self-defense, and Night Chief of Police William Jenkins testified that McNamara on his deathbed had requested that McNamara be neither arrested or prosecuted for shooting him. McNamara testified that he ran from the house naked after the shooting, sent back for his clothes, dressed, got out on an early morning train for Columbus, O., remained there until after McNamara's funeral and surrendered at the county jail here.

Edward McNamara, brother of the dead man, who was the only member of the family active in the prosecution, walked over to McNamara and grasped him by the hand and said he wanted to shake him, that he bore no ill feeling against him. McNamara also shook hands with the father, mother and uncle of McNamara, as well as the attorney for the defense and friends of the young man.

NO PROMISE OF POSITIONS.

Panama Canal Zone Patronage Is Deferred.

Frankfort, Ky.—M. H. Thatcher, who has been appointed a member of the Panama Canal Commission, returned here from Laramie, where he had been in conference with Senator W. O. Bradley. He made the following statement: "I have not yet secured my bearings. I do not know what patronage attaches to the appointment nor will I undertake to make any promises of positions. The present law provides for the 'Isthmian Canal Commission,' and I have been named as one of its members. The commission is in charge of the canal zone and canal construction. The commission, I take it, acts as a body. I do not know when I will leave for Panama. It may be several weeks yet. I have a number of official and business matters to adjust before leaving and I hope to be given time therefore."

"TEMPORARILY INSANE."

Culley Is Freed on Charge of Slaying Proctor.

Louisville, Ky.—"Not guilty on account of temporary insanity," read the verdict returned by the jury in the case of Robert M. Culley, who was freed. Culley was tried for the murder of W. E. Proctor. The verdict of the jury caused confusion on account of its wording. A big crowd remained about the courthouse until the verdict was brought in. Culley shot Proctor after his wife told of an alleged assault at the hands of the latter.

Lancaster, Ky.—Garrett Wood, a well-known farmer, was killed on his farm near town by a year-old horseless bull. Mr. Wood had gone out to feed his stock when the animal attacked him, butting him down and mauling him with his hoofs.

He was with him and ran to the house for assistance, but he was breathing his last when help reached him. Mr. Wood was 50 years old and leaves a widow and seven children, among whom is Mr. Charles Wood, of the Denhard Concrete Co., of Cincinnati.

Henderson, Ky.—All of the tobacco of the Stenning District association for 1908 has been sold. The association holdings for 1908 was 4,500 hogheads, and a sale by Manager William Elliott and the committee of 2,400 hogheads of strips cleans up all of the 1908 association export tobacco. This sale means the distribution of $500,000 to the growers in the stemming district.

Covington, Ky.—Warrants were sworn out by John E. Riggs, Jr., and John T. Vest for the arrest of W. T. Stephens and I. N. Jackson, of Pine, Ky., who are charged with selling 4,000 pounds of pooled tobacco, and Richard Thomas and Emmet Wilson, of Nicholson, Ky., for selling 8,000 pounds of pooled tobacco.

Covington, Ky.—According to figures compiled by City Auditor Gould a large boom in building and construction work struck this city during the past month. Total contracts granted were as follows: Brick, $58,000; frame, $12,700; remodeling residences, brick and frame, $5,200.

Louisville, Ky.—Louis Doerhoefer is defendant in a suit filed by Mrs. Pearl Devine, in which she asks damages for personal injury in the sum of $10,000. She avers that Doerhoefer "unlawfully assaulted, kicked and beat her upon the head, arms, legs and body with his fists and feet, and that one or more of her ribs was broken."

Glasgow, Ky.—The logs of the old Lincoln cabin, which have been stored in Louisville since the 18th day of May last, were carried to Hodgenville and are being hauled to the Lincoln farm, where they will be placed in the new Memorial Hall and stay until time is no more.

Carlisle, Ky.—While descending stairs at his home at Morning Glory, Henry L. Brinker, aged 85, a leading farmer of Nicholas county, fell, sustaining a broken neck and dying almost instantly.

What Everybody Says

The following is what it is said after the engagement of almost any girl to almost any man:

The Girl Herself—I'd like to see Lillian's face when she reads the society news—if she ever does anything so intellectual as to read! She's always been perfectly crazy about Bob and she'll be utterly furious! She'll try to make people think she could have had him if she'd wanted him, but every one knows how she has chased him for months. I wonder if any one will send Arthur a paper. Poor boy! It will be such a blow to him! If ever a girl was devoted to a girl he was to me. I'll always feel that I've ruined his life. He's one of the constant kind that never gets over such a disappointment. I wish I could decide whether I want a white satin or a crepe meteor wedding dress.

The Man Himself—Yes, they've got my name spelled right, after all. Gee! It's something like reading your own obituary notice, it's so formal! Anyhow, it's nobody's business but ours and I don't see any use of all the foolishness in print! Every idiot I know'll be around to see me to-morrow and tell me how to be happy though married! Well, it will settle McKenzie all right—he won't be sending Edith flowers now in that silly, oh-I've-got-a-chance-yet way of his. I always wanted to kick him. Robert, Roger, Fairburn—yes, that's me, all right. Well, life begins to look real and earnest now. I wonder if Ethel won't kind of think when she reads this that maybe she wasn't so bright after all running off and marrying Smith just because she had quarreled with me. She's had three years of pretty rough sledding with him. Of course it's all for the best so far as I'm concerned, but—I wonder!

Lillian—What! You don't tell me Bob is really engaged to Edith! Well, what do you think of that! It's most remarkable how men do these weird things when they are reduced to desperation, isn't it? Poor Bob! Of course Edith is a very nice girl—so capable and domestic and all that—but, my dear, did you ever see a girl so dowdy, and with little style? I am sure Mrs. Noah did her hair up in precisely that same way in the days of the ark. Bob always did love pretty things—that's one reason he hung around me so much. Some men never notice a new gown or a smart hat, but he always doted on the latest style of Bob, but mercy! I never could fall in love with him! Never! I suppose he realized it at last! Poor Bob!

Arthur—Hello! Edith's going to marry Bob Fairburn! Well, nice little girl, Edith! Seems to me I had a crush on her myself once. She had the biggest brown eyes—that wasn't Edith—it was Mabel. I remember now that Edith's eyes were blue. Or were they hazel? Where in creation did I put that tobacco? Hey—Ferguson! Got any tobacco?

McKenzie (who sent flowers to Edith)—One by one the roses fall! So Edith is going to shake us all for Bob Fairburn! It was worth the forfeits' bills, getting him mad. He seemed to think that every one was in a conspiracy to take his girl away from him. Edith's too quiet for me. But it paid to stand in with the family—her father's tips on the stock market were all right.

Ethel (who married Smith)—Oh, Teddy! Guess who's going to get married now—one of my old beaux! No, not that one—Bobbie Fairburn! Why, of course, I remember him! He took me to that party where I first met you and was crazy mad because you had four dances! I used to think I rather liked him, but that was before you came along! I can't imagine why I ever was so foolish. Goodness! What if I had really married him! I had an awful time working up a quarrel with him so as to let him down easily. I hated to be downright brutal and drop him, so I selected on the first chance for a fight. It was awfully funny, now that I think of it! Well, Bobbie was a nice boy in his own way. I wonder who she is—I never heard of her.

Edith's Relatives (individually and collectively)—Well, I suppose this means another wedding present. It was perfectly idiotic of grandfather to start that custom of always giving the brides in the family solid silver. Something less expensive would do exactly as well. I suppose Edith will expect a huge tray just because her cousin got one from us. Maybe we can strike a sale. Anyhow, she is throwing her away on a nice boy in his own way. I wonder who she is—I never heard of her.

Bob's Relatives—And when he had such a good chance to marry Senator Goldmine's daughter! And her shaky social position and her father and all! Why, he's simply burying himself. Bob always was stubborn. What can he see in Edith? She simply angers him, that's all, and a man is so helpless! Poor Bob!

This country could no doubt be run a great deal better if it wasn't for the constitutional objection an American has to letting anyone run him.

IMPROVED METHOD OF CLEARING AWAY STUMPS

Mississippi Station Solves Problem by System of Boring and Burning Without Excessive Cost.

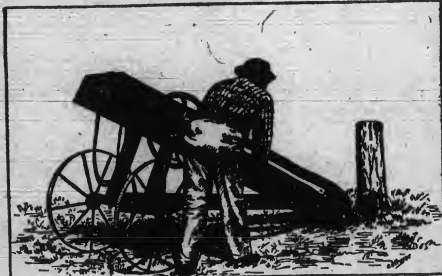

The problem of clearing logged-off land is an important one in various parts of the country, and although much of the farming is done upon land formerly occupied by forests, but little information regarding methods and costs of preparing this land for the plow has been recorded.

Removing the stumps by hand has proven a slow and costly method. It is in the long-run a belt, while it is out of the question for the large stumps of fir and other trees up to five and six feet in diameter predominating in Washington and Oregon, and the principal up-to-date methods are burning, blasting and pulling, or some combination of these.

Burning is considered the best way to remove pine stumps, which have a large amount of turpentine, and this greatly assists in the process, and the one big hindrance in pulling. In regard to burning these stumps, Mr. Ferris of the Mississippi station, says:

The common method . . . is to fasten on a horizontal shaft. This horizontal crank shaft is made of one-inch iron rod bent at one end to form a handle, with a fly wheel fastened on the opposite end. It works through two boxes fastened to the movable frame and slides down the main frame of the auger bore into the stump. The upper end of the machine is elevated about five feet, and stands on two cart wheels, on which it is easily rolled from stump to stump or from field to field by a single individual. This elevation of the frame helps to bring it against the stump. At the extreme upper end of the frame is a small windlass with ropes attached, which is used for pulling the auger out of the stump. This machine was used to aid in clearing 2.5 acres of land which had dig a hole about 12 inches deep with spade or post-hole digger on one side of the stump, as close to it as possible, and to use this as a furnace for firing the stump. In digging these holes it is necessary that the dirt be removed from as much of the surface of the stump as possible, so as to allow the fire to come in direct contact with the side of the stump for at least six inches. An ordinary turpentine dipper on a suitable handle makes one of the best implements for removing this dirt.

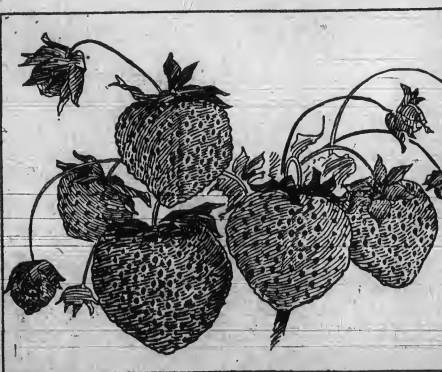

This is a rather slow process, but may be greatly hastened by boring a hole through the stump from the opposite side to the fire hole. For been cut over about seven years before. The sapwood had decayed, but the balance of the stump above ground and all below was sound. On this plot there were 158 stumps that required boring. These averaged 13.6 inches in diameter, and the length of hole bored averaged 19.7 inches, the total cost being less than eight dollars an acre, figuring labor at $1.50 per day.

For burning the large stumps of fir, etc., in the Pacific Northwest, a quicker method is used, which consists of boring two intersecting holes, as shown here, and burning by starting a fire at the intersection with the aid of red-hot coals or a piece of iron heated to a white heat. After the part marked "A" is burned out, the fire is maintained by filling the space with bark and litter. While the method first described generally results in burning the stump low enough to allow of cultivating over it, in the case of pine stumps, the method used on the western trees leaves the larger stringers with their smaller roots to be pulled out by team or puller.

Other methods of burning are to split the stump with a small charge of powder and then kindle a fire in the hole thus made, and charcoaling or pitting. The latter, which consists essentially of keeping a smoldering fire around the base of the stump, is reported to be very economical for large stumps. Mr. Ferris says "removing stumps by this method (boring and burning) has been decidedly cheaper than by any other method tried, and as it requires only a small expenditure for machinery, practically no repair bills, and can be operated by a single individual, it ought to appeal strongly to the farmers of the south."

EXCELLENT JOE STRAWBERRY

The Joe is one of several seedling strawberries introduced by the Joseph H. Black nursery of New Jersey, says Orange Judd Farmer. It has had quite extensive trial and everywhere made a good record. It is a mid-season to late berry, and under favorable conditions grows to the largest size. One berry is recorded as weighing more than two ounces. The plant is large and very vigorous and healthy in growth. The berry is regular in shape and among the most beautiful in general appearance. It is also of high flavor. If you have a heavy, rich soil and will mulch the plants well, you can raise some prize-winning berries from the Joe.

Lamb Knows its Mother.
The ability of the lamb to distinguish its mother's voice, even in a large flock, is quite remarkable. A lamb will go direct to its mother when called, although there are hundreds of lambs and ewes bleating vigorously at the same time. After the lamb is a week or so old it seldom if ever makes a mistake in its mother's voice.

IT WAS HIS FAULT

"I shall never set foot in Blankington's store again," declared Mrs. Wedderburn in such a tone of fierce determination that Wedderburn looked up from his evening paper in surprise.

"I was actually insulted there, Harry," she went on. "I had intended to ask you to start an account at Blankington's, but after the treatment I received there to-day I shall certainly not patronize that firm any more."

"I don't believe we need any more charge accounts," said Wedderburn, easily. "But I'm surprised that you should have met with any discourtesy at Blankington's. What happened, anyway?"

"Well, when I went down town this morning I thought I'd just take a five-dollar bill with me. I knew that would be plenty for the few little purchases I intended making and for Beulah Russell's and my luncheon. I telephoned Beulah to meet me at Blankington's and lunch with me and, do you know, she simply insisted on paying the bill. She said it was her turn, and all that sort of thing, so, of course, I had to let her pay."

"I was kind of glad afterward, for I saw a splendid sale of lingerie blouses for only two dollars apiece, and it was nice to know I had plenty of money in my pocket to buy one and the other things I wanted, too."

"I selected a perfect beauty and I know you'd be awfully pleased with it, because it buttoned in front, Harry. I told the saleswoman to send it and then we looked around at all the other wais and I didn't see any I liked better than mine, and, after quite awhile, I went to the girl who had waited on me and asked her if my change hadn't come yet."

"Change!" she repeated. "There isn't any change. You gave me the right amount—a two-dollar bill."

"I couldn't have done that," I said, "for I didn't have a two-dollar bill with me. I had just one five-dollar bill."

"She called the manager of the department and we both told him of the error. I was careful not to say anything critical about the saleswoman's carelessness, for I know everybody is liable to make mistakes. The manager went down to the cashier and, after I had waited until I was getting tired, he came back and said there had been no five-dollar bill paid into that department for some time before I had bought my waist."

"Then you doubt my word?" I said. "No, madam," he replied, "but it is possible that you paid a two-dollar bill without noticing it."

"How could I?" I asked, "when I had only a five-dollar bill with me?"

"Are you quite sure that you had no two-dollar bill?" he returned.

"Don't you think, Harry, it was impertinent of him to question me in that way? Beulah was incensed at his rudeness, I can tell you."

"I certainly am positive," I replied, "for I remember thinking this morning that I'd take a five-dollar bill for my day's expenses, and as I had but one bill in my purse, that must have been it, for I haven't even seen a two-dollar bill for a long time. And, I went on, very firmly, 'I wish you would refund my three dollars at once!'"

"No, madam, what we can't do, madam," he declared, "but if our cash balance to-night should show that we owe you three dollars we'll send it to you to-morrow."

"To-morrow!" I repeated, scornfully. "In the meantime I am left without a cent of money in my purse and am practically accused of trying to cheat Blankington's out of three dollars, when the shoe is really on the other foot."

"Then I demanded back the money I had spent on the blouse, for I knew after all that I was a sensible woman and my pleasure in it. As I told you at first, Harry, I've decided never to go into that store again."

"Have you looked for the five-dollar bill since you came home?" Wedderburn asked, stretching an arm toward his wife's desk.

"No, why should I, when I know I took it with me this morning?"

Wedderburn did not argue the question, but quietly pulled out the little drawer of the desk. There lay a crisp, green bill.

"Why, I couldn't have taken it out, after all!" exclaimed Mrs. Wedderburn. "But where did I ever get that two-dollar bill? I can't understand it at all."

"This morning I took a look into your purse, my dear, and as it was empty, I put in the two-dollar bill, which was all I happened to have with me."

"Oh, Harry, why didn't you tell me? Just see all the trouble you have made for me! And that was such a beautiful blouse for the money at Blankington's! And now I shall be ashamed to go there and buy it again!"

The Wrong Kind.
"Mayne had a terrible fit yesterday," "Goodness gracious! What caused it?" "Her dressmaker. Who else do you suppose?"

cousin, Geo. W. Griffith, and W. B.
Johnson. He had been attending the Bankers Group meeting at Newport on Thursday and came out here on his way home.
Labor Day was very appropriately celebrated at the Graded School last Thursday with very interesting exercises. Rev.
Edgar Riley, of Burlington, County Supt. of the public schools, was present and made an excellent address. Ten trees were planted on the school grounds by the students.
Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Coleman and little daughter moved last week to Woodlake, Franklin county, where Dr. Coleman has been the property of a prominent physician, who desires to retire from the practice. Dr. and Mrs. Coleman and their little daughter are very lovable people and it was with sincere regret that our people witnessed their departure.
Hon. J. G. Tomlin was called to Indianapolis, last Friday, by the serious illness of his brother, Dr.

Singer Talks

Important Points of Sewing Machine Construction

- Did you ever consider what the thousandth of an inch might mean in the adjustment of the needle-stroke on a sewing machine?
- Or how many little invisible parts there are which may run well for a month or so in a carelessly-made machine, and then by going wrong render it utterly useless?
- For the perfect construction and thorough testing of these vital details you must depend upon the honor and reputation of the maker.
- The makers of the Singer Sewing Machine enjoy a reputation vouched for by millions of Singer users all over the world.
- These millions of Singer users have proved the perfection of the Singer by years of steady sewing.
- The Singer Sewing Machine is built like a watch and runs like one.

About 50 of T. W. Cook's relatives and friends, with well filled baskets, called on him last Sunday to help celebrate his 15th birthday. He was not apprised of their coming until the folks began to arrive, and it was a complete surprise as intended. At dinner time they all adjourned to the school house next door, where a table loaded with all the delicacies of the season was ready. It was an enjoyable occasion, to be long remembered by those who attended.

GASBURG.
Preparations for the usual large crop of melons and sweet potatoes were being made last week. Some report tobacco plants as plentiful in their beds, while others report their prospects for plants as not flattering. There is more old sod land broken on the Burlington and Bellevue pike than the writer remembers of ever seeing in one year. We planted 35 bushels of potatoes during the middle of March, which are mostly up and growing nicely. We have cultivated them once.
Mrs. Elizabeth Bachelor, wife of George Bachelor, died at their residence, near Split Rock, April 18th, in the 65th year of her age. She leaves 7 children, the youngest not yet 3 years old. She was one of the most industrious women the writer ever knew. Her death has cast a gloom over the entire community. The family desire through the Recorder to return thanks to friends and neighbors for their helpful attention during her sickness, and for the floral offerings at the funeral and for Mr. Steele, the undertaker, for the nice and considerate manner in which he conducted every detail of the funeral. They especially desire to thank Drs. Grant and Blackburn for their untiring and heroic efforts to save the life of the deceased.

A very good and much needed rain fell here last Saturday night, which had been preceded by several showers the afternoon before, consequently the ground is now in very fine condition in so far as moisture is concerned.

D. LINN GOOCH
In this issue appears the announcement of Hon. D. Linn Gooch, of Covington, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this district. He has served two terms in Congress, which gives him considerable prestige, and being a hustler and a good mixer he will instill considerable life in the campaign. If returned to Congress he will spare neither time nor labor in the service of his district, and will allow no duty, however small, go unattended.

VERONA.
There is a good opening here for a good physician. Mrs. James Stone is visiting friends at Independence. A. C. Roberts was hanging paper at Walton, last week.
Mrs. Julia Hume, who has been quite sick, is recovering. Mrs. Maud Johnson and Mrs. Lou Plunkett, of Walton, visited friends here last Tuesday.
Mrs. Carrie Collins and mother, Mrs. Emma Fling, of Flingville, were guests at L. J. Hume's, last Tuesday.
The infant of Will Cotton passed away April 14th. The funeral took place at the New Bethel cemetery last Wednesday. Rev. John Roberts preaching the funeral.
Died, near Walton, April 14th, of typhoid pneumonia, Huron, old age, 19 years and 7 months. Dear Huron is no more. His father has taken his flight to Him who gave him the angel above. He was aching with the heart's of all which can never be filled. He bore his suffering with a bravery that was truly wonderful. That loving hands could do was done to prolong his life, but proved unavailing. A brighter spirit never passed from earth to heaven. None knew him but to love him. Weep not fond parents, your darling boy is not dead but liveth beyond the grave. He was too pure and perfect for this world and God, who doeth all things well has taken him from us to enjoy everlasting rest and dwell with the angels above. He was sick ten months and twelve days, and leaves father, mother, two sisters and three brothers to mourn his death.

LIMABURG.
W. C. Delph is selling some nice sweet potatoes for seed. Uncle Albert Beemon is able to be out about his spring work. Clem Kendall seems to be very much interested in beautifying his property.
Jaa. Brown, one of our best citizens, is in a very bad condition, with small hopes of recovery.
H. L. Clure and Honesty Rouse and their good wives and L. S. Beemon, Sunday at W. T. David's.
Geo. Barlow wife and daughter, Miss Edna, and Willie Rouse and family, were guests of H. L. Tanner, Sunday.
Uncle John Utz, one of our oldest and best citizens passed away early last Thursday morning. He had suffered a great deal for a long time and death to him was a boon.
To the surprise of many of their friends Miss Beatie Beemon, accomplished daughter of E. E. Beemon, and Mrs. Ryle, daughter of W. T. Ryle, were quietly married last Thursday at three o'clock at the residence of Rev. J. M. Grant, near Louisville, accompanied by Miss Stella Ryle and Ray Craven, of Constance. They received many handsome and useful presents.

GUNPOWDER.
Mrs. Nancy Northcutt is visiting friends in Grant county. Mrs. Polly Bartlett, of Junction City, visited friends here last week.
Julius Utz, of Livingston county, is visiting friends in this neighborhood.
Harmon Jones and wife entertained several of their friends at dinner Sunday a week.
Miss Hettie Rouse, of Lexington, was the guest of Aunt Jeannette Tanner, last Saturday.
Mrs. J. M. Rouse, who has White Wyandotte eggs for sale. Her chickens are pure bred and are sure prize winners.

W. H. Tanner and wife entertained the following at dinner last Sunday: J. H. Tanner and family and the writer and wife. Mr. J. M. Rouse and wife, of Newport, passed through our burg last Sunday enroute to Union neighborhood to visit his father. This neighborhood was shocked by the sudden death of William R. Tanner, which occurred on Tuesday of last week at the age of 52 years, 1 month and 13 days. Mr. Tanner was an upright, honorable man, and commanded the highest respect of all his neighbors. He married Martha E. Vaughn October 2nd, 1870, with a large family of children, survive to mourn his departure. He united with Hopeful church Dec. 2, 1875, and was a consistent member of that body until he was called to his reward. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. E. R. Wagner, of Cincinnati, at Hopeful church, last Friday. His remains were placed in the vault in the presence of a large assembly of sorrowing friends.
John Rouse Utz died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Wm. Garnett, at Limaburg on the 14th inst. He was born June 29th, 1838, consequently he was 71 years, 9 months and 15 days old. He was a son of David Utz, and was married to Louisa J. Rouse Nov. 25, 1863, who died 16 years ago. To them were born two daughters: Mrs. Henry Quick, of Ludlow, and Mrs. William Garnett, to whom he was very much devoted. He was a consistent member of Hopeful church for 36 years. He was of an unassuming disposition, and of an generous, and possessed many other characteristics which go to constitute an ideal citizen. His departure leaves two daughters, one an indulgent parent, the other a faithful member, and the community a noble citizen. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. E. R. Wagner at the church, last Saturday, at which the remains were buried in the presence of a large concourse of relatives and sorrowing friends.

D. B. Wallace, of Walton, and Dr. J. M. Peddicord, of Burlington, went to Frankfort yesterday, to show the State Board of Equalization the error of its way in increasing fifteen per cent the assessed value of land and town lots to Equalization. County Attorney N. E. Riddell started but from his recent illness sufficient to stand the trip and came back home.
J. M. Conner, of Cincinnati, spent a day last week in Burlington.

FLORENCE.
Mrs. John Doherty, of North Side, Cincinnati, was the pleasant guest of her brother, Joseph Scott, of Union pike, recently. Fred Rich, for 45 years a blacksmith, died at his home in Covington, on the 13th inst. He was an old federal soldier and a member of George H. Thomas Post, of Cincinnati. He was very popular here, and was one of the best mechanics in his business. A good man is gone.
The friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kenney tendered them a surprise dance, recently, it being Mrs. Kenney's birthday. About 100 of the refreshments were served. The light fantastic was gayly tripped until the early morning hours, when all departed, leaving the evening would long be remembered with pleasure.

RICHWOOD.
Gaines Robison is some better. Miss Mabel Hunter is our census taker.
Glad to report Miss Hafer some better.
Mrs. Amanda Carpenter has been quite poorly.
Theodore Carpenter's Ormonde filly is stepping some.
Reports from Miss Maggie Tanner's condition are not favorable. Mrs. Mary Carpenter is spending several days with Perry Dixon, of Devon.
Mrs. Luella Star, of Cincinnati, was the guest of Mrs. A. M. Yealey, last week.
Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Hunter have returned from their Southern home, Jasper, Alabama. Eph Norman and wife, of Texas, spent several days last week with Mrs. Norman's parents, Owen Utz and wife.
Thomas Nead, of Erlanger, has bought the old Nead homestead and remodeled it, and has moved back to Florence. His old friends welcome him.

WALTON.
J. M. Rouse, a prosperous farmer of near friends, spent Sunday here with friends. Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Northcutt spent Sunday with relatives and friends in Kenton county.
A. M. Rouse, who has been in Texas the past several weeks returned home here Sunday.
Misses Beatie Houston and Isabel Tompkins, of Lexington, were Sunday at Sparta with friends.

Chas. L. Griffith and Jno. L. Vest were at Burlington a part of this week attending circuit court. In the case of the Walton and Verona Turnpike Company vs. Jas. Hind.
Harry Percival, the city treasurer of Covington, and assistant cashier of the Commercial Bank and Trust Company of Covington, spent Sunday and Monday here with relatives and friends. He drove out here from the city and his horse became sick and almost died, detaining him a day longer than he expected to remain. Congratulations are being tendered George J. Grubbs and Miss Myrtle Murphy, two of our young people who were married in Cincinnati, March 18th. Mr. Grubbs just announced their nuptials. Mr. Grubbs is the popular comedian artist and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Grubbs. The bride is the pretty and popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Murphy. Mr. and Mrs. Grubbs have a host of friends who extend their best wishes for a long, happy and prosperous life.

FINES.
Imposed Upon Eight Grant County Farmers in Federal Court.
Eight of the most influential men in Grant county, were found guilty in the United States Court in Covington, last Saturday, for alleged violation of the Interstate Commerce law in violation of trade. The parties and their fines are as follows: Rev. John S. Steers, $1,000; Perry Simmons, $1,000; C. W. Carter, $500; H. L. Fred K., and R. L. Conrad, each, $300; John Caldwell, $100. The above named parties were influential in having one W. T. Osborn's tobacco hauled back to his barn after he had delivered it to the railroad agent at Florence, and then to the shipment to a Cincinnati tobacco house. The progress of the case has been watched closely by the Society throughout the State, believing that the proceedings therein would develop the Government's attitude towards that society.
J. C. Hughes, of Richwood, president of the Boone County Board of Control of the Burley Tobacco Society, was in Burlington yesterday on business pertaining to the suits against poolers for selling their tobacco.

CIRCUIT COURT.
The hearing of testimony in the trial of Mrs. Edith McAvoy, charged with the burning of the residence of John Rangler, at Kensington, last September, was held Wednesday. The case continued until about 11 o'clock Thursday, when the Commonwealth rested, and thereupon the defense moved for a peremptory instruction, which motion was argued at length, the motion being based on the claim that the prosecution had failed to prove that the burning of Mr. Rangler's partially completed residence was the result of an incendiary act. The court sustained the motion and instructed the jury to find the defendant not guilty. Each side was contesting every inch of ground as it was gone over, and many were not surprised at the turn the trial took, while others were sanguine that the case would go to the jury, there being a division of opinion as to the result in that event.
Judge Cammack is determined that the processes from his court shall be obeyed, and he has threatened to call the jury three times, during the present term, where parties refused and failed to obey the processes served on them, he has threatened the fines ranging from ten to twenty-five dollars, in each instance a capias being ordered to issue against them, and he threatened them all he can do will be to collect the fine or lodge the party in jail.

The trial of Robert Risk, indicted for stealing a horse belonging to Robert Allen, resulted in the acquittal of the accused, whom the jury showed came into lawful possession of the horse, while the Commonwealth was unable to identify him as the person who was trying to sell the animal to a man in Kenton county. The ownership of the horse taken from Allen was not clearly established by the Commonwealth, Mr. Allen's son, the only son on that point, stating when on the stand the first time that the horse belonged to him, but when he recalled he placed the ownership in his father. O. M. Rogers, of Erlanger, who defended Risk, made a great fight for his client, while Commonwealth's Attorney Winn used every particle of material at his command to convict the accused, but there were too many missing links in the chain of evidence.
The suits of the Burley Tobacco Society brought against parties from Allen was not clearly established by the Commonwealth, Mr. Allen's son, the only son on that point, stating when on the stand the first time that the horse belonged to him, but when he recalled he placed the ownership in his father. O. M. Rogers, of Erlanger, who defended Risk, made a great fight for his client, while Commonwealth's Attorney Winn used every particle of material at his command to convict the accused, but there were too many missing links in the chain of evidence.
The damage suit of Mrs. Edith McAvoy against Wm. J. Carpenter the plaintiff was given judgment for $100, for which he executed his bond, leaving Burlington.

In the suit of the Walton and Verona Turnpike Co. against Jas. Hind, the company recovered a judgment for $50 against Mr. Hind. Graves, colored man, sued J. S. Culum for $370 for labor performed. The jury gave Graves a verdict for $105.

The day after Robert Risk was acquitted of horse stealing, sheriff Hume received a warrant from a Kenton county court for his arrest on a charge of larceny. He has an unusual amount of business has been disposed of at this time of the court, which has somewhat the appearance in that respect of the circuit courts held here forty years ago.

The grand jury was not discharged until yesterday, owing to the inability of Commonwealth's Attorney Winn to be present at court on Monday and Tuesday. It has been a long time since a grand jury has been in season. The grand jury in this county, but the one discharged yesterday appeared to be pretty busy up to Monday evening.

The case of B. B. Allphin and wife against the National Protective Legion is set for trial today. This is an action in which Mr. and Mrs. Allphin are seeking to recover a $5,000 policy on the life of their son, James. The grand jurors were pleased yesterday when they drew their pay and took their final departure for home. Several of them, among them Ben Jarrell, of Petersburg, dislikes the jury much, that he is praying never to be summoned on that jury again. The grand jury returned 34 indictments, about 35 of the defendants therein being indicted for selling pooled tobacco, the fine for which is from one cent to $250. Mr. Jarrell has been many years as many as 34 indictments were returned at a term of circuit court in this county. Governor Gaines acted as court stenographer in several cases during the present term. Court will probably adjourn tomorrow.

Money Without An Owner.

The mandate of the Court of Appeals in the case of Mose Feltner against F. E. Felner, a case which went up from this county, was filed last week in the office of the Circuit Clerk. This recalls one of the most unique cases in Kentucky courts. During the progress of the big Lexington suit of Mrs. Abrelia Marcum against H. H. Hedges and Fult French for the killing of her husband, J. E. Marcum, a number of important witnesses left the State and remained away until after the close of the trial. It is claimed that the defendants paid or promised Mose Feltner one thousand dollars for taking away and keeping away all those witnesses. Neither side would trust the other and it is alleged the money was paid to Felix Feltner to be kept for Mose Feltner until he should have performed his part of the bargain and this money was the basis of the suit alluded to above. Felix Feltner afterwards swore out court that a young man whom he did not know placed in his hands at the hotel, one thousand dollars in currency. He never knew who the man was nor for what purpose the money was given to him, so he put the money in the Winchester bank. After the big damage suit was settled, Mose Feltner filed suit against Felix Feltner for this money. When the case came before Judge Benton he did not decide on the ownership of the money, but stated that the whole transaction was illegal and that the court would not enforce it. The decision of an illegal contract. This decision was affirmed by the higher court and the mandate was filed a few days ago. He meantime we suppose the money is still in the bank.—Winchester Democrat.

No sale of 1909 crop of tobacco pooled with the Burley Tobacco Society has been made as yet, but plans are reported to be pending out of which there may be something to come. Some information on the subject may be given to the public as one result of the meeting of the District Board of the Burley Tobacco Society, which met at Winchester yesterday. It is reported that the officials of the society have fixed the sale price of the pooled tobacco at $18 per hundred pounds, subject to the ratification of the District Board. It is said to be the opinion of many of the Burley Society officials that the American Tobacco Company will find it difficult to buy the pooled crop. It is claimed by some statisticians that the American Company has already purchased two hundred million pounds of burley this season and that it will not need this tobacco, but Burley people it is reported, believe that the purchase made by the American Tobacco Company will not aggregate more than one hundred and fifteen million pounds and that they must have the pooled tobacco.

Oh why, is it that the schools and newspapers are so much on the history? There is an item now under the heading of "Our Presidents" going the rounds of the country press which in part says, "Washington was a farmer." Yes, he was reared on a farm but was a mere boy left it and was a professional Surveyor and Indian Fighter. Then he spent 8 years in the war with England and then he was president of the U. S. Or, in other words, George, of cherry tree fame, spent his childhood on the farm, but gave his later boyhood and manhood to the service of the country, and he was a farmer. The whole fabric is like the schools teaching the children that Columbus discovered America. In the first place, if Columbus discovered America it was 300 years after Erick coasted the country from New Found to middle Carolina and in the next place it was the Columbus saw.—Ex.

As this is the season when most flowers are in bloom it is a good plan to save strong geranium cuttings and force them to bloom during the summer in small pots. While it makes them useless for winter blooming, the tiny plants will be beautiful for the winter foliage. Plant the cuttings in small pots filled with sand. Moisten the sand and set the pots in a shady place. Do not water the plants until they look a little amount, and then look the pots in the ground or a large pan of sand. As soon as the plants are root bound in the pots they will bloom. Do not remove them from the pots. Of course, if the grower wishes sturdy growth for winter plants, the buds should be pinched out and the plants put in larger pots.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Elizabeth Caldwell, mother of Mrs. Captain Alden died in Petersburg at the home of her daughter March 25, 1910, at the age of 74 years, 5 months and 9 days. She was a native of Ireland and gave her life to the service of Jesus. She then became a member of Aurora Baptist church, with which she affiliated until she joined the celestial church in the church triumphant. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. C. V. Brooks and J. H. Pierce in the home. Mrs. Dr. J. M. Grant had charge of the music, using the appropriate hymns, "Some Day the Silver Chords Will Break" and "In Jesus." A banker who was baptized when young Caldwell was about sixty years ago said, "nothing too good can be said of her. She has lived a life of consecration all these years." Her body was laid to rest in the cemetery at Aurora, Ind. The remains of her beautiful life remain to cheer the hearts of her children, grandchildren and friends.

Benjamin Franklin Mirick, was born Jan. 1st, 1838, in Boone county, Ky., was united in marriage to Rhoda Clore, Sept. 29th, 1859. In the union three children were born. He was united in marriage to Huldah Parsons Feb. 11, 1869. To this union eight children were born. He departed this life 3 p. m. April 18th, 1910, aged 72 years, 3 months and 5 days. He leaves to mourn their loss a wife and seven children. He was a true member of the East Bend Baptist church, and a life of a child of God. As a husband and father, he was loving and kind and was loved by all who knew him. The remains were laid to rest in the Bellevue cemetery, April 17th. Services conducted by pastor H. B. Hensley. The bereaved have the sympathy of their many relatives and friends.

Notice of Application for Parole.

The Beckham following in the State seems to have settled up on Hon. Jas. C. McCreary for Governor next year and this support added to his own wide popularity, will make him a most formidable candidate if he can be prevailed upon to re-enter politics in the evening of his well-spent life. Senator McCreary was elected 35 years ago and is now far from 60 years of age, though still in vigorous and well-preserved physical condition and in full possession of his strong mental faculties. Mr. Beckham, whose machine was run over Senator McCreary when he sought an endorsement in strongly suspected of turning to Mr. McCreary as the best available man to head off the boom of his enemy, Ben Johnson, which at one time threatened to sweep everything before it. Whatever may be the motive inspiring Mr. McCreary's political conversion to the movement to get him into the race, the fact is evident that the mere suggestion has met with a hearty endorsement from the people and the press. The Kentucky is very satisfactory to it as a candidate, provided of course that he is not committed to the unDemocratic side issues that have heretofore wrecked the party under Mr. Beckham's unwise leadership. The rich made's primary, the alliance with Republicans disguised as prohibitionists, the failure to enforce the laws and the abuse of Gov. Wilson for using military force to restore peace in riotous districts are all fatalisms that the Democratic party must come together in convention and formally repudiate. If Mr. McCreary stands where he has always stood—for pure and unadorned Democracy, for law and order, for honesty and economy in public administration—he will be rallied to by Democrats all over the State as the Moses to lead the party from the bondage of machine rule out of the wilderness of defeat.—Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

FOR CONGRESS.

Hon. A. B. Rouse, of Burlington, Boone county, is a candidate for Congress in this district, subject to the action of the primary election June 18, 1910.

Hon. D. Linn Gooch, of Covington, is a candidate for Congress, in this district, subject to the action of the Democratic primary election June 18, 1910.

An Important Decision.

(Lawrenceburg Press.)

An important decision was handed down Monday by Judge George E. Downey of the Dearborn circuit court in the suit of the Burley Tobacco society of Kentucky against Harry Gillaspie and two other parties in which that society alleged breach of contract. The complaint of the company was that the defendants had entered into a contract to deliver their crop of 1909 tobacco to it and to take certain shares of stock in the company, and if they failed to do so said defendants were to forfeit in amount equal to 20 per cent of the value of their stock.

Warren N. Hauck, attorney for the defendants, filed a demurrer to the complaint setting up the claim that the contract was illegal, being in restraint of trade and values and contrary to the law of Indiana.

Judge Downey ruled in favor of the defendants, holding that the contract was illegal and in violation of a section of the state law passed in 1907 prohibiting companies or groups of persons from trade to arbitrarily fix prices on produce from doing business.

The effects of this decision is important and wide reaching, inasmuch as the company has been and is doing an extensive business in the river counties of Indiana. It is also a move in the direction that Attorney General Wickerham is said to be making against the same company. The plaintiffs, by their attorneys, Givan & Givan, will probably appeal from Judge Downey's decision to the supreme court of Indiana.

Saved From The Grave.

Given up in hope, after nearly four years of suffering from a severe lung trouble, writes Mrs. M. L. Dix, of Clarksville, Tenn. "Often then, in my chest would be almost unbearable and I could not do any work, but Dr. King's New Discovery has made me feel like a new person. It is the best medicine made for the throat and lungs." Obsolete coughs, asthmal colds, hay fever, lagrippe, asthma, croup, bronchitis and hemorrhages, and whooping cough, yield quickly to this wonderful medicine. Try it, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free. Guaranteed by Bentley's drug store, Erlanger.

A CARD.—Through the medium of the Recorder, we wish to thank one and all for their many acts of kindness shown us before and after our father's death.

Free from Alcohol

Since May, 1906, Ayer's Sarsaparilla has been entirely free from alcohol. If you are in poor health, weak, pale, nervous, ask your doctor about taking this non-alcoholic tonic and alternative. If he has a better medicine, take his. Get the best always. This is our advice.

A sluggish liver means a coated tongue, a bad breath, and constipated bowels. The question is, "What is the best thing to do under such circumstances?" Ask your doctor if this is not a good answer: "Take laxative doses of Ayer's Pills."

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, Death has again invaded our Grange and taken from us our beloved Brother Wilson Conner, therefore be it

Resolved, That in the death of Conner Greenwood Grange has been deprived of a faithful and devoted brother. His relations of a dutiful and affectionate son and brother and the community of a highly respected citizen.

Resolved, That we tender to his bereaved relations our sincere and heartfelt sympathy in their sad affliction and commend them to our divine Master for comfort and consolation.

Resolved, That our charter be draped in mourning and our members wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes; one copy be presented to the Boone County Recorder for publication.

Committee—Oscar Gaines, F. L. Sayre, W. W. Goodrich.

Whereas, The Angel of Death has called to her long home our dear sister, Mary J. Batterson, and whereas, by her death Greenwood Grange loses a faithful and devoted member, one who was always in her place when it was in her power to be there, and who, by her bright disposition and willing service, had endeared herself to all, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we extend to her husband and family our deepest sympathy in their sad bereavement; that a page of our record book be set apart to her memory; that our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days, and that one copy of these resolutions be sent to the family and one to the Boone County Recorder.

Committee—Mabel G. Sayre, Fanny Tanner Francis Clayton.

One of the twins born to Frank Mullens and wife last Sunday night was buried yesterday—the boy.

Don't fail to attend the entertainment at Library Hall next Friday and Saturday nights. It will be good.

Two enumerators are claiming the appointment to take the census in this voting precinct, while there is a confusion among the enumerators in regard to other territory.

Local Happenings.

Two colored converts were baptized into the First Baptist church of Burlington, last Sunday.

R. B. Huey, of Commissary, was a member of the U. S. grand jury in session in Covington, last week.

Miss Edith Lancaster and brother, of Mt. Washington, Ohio, were pleasant Monday callers at this office.

The entertainment at Library Hall next Friday and Saturday will be as good as any of those of the past.

Walter Adams and son, Wayne, of Ohio county, Indiana, were guests of his mother, Mrs. Alice Adams and family, last Saturday and Sunday.

There has not been much doing in this county fiscal business in the past few weeks.

Rev. S. J. Bradley will begin a series of meetings at the Petersburg Methodist church today. He will be assisted by Rev. W. K. McClure, of Worthville, Ky.

Very little of the wool clip in this county will be unpooled, if present indications are reliable. The pooled wool will be handled with very little expense to the growers.

Ed. Sandford, of Bellevue, went to Dayton, last Sunday, to fill the position of catcher and pitcher for a base ball team at that place.

The telephone saves the sheriff many a long ride when the grand jury is in session, and probably lands many witnesses that otherwise he would not be able to execute a summons on.

The Burlington and Bellevue school ball teams played at Bellevue, last Saturday, score 24 to 20 in favor of Burlington. The same teams will play at Burlington next Saturday at 12:30 p. m.

Mrs. John M. Bots, of Petersburg, was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Dudley Blyth, last Friday. Her son, Carl, who had been the guest of his sister several days returned home with her.

The rain the past week insures a large crop of tobacco plants in so far as the weather conditions are concerned, and the outlook for another large crop of tobacco in this county is certainly good.

State Senator R. B. Brown, of Warsaw, Gallatin county, attended the Boone circuit court a few days last week. The Senator has a large number of friends in Boone who are always glad to have him among them.

Jack Eddins, of the Consolidated Telephone Company, spent several days last week at Walton, assisting in the construction of a line from Walton to Verona. Ten wires are being put up, which will enable the company to handle a large volume of business between the two points.

Capt. W. H. Fenton, of Ft. Thomas, came out on Wednesday last week to spend several days with his daughter, Mrs. Edgar Berkshire, who resides two miles west of Burlington. Captain Fenton was for many years a pilot on the Ohio river boats, staying at the wheel as long as he was physically able to fill his position.

There have been no bad roads to amount to anything this spring, in this county. Taken as a whole the public roads have been improved considerably in the last five or six years, owing to the fact that the county judge has been reappointing or re-electing the best drivers and letting the others drop out and hunting men who will make good to fill their places.

BASE BALL.
A liberal contribution has been made by the local fans and friends of the Burlington base ball aggregation for the maintenance of a good team this season, and the indications are Burlington will have a fast line-up for 1910.

SENDING OUT NOTICES.
County Judge Casoff has mailed to the newly appointed overseers of roads a postal notice as to their qualifying, and has had the road order made at the last term of the fiscal court printed for their use.

BLOOD POISON.
Earl Smith, center fielder and heavy batter of the Burlington base ball team, has been suffering from blood poison the past week in one of his hands, the result of sticking a thorn in the flesh several days ago.

STOCKHOLDERS MEETING.
There will be a stockholders meeting of the Bullittville and Dry Creek Turnpike Road Company, Monday, May 2nd, 1910, at the residence of Mrs. Belle Choe, near Hebron, Ky., to elect a president and five directors of said company to serve the ensuing year. C. T. Davis, Secretary.

D. B. Wallace, cashier of the State Bank and Trust Co., at Walton, was called to Burlington, one day last week, to testify before the grand jury regarding the charge of forgery made against Tifford Miller, for whom Mr. Wallace cashed a check for $3 to which Miller had forged the name of a Mr. Bowles. Mr. Wallace being an ex-editor he found the Recorder office the most congenial spot in the town, and here he spent most of his time to the delight of the entire office force.

A disatch from Lexington under date of the 14th inst, says:

The District Board of the Burley Tobacco Society just before adjournment, Wedn. today, and while the question of this year's pool was being discussed, inaugurated a 1910 pool. President Leboe seized the pledge, and in an impassioned speech called upon all members of the board to sign, pooling their tobacco this year. Every man in the assembly signed the pledge and two thousand acres was signed up in a few minutes. Resolutions to instruct county boards of control in sixty counties to call meetings on or before Saturday April 25, to start a pooling campaign were adopted. County Boards were also authorized to employ solicitors to push the work of pooling.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Horace Hewitt, the Aurora sewing machine man and all-round good fellow, had an experience one day last week out on the Gunpowder hills in the neighborhood of James Mitchell's, that he does not care to repeat and take the chance of escaping injury of a serious or probably fatal character. He was coming down one of those short but steep hills that abound in the public roads in the Mitchell neighborhood, when the front axle on his machine wagon broke, throwing him forward under his horse's heels, and at the same time cooping him with the wagon top in a manner that he could not possibly have extricated himself had the horse been frightened. Fortunately the wagon did not run up against the horse and the animal stood perfectly still until Mr. Hewitt extricated himself from his uncomfortable and perilous condition. He managed to get his wagon to a Burlington blacksmith shop for repairs, and the next day he went on his way rejoicing.

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Grantville, Va.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength.
I never forgot to tell my friends what
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my private public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY,
B.F.D., Grantville, Va.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weakness, fibroid tumors, irregularities, bleeding, bearing-down, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequaled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life.
It costs but a little to try Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

Britain's Rulers.
Mr. Lloyd George is pleasantly proud of his nationality, but it is amazing that he had to go back to Queen Elizabeth and the Tudors to find his historical precedence for Welsh government of Great Britain. On the other hand, England has often been ruled by Scotsmen. Of the last three premiers, two—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and Mr. Balfour—were Scots. Mr. Gladstone sat for a Scottish constituency, and so does Mr.
Asquith. Ireland has always been busy supplying us with governing men.

"Can a real admiral go to the Reason for Envy.

The stingy man had come home and had objected when his wife attempted to kiss him.
"I've just had a tooth pulled," he explained.
"Well, I envy the dentist," his wife replied.
"You envy the dentist? What do you mean?"
"Oh, nothing much," the wife sighed.
"Only he's the first person I've ever heard of who succeeded in getting anything out of you."—Woman's National Daily.

The President's Speech.
The president of the Hewitt Bros.
Soap Company, Dayton, Ohio, says:
"Buy two cakes of Easy Task soap for ten cents; use one bar and if it isn't just what we say it is, you get your dime back in a jiffy." It is a strong claim to say that Easy Task soap does the work of weekly soap, but the fact can be proven by the evidence of thousands of delighted women.

Algy Explains.
"What do you suppose, Algeron," the young fellow asked, "is the reason the ocean is salty?"
"I am sure I don't know," drawled Algy, "unless it is because there are so many salt fish in it."—Success.

WASTED A FORTUNE ON SKIN TROUBLE

"I began to have an itching over my whole body about seven years ago and this settled in my limb, from the knee to the toes. I went to see a great many physicians, a matter which cost me a fortune, and after I noticed that I did not get any relief that way, I went for three years to the hospital. But they were unable to help me there. I used all the medicines that I could see but became worse and worse. I had an inflammation which made me almost crazy with pain. When I showed my foot to my friends they would 'get really frightened. I did not know what to do. I was so sick and had become so nervous that I positively lost all hope.

"I had seen the advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies a great many times, but could not make up my mind to buy them, for I had already used so many medicines. Finally I did decide to use the Cuticura Remedies and I told you that I was never so pleased as when I noticed that, after having used two sets of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Pills, the entire inflammation had gone. I was completely cured. I should be only too glad if people with similar disease would come to me and find out the truth. I would only recommend them to use Cuticura. Mrs. Bertha Sachs, 1621 Second Ave., New York, N. Y., Aug. 20, 1909."

"Mrs. Bertha Sachs is my sister-in-law and I know well how she suffered and how she was cured by Cuticura. Results after many other treatments failed. Morris Sachs, 321 E. 89th St., New York, N. Y., Secretary of Deutsch-Ostrower Unt-Vereln, Kemp-ner Hebrew Benevolent Society, etc."

(WELL, WHY NOT?)

Hopeless.
"Your store is no good, sir! I asked for lace curtains last week, and I couldn't get 'em."
"Indeed?"
"Yes, and I asked for silk socks yesterday, and I couldn't get 'em."
"That's strange."
"And today I asked for credit, and can't even get that. Is this a regular store, or what?"

There is more Castor in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a fatal disease and prevented local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable.
Science has proven Castor to be a constitutional diseased, and doctors require constitutional treatment.
Harris' Castor Cure, manufactured by F. J. Chesney
Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on

UNCLE JOE CANNON

HE ALSO SPEAKS WELL OF CAN-ADA.

No matter what may be the opinion of Mr. Joseph Cannon, no matter if he may be looked upon by some as a czar, and by others as a big warm-hearted man, with many of the insights that make humanity very bearable, all will admit that he is a man who has been advertised more than any other man in the United States.
What he may have to say therefore on any subject, will have weight. Observant, he speaks now, and freely.
He was interviewed the other day by the correspondent of a Canadian newspaper. He spoke of his admiration for Canada, and he is quoted in a way that pictures fairly well the personality of the man. The correspondent says he launched out into personal literature, proverbial philosophy, political comment, cynical sarcasm, broad prophetic and sentimental poetry such as one rarely hears in the space of an hour. He said that the tariff was a tariff, and then said: "People say I break the Ten Commandments, all of them. But I don't, at least not often.
I did break one of them up in Canada two or three years ago. As I rode from Winnipeg to the Rockies over your great West and saw the great wheatfields in the world, I thought of Virginia and a lot of our States, and I smashed the Tenth Commandment every hour of the journey. Yes, sir, I coveted my neighbor's land." Coming from a man of the fame of Mr.
Cannon, the statement that he could have some weight with the Americans who may still have doubts of the advantages that are offered to them in Western Canada. A home amongst the wheatfields. Hundreds of thousands of Americans are adopting it.
They go to Central Canada, to the one of the three Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, or to the Coast Province of British Columbia, take up their homestead of 160 acres, and probably pre-empt another 160 acres, or it may be they do not care for homesteading twenty or thirty miles from an existing town, and purchase a farm. Then they settle upon it and, having no clearing away of timber they begin at once to cultivate it, and make money. That they make money and much more than they could possibly make on the high-priced farms they have left, is the evidence of hundreds of thousands.
They do not leave civilized life, they but remove from one sphere to another. They have splendid social conditions, churches, schools, rural telephones, splendid roads, railways, conveniences of every kind. They are left left, and what is more, they get much greater returns from their crops, which give abundant yield. The climate is perfect, and it is no wonder that most flattering reports are sent back to their friends in the States, and it is no wonder that Joe Cannon was tempted to speak as he did. He "coveted" his neighbor's land.

Hopeless.

NOT VERY REASSURING.

DELAY IS DANGEROUS.

When the kidneys are sick, the whole body is weakened. Aches and pains and urinary ills come, and there is danger of diabetes and fatal Bright's disease.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and impart strength to the whole system.

Mrs. M. A. Jenkins,
Quannah, Texas, says:
"I was so badly run down that the doctors told me there was no hope. I was so low my relatives were called in to see me before I died. Different parts of my body were badly swollen and I was told I had dropsy.
Doan's Kidney Pills saved my life, and made it worth living."

Remember the name—Doan's. For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box.

A Small Leaf.

A half-famished fellow in the southern states tells of a baker (whose loaves had been growing "small by degrees and beautifully less") who, when going his rounds to serve his customers, stopped at the door of one and knocked, when the lady within exclaimed: "Who's there?" and was answered: "The baker." "What do you want?" "To leave your bread."
"Well, you needn't make such a fuss about it; put it through the keyhole."

Or Else Burn.

Andrew Carnegie, apropos of his epigram about the disgrace of dying rich, said at a dinner in Washington:
"Why should any one die rich?
There are no pockets in a shroud, and as for the man who'd like to take his money with him, why, even if he managed to do so, it would only melt."

Hopeless.

WALTON.

Robert G. Knox of Lagrange, was here Saturday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Clem Brannage, of Banklick, were visitors here last Friday.

A. J. Stone and Wm. Sturgeon of near Verona spent Saturday here on business.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Tompkins spent Friday at Ghent with relatives and friends.

J. A. Fennell, a prominent citizen of near Morning View, spent Saturday here with friends.

Wm. B. Grubbs, a prominent and popular citizen of Glencoe, was a visitor here a part of last week.

Hon. J. G. Tomlin attended the funeral of his departed friend John S. Matson at Highland last Friday.

E. W. Records, the popular cashier of the Deposit Bank at Sparta, spent Sunday here with his grandmother, Mrs. Jane Johnson.

A. D. Cock, a prominent citizen of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, was here last week and bought two nice horses from C. Scott Chambers.

Mrs. Kate Sanders and Mrs. J. G. Slater and little daughter Nell, spent the past several days in Covington, guests of W. A. Fishback and family.

Mrs. Sallie J. Percival, one of our highly esteemed ladies, who has been quite ill at her home near Walton, is much better with every indication of speedy recovery.

Rev. Poston, of Winchester, O., will hold service at the Wagon Christian church next Sunday.

April 24th, preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:15 o'clock p. m., to which all are cordially invited.

Mrs. Sidney Hume returned home last week from a delightful visit of six weeks to her daughter Mrs. L. B. Bannister and husband at Indianapolis, and her many friends welcome her return home.

Dr. J. O. A. Vaught, of Frankfort, presiding elder of the M. E. church south of this district, was here Monday enroute to Warsaw to deliver an address before the Epworth League of the district in convention there this week.

Thos. Dugdon, who was brought here a couple of weeks ago from Covington, to the home of his mother Mrs. Nancy J. Curley, is very low with paralysis, and his death is expected daily as he is unable to care for himself in any way.

W. Lee Gaines has exchanged his residence property in Walton for that of Mrs. Anna Hind, the transfer to be made in a short time.

Mr. Gaines' property was not large enough for his family, and he gets very valuable property in exchange by giving an additional cash consideration.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Northcutt enjoyed the pleasure of a visit to Cincinnati last Friday. Their daughter Miss Mayme Northcutt is visiting her aunt Mrs. Kriley at Jacksonville, Florida, writes that she is having a most delightful time and enjoying the charming weather of that city.

Mrs. Ben Stallard, of Columbus, Ohio, who has been here enjoying the pleasure of a visit to her parents Mr. and Mrs. F. Curley, has returned home. Her sister Miss Gertrude Curley accompanied her for a visit of a couple of weeks.

Leslie Carlisle and Hittie, a daughter of near Demosville, Kenton county, was a visitor here a part of last week. His brother Harley Carlisle, whose mind recently became impaired, was taken to the Lakeside asylum last Thursday for treatment. He is a son of Logan Carlisle, a prominent farmer of Kenton county, and a brother of Hon. John G. Carlisle of New York City.

Huron Stephenson, aged 19 years, who has been a sufferer from consumption for the past year, died Thursday, April 14th, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. W. Stephenson. He was a young man well liked by a large circle of friends, and was a member of the Baptist church, where the funeral took place Saturday afternoon, the remains being interred in the cemetery at that place.

Saturday was the opening day at Smith's drug store for the Soda Water season. The store is trimmed in red and white and with many red and white carnations looks inviting and beautiful.

The day was somewhat rainy for the occasion, however, the usual nice crowd came in during the day and in the afternoon and evening the young people were nicely cared for by the courteous and efficient assistants.

Charles C. Jones, who is a student in the Ohio-Miami College, Cincinnati, in the examination of twenty-one applicants for the position of interne in the city Hospital, had the honor to be at the head of the list, passing the best examination. It shows not only that Dr. Jones is a very intelligent young man, but that he is a student and has employed his time usefully toward winning merit in his profession. He is a resident of Walton, born and reared here, and is a nephew of Dr. A. N. Jones and Robt. W. Jones of Walton.

The Union League of the Christian Endeavor will hold its regular meeting at the Walton M. E. church, Tuesday evening, April 18th, at 7:30 o'clock, when the following program will be rendered:

The chances we miss," Gal. 6:10—Leader Wilnot Kinsler.

Pathfinders were composed of W. A. Krohn, Lee J. Suits, Joe W. Gardham, D. H. Lewis, E. L. Ferguson. The members of the Cincinnati Auto Club with the party were Dr. C. L. Bonfield, Frank Miller and Dr. Chas. who went with the Pathfinders as far as Lexington, returning home next day.

George W. Lipscomb, one of the pioneers of this section, died at his home near Walton last Wednesday night from old age, he being in his 84th year. Mr. Lipscomb has been an invalid the past several years and his death was expected. He was born in Kenton county, Sept. 8th, 1826, and became a resident of this locality many years ago, and was identified with all of the best interests of this community. His wife died about 13 years ago. Five children survive; C. E. Lipscomb, Robert E. Lipscomb and Miss Emma Lipscomb of Walton neighborhood, Geo. A. Lipscomb of Kenton county, and Mrs. Carrie W. Smith of Covington. Mr. Lipscomb was a charter member of Walton Odd-Fellows' Lodge, and had been a member for nearly sixty years. He was an excellent citizen in every respect, and was esteemed for his many good qualities by a large circle of friends. He was a member of the Baptist church and his funeral took place at the Walton Baptist church, Sunday morning, the services being conducted by Rev. John B. Roberts of the Methodist church, assisted by Rev. H. C. Wayman of the Baptist church. There was a very large attendance of friends who came to attest their friendship for the bereaved family and in respect to the memory of a good citizen. The interment took place in the family cemetery in Kenton county near Independence.

John S. Matson, a prominent and wealthy citizen, who resided near Richmond, died at Atlanta, Ga., Wednesday, April 14th, after a brief illness from pneumonia. Mr. Matson spent his winters in the south and last fall he went to Atlanta, Georgia, where he was laid up. A nice residence. His recent illness began a severe cold and it developed into pneumonia and his advanced years militated against his recovery and he passed to his eternal home surrounded by his little family of wife and three children. Mr. Matson was born near Union, this county, and was in his 72d year when the final summons came. He was married to Miss Elizabeth Dickey, a daughter of Fielding Dickey, near Lexington, and his advanced years were survived by a devoted husband and two children. Mr. Matson, just entering into young manhood and womanhood. Mr. Matson amassed a fortune in being made by a coupe in 1887, when tobacco reached the lowest point in price and he sold to the trade, it required the strongest of nerve to face the severe strain of that hazardous period, but he was equal to the emergency and reached a most prosperous state; but the strain left its effect on his health and he never fully recovered. Like a sensible man that he was, Mr. Matson retired from the strenuous life in the business circle and enjoyed the fruits of his possessions in living in a quiet and unostentatious manner, and thus prolonging his life.

He was universally admired for his kindly manner and excellent qualities of good citizenship. The many years ago, and was identified with all of the best interests of this community. Like a sensible man that he was, Mr. Matson retired from the strenuous life in the business circle and enjoyed the fruits of his possessions in living in a quiet and unostentatious manner, and thus prolonging his life.

He was universally admired for his kindly manner and excellent qualities of good citizenship. The many years ago, and was identified with all of the best interests of this community. His wife died about 13 years ago. Five children survive; C. E. Lipscomb, Robert E. Lipscomb and Miss Emma Lipscomb of Walton neighborhood, Geo. A. Lipscomb of Kenton county, and Mrs. Carrie W. Smith of Covington. Mr. Lipscomb was a charter member of Walton Odd-Fellows' Lodge, and had been a member for nearly sixty years. He was an excellent citizen in every respect, and was esteemed for his many good qualities by a large circle of friends. He was a member of the Baptist church and his funeral took place at the Walton Baptist church, Sunday morning, the services being conducted by Rev. John B. Roberts of the Methodist church, assisted by Rev. H. C. Wayman of the Baptist church. There was a very large attendance of friends who came to attest their friendship for the bereaved family and in respect to the memory of a good citizen. The interment took place in the family cemetery in Kenton county near Independence.

WHAT THE PENDELTONIAN HAS TO SAY.

The expected entry of Hon. D. L. Gooch, a candidate for Congress in this district is formally made in the Pendletonian today. Mr. Gooch has the honor of distinction of having already served two terms in Congress as the chosen representative of the good people of the grand old sixth, and the record he made while in office is well known to all who have just cause to be proud. He was a Congressman "on to his job" at all times, and was ever faithful and efficient in the discharge of his duties.

His measure affecting the interests and welfare of his constituents. In addition to his earnest and effective labors in the House, he was also a careful legislator in national affairs and at times directed his efforts in behalf of the great common people.

His record in this contest, just as he has with other contests, is one of earnestness, hope and expectation of winning the coveted leadership in this contest.

Mr. Gooch is recognized by all who know him, whether friend or foe, as a man of high character, when the committee calling the last Congressional primary, before which he was a candidate, adopted a resolution to elect him.

Mr. Gooch is a resident of Covington, but is known all over the district, and has a number of years of long-standing in each of the eight counties. He is a broad-gauged, big hearted, liberal-minded gentleman, the architect of his own fortune, in the true sense a self-made man. He was left an orphan at the age of 15, when he began his successful life in a most humble way. He is a man of indomitable energy, keen business insight and prudence of character, with a liberality and generosity that have paved the way for a successful career both in politics and business.

As a Democrat he has ever stood firm and loyal, meeting defeat with a generous and without any kicking over the traces, always rallying to the support of the nominee.

Mr. Gooch's announcement is made subject to the Democratic primary election to be held June 18th next.

THE ENTERTAINMENT.

Enjoyed By An Appreciative Audience—Was a Success in Everyway.

The weather last Friday and Saturday nights reduced very materially the attendance at the entertainment at Library Hall, although on Saturday night the crowd was about as large as the capacity of the Hall can accommodate. Friday night The Corner Store and Thirty Minutes for Re-freshments were given to a small but very appreciative audience.

The characters in each piece being presented in a masterly manner. Saturday night's program was very lengthy but a well pleased audience was satisfied to stay until the curtain went down for the last time.

The Corner Store, the leading play, is a drama in the performance of which every actor acting can be done, and those to whom the several characters were assigned had their lines well coming, cordial and easy.

Feeling points of the play in a very forcible manner, while the humorous situations were taken from the play and acted in this play. Eli Wheeler, the old man, had a splendid representative in A. B. Kenaker, who brought out the character and eccentricities in a most natural and easy manner, while his wife, Mrs. A. B. Kenaker, made an admirable Mrs. Bud, under any and all circumstances. Dora; Eli Wheeler's niece, was a very trying character, but was well taken care of by Miss Laura Porter, who despite all the false reports and ugly circumstances that surrounded Bud, never faltered in her devotion to him.

TUBERCULOSIS.

Cause of This Disease—How It May Be Treated and Cured.

The National Association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis designated Sunday, April 24, as Tuberculosis Sunday, and asked the ministers of America to speak on that subject. In some places, notably Cleveland, Ohio, the ministers rebelled. Here are some facts gleaned from the literature sent to each minister:

200,000 persons die annually in the United States from tuberculosis. One-tenth to one-seventh of all deaths are due to this disease. White Plague and one-third of those who die before the age of eighteen and forty-five are its victims.

Tuberculosis is a disease caused by the growth in the body of the tubercle bacillus or germ. The germ is a vegetable parasite, rod shaped, approximately 1-1000 of an inch long and 1-10000 of an inch wide, discovered by Robert Koch of Berlin in 1882. The daily expectation of a consumptive may contain millions of germs.

The germs of special destruction tissues and produce poisons or toxins which cause the well-known symptoms of the disease. The common form of tuberculosis is tuberculosis of the lungs or consumption, but it may occur in any part of the body and especially in the glands of the body.

The predisposing causes of this disease are:—In the person, weakened physical condition, all conditions of the body, pleurisy, typhoid, grippe, pneumonia, measles, etc. 2d In the environment, bad living and working conditions, crowded and impure air, darkness, dirt and dust.

Tuberculosis is acquired, not inherited. The commonest method of infection is by inhalation. Driven germs from sputum of consumptives float in the air and are breathed into the lungs. Hence the necessity of destroying all sputum by special methods.

Tuberculosis may also be acquired by ingestion, i. e. by swallowing the germs in infected milk and food and more rarely by inoculation through cuts and wounds.

The commonest early symptoms are cough, loss of weight, afternoon temperature, night sweats, spitting of blood or streaks of blood in sputum, and general weakness.

How the disease may be treated and cured:—1. The essentials in the cure of this disease are light, fresh air, cleanliness, rest and wholesome food.

2. The early discovery of the disease is necessary for the cure. The earliest treatment is considered the best.

3. The disease may be treated at home if the patient can be kept in a place of fresh air under the direction of a physician.

Tuberculosis may be prevented by teaching the consumptive to destroy his sputum, by teaching people not to sleep, live or work in dark or badly ventilated rooms, by teaching the general public the nature of the disease—that it is communicable, preventable and curable, by educating people to keep their bodies in normal physical condition so as to enable them to resist the germ, by advocating fresh air, outdoor life, sunshine, rest, no overwork, wholesome food, temperate habits.

An organized movement in all parts of the United States which has for its object:—1. The education of all the people with regard to the facts.

2. The establishment on an adequate scale of hospitals for advanced and incurable cases, dispensaries for early diagnosis and advice; Sanatoria for treatment of curable cases.

3. The securing of proper state and municipal legislation.

How you can help:—By instructing pupils as to nature, prevention and cure of tuberculosis; teaching children simple rules of health, how to breathe deeply, etc.; keeping the class room well ventilated.

By keeping the home clean and well ventilated; teaching children to sleep with windows open to eat proper and nourishing food to observe the laws of health.

By keeping clean; by not putting anything in your mouths, except food; by staying as much as possible in the fresh air and sunshine; by eating only wholesome and nourishing food.

Freezing weather on Saturday night killed the buds on the grape vines and nearly all the fruit, and played havoc with much of the garden stuff. Grape vines look as if they had been scorched by fire. Strawberries have a sickly appearance and the leaves on some of the trees have been killed. On account of a warm March and the work which has been done, the work will have to be done over again.—Georgetown Times.

Miss Charlotte Hall, who is employed by the City of Georgetown, was here last Sunday, and Mrs. F. A. Hall.

Dr. Nunnally and Cave Clure, of Buellsville, were in Burlington, yesterday.

THE FERNBANK DAM.

Something About the Work That Is to Put a Lake Twenty-three Miles Long in Front of Cincinnati.

Unless the Ohio river gets on the rampage after the first day of June the Fernbank dam will be completed long before the time set for the big river to be given in commemoration of the completion of this gigantic work and as an adjunct to the Ohio Valley exposition.

The work on this dam was begun in 1890, and has been pushed as rapidly as conditions would permit. According to the contract the dam was to be completed in 350 working days, no work to be done between December 1 and June 1, because of the unfavorable conditions existing during that period. To carry on this work the sum of $1,500,000 was appropriated by Congress; and so far has it progressed that it is estimated that it will not take more than 100 days of actual working time to complete every detail of the scheme.

With its completion Cincinnati will have a continuous navigation on its river front for a distance of twenty-three miles, the dam establishing an inland lake (the Fernbank reservoir) ten miles long, 100 feet wide at its lowest point, while at the dam, under these conditions, there will be a depth of about twenty-five feet. The building of the Fernbank dam is part of the great scheme launched some years ago to establish a nine-foot stage in the Ohio river the year round, thus assuring to that water highway continuous commerce, where now there is frequent interruption during the summer and fall months because of the low stage of the river.

Of the dams constructed or under construction the Fernbank dam is by far the largest—in fact, it has the distinction of being the largest movable dam in the world. The nearest approach to it being Dam No. 2, just below Pittsburgh, which is not as wide by 300 feet as the Fernbank dam, the flow of water has a navigable width of 900 feet, with the dam trap dams on the Kentucky side, each 80 feet wide, to regulate the flow of water to the dam proper and into the lock on the Ohio side. This lock, which will be used for the passage of boats and barges during the time of low water, is 225 feet wide and 600 feet long, with approaches of about 600 feet at both the upper and lower entrances.

The total length of approximately 1,800 feet and a depth sufficient to easily handle the most heavily laden vessels, the dam will be able to allow of navigation under ordinary conditions the dam is lowered to practically the bottom of the river, lying flat on a surface prepared for it and lowered by the aid of compressed air and easily handled supports. When the stage of the river is low, necessitating the forming of the lock, the dam is raised in sections, each 16 feet, 11 inches in length and 3 feet 3 inches in width. It requires 22 of these wickets to make up the dam between its two extremes. These wickets form a continuous wall, arranged at an angle, and supported on the lower side by movable braces which slip into place when the wickets are raised, or lie flat on the bottom of the specially built concrete river bed when the wickets are lowered. It is expected that the work on the dam will be entirely completed before the opening of the exposition, so that visitors may see how the dam operates and get an excellent idea of how the millions of dollars that have been appropriated for river improvements are being spent.

"The Democrats are nearer to electing a President of the United States than they have been since 1892," says Governor Claude A. Swan of Virginia, who recently completed a tour that extended to the Pacific coast. "Not in years have the Democrats shown so much activity, so much desire to shake off the yoke of the Republican party, and to get together as is manifested in all sections of the country at this time. SYNOPSIS.

Thomas Ardmore, bored millionaire, and Jerry Maine Griswold, professor in the University of Virginia, take trains out of Atlanta, Georgia, to the college. Ardmore, in pursuit of a girl who had eloped with the daughter of Gov. Osborne of South Carolina, Griswold's life is threatened. He goes to Columbia to warn the governor and meet Barbara Osborne. Ardmore learns that his winking lady is the daughter of Gov. Osborne of North Carolina. His followers bring him to Raleigh, where the winking lady is the daughter of Gov. Osborne. Griswold, in Raleigh, is discovered by the winking lady. He is threatened. Dangers ensue. Griswold, a criminal, is allowed to go free. Ardmore becomes allied with Jerry Danglefield in running the affairs of the state. The absence of the governor, scattering the legislature, is used to Gov. Osborne. Griswold becomes adviser to Barbara Osborne, who is attending to her father's duties in South Carolina. Orders are sent to the winking lady. Griswold's valuable papers are missing from Gov. Osborne's office.

CHAPTER VII.—Continued.

"But you forget that you represent Mr. Osborne. On the other hand I represent Gov. Osborne, and if I want the Applegate papers I have every right to them."

"After office hours, feloniously and with criminal intent," laughed Griswold.

"We will assume that I have them," sneered Bosworth, "and such being the case I will return them only to the governor."

"Then," and Griswold's smile broadened—"if it comes to concessions, I will grant that you are within your rights in wishing to place them in the governor's own hands. The governor of South Carolina is now, so to speak, in camera."

"The governor is hiding. He's afraid to come to Columbia, and the whole state knows it."

"The papers, my friend; and I will satisfy you that the governor of South Carolina is under this roof and transacting business."

"Here in the statehouse!" demanded Griswold, and he blanched and twisted the buttons of his coat nervously.

"The governor of South Carolina, the supreme power of the state, charged with full responsibility, enjoying all the immunities, rights and privileges unto him belonging."

"It was clear that Bosworth took no stock whatever in Griswold's story, but Griswold's pretended employment by the governor and his apparent knowledge of the governor's affairs, picked his curiosity. He stepped to an inner office, came back with a packet of papers and thrust a revolver into his pocket with so vain a show of it that Griswold laughed aloud.

"What! Do you still back your arguments with firearms down here? It's a method that has gone out of fashion in Virginia!"

"If there's a trick in this it will be the worse for you," scowled Bosworth.

"And pray, remember on your side, that you are to give these documents into the hands of the governor. Come along."

They met the watchman in the corridor and he saluted them and passed on. Bosworth strode eagerly forward in his anxiety to prick the bubble of Griswold's pretensions.

Griswold threw open the door of the governor's reception-room, and they blinked in the stronger light that poured in from the private office. There, in the governor's chair by the broad official desk, sat Barbara Osborne reading a newspaper.

"Your excellency," said Griswold, bowing gravely and advancing; "I beg to present the attorney-general!"

"Barbara!"

The papers fell from the attorney-general's hands. He stood staring until astonishment began to yield to rage as he realized that a trap had been sprung upon him. The girl had risen instantly and a smile played about her lips for a moment. She had vaguely surmised that Griswold would charge Bosworth with the loss of the papers, but her associate in the conspiracy had now given a turn to the matter that amused her.

"Barbara!" blurted the attorney-general, "what game is this—what contemptible trick is this stranger playing on you? Don't you understand that your father's absence is a most serious matter and that in the present condition of this Applegate affair it is likely to involve him and the state in scandal?"

Barbara regarded him steadily for a moment with a negative sort of gaze. She took a step forward before she spoke and then she asked quickly and sharply:

"What have you done, Mr. Bosworth, to avert these calamities, and what was in your mind when you "How?"

"Why, I expected—"

"Mr. Bosworth expected to effect a coup for his own glory during the governor's absence," suggested Griswold.

"How?" and Barbara's voice rang impetuously and her eyes flashed.

"Send this unknown person, this impostor and meddler, away and I will talk to you as old friends may talk together," and he glared fiercely at Griswold, who stood fanning himself with his hat.

"I asked you how you intended to serve my father, Mr. Bosworth, because you sent me this afternoon a letter in which you threatened me—you threatened me with my father's ruin if I did not marry you. You would take advantage of my trouble and anxiety to force that question on me when I had answered it once and for all long ago. Before this stranger I want to tell you that you are a despicable coward and that if you think you can humiliate me or my father or the state by such practices as you have resorted to you are very greatly mistaken. And further, Mr. Bosworth, if I find you interfering again in this matter I shall print that letter you wrote me to-day in every paper in the state! Now, that is all I have to say to you, and I hope never to see you again."

"Before you go, Mr. Bosworth," said Griswold, "I wish to say that Miss Osborne has spoken of your conduct with altogether too much restraint. I shall add, on my own account, that if I find you meddling again in this Applegate case, I shall first procure your removal from office and after that I shall take the greatest pleasure in flogging you within an inch of your life. Now go!"

CHAPTER VIII.

The Labors of Mr. Ardmore.

While he waited for Miss Jerry Danglefield to appear Mr. Thomas Ardmore read for the first time the constitution of the United States. He had reached the governor's office early, and, seeking diversion, he had picked up a small volume that bore some outward resemblance to a novel. This proved, however, to be John Jay's "American Politics," and he was amazed to find that this diminutive work contained the answers to a great many questions which had often perplexed him, but which he had imagined could not be answered except by statesmen or by men like his friend Griswold, who spent their lives in study.

He made note of several matters.

"What did you tell them?"

"I didn't tell them anything. I sent out for two other girls and we all just talked to them and kept talking, and gave them lemon-merbet and ginger cookies; and Eve Hungerford played the banjo. But what were you doing, Mr. Ardmore, that you didn't come around to help? It seems to me you don't appreciate me."

"I was afraid you might scold me if I did. And besides I was glued to the long distance telephone all evening, talking to my manager at Ardrey. He read me my letters and a lot of telegrams that annoyed me very much. I wish you wouldn't be so hard on me, for I have trifling troubles of my own."

"I didn't suppose you ever had troubles; you certainly don't act as though you ever had."

"No one who has never been brother-in-law to a duke has the slightest idea of what trouble is."

"I've seen the duke of Ballywinkle's picture in the papers and he looks very attractive."

"Well, I would ever seen him eat celery you'd change your mind. He's going down to Ardrey to visit me; for sheer nerve I must say my relations bet the world. I got my place over here in North Carolina just to get away from them, and now my sister—not the duchess, but Mrs. Atchison—is coming down there with a lot of girls and Ballywinkle has attached himself to the party. They'll pass through here to-day, and they'll expect to find me at Ardrey."

Various Jewish Projects.

As long ago as 1666 Sabati Zevi set the Jews of Europe preparing for a return to Palestine. Not only the Jews of Venice and Leghorn were seized by the excitement, and for a whole century, the great bulk of the people refused to be disillusioned. It was not until the appearance of George Eliot's "Daniel Deronda" that the Jewish nationalist movement received another stimulus so strong as this; but in the meantime many schemes were propounded, including an attempt in 1854 to float a company "to enable the Jews of Palestine to obtain land and cultivate the land of promise."

Various famous people have been interested in the idea of establishing an independent Jewish kingdom, not necessarily in Palestine. The Dutch West India Company tried the experiment in Curaçao, and Oliver Cromwell did the same in Surinam. Marshal Saxe proposed such a kingdom in South America with himself as king, and, in 1860, Judge Noah purchased Grand Island in the River Niagara with a view to founding a Jewish state.

He wished to ask Griswold about when they met again; then turned back into the body of the text and had read as far as Burr's conspiracy when Jerry came breezily in. He experienced for the first time in his life that obsession of guilt which sinks in shame the often who he caught reading a dime novel. Jerry seemed to tower above him like an avenging angel, and though her sword was only a parasol, her words cut deep enough.

"Well, you are taking it pretty cool!"

"Talking what?" faltered Ardmore, standing up, and seeking to hide the book behind his back.

"Why, this outrageous article!" and she thrust a newspaper under his eyes. "Do you mean to say you haven't seen the morning paper?"

"To tell you the truth, Miss Danglefield, I hardly ever read the papers."

"What's that you were reading when I came in?" she demanded severely, withholding the paper until she should be answered.

"It's a book about the government, and the powers reserved to the states and that sort of thing. I was just reading the constitution; I thought it might help us—I mean you—in your work."

"The constitution help me? Hasn't it occurred to you before this that what I'm doing is all against the constitution and the revised statutes and all those books you see on the shelf there?"

"But the constitution sounds all right. It seems remarkably reasonable. You couldn't ask anything fairer than that!"

"So are the ten commandments fair enough; but you're on the wrong track, Mr. Ardmore, if you're trying to support the present administration with stupid things in books. I don't follow precedents, Mr. Ardmore; I create them."

"She turned to the morning mail while he read, and opened the envelopes rapidly. Such of the letters as she thought interesting or important she put aside; and when Ardmore finished reading a double-lined telegram from Columbia, in which the

He knew about it. He was an extremely mean-spirited man with the official paper-hauler.

"Here, Mr. Ardmore," she said, drawing a paper from her pocket, "it's the answer to that telegram we sent yesterday evening. Suppose you read that now—and we can then decide what to do."

She was making the letters into little piles, humming softly meanwhile; but he felt that there was a storm brewing. He read the message from Columbia a number of times, and if directing governor had not been so ominously quiet he would have laughed at the terse sentences.

"There must be a mistake about this. He wouldn't have used 'diverting' that way; that's insulting!"

"So you appreciate its significance, do you, Mr. Ardmore? The iron came out about that. You realize that I have been insulted, do you?"

"I shouldn't put it that way, Miss Danglefield. Gov. Osborne would never have sent a message like that to you—he thought he was sending it to your father."

"He's insulted me and every other citizen in the Old North State; that's who he's insulted, Mr. Ardmore. Let me read it again," and she repeated the telegram aloud:

"Your extremely diverting telegram in Applegate case received and filed. I think it's extremely diverting so perfectly mean. The diverting by itself would not hurt my feelings half so much. He's a good deal smarter man than I thought he was to think up a telegram like that. But what do you think of that piece in the newspaper?"

"He says he's going to catch Applegate dead or alive. That sounds pretty serious."

"I think it's a bluff, myself. That telegram we sent him yesterday must have scared him to death. He was driven into a corner and had to do something to avoid being disgraced, and it's easy enough to talk big in the newspapers when you haven't the slightest intention of doing anything at all. I've noticed that father takes the longest and loudest about things he doesn't believe at all."

"Is it possible?" whispered Ardmore incredulously.

"Of course it's possible! Father would never have been elected if he'd expressed his real sentiments; neither would anybody else ever be elected if he said beforehand what he really believed."

"That must have been the reason I got defeated for alderman on the reform ticket. I told 'em I was for turning the rascals out."

"That was a very stupid thing you've got to get the rascals to elect you first; then if you're tired of office and don't need them any more you bounce them. But that's political practice; it's a theory we've got to work out now. The newspapers are a lot of bother. I spent all yesterday evening talking to reporters. They came to the house to ask where papa was and when he would be home!"

"What did you tell them?"

"I didn't tell them anything. I sent out for two other girls and we all just talked to them and kept talking, and gave them lemon-merbet and ginger cookies; and Eve Hungerford played the banjo. But what were you doing, Mr. Ardmore, that you didn't come around to help? It seems to me you don't appreciate me."

His Hands Cracked Open

What does a man have to be to be buried with Masonic honors? Jingo—Dead.

"I am a man seventy years old. My hands were very sore and cracked open on the insides for over a year with large sores. They would crack open and bleed, itch, burn and ache so that I could not sleep and could do but little work. They were so bad that I could not dress myself in the morning. They would bleed and the blood dropped on the floor. I called on two doctors, but they did me no good. I could get nothing to do any good till I got the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. About a year ago my daughter got a cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and in one week from the time I began to use them my hands were all healed up and they have not been a mite sore since. I would not be without the Cuticura Remedies."

"They also cured a bad sore on the hand of one of my neighbor's children, and they think very highly of the Cuticura Remedies. John W. Hasty, 80, Mt. Pleasant, N. H., Mar. 5 and Apr. 11, '09."

Treatment for Lump Jaw.

Lump jaw is due to a fungus which is usually taken into the animal's system in feed consumed. Lump jaw is liable to affect the glands of the throat or the bones of the head, writes Dr. David Roberts in American Cultivator. It is not advisable to keep an animal thus afflicted lingering in a herd. On the other hand it is advisable to either treat such an animal or kill it, as such animals invite diseases into the herd, owing to the fact that they are so reduced in vitality that they have no resisting power. A remarkably large per cent. of such cases can be successfully treated if taken in time by opening up the enlargement and washing it out with a strong antiseptic solution, like five of carbolic acid in water, and putting the animal on a tonic. In this way the afflicted animal is not only saved, but the entire herd is protected against disease.

No Encouragement.

The family had stood the long strain of Uncle Hobart's illness well, but the peculiarities of the physician, chosen by Uncle Hobart himself, had been, to say the least, trying. "Do you really think he will recover, Doctor Shaw?" asked the oldest sister of the invalid, who had borne with his vagaries patiently for years.

"Now, how you feel, with Thanksgiving coming on and all," said the doctor, peering at her from under his shaggy eyebrows, "but it's too soon to tell. He may get well, and then again, he may not; I can't encourage you yet—either way."—Youth's Companion.

CHIEF MAKER

A Surprise in Brooklyn.

An adult's food that can have a baby prove itself to be nourishing and easily digested and good for big and little folks. A Brooklyn man says:

"When baby was about eleven months old he began to grow thin and pale. This was, at first, attributed to the heat and the fact that his teeth were coming, but it was really a milk thing was starving, his mother's milk not being sufficient nourishment."

"One day after he had cried bitterly for an hour, I suggested that my wife try him on Grape-Nuts. She soaked two teaspoonfuls in a saucer with a little sugar and warm milk. This baby ate so ravenously that she fixed a second which he likewise finished."

"It was not many days before he forgot all about being nursed, and has since lived almost exclusively on Grape-Nuts. Today the boy is strong and robust, and has outgrown a milk-milk as a thirteen months old baby is expected to be."

"We have put before him other foods, but he will have none of them, evidently preferring to stick to that which did him so much good—his old friend Grape-Nuts."

"Use this letter any way you wish, for my wife and I can never praise Grape-Nuts enough after the brightness it has brought to our household."

Grape-Nuts is not made for a baby food, but experience with thousands of babies shows it to be among the best, if not entirely the best in use. Being a scientific preparation of Nature's grains it is equally effective as a body and brain builder for grown-ups.

COMPLIMENTS.

What The District Press Says About Boone's Candidate for Congress.

Entitled to Recognition.

(Pendletonian.)
Mr. Rouse is a practitioner at law at Burlington, Boone county, and is one of the best known and most prominent young Democrats in the district and State. He has been Mr. Rhinock's private secretary during his three terms in Congress, hence is by no means a novice as to the duties of a Congressman. Hailing from the good county of Boone, a Gibraltar of Democracy, he feels that it is not out of place or unbecoming to him to ask the support of local Democrats everywhere, and particularly in the rural counties, which is surely entitled to some recognition, as it is here that the Democratic majorities are rolled up at all times. Mr. Rouse has assurances of support from all the counties of the district, and feels that he is in a nice position to win the race, pledging in the event of his nomination and election a faithful discharge of his duties and loyalty to his party and friends.

Will Make Him A Winner.

(Carrollton Democrat.)
In this issue of the Democrat we are announcing A. B. Rouse, of Burlington, Boone county, Kentucky, as a candidate for Congress, subject to the Democratic primary to be held June 18. Mr. Rouse is one of the best known Democrats in this Congressional district. He has always been prominent and active in the Democratic party. When only 21 he was made chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of Boone county. He was private secretary to Congressman Gooch during a portion of Mr. Gooch's term.

A Strong Candidate.

(Grant County News.)
Herewith we present a good likeness of Hon. A. B. Rouse, of Boone county. Mr. Rouse is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from this Congressional District. His announcement appears in this issue of the News does not mean that we know Mr. Rouse well enough to give anything like a good biographical sketch of him, but we hope to know him well enough before the campaign just started is over. However, what we do know is all in his favor. In the first place he is a Boone county product, the greater Democratic confidence of the district, if that is anything in his favor. For a number of years he has been Chairman of the District Congressional Committee, and only resigned that position last Saturday when he made it known that he would be a candidate for Congress. He is also private secretary to Hon. Joseph L. Rhinock, our present Congressman, and has no doubt learned enough about the way they make and unmake laws at the national capitol to make considerable benefit to him if he is nominated in the primary on the 18th of June and elected in November. From our short personal contact with him we judge that he is a man of no small ability and is good Congressional timber. In the event that Grant has no candidate there is not much doubt that Mr. Rouse will get a fair share of Grant county's votes. In the further event that Grant does have a candidate, and we are led to believe he will, it is not likely that there will be many votes to divide among the other candidates, as Grant has always been true to her cwn. In any event Mr. Rouse will be a strong candidate. Boone county will no doubt rally loyally to his support and he will get a following in Kenton that will be considerable. In the humble opinion of the writer he will be the contending candidate if he is not the victor.

Well Equipped for the Work.

(Warsaw Independent.)
In our announcement column this week we carry the name of Arthur B. Rouse of Burlington, Boone county. Mr. Rouse is a candidate for Congress from this district, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held on June 18. Mr. Rouse has but resigned as chairman of the Sixth District Congressional Committee, a position he has held for the past several years, and one in which he has given signal ability coupled with untiring energy to the management of the various Democratic campaigns. In that particular function he has given the Democratic party the very highest type of efficiency and service and his nomination would be but a fit recognition of his worth by the voters of the district.

Mr. Rouse unites the two essentials which today are most in demand by the public when choosing public servants, and those two essentials are ability and integrity. In addition to this he is a clever, sociable gentleman and popular wherever he is known. The duties of Congressman would not be strange to him, as in the capacity of private secretary to Congressman Rhinock, Mr. Rouse has become thoroughly familiar with the workings of the national law making body and would enter upon his duties fully equipped for the work. His Democracy is of the staunchest type and no man could ask more than that. If elected he will, we believe, give the people of the Sixth District a representation of which they will be proud.

Boone County, the home of Mr. Rouse, is in the same Congressional District and this, together with the fact that Boone has always shown a decided preference for any candidate that Gallatin has offered for an office, will commend Mr. Rouse's candidacy to the favorable consideration of many of Gallatin's Democrats.

Made A Favorable Impression.

(Milton News.)
Hon. A. B. Rouse, of Boone county, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress, was in Trimble Monday and Tuesday, this being his last day to visit. Mr. Rouse, indeed, made a favorable impression upon all whom he met, being an unusually pleasant gentleman and one whom the voters feel would make an able representative in Congress. He is from the country portion of the district and knows the needs and desires of the farmers and country towns. He will probably make several speeches in Trimble before the campaign closes and hopes to meet every voter personally. The primary will be held throughout the district Saturday, June 18.

Logical "Country Candidate."

(Carrollton News.)
Arthur B. Rouse, of Boone county, is announced in this issue of the News as a candidate for Congress from this district to succeed Hon. Joe L. Rhinock. A large crowd from Boone County was present at the committee meeting in Covington last Saturday to endorse the cause of that county's favorite son, and many were present from other counties, including Carroll, insisting that Arthur B. Rouse was the logical "Country Candidate." Mr. Rouse has devoted very much of his time and means to the interests of the Democratic party, which he loves so well, and being recognized by his work as chairman of the Boone County committee, he was elected as the committeeman from the Sixth District, and he resigned last Saturday on account of his candidacy.

An exceptionally fine lawyer, a man of executive ability, and one who has always been a Democrat will surely make a Congressman from the district which will be proud.

Will Make No Mistakes.

(Trimble County Democrat.)
Mr. Rouse has been the private secretary of the former Congressman Gooch and Congressman Rhinock and in this position has learned well what Congressman he represents. He has been in service for several years and in that time has seen the mistakes made and is not likely to make the same mistakes himself. Profiting by his experience and hard work it is believed that he can be of great service. Seldom, if ever before has any one offered as a candidate for Congress as well prepared for the duties from a business stand point as is Mr. Rouse.

Mr. Rouse is a graduate of Hanover College of the class of 1896 and is a lawyer of considerable ability. Mr. Rouse has served his party long and well, and being from the country has never blotted or scratched a ticket. He was first selected as campaign chairman in his county and afterwards made chairman of the Democratic County Committee. In each of these positions he did good work for the nominees, and showing such marked executive ability that he was made chairman of the Congressional Committee and this office he held until he became a candidate for Congress.

Following is an estimate of the damages resulting from the cold weather in the middle west:
Illinois—$6,000,000.
Indiana—$5,000,000.
Ohio—$1,000,000.
Tennessee—$1,000,000.
Minnesota and the Northwest—$1,000,000.
Wisconsin—$3,000,000.
Michigan—$10,000,000.
Nebraska—$2,000,000.
Kansas—$5,000,000.
Missouri, Kentucky and Arkansas—$2,000,000.

Saturday night's frost is said to have been the heaviest and most damaging that of Sunday night being comparatively light and coming after the harm had already been done. It is estimated that three-fourths of the fruit has been ruined and that the small amount which has not been killed will be of a stunted and imperfect variety.

The damage to the fruit gardens and crops in Kentucky in the last week is estimated at two million dollars. Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Iowa are also in the unfortunate territory and each sustained immense loss.

Not a drop of Alcohol

Doctors prescribe very little, if any, alcohol these days. They prefer strong tonics and alteratives. This is all in keeping with modern medical science. It explains why Ayer's Sarsaparilla is now made entirely free from alcohol. Ask your doctor. Follow his advice.

Hon. D. Linn Goesh, of Covington, is a candidate for Congress in this district, subject to the action of the Democratic primary election June 18, 1910.

Snow ball winter came unusually early this spring.

The early gardeners see now where they missed it.

Many of the forest trees are sending forth foliage.

The dirt roads began to get ugly the latter part of last week.

You will find local news on almost six of the pages of each issue of the Recorder.

So far the month of April has not distinguished itself for furnishing nice weather.

Corn will be planted as rapidly as possible from now on until the crop is all in the ground.

Tomato and cabbage plants were put on exhibition by the local merchants, last week.

Harry Shearer, of Erlanger, was the guest of A. B. Rouse, last Sunday.

Lymen Rice, of Covington, was a guest at the Boone House last Saturday night and Sunday.

The fishing season has been inaugurated all along the creeks, and in a most successful manner.

A tremendous crop of young maple trees have come up about town this spring, and are making a rapid growth.

Miss Laura Aylor spent several days the past week with her sister, Mrs. Howard Kelly, two miles west of town.

Mrs. W. L. Riddell left Monday morning for a sojourn of several days in Detroit, Michigan, with her brother, A. C. Pace and wife.

The freezes the past week have cost the farmers millions of dollars, and those in the northwest have been especially heavy losers.

Mrs. J. G. Furnish, of Covington, was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Reilly, from Saturday until Sunday afternoon.

H. W. Smith, of Erlanger, was in Burlington, last Friday, to have some printing done to advertise his thoroughbred bird dogs, which he is raising for the market.

James A. Riddell and wife, of Hebron neighborhood, and their grandson, Jenson Aylor, of Franksville, were Saturday and Sunday guests of M. L. Riddell and wife.

WHAT PEOPLE

Say About Home Comfort Ranges Who Have Used Them For Years.

Verona Ky., April 8th, 1910.

This is to certify that I have used a Home Comfort Range for 5 years, and can say it is the best range made, as I have handled other makes also; anyone buying a Home Comfort Range will be pleased.

Ed. Willeford.

Verona Ky., April 8th, 1910.

This is to certify that I have used a Home Comfort Range for 6 years, will say it is as good today as when bought, are great fuel savers, the best baker we ever had. I advise anyone wanting the best range to get the New Improved No. 1910.

Jno. Willeford.

Burlington, Ky., April 10, 1910.

This is to certify that I have my mother's range bought 22 years ago. It is a good range today—fine baker and cooker, and quick to heat, and is a fuel saver. It has not warped nor cracked in all those years. It is a fine baker and cooker, and a fuel saver.

R. W. Rouse.

Florence, Ky.

To whom it may concern:

We have a Home Comfort Range in our family that I bought 22 years ago. All that is wrong with it is the base pipe is burnt out. It has never warped nor cracked in all those years. It is a fine baker and cooker, and a fuel saver.

W. B. Craven.

Burlington, Ky., April 25, 1910.

To whom it may concern:

We have a Home Comfort Range that we bought in 1886, and have used it for all family use, and have given it a test as for standing heat and the top and oven are as level and even as when new, and it has never cracked nor warped, and has never cost a cent for repairs in all those years. It needed one section for fire box which the company furnished free of charge.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Gaines.

Will also refer you to a few of the citizens of Boone county, who have recently purchased the New Improved 1910 Home Comfort Ranges.

Miss Maggie and Rebecca Taylor, J. J. Hamilton.

A Personal Letter.
BOONE COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL
Burlington, Ky., 1910.
Dear Friend:—
Though this is a printed letter I want you to feel that it is a personal one. I want you to feel that I am addressing you and I want to reason with you as though I were with you in your own home. So do not lay this aside without reading it.
You are now at a very important point in your life. Decisions that you make now, comparatively trivial though they may seem, may affect your whole future career. A chance word, the opinion of a friend, the expressed desire of a near relative may be the means of deciding whether your life is to be one of success and happiness or one doomed to failure and disappointment. Open your ears, then, to the counsel of those who have met and successfully grappled with the problems now confronting you. Heed the advice of those whose business it is to set young men and women on the road to success. Make a determination that no accidental influence shall shape your career. Make yourself the master of your own destiny as far as it is possible for men and women to be that.
This is a day of educated people. The unlettered person lags farther and farther in the rear. And a common school education is not enough.
Boone County now offers you a High School education. The Boone County High School offers a four years course, tuition free, to properly prepared students who reside in the county. This course is the equal of that given by any school of a similar grade and prepares you well for any of the ordinary pursuits of life or for college. Plans for the new building are complete. It will be a commodious two-story brick structure heated by furnace. Library and laboratory rooms with proper equipment will supplement the regular class room work. The campus is ideal—in location, size and formation. Here, in pleasant, airy rooms and commodious halls, in the center of a campus on which the flowers bloom, shade trees wave and birds sing, and that surrounded by the most beautiful hills and groves the sun shines on, you can pursue your higher education. The classic atmosphere that such surroundings create is half an education in itself.
The faculty will be enlarged. Every student will receive the best of attention. Two competent teachers will give their time to High School work, besides the teachers of the lower grades. For classmates you will have the best students from the various schools in the county. A healthy rivalry will be encouraged and this will help you greatly.
Proper attention will be given to literary work, public speaking, music and athletics. Every student is expected to be a member of the literary society which meets once in two weeks throughout the school year.
All in all, if you have any ability, if you are at all ambitious, if you desire an education you should come to us. This school is the center of a splendid school system that is being created in Boone County. It will mean something to graduate from the Boone County High School. All this is free to you. All that is necessary is that you take the county graduates examination at Burlington May 13th and 14th and receive your diploma. This will admit you to the High School. Get ready and take that examination. Write to me in the meantime and let me help you. I will perhaps be able to make valuable suggestions. Better still, come to see me. I will be glad to talk it all over with you. We're going to have a large class to begin in the new building and I hope you will be of the number. If you know of others who ought to be with us send me their names and addresses. Write to me.
Sincerely Yours,
EVERETT L. DIX.

Will practice at Burlington the first Monday and following day of each month; also at Florence each Saturday except the one before and after the first Monday. Remember extracting teeth painless. Prices reasonable. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Woman's Age
often does not agree with her appearance. Pains and aching add to the years. Still many women look much older than they really are.
Many women, avoiding pain by the regular use of that effective remedy, for women, Wine of Cardui, keep their youth and beauty.
Take CARDUI
Mrs. Annie Vaughan, Raleigh, N. C., tried Cardui and writes:
"I was sick and worn out almost unto death. My sister finally persuaded me to take Cardui. Before I had taken five bottles I was well and strong."
Try Cardui. It is for women. Its tonic, building qualities restore you gently to health. Thousands of women have found it to give them lasting benefit.

The Standard Bred Stallion, Robert Willis, 47254.
Robert Willis, chestnut horse with star on head, stands 16 1/2 hands high, and when in sound condition weighs 1,200 pounds, foaled in 1906. Individually he is a horse of grand finish with plenty of substance, a fine disposition, deep, strong shoulders, stout back, very strong loins and stifles, strong bone and good teeth and legs. His blood lines are of the best, as his pedigree will show the most popular and prolific speed-producing combination in trotting blood lines, the kind that get the money on the race course and prizes in the show ring. Ordinary mares bred to this horse will not fail to produce foals that will find a ready market as carriage horses and roadsters as well as general all-purpose horses.
He will make the season of 1910 at Clover Leaf Stock Farm, unless otherwise notified, at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, money due when colt is foaled or mare is parted with. Parties breeding must follow up the season.
Care taken to prevent accidents, but we will not be responsible should any occur.
For further particulars and tabulated pedigrees, address
GARRISON BROS., Union, Ky.
Mares pastured at reasonable rates. Phone 12 Consolidated. Farmers' system.

OSCEOLA will make the season at my farm, formerly the Howe Creak farm, two miles west of Walton, Boone County, Ky., at $8 to insure a colt to get up and suck, money due when the mare foals or is parted with.
Description—Osceola is a beautiful black, 16 and a quarter hands high, weight 1,200 pounds and has fine style and action.
Pedigree—Osceola was sired by Ledger, 13354, Ledger by Crown Chief, 169, sire of Roland, 2:19 by Milford Marmbrino, he by Old Marmbrino Chief 11, sire of Lady Trotter 2:18 1-2, Woodford, Marmbrino 2:21 1-2, Marmbrino Patchin and others; Ledger's first dam, Kate Livingston by Forest Temple 135, he by Edwin Forest 49, sire of Belle Haskins 1:28 1-2; first dam by Forest Temple 135, sire of Temple 2:11 1-2, queen of the turf for several years and known as the bottal mare, by imported Spotted Arabian, second dam Corban's Old Tom Crowder, third dam, Bellewood; fourth dam by Messenger. Ledger is the sire of Belle K. 2:28 1-2 in fourth heat after class weeks' handling and Ledger K. Jr., who showed 2:24 gait in his year old form and paced a mile in 54. Green Ky. Prince paced trial mile in 2:15 with one season's handling at Hartwell, Ohio. Osceola's dam by Joe Downing the sire of Dock Jamison 2:24 and grandson of Edwin Forest, Jr., 2:11 1-2.
Osceola is a fine middle horse, slow or fast, a fine driver and a splendid breeder.
BEN
I will also stand my fine big Jack Ben at the same time and place at $10 to insure a live colt, money due when mare foals or is parted with.
Ben is a 12 year old in August is 15 3/4 hands high, mainly nose, very heavy bone and body, big head and ear, good length, and has proven himself a first-class breeder. He is as good as there is.
JUMBO.
The fine Jack Jumbo will stand at the same time and place.
Jumbo will be six years old in July, has a big head and body, is black with mealy points, as fine a looker as you ever put your eyes on, and is a great breeder.
It will pay you people who are interested in mules to come and see these fine jacks before breeding.
In handling the above stock care will be taken to prevent accidents, but I will not be responsible should any occur.
JOB READNOUR.
The Combination Stallion, LISTON, JR.
This grandly bred Stallion will make the season of 1910 at my stable, Erlanger Fair Ground, at $10.00 to insure a live colt to stand up and suck. Money due when the colt is foaled or mare transferred or bred to other stock without my permission.
LISTON JR. is a seal brown, 15 1/2 hands high, with fine style and action. Liston Jr. was sired by Liston, he by Marmbrino Abdallah (231), he by Marmbrino Patchin (38), Liston Jr. first dam by Woodford, Norma, the sire of Buckner Trotter, 2:21 1-2. Second dam Vitalitas. Liston Jr. is considered one of the best of the Horse in Northern Kentucky. Marmbrino Abdallah the grand sire of Liston Jr. was known as a grand brood mare sire, sired the dams May Marshall 2:08, Mary Marshall 2:12-2, Pat Downing 2:12, Lillian 2:14-2, Waterloo Boy 2:15-2.

PAT SHIRE,
Fine four year old Draft Horse, with good, solid dark color, will make the season of 1910 at my stable two miles south of Burlington, at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, money due when colt is foaled or mare is parted with after being bred. Care will be taken to prevent accidents but I will not be responsible should any occur.
W. J. ROUSE, Burlington, Ky., R. D. No. 1.
COL. K.
Will make the season at my stable half way between Idlewild and Bullittville at $8 to insure a young colt to stand up and suck. Colt must be good for the season.
B. C. GRADY, Bullittville, Ky.
Delinquent Taxpayers.
The delinquent Taxpayers of Boone County for the years 1908 and 1909 are hereby notified that unless they have paid said taxes by April 1910, I shall proceed to levy on and sell property for same, and where there is no property out of which their taxes can be made, I shall garnish their wages. Please pay up and avoid extra expense.
J. R. Bly, Delinquent Tax Collector Boone County.

BELL'S FITZSIMMONS.
—2844 A. S. B. A.—
will make the season of 1910 at the W. L. Norman Stock Farm at Walton, Ky., and if you want a show horse bred to him.
Bell's Fitzsimmons is a dark bay, 15 hands, weight 1,200 lbs., with three white feet, amp and star, and lots of style and action. He was sired by
BY BRACKEN CHIEF 2145
by Harrison Chief 1404 by Clark Chief (99); dam Kit Hardy (384) by Indian Chief (718); dam Miss Perry (484) by Rhoderick 141; by Marmbrino Le Grande (99); 3 dam by Wall's Yellow Jacket 113; 3 dam by Gray Eagle (thor).
Miss Perry is also the dam of Woodland and one of the finest show horses in Ky. Woodland Chief is a full brother to Bell's Fitzsimmons and a full brother to Rhoderick, and one of the finest geldings ever sold and sold to a party in Texas for $1,000.
Bell's Fitzsimmons is also the sire of the championship walk-trot gelding, Kit Coyne, shown at the Horse Shows in the fall of 1908 and sold for $3,000, and also the championship harness mare shown by J. H. Farley.
L. T. Anderson, of Mayville, one of the largest dealers in the state, says some of the highest class horses he has handled have been by Bell's Fitzsimmons.
The greatest show, harness and saddle horses of our State have sprung from the loins of Harrison Chief and his sire, Woodland Chief. Where can you find a horse of better breeding than Bell's Fitzsimmons? He has been a winning show horse ever since, and in all the stock has proven himself a successful sire. Some of the highest priced saddle, harness and walk-trot horses that have left the State have been sired by him.
Personal care over all stock. Mares left on good grass at ten cents a day, at owner's risk.
Fifteen dollars to insure a mare in foal or parted with.
JOHN RENSLER, C. R. BREST.
Phone 14 Walton, Ky.
Also prepared to break colts and handle Saddle and Harness Horses.
HIGH VINE,
No. 2733.
Chestnut Stallion, coming 6 years old, weighs 1,400 pounds, stands 16 hands high and is a picture of symmetry and beauty.
HIGH VINE, No. 2733, lady Highland Gains, No. 1667; Grandaire, Highland Gains, No. 170; dam, Bessie Gains, No. 2882, by Shropshire's Kex. Squirrel, No. 1385; second dam, Macey by Granger; fourth dam, Export No. 71.
HIGH VINE has proven himself a first class breeder and his colts are growing into very promising horses every day, as the history of his colts is that they grow better in all the attractive qualities with age, and some fancy prices have been offered for the colts, one of $175 being refused for a colt foaled in 1908. An inspection of the colts and the horse will convince breeders of their superiority, and that a colt from High Vine means a profitable investment. His colts were shown at various fairs last year and were victorious in their class, and in addition awakened public admiration everywhere.
HIGH VINE will make the season at the stable of W. Le Gaines, at Richmond, Boone County, Ky., at $30.00 to insure a live foal, season money due if mare is parted with. Make your engagements ahead of time, as his services are limited, and it saves annoying delays.
For the accommodation of those at a distance, W. Le Gaines has agreed to pasture mares at $5.00 per month, and has the best facilities for their care and keeping.
PREMIUMS—A first premium of $50.00 (the season) will be given best colt and a second premium of $10 will be given the second best colt, foaled from breeding of 1910. Show to be held at Florence fair.
HIGH VINE HORSE CO., Walton, Ky.
The Great Imported German Coach Stallion,
Plutarch, 3183.
Will make the season of 1910 in Burlington on Monday of each week, and the remainder of the time at my stable, 1 mile west of Idlewild, Ky., at $12 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, money due when colt is foaled, or mare is parted with after being bred. Any one party owning and breeding two mares and getting two colts from this horse shall be entitled to $4 discount on the two seasons, but should only one of the mares get in foal the regular full season, $12, will be charged.
I will give a return season for the best colt, the 1909 get of this stallion, regardless of sex, to be shown at the Boone Co. Fair, or home this fall.
For pedigree and particulars call on or address the undersigned owner. In handling the above stock care will be taken to prevent accidents, but I will not be responsible should any occur.
No business done on Sunday.
Parties breeding to either of the above animals must follow up the season.

Singer Talks

Important Points of Sewing Machine Construction

- Did you ever consider what the thousandth of an inch might mean in the adjustment of the needle-stroke on a sewing machine?
- Or how many little invisible parts there are which may run well for a month or so in a carelessly-made machine, and then by going wrong render it utterly useless?
- For the perfect construction and thorough testing of these vital details you must depend upon the honor and reputation of the maker.
- The makers of the Singer Sewing Machine enjoy a reputation vouched for by millions of Singer users all over the world.
- These millions of Singer users have proved the perfection of the Singer by years of steady sewing.
- The Singer Sewing Machine is built like a watch and runs like one.

The Legislature has adjourned and the good-byes have all been said and we can truthfully say that it never has been our good fortune to have had the pleasure of spending sixty days with a nicer set of men than those with whom we were associated in the House. They were ever ready to contribute to each other pleasure and to give and take on all questions.

We learned to love them all and may they live long and prosper. Among our fond recollections it will always be a pleasure to cherish the memory and friendship of those with whom it was our pleasant duty to be associated with in the last General Assembly. The above is from Hon. L. C. Littrell's Owen County Democrat. It should be borne in mind that Bro. Littrell is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Saved From The Grave.
"I had about given up hope, after nearly four years of suffering from a severe lung trouble," writes Mrs. M. L. Dix, of Clarksville, Tenn. "Often the pain in my chest would be almost unbearable and I could not do any work, but Dr. King's New Discovery has made me feel like a new person. Its best medicine made for the throat and lungs." Obsolete coughs, stubborn colds, hay fever, lagrippe, asthma, croup, bronchitis and hemorrhages, hoarseness and whooping cough, yield quickly to this wonderful medicine. Try it, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free. Guaranteed by Bentler's drug store, Brangler.

The April crop report of the Kentucky Agricultural Department says:

"There is an increase of 1 per cent in the number of sheep over last year. The number of horses April 1, 1909, as compared with April 1, 1908, and April 1, 1910, show a percentage of 75 for the State—a large decrease and prices ranging from $56 for one year and under to an average price of $107 for two years old and over.

"The number of mules April 1, 1909, as compared with April 1, 1908, was 95, while they show an average of 88 April 1, 1910. Prices ranging from $70 for one year and under to $140 for two years old and over.

"The prospective acreage of potatoes April 1, 1909, was 93, while the prospective acreage of this year is 96, and 80 per centum of the acreage has been planted.

"There is a decrease in the percentage of cotton, as compared with April 1, 1908. The number of milch cows April 1, 1910, compared with April 1, 1909, show a percentage of 88, and average price throughout the State of $36 per cow."

A judge out in Missouri has taken a position in the qualifications of juror that should appeal to laymen and attorneys alike, even if it does mark a radical departure from the methods of procedure that have been followed for many years. In the trial of a case one of the attorneys, with the evident intention of challenging a juror asked the juror on whether the salesman had read accounts of the case in the newspaper. "What's the difference if he has read the newspaper?" demanded the Judge. "Hell make the better juror man. To say that man ought not to serve because he has read the newspaper—accounts is saying in effect that a jury of intelligent men with April 1, 1910, is not justice, neither is it law."

DOES POULTRY PAY?

During January and February the city prices of eggs ranged from 45 to 60 cents a dozen. Throughout most of the winter they were selling at 40 cents or higher. These prices almost prohibited the general use of eggs as an article of food, and caused many consumers to jump at the conclusion that there was easy money in egg production. Careful inquiry by the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station among a number of farmers would seem to indicate that not to exceed 5 per cent of the hens were laying at all during these months of high prices, and that had the producer received for his product the price paid by the consumer, he would still, in many cases, have been a loser. Certain farms reporting to the Station show an egg cost of from 7 to 13 cents each for the month of January. Of course the fellow who had things fixed so that the bird laid cheap—golden harvest.

CIRCUIT COURT NEWS.

Among the twelve jurors first called into the box, last week, to try Robt. Fisk, charged with stealing a horse from Robt. Allen, was J. M. Eddins, a former guard at the Frankfort penitentiary. Eddins was recognized by Fisk at once, who said to his attorney, "Get that man at this end of the first row off of the jury—he was guard at the Frankfort penitentiary when I was in there." Eddins did not serve on the jury, neither did he recognize Fisk. Tilford Miller, indicted by the last grand jury for forgery, pleaded guilty in the circuit court last Thursday, and the jury to whom was submitted the question of his period of confinement in the penitentiary gave him two years. Atty. Sidney Gaines was appointed by the court to defend Miller when the indictment against him was returned.

It required $389 to pay the grand and petit jurors their services during the term.

The report of the trustee of the jury fund showed the collection of fines to the amount of $90. Of that amount the Commonwealth's Attorney will get one-half.

Last Thursday was distinctively doctor's day. Among those attending court were Drs. Thos. H. Baker and W. W. Smith of Louisville; Shaler Berry, of Newport; D. M. Bagby, D. K. Menefee, and A. N. Jones, of Walton; Elijah Ryle, of Big Bone, and two or three others whose names cannot now be recalled.

All but twelve of the petit jurors were finally discharged shortly before noon last Thursday, after the jury had been secured for the trial of the action of B. B. Alphin and wife against the National Protective Legion, for the recovery of a $5,000 policy on the life of their son, the late James C. Alphin. The plaintiffs were represented by Tomlin & Vest, and Clore and Dickerson, and the defendant by Atty. Crawford, of Newport. A long array of doctors testified, and their testimony bearing altogether on conditions precedent to tuberculosis.

Dr. B. K. Menefee, of Walton, who has been practicing medicine for 17 years, was never called to testify in a case before last Thursday, when he gave testimony in the case of Alphin against the Protective Legion.

No night sessions were held during the term, but Judge Cammack lost no time during the day, being on the bench from early in the morning until late at the afternoon.

The weather the past week was of an enire different variety from that which prevailed throughout the month of March, and the condition of the fruit crop now, has the people guessing. Of the seven days last past, Saturday was about the most disagreeable, furious rain and rain alternating, while a cold, north wind prevailed all day. Sunday morning ice as thick as a window glass was piled up in the early gardens, such as corn, beans and potatoes, showed plainly the effects of the freeze, and many claimed the potatoes and beans were killed, unless in the case of the potatoes, the seed planted contained an eye from which a sprout had not been sent forth.

RESOLUTIONS.
As God in the pursuance of His plan of which we see but a microscopic part, has seen fit to take from us our beloved brother, Ocola C. Rice, and we, not knowing why it should be, and knowing only that in our dear departed brother, his family has lost a loving father and husband, the fraternity an upright Odd Fellow, and society a good citizen; and though not knowing, yet with a firm faith that though we know not where his islands lift their tufted palms into the air, we surely know we cannot drift beyond his love and care.

And though seeing dimly thru the mist of sorrow the light of immortality steadily shining, we still feel a sense of irreparable loss;

Therefore, be it resolved, that in commemoration of his death and in token of our appreciation of his worth, that this, an expression of sorrow at his untimely death, be spread on the records of this lodge and published in the newspapers of our city, and that the chapter of our lodge be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days.

To the family we extend our sincere sympathy and the assurance that with them we bear the burden.

F. D. Smith,
L. H. Bratton,
A. S. Isaacson,

The taking of the census all over the country began April 15th. President Taft has issued a proclamation citing the fact that it is the duty of every person to answer all questions on the census schedules applying to him and the family to which he belongs, and to the farm occupied by him, his family, and that any adult refusing to do so is subject to penalty. He emphasizes the importance of prompt, complete and accurate answers to all inquiries addressed to them by the enumerators or other employees of the Census Bureau, and thereby to contribute their share toward public undertaking a success.

The sole purpose of the census is to secure general statistical information regarding the population and resources of the country, and replies are required from individuals only in order to permit the compilation of such general statistics. The census has nothing to do with taxation, with army or jury service, with the compilation of school attendance, with the regulation of immigration, or with the enforcement of any national, state, or local law or ordinance, nor can any person be harmed by the disclosure of such information required. There need be no fear that any disclosure will be made regarding any individual person or his affairs. For the due protection of the rights

The commencement exercises were held at Krutz Hall, on the same evening, and were well attended, the program having been rendered with special credit to both the teacher and class.
The music by the Colonial Orchestra, of Lawrenceburg, consisted of a number of splendid pieces, each of which was beautifully rendered. Rev. S. J. Bradley lead in prayer, which was an eloquent supplication in behalf of the graduates and every one interested in the welfare of these young people. Mr. W. T. Stott gave an interesting and instructive lecture on schools and education. Mr. Stott is in favor of too much modernism and laid special stress on building a good, old time foundation for education, such as prevailed when he attended school. Special mention is deserving the well prepared and appropriately rendered essays, the following theses not being given: "Causes of the Civil War," Robert Berkshire; "After Graduation—What?" Raymond Witham; "Rise of Civilization," Mrs. Lee Thompson. Three of our most brilliant and popular young men received diplomas, which testifies to the world that they have successfully finished the course of study furnished by this school. After the presentation of the diplomas, Prof. Tanner gave a short address, which he thanked the board of trustees for their co-operation during this year of school, and made several pertinent and interesting remarks on the benefit of the class. Rev. W. A. Atkinson in that grand and eloquent style of his, delivered the address, which was a masterly effort full of useful and suitable hints for the occasion. Quite a pretty little song, "Kentucky Schools," was sweetly sung by the scholars. Misses Lucile and Melicent Berkshire and Beulah Ruth. The rostrum was beautifully decorated with streamers of paper, flowers and ferns, blue and gold, the class colors prevailing. The graduates were enthusiastically greeted and received congratulations of many friends and a host of beautiful presents, after which Rev. Carter pronounced the benediction.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.
Residence at Constance Burned in Which One Child Lost its Life and Another Has Narrow Escape.
The residence owned by Dr. A. A. Murat at Constance and occupied by Mrs. Fleischman, was destroyed by fire, one day last week, the contents being an entire loss, while one small child was seriously burned and another had a narrow escape. A neighbor discovered the building was burning, and knowing that the mother of the two children was at work over at Dr. Murat's, he ran to the building to rescue them. The door was locked, but he burst it down, and found the two children in the bed, which he grabbed and started out doors. The smallest child was dropped from the bed and when he awoke he found the fire had caught his clothing, and it was fearfully burned about the lower limbs, face and arms. Dr. Murat dressed the wounds and the mother and two children were sent to the county infirmary, at which place Dr. Peddicord was called to see the little sufferer, on Saturday, May 14, the child contained as much as half a tea-cupful of water. It has been given the best attention obtainable under the circumstances, and remains in a precarious condition. The origin of the fire is unknown. The child survived until Sunday morning, when it died. It was two and a half years old.

A Man Wants To Die
only when a lazy liver and sluggish bowels cause frightful distress. But Dr. King's New Life Pills cure poisons from the system; bring hope and courage; cure all Liver, Stomach and Kidney troubles; impart health and vigor to the weak, nervous and ailing. See at Bentler's drug store, Erlanger.
The Franklin county grand jury which investigated charges of bribery against members of the legislature, prison guards and other officials was unable to discover any information to support such charges. It is well for the reputation of the State that this was so, and it is probable that the public would accept a bribe or one who would offer it would be likely to cover the transaction so completely that the public would never get an inkling of it. Georgetown Times.

A. B. Renaker was called to Dry Ridge, Grant county, Tuesday morning on account of the dangerous illness of his brother, Edward, who had been sick about a week.
The rain that fell last Monday night found the ground much in need of it, although the cool weather which followed it was not exactly to the liking of the farmers.
Drummers for shoe houses are making their tour of the country stores selling their goods for fall delivery. Every few days one of these young men salaried hits the town.
Very few farmers are seen about town these days. They are too busy getting their corn planted and tobacco ground prepared to make any unnecessary trips away from home.
When Capt. Ben Wilson put that new gasoline ferry boat in the trade with Mrs. Rabbit, Hays and Rising Sun, the big river and swift water will no longer have any terrors for him.

General Lawrence, of the Cadex Record, says: Senator Blackburn announced that Frankfort last week that he was for McCleary for Governor. Then why should we hesitate to make the nomination unanimous?
Roy Riley, 21, son of Eugene Riley, of Union, died Tuesday at Christ Hospital, Cincinnati, after a lingering illness. The body was brought to Union, this country, for interment.
The Recorder goes to print very early on Thursday morning, consequently neighborhood communications must reach the office not later than Wednesday evening, less of importance, such as deaths, fires, accidents and the like.
Bert Smith completed his work as census enumerator in Constance precinct last Wednesday afternoon. He was in Burlington yesterday, and being asked if he would like to have to take the census of the entire county, he said he would not like for the work to last too long.
The United States Court of Appeals reversed Judge Cochran's decision wherein he denied E. H. Baker a right to a homeestead in the land he inherited from the estate of his brother, the late Z. T. Baker, of Big Bone. The opinion in favor of Mr. Baker was handed down a few days ago.
The trumble county Board of Control of the Burley Tobacco Association has appointed solicitors for each precinct to canvass for the 1910 pool. They have issued orders to call for the non-poolers of the past two years, and unless a sufficient number of the outsiders sign up the pool for 1910 will be declared.
Several parties who expect to bid for the construction of the new school building at Burlington have examined the plans and specifications in the last few days, and there are several others who expect to inspect them with a view to bidding for the work. It looks like there will be several bidders for the job.
Heretofore in taking the acknowledgment of husband and wife to deed or mortgage, the law required that the wife sign and acknowledge the instrument before her husband. Under the recent legislature changed this rule, and it is now necessary that the husband be present when the wife's acknowledgment is taken.
Samuel Slater, charged with stealing an overcoat and umbrellas of Cary Carpenter, of Richwood, was taken before County Judge Cason Tuesday, May 3, and is in jail for the theft. But for his arrest placed the value of the stolen property at $15, making the offense petty larceny, hence the jail sentence. Slater thought that he was bound for Frankfort again.
It used to be that every farmer in the county carried over from one year to another a considerable quantity of corn and a nice bunch of hogs which he fed the corn to in the fall, in many instances having enough to prepare his hogs for the market, but that has changed and nearly all the corn crops in the county are empty by this time of the year, while hogs can not be found.
No part of the county has improved more in appearance in the last five years than that along the Covington and Lexington pike, and the improvement is due to the fact that the ownership of some new residences has been completed in the five years last past and several more are under way. Another fact, that is noticeable, is that the ownership of much of the land along that thoroughfare in Boone county has changed in the last few years, hence the utilizing of so many of the nice building sites.

Important Points of Sewing Machine Construction

Did you ever consider what the thousandth of an inch might mean in the adjustment of the needle-stroke on a sewing machine?

Or how many little invisible parts there are which may run well for a month or so in a carelessly-made machine, and then by going wrong render it utterly useless?

For the perfect construction and thorough testing of these vital details you must depend upon the honor and reputation of the maker.

The makers of the Singer Sewing Machine enjoy a reputation vouched for by millions of Singer users all over the world.

These millions of Singer users have proved the perfection of the Singer by years of steady sewing.

The Singer Sewing Machine is built like a watch and runs like one.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES. (Furnished by Supt. Riley.)

The Board of Education will meet Monday May 9th. On Tuesday May 10th all the County Superintendents of the Eastern Division of Kentucky are expected to meet at Richmond, for three days conference.

The Common School Graduates examination will be held Friday and Saturday, May 13-14. All who pass in this examination will be admitted to the High schools of Boone county with standing of Freshmen.

At Henderson, Ky., June 31-23, the Kentucky Educational Association will convene. Men of national reputation will discuss important educational topics. The fare of one way plus twenty-five cents has been granted by the railroad. All Boone county teachers who plan to make this trip should communicate with County Superintendent in order that we may make the trip together.

Many of the State Superintendents of Public Instruction. We understand that friends are anxious to have Mr. Eubank of the Lutheran School Journal make the race for the Democratic nomination while the present Supt. Mr. Regan seems to be the accepted candidate of the Republican party.

In the Chicago schools boys are taught the art of cooking. In our schools we hope to teach the girls the elementary parts of the Science of Agriculture.

A CARD.

To the Friends of Education in Kentucky: In assuming the duties of the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction, I feel that the success of any administration will depend largely upon the support I receive at the hands of those who have at heart the welfare and progress of Kentucky's schools.

My worthy predecessor, Dr. J. G. Crabbe, has bequeathed us a new trail to the temple of wisdom. I purpose to follow his path and deepen and render more passable this highway which he has marked out for the feet of the present and the coming generations to follow.

In order that I may inspire fresh zeal for learning in the hearts of our people, and raise still higher our standards of education, I must have the co-operation of the friends of education in our Commonwealth, and especially of those who are enlisted in the fight against ignorance and illiteracy.

Therefore, I earnestly solicit your help, your counsel and your prayers; and my knowledge of the abiding interest of the people of Kentucky in the cause of education gives me assurance that my request shall not be denied. Let us, I beseech you, banish partisanship and differences of opinion, and in a broad-minded and liberal spirit, labor together for more schools and better schools, more knowledge and better knowledge, more truth and better truth.

Very Truly Yours, Bl Worth Regan, Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Dr. Burneson, the government inspector, for several years has been applying the tuberculin test to the cattle around Bloomfield, Ky. He found only one cow out of 220 tested, that proved to be affected. This cow was killed to demonstrate the value of the test and all who witnessed it were satisfied. The examination was made at the request of Dr. Rodman, health officer, of Nelson county.

The temperature began to rise last Friday, and by Saturday, good old summer time seemed to be near at hand.

The judgment for $1,000 awarded Frank Eckler in the Federal Court in Covington last Thursday, against six men, good and true, citizens of Pendleton county, certainly looks to be a miscarriage of justice, with the foundation for the verdict based solely and entirely upon the uncorroborated statement of the plaintiff, whose reputation for truthfulness and veracity was held up to public scorn by witnesses of character and standing who testified in the case. The case, as stated in our news columns, was tried before a mountain jury; men entirely unfamiliar with conditions as they exist here, with a seemingly biased or prejudiced view of the situation confronting them. Having returned verdicts of guilty in two other suits, they kept their record straight by returning a like verdict in the Eckler case. The gentlemen before the tribunal in this case are all law-abiding, good and upright citizens, whose fair names will not be besmirched by this unjust verdict. If any of them in the slightest sense transgressed the law it was done unwittingly and not with a desire to harm or work injury to any one. And again we reiterate that to many who heard the trial the result looks to be a miscarriage of justice--Falmouth Pendletonian.

The Postoffice Department at Washington has sent out a circular to Postmasters which urges them to request all contractors of the rural delivery to paint their mail boxes and the posts to which they are attached a pure white color. The object of the painting is to protect the boxes and posts from damage by the weather, to give all boxes a uniform color, to establish their identity in all parts of the United States as mail boxes and to give them a much neater and sightlier appearance. The owners of boxes are also requested to imprint their names and box numbers on boxes in black letters about two inches high. The letter also urges the postmaster to induce all road officers to paint upon the posts of boxes which are located on cross roads the names of the towns or villages to which the cross-roads lead, with an indicator showing the direction.

The Carroll County Tobacco Board of Control was in session last Friday, and contract books were placed in the hands of the members to begin a canvass of the monopolists for the 1910 crop. Their object is to get those to sign who held out in 1909; then there will be no trouble as to those who did pool--Carrollton News.

In a Democratic have endorsed Gov. Marshall's idea of recommending a candidate for United States Senator to the next legislature of that State. Taggart opposed the plan, but surrendered most gracefully to the Marshall majority.

Last Monday was a busy day with the tobacco growers and the wool producers who assembled in Burlington. They discussed their pools from every standpoint and were well pleased with the outlook.

Everything is very quiet over about the jail, circuit court having relieved Jail-r Adams of all his burdens, although he was not chewing the rag any because of their presence at his boarding house.

Kirk Tanner, has the record so far this season for killing snakes. Hardly a day has passed in the last few months that he has not killed one or more snakes, several of them being hissing vipers.

The latest pool proposed is that of mule colts; a contemporary in Central Kentucky thinks it would pay breeders to pool their colts.

According to the last assessment made in this county the sheep numbered 13,375, and from these at least 10,000 fleeces are counted on being pooled.

The Supreme Court of Ohio has held that if a man kills his wife, he forfeits by that act any right to stand as the beneficiary under any life insurance she may carry.

The Pendleton County tobacco growers who were fined $1,000 in the Federal Court about two weeks ago for taking out Frank Eckler, a tobacco buyer and handler, and mistreating him, will not appeal the case to the Supreme Court, but will pay the fine.

The Clark County Construction Company received the past week four ten ton cars, with scales for weighing the rock. The cars will be drawn by a portable engine and forty tons of rock can be distributed at one load.—Winchester Democrat.

With all the nice weather during the month of March and the appearance of a very early spring the farmers will find that they will complete their corn planting and other spring work about the usual time, as the month of April retarded their progress with their crops.

Tobacco growers report plant beds in fine condition with very little damage from the late freeze. Some say that they will have plants large enough to set their crops in two weeks. Not a much corn planted, but with favorable weather the most of the crop will be planted in the next few days.—Georgetown News.

Reports from various parts of the State indicate that the first report as to the damage done to the fruit and crops by the freeze of a few days ago were much exaggerated and that in portions of the State, at least, there will be a fairly good fruit crop. The gardens were not hurt as reported.—Winchester Democrat.

At the close of business April 30th there were about one and a half million dollars worth of outstanding warrants against the Kentucky Treasury. To meet this debt the State Board of Equalization and the State Board of Valuation and Assessment are relied on to increase the assessment on the realty and personally in the State to an amount that will meet this large indebtedness.

Death "by the rope" in Kentucky, at least under lawful conditions, soon will be a thing of the past, as Governor Wilson approved the bill introduced which substitutes electrocution as the means of inflicting the death penalty. The new law also provides that such electrocutions shall take place within the walls of the state prison at Frankfort. This state away with "hanging" day, which has long been a recognized institution in Kentucky.

The most sensational political news of many months is information that Roosevelt is not an insurgent, but has written a number of private letters to Taft and others endorsing Taft's administration and pledging his support to Taft for another term. He makes it clear he is not in favor of such persistent insinuation as would defeat the Republican party at the polls. Mr. Roosevelt will make two speeches in the campaign, and he himself never will be a candidate for any office.

The Court of Appeals in the case of the Logan County Fiscal Court vs the Board of Education of Logan county, reaffirmed its ruling in the Christian county case, that the Fiscal Court has no discretion in the matter of levying a property and poll tax in whatever amount the Board of Education asks, provided the amount does not exceed the statutory limit of 20 cents on property and 11 cents on capita. The new point ruled on in this case however was that the Board of Education has no power to use money collected by taxation under the new law to pay debts created prior to the time the new law went into effect.

Why He Left the Farm.

In looking through the Times-Star the other evening, I noticed that little article about farmers' sons all flocking to the city for work.

Why should not they come to the city? Their chances are better. pay is more and hours shorter. I was born and raised on a farm. I like farm work and would be working on one. But I wish you would tell me who wants to work on a farm for $10 to $18 per month? Of course, you get board and room, and that little room is often in the garret, or out in the wagon shed. You get up in the morning about 4 o'clock and work until 8 or 9 in the evening. I have trouble to my room and wash in the snow off the bedspread before I get into bed. Go to bed in the cold and get up in the cold, and work from fifteen to 18 hours a day! When you work in the city you have from eight to ten hours a day, and no Sunday work; on a farm it is just the same on Sunday as any other day, as you always have to be there to see to the "chores." If the country people would pay the farmer, there is plenty of help for the farms.

A good farm hand ought to get from $25 to $30 per month, and very few get it. I am working eight hours a day and get my $25 per day. Don't have to get up in the cold, nor go to bed in the cold, and no Sunday or all night work.

W. E. Vest, the Walton real estate agent has sold in the last ten days land to the amount of $27,000.
Plenty of shade in Burlington now to protect you from old Sol's hot rays when he begins to send them down.
Mr. Sable, of Louisville, was in Burlington, last Monday in consultation with the managers of the wool pool.
A small crowd attended county court, last Monday, most of those in town being wool and tobacco growers.

J. F. Blyth arrived home last Sunday from his business trip to Iowa and a visit to friends at Fairberry, Illinois.
Wayne Byland, of Walton, was a business visitor to Burlington, last Saturday, and a caller at this office for a few minutes.
Eugene Randall, of Idlewild, lost a good horse a few days ago from indigestion resulting from eating too much green alfalfa.
A. B. Renaker spent several days last week at Dry Ridge, Grant county, on business pertaining to the estate of his father, the late P. J. Renaker.
The picnic season will soon be at hand, and the Harvest Home ground will be a popular resort for the young people and also some of the older persons.
L. H. Voshell, of Union, was a caller at this office, Monday, predicting more bad weather. He depends on the blackberry drizzle to make good this prediction.
Legrand Utz has sold his farm of 140 acres near Harvest Home grounds to R. C. Batte, of Covington, and bought of Mrs. A. G. Pink her farm of about 110 acres.
Last Sunday afternoon lightning struck a large stock barn belonging to J. L. Riley in North Bend bottoms. Besides tearing up a stable end no other damage resulted.
There will be an abundant lot of bloom this year. In some places the trees are loaded with bloom while not a leaf is to be seen, the foliage all having been killed by the recent frosts.
When B. T. Kelly and Garnett Huey, census enumerators, finally ascertained in what territory they had to work, the former had to go to Bullittville precinct while the latter remained in Burlington.
T. G. Graves says you will have no trouble with the horse you are driving if, when you see an automobile approaching, you will turn your horse and drive back, letting the machine pass you. Try it once.

Hon. W. Berkshire, of Petersburg, was in town, Monday, carrying one hand in a sling. It has been giving him considerable trouble, and he does not know from what the injury resulted.
A. B. Rouse spent last week out in the district in the interest of his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Congress, and is well pleased with the outlook in every locality he visited.
Anthony Bentler, of Covington, spent a day or two last week in Burlington. His son, Edward, known by everybody here, got one of his fingers cut off one day last week by a machine he was operating.
With lambs selling from $3 to $5.50 per head, and prospects flattering for a good price for wool, indications are that owners of sheep will do well and reap a good profit from that class of stock this year.
The grand jury at Catlettsburg was in session two weeks and returned 77 indictments, 500 of them being against soft drink vendors at Ashland, who are said to have sold intoxicants since that city voted dry over a year ago.
After deciding to endorse a candidate for United States Senator, Indiana Democratic State convention-nominee John W. Kern, on the third ballot, Mr. Taggart, who withdrew on the third ballot, says he is pleased with the result.
A good horse belonging to John H. Ayler, of Limburg, was found down in its stall last Wednesday morning, with one of its legs fastened under a sill. Dr. O. S. Cisler was called and found the animal badly cut and bruised. It is getting along nicely.
Hubert Gaines has shipped his fine two-year-old Danny Jim colt, Harrison Child, to Martin at Pointdexter, Harrison county. Mr. Martin will train Bracken Child and exhibit him at the fair this fall, and expects him to prove one of the most successful show animals that will be before the public this season.

Councilman John R. Whitson, of Florence, was an early arrival at court, last Monday. He reported the survey of the route of the Blackburn traction road thru his town and thinks there will be something doing among the traction people at an early date.
Some think it strange that the census enumerators refuse to answer any and all questions relating to the information they have gleaned for Uncle Sam, but in so doing they are only obeying the instruction given them when they entered upon the discharge of their duties as enumerators.
H. W. Robinson, of Ludlow, was a caller at this office, Monday. He says that at least ninety-eight per cent of the blackberry crop is killed, and that people do not yet realize the extent of the damage to the fruit crop that will result from the recent cold weather.
Hon. D. Linn Gooch, of Covington, candidate for Congress, was in Burlington, Monday, interviewing the Democratic voters. Mr. Gooch says his first time that the machine has not opposed him, and that he will be given a square deal at the primary. He appears to be feeling pretty good, and says the outlook looks good to him. Gooch is a hustler.
A Kansas paper says the cause of hard times and high prices is that we "throw away ashes and bury soap, we raise dogs and buy hogs; we grow weeds and buy vegetables; we catch fish with a $40 gun and a $10 dog to kill a ten-cent rabbit."
William Stephens, proprietor of the Home of Good Clothing, 710 Madison Ave., Covington, was a visitor to Burlington, last Sunday afternoon. He was accompanied by his wife and two daughters and a gentleman friend of his. Mr. Stephens is building up a good trade among Boone county people, whom he makes "retail" at home when in his place of business.

Saw Many Changes.
It is strange how surroundings appear to have changed after a person has been absent from a one-time home for many years, and no more forcibly was this ever impressed on a person than it was on Dr. Thos. H. Baker, of Louisville, who spent a day in Burlington, during the last term of circuit court. In every instance distances between points that he remembered from his childhood appeared to be about what he thought they were then, and everything appeared to be bunched and crowded. It was over forty years ago that he was a citizen of Burlington, and besides the change in the appearance of the town and face of the country, there had been nearly an entire change in the whole portion of the population, but the doctor met one whom he will remember and esteem so long as he lives, Miss Mary Ann Thompson, who was his teacher when he was a small boy. To say that the teacher and pupil who had not met for many, many years, were glad to see each other again, conveys no idea of the joy the occasion afforded each, and every minute was spent in recalling interesting events in the life of a youth of many years ago.

Lion Fondles A Child.
In Pittsburgh a savage lion fondled the hand that a child thrust into his cage. Danger to a child in the cage at least is not regarded. Often it comes through Colds, Croup, and Whooping Cough. They slay thousands that Dr. King's M-W Discovery could have saved. "A few doses cured our baby of a very bad case of Croup," writes Mrs. George B. Davis, of Flat Rock, N. C. "We always give it to him when he takes cold. It's a wonderful medicine for babies." Best for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Weak Throat, Bronchitis. 50c. $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Bentler's drug store, Erlanger.

W. T. Black, of Walton, manager of the Consolidated Telephone Co., spent last Thursday in Burlington. It is interesting to hear Mr. Black tell about when he was a kid, his attempt to consult with his father's manager, with rats as a nucleus.

In the last fifty years education required by boys and girls has changed. Not that education is not just as important but that the methods are different and the end is specializing. Each person must learn to do something that the other cannot. A good common school course and a four years high school course fits one to learn to do things. The value of education to day is greater than ever before because of the tendency of specialization and each person to perform one thing. Concentrated study on one thing makes a person more efficient along that line. Life is too short to try to learn all about everything, as much can be learned about one thing. A life time study on one thing makes the opinion of the one who does this more valuable to the world and brings a greater salary or reward. The work is also easier done by those who have a complete knowledge and are skilled in their profession or chosen work in life. Learn to do something better than any one else and you will succeed.
Owen County Democrat.

Corn Seeding Season.
The corn seeding season is at hand and there never was a time when the farmers should pay more attention to the character of the seed corn and the proper preparation of the land, for upon these two things depend in a large manner the size of the crop. It is the responsibility of the farmer to see that the seed corn he uses is not inferior in quality. In Iowa there has been a great increase in the corn product of thirty per cent acre from more carefully selected seed and more intelligent cultivation. What has been done in Iowa can be done in Kentucky and as every additional bushel of corn means an increased profit on the same investment and the same amount of labor it is up to our farmers to be up-to-date in corn seeding and corn seed.

ELECTION NOTICE.
The stockholders of the Bellview and Burlington Turnpike Co., are hereby notified that a election will be held in the town of Burlington, Ky., Monday, May 2, 1910 for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year.

W. E. Wharton, of Landing, spent Saturday here with friends. Lystra Aylor, of Delhi, O., spent part of last week here with old friends.

S. L. Edwards and Howard Smith were business visitors to Cincinnati, Friday.

W. Lee Gaines and Samuel C. Hicks spent Saturday in Cincinnati on business.

C. Presley Adams and Buford Adams are spending part of the week in Louisville.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Jones of Big Bone were visitors here and in Cincinnati, Friday.

John C. Miller, of Walton, and Chas. A. Slater, of Big Bone, spent Wednesday in Cincinnati.

A. M. Rouse, who recently returned from Texas, spent part of last week in Cincinnati on business.

Earnest Buck, who attends college at Campbellburg, spent part of the past week here with home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Durr, of Latonia, and Stephen Durr, of Kenton county, visited friends here last week.

Mrs. L. L. Hopkins and Mrs. Carl Neumeister, of Kenton county, were guests of friends in Cincinnati, Friday.

F. J. Mayer, assistant cashier of the Fifth-Third National Bank, of Cincinnati, spent Thursday here on business.

Joseph C. Hughes, of Richmond, spent Friday here on business.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Tompkins enjoyed a delightful visit last week to relatives and friends at New Castle and Campbellsburg, Henry county.

Mrs. Judge J. M. Lassing, and three sons, of Newport, spent Sunday and Monday here with relatives and friends. Judge and Mrs. Lassing expect to spend a part of the summer in Colorado with her sister, Mrs. Brown, who resides in that State, and contemplate a visit to Japan during that period.

For Sale—My apiary of eighteen colonies of bees, with all fixtures, including extra hives, boxes, honey extractor, etc. Also good farm wagon, Malta double shovel plow, etc. J. G. Grissler, Walton, Ky.

Hon. J. G. Tomlin and John L. Vest spent last Monday in Cincinnati on business pertaining to spent Tuesday at Independence some of their law cases. Mr. Vest attending court, and Wednesday at Warsaw concerning an issue of street bonds.

W. F. Moore, a prominent farmer of Beaver Lick, spent Thursday here with friends. Mr. Moore who recently sold his fine farm near Beaver Lick, was in Gallatin county last week looking over some land with a view to buying. We would regret to lose him from Boone county.

Miss Queen Tillman, who has been attending school at Geography in Cincinnati, completed her course last Saturday, graduating with high honors for efficiency and correctness. Miss Tillman will be the attorney in the law office of J. G. Tomlin and Jno. L. Vest, and will enter on her duties at once.

George Fullivoer and wife have moved from the Phoenix Hotel to their home on High street, giving up the hotel business. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Thomas will take charge of the Phoenix Hotel as soon as Mr. Thomas is able to move from his home in the country, he having been very ill the past couple of weeks. They formerly conducted this hotel with marked success.

H. C. Diers, who represents the Farmers Nursery of Troy, Ohio, has completed his spring delivery of nursery stock in the several Kentucky counties he canvassed last year, and was called last week to Henry county to close up a sale for $3,200 worth of nursery stock for the fall delivery. Mr. Diers had the largest sale this season he has ever had, due to the excellent class of goods he handles and the honorable manner in which he serves his patrons.

Friday afternoon the Walton Reds and Blues played a game of base ball, which resulted in favor of the Blues by a score of 5 to 2. The pitching of McKean for the Reds and Fields for the Blues were the features. The line-up was as follows: Reds—Rouse, c; McKean, p; Roberts, 1b; Mayhugh, 2b; Vallandigham, 3b; H. Mayhugh, ss; Plunkett, lf; Blues—Campbell, c; Fields, p; Conrad, 1b; Hance, 2b; Nicholson, rf. Struck out by McKean 4 in 4 innings, by Fields 3 in 7 innings, by Roberts 2 in one inning. Home run—C. Mayhugh. Umpire—Gaines.

W. T. S. Blackburn, of Dry Ridge, and his corps of surveyors, were here the past week surveying the line of the proposed traction railroad from Lexington to Cincinnati. Mr. Blackburn assures our people that the railroad will be built and the site of the preliminaries are being arranged as speedily as possible.

Mrs. C. C. Metcalfe has taken the place of her husband, Dr. C. C. Metcalfe, as census enumerator of the Walton precinct, and is pushing the work to a rapid completion. Dr. Metcalfe is unable to complete the work owing to illness.

Kirtley Adams, of Latonia, and brother Buford Adams, of B. Navy, spent the first of the week here with relatives and friends. Buford is one of the crew of the Battleship Idaho, and has a furlough of fifteen days which he will spend here at his home, and then return to the Philadelphia, Penn. Navy yard, where his vessel is stationed.

Dr. J. W. Thomas, who has been here very well and has two more weeks' leave, physically and mentally, is expected to return to his home here.

John W. Thomas, who has been very ill with bright's disease the past several weeks, died at his home on his farm near town Sunday at about noon. Mr. Thomas had a very large acquaintance, having been the proprietor of the Phoenix Hotel at Walton, for many years, and his death will be universally deplored for he was a kind, genial clever man, and was at all times ready to do a friend a service. Mr. Thomas was born and reared in Ohio, and came to Kentucky when a young man, where he married Miss Maggie Baker, who has always been a devoted wife, and did everything in her power to prolong the life of her dear companion, and who is grief stricken over his death.

The host of the bereaved widow their heartfelt sympathy. The funeral took place Tuesday at the Baptist first church, Rev. Will E. Campbell of the M. E. church conducting the services after which the remains were laid to rest in the Baptist cemetery.

Our community was greatly shocked last Thursday by the sudden and unexpected death of Rev. Jas. W. Rogers, one of our beloved citizens. He had been suffering from grip and asthma, but his condition had greatly improved, and it was thought he was in a fair way to complete recovery. His uncle, Wm. Rogers, had taken him his breakfast and ate very heartily and seemed to be in good spirits. Shortly afterwards his sister, Mrs. Robt. Conrad, had occasion to go to his room and found him in a dying condition, and before medical aid could be summoned he had passed away.

Rev. Rogers was a very fleshy man, weighing about 300 pounds, and it is supposed that his heart weakened by the disease and the burden of work failed to perform its functions. Bro. Rogers was the Grand Chaplain of the Masonic Grand Lodge, and was a very zealous Mason, attending every important gathering of the craft. He was one of the best informed men in this section, and his fund of historical information was wonderful indeed.

Bro. Rogers was born at Napoleon, Gallatin county, Ky., and was fifty-six years old. His life was spent in this quarter and he surrounded himself by many warm friends. He became a minister of the Christian church many years ago and was actively engaged in the Master's work since. At his death he was the pastor of two churches in Grant county, one at Cordova and the other at Springtown. He was a most genial, companionable gentleman, and his happy presence will be greatly missed at the many masonic gatherings. His early manhood was spent in Gallatin county where he had a host of friends, and the past fifteen years was spent at Walton where he was beloved by all, and his death is a shadow on the hearts of many. The funeral took place Sunday and was conducted by the Masonic fraternity, Bro. Orle S. Ware of Covington, deputed by Grand Master John H. Cowles, of Louisville, conducting the beautiful ritualistic burial ceremony in the memory of a departed brother, the services being conducted at the Walton Baptist church where Rev. D. P. Buck, assisted by Rev. H. C. Wayman and J. I. Wills, held the religious services, after which the remains were taken to Glencoe for burial.

Elliston qualified as the administrator of the estate of the late Rev. James W. Rogers, and had W. Berry Johnson, Scott Chambers and D. B. Wallace appointed as the appraisers of the personal estate.

The directors of the Boone Co. Consolidated Telephone Company held a meeting here yesterday and transacted considerable business. Those present were: N. E. Riddell, Burlington; J. W. Conner, M. J. Crouch, Union;

E. L. Glacken, Richmond; W. R. Rouse, Lebanon; B. H. Eekshire, Petersburg; C. C. Sleet, Beaver.

Will there be a corn famine next year? Experts from agricultural colleges throughout the corn belt have given their opinion that there will be. Old corn growers, editors of farm journals and seed specialists are of the same opinion.

It is claimed that the reason for the threatened shortage lies in the early frosts of last fall. There is no shortage of seed corn, but the experts say that only a small percentage of the seed corn is fit to plant. There is no way for the farmer to tell if his seed corn is good except by planting in miniature hot houses and watching the results.

The frosts of last fall, it is claimed, have destroyed the germ life in the seed corn. It does not, however change the appearance of the corn. It is estimated that fully 90 per cent of the counties in Iowa have suffered damage to the seed, about 48 per cent in Illinois, 41 per cent in Nebraska, 36 per cent in the Dakotas and 22 per cent in Indiana. Kansas fared better than any of the others, only about 20 per cent of the Kansas counties having suffered.

Editors of farm journals have agreed to concentrate their forces in an effort to get all corn growers to test every lot of seed corn before planting.

With great care they think a fair crop may be raised, but unless corn is tested this spring it will mean not only a failure but a heavy loss to farmers throughout the corn belt who will have wasted their time and labor with poor seed.—Ex.

THEIR WONDERFUL BARGAIN

It Was a Handsome Auto, But the Cost Was Augmented by Sundry Mishaps.

Mrs. Gunbusta came rushing into the room breathlessly, relates the New York Herald. Throwing her fur auto coat carelessly on a divan and laying her grim goggles on the Aeolian, she gasped: "Oh, Fred, I bought a handsome machine this morning for only $376."

"Bully for you!" shouted Gunbusta, vociferously, laying down the Motor Magazine he had been busily engaged in reading when his wife entered.

"But," she stammered, "in my anxiety to hurry home in it and tell you of my wonderful bargain I was horribly arrested several times for exceeding the limit. It cost me $300 for fines and—"

"Never mind that, dearest; it's cheap even at those figures."

"And then I had to pay $200 to merchants for goods of theirs that I ran into and ruined, and—"

"What of it?" interrupted Gunbusta. "Eight hundred and seventy-five dollars is cheap for a good machine."

"And—er—and I gave $500 to people I had run down and who threatened lawsuits, and all because I was so desirous of hurrying home to tell you of my wonderful bargain."

But before Mrs. Gunbusta had completed the sentence her husband rushed into the back yard and tried to run over himself with his automobile.

FRENCH WAITER'S THEORY.

Always Eating the Same Kind of Bread Cause of Internal Derangements.

"I have a theory about dyspepsia and indigestion," said the head waiter in a French restaurant, "that I think ought to be considered by sufferers from stomach complaints. I believe that much of this class of trouble is due to people's persistency in eating the same kind of bread for weeks, months and sometimes years, without a change."

"Now, nobody does that with any other kind of food; meat, for instance, or vegetables, or fruit, or other dessert. Yet the average man will eat the same kind of bread twice or even three times a day and think himself wise. The stomach, unless it is of extraordinary constitution, will naturally get tired of this monotonous and refuse properly to digest this cereal bread. Then the bread eater knows he has dyspepsia and starts on a course of dieting—generally sticking religiously to the same old bread—that most often leaves him in a worse plight than ever."

"There are many varieties of bread—corn, rye, whole wheat, graham, Boston brown, aerated, barley, Vienna and French bread. All of these differ in the making and the material, and if the average man would only take a turn at some of them for a change from his regular loaf he would find himself healthier and happier."

Auto Fire Engines.

Paris fire fighters race to the scene of disaster at a rate of 21½ miles per hour on a 44-horse power automobile which, including the driver, weighs three to seven tons. Its four cylinder oil engine, instead of working directly on to the axle, drives a generating dynamo, the current of which is received by an electromotor, and the latter drives the axle through differential and secondary gear, four combinations affording various speeds. It climbs the steepest streets and leaves all horse-drawn cars of its kind far in the rear.

Insultation.

Husband (during the spat)—I wish you were some place where I would never see you again.

Wife (calmly)—In other words, you wish I were in heaven, I suppose.—Chicago Daily News.

A RISING RIVER BED,

Mississippi Leaves Cause a Serious Condition of Affairs.

"Speaking of the Mississippi river," said an old pilot, "reminds me of what Mark Twain said about the river projecting so many miles out over the Gulf of Mexico, and while, of course, this was merely a bit of humor which the great American author developed by reasoning along a rather curious line, I have been thinking that he could have made a deduction equally as astounding and yet easily within the bounds of reasonable probability. To come to the point, immediately, said the pilot to a New Orleans Times-Democrat reporter, 'the time is rapidly approaching when instead of using the expressions 'down the river,' 'down by the river side,' and other similar sayings, we will have to say 'up the river,' 'up by the river side,' and so on. We can see this condition in its earlier stages on the lower Mississippi now. The river at many points is much above the surface of land, and would spread out over the land but for the existence of levees. And yet the system of levees is responsible for this constantly increasing elevation of the river bed. Instead of making the river scour its bed the levees have made this impossible, and the deposit it has been much greater in the bed of the river. There is at all times a certain volume of water to take care of. It is no small volume, either. The daily flow into the Gulf of Mexico through the three passes is something enormous. The levees have confined this vast volume of water to a rather uncomfortable area. Instead of being able to throw a part of the heavy deposit of sediment out over the sides of the river, through such convenient outlets as the river itself, left unhampered, would make, the deposit remains in the area between the levees. Much of it is left in the bed of the river. The result is that the bed is being constantly raised. The river is unable to carry on the scouring processes possible in earlier times before the levees came into such general use. In consequence of this condition the bed of the river will continue to rise unless outlets are provided at different points, and it is not at all likely that these outlets will be provided in our time. So we must go on building levees, and each year we must make them higher and higher all the time. The lower Mississippi now has, I suppose, an average depth of about 45 or 50 feet. In a few years the bottom of the river may be on a level with the land surface, in which event, instead of going down to the river we will have to climb up the hill a considerable distance in order to get into a steamboat. The expression down to the river will then become obsolete. Up will be the word to use. But, of course, this condition may be some time off. Still we cannot tell. Forty years on the Mississippi has convinced me that it is not safe to figure on what the river will do. The Mississippi generally does as she pleases, and we always have to spin our little theories after the thing has happened."

The Difference Between Poor and Good Cabinet Work

It is a fact not generally known that very few sewing machine manufacturers produce their own cabinet work. This is a distinct industry in itself.

The Singer Company owns and operates the largest and best equipped factory in the world, exclusively devoted to the production of the highest grade sewing machine cabinet work.

Only the finest woods procurable are used. To insure the proper selection of these woods, a corps of expert wood rangers is employed, whose duty it is to purchase individual trees, the grain and growth of which entitle them to use in Singer cabinet work.

This is why Singer cabinet work, besides being the most durable, is also the most beautiful—the Singer process brings out all the richness and natural beauty of the wood.

IN AN EDITOR'S SANCTUM.

Story of a Kentucky Newspaper Man's Ideal, Quiet Day.

"Now," said I to myself as a freshly cut batch of "copy" paper was laid on the desk and the eager compositor searched the "copy" drawer for a mite of reprint, says J. M. A., in the Cynthiana Democrat, "now I shall seat myself in thought profound and compose something great."

A heavy rain was falling and the pedestrians who splashed by the window were a sorry sight. A dog fight on the opposite side of the street failed to draw a single spectator.

"An ideal quiet day for work. No body will thrust subscription money into my Spencerian flat, and unchallenged cryptography shall embellish the manuscript of a masterpiece."

The telephone tinkled musically.

"Hello!" I said.

"Hello!" came the answer in sweet tones of the feminine gender.

"Hello!" I said once more.

"Hello!" she said, "have you spare ribs?"

"Madam or miss," said I, "I have no spare ribs. I need every one in my body."

The out-tap was given mutually, and I picked up the pencil and rearranged the Spencerian fist.

A friend from a neighboring town dropped in and splashed down into a chair, squirting a spray of rain drops over the freshly cut "copy" paper.

"I thought I would just drop in and tell you that my paper has not reached me until Monday for several weeks," he remarked. "I told the postmaster at home about it, but he said it was your fault."

"It could not be," I expostulated. "All papers for your town travel in the same bundle, and if one reaches the town all should reach. Do others receive their papers on time?"

"Yes," he replied, "but the postmaster said you must have a 'spite' at me."

"Now, look here, my friend," I quoth I; "why should I have a 'spite' at you? What have you done that I should single you out and 'cabbage' your paper at the risk of losing one dollar a year, which in a thousand years would amount to a thousand dollars?"

"That is a big pile of money to throw away, ain't it?" he remarked, scratching his head.

The telephone tinkled.

"Hello!" I said.

"Hello!" she said.

"Hello!" I said.

"Hello!" she said; "have you spare ribs?"

"Madam or miss," I replied, impressively, "I have no spare ribs to spare. Perhaps I might tear some off the boys. This is a print shop and we butcher nothing but English."

The double out-tap sounded.

"I can't see, though," remarked my friend, "how 'tis that my neighbors all get their paper on Saturday and mine don't come till Monday?"

"I cannot see, either. The names are stamped on the margins automatically, and it is almost impossible to miss one."

"Well, I don't get mine till Monday, and I don't see why you can't send it off with the others. You ought to give me the Courier Journal free for missing me so often."

"My friend, I shall make a special effort to get your paper on time this week. I shall write to the postmaster and the carrier; if that does no good I shall write to the president, the postmaster general, our two senators and our 11 representatives. If that fails I shall take the cars each Saturday morning and carry you the paper myself."

Hostsighted up to go, and shook off the remaining raindrops to the freshly cut "copy" paper.

"Well, see that you do," he said, "or I'll stop the paper; I take more now than I can read."

The telephone tinkled.

"Hello!" I said.

"Hello!" she said.

"Hello!" I said.

"Hello!" she said; "have you spare ribs?"

"Madam or miss," I replied, desperately, "I still have no spare ribs, but a hog has just left the office, and if you meet him on the street kindly oblige me, by cutting out his entire battery."

The out-taps fell, and we saluted down the "copy" paper—it was too fresh to keep ill morning.

THE FIVE CENT CIGAR.

Average Life of Popular Brands Sold to No Five Years.

"The average life of the nickel cigar is five years," said a prominent tobacco man to a writer for the New Orleans Times-Picayune, "and it is curious to note the differences which have enabled cigar men to arrive at this general average of the five-cent cigar's life. Many cigars of this class run through a long series of years. There are some brands now that have been running for more than a quarter of a century under the same name, and they are really the same cigars, made in the same way, having the same flavor and all that sort of thing. In this connection I have been impressed by the remark which we often hear about certain brands of cigars changing in quality. I heard a man say the other day that he had been smoking a certain brand of cigars for two years or longer, but that the cigar was getting so bad that he had concluded to quit buying it at all. It is nothing like the same cigar," he said; "the taste has changed, and it tastes like a mixture of cabbage leaves."

Now he was altogether wrong about that. I know the cigar, know how it is made and all about it, and I know that no sort of change has been made in the process of manufacture. The trouble is that man's taste changes. He may get up feeling badly, his stomach may be in bad shape, and of course the cigar will not taste as it did when his system was in better condition. The cigar is blamed, and he simply dashes the thing into the street, and quits buying it. Instances of this sort are very common. Mind you I do not mean to say that some of the brands do not change. There are tricks in the cigar business, just as there are tricks in other trades. But in nine cases out of ten the trouble is with the smoker. But recurring to the age of cigars, the average to which I have referred has been settled upon by tobacco men and is accepted throughout the country. It is reached by taking the two extremes, the good and the bad five cent cigar, and figuring back to the middle. Some five cent cigars close with the first lot made. They are failures, having nothing in them to recommend them to the public. The material out of which they are made would not make decent "three-fors," the kind that are sold to the negroes on the river. The higher grades of five cent cigars are made as carefully, and with as much skill as the cigars that are sold at a higher price, and I do not mind saying that many of them are really far superior in material, flavor and method of manufacture. So many of them, however, are of the cheap kind that the average is lowered to five years, while the average life of the higher priced cigars will run to a much higher figure."

TWO MOONS OF SALT.

Some Interesting Statements Concerning Amount of Salt in the Sea.

Roughly speaking, says the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, if you take the salt out of the sea water, you deprive it of a thirtieth of its weight. On that basis one-thirtieth of the entire weight of all the sea water in the world is salt, and as salt and water bulk about the same, we may estimate, also, that, by bulk, one-thirtieth of the huge mass of the ocean is pure salt. What does this bring us to?

Taking the 130,000,000 odd square miles of the five oceans to average 1 1/2 miles deep, we have in them alone 200,000,000 cubic miles of salt water. A thirtieth of this should give us the bulk of the salt contained in the great waters of the globe.

Rounding the figures, we get something like 7,000,000 cubic miles of salt. If it were taken out and spread over the surface of the six continents they would be covered with its snowy powder to a depth almost equal to the height of Bunker Hill monument, in Boston.

To put it another way, if all the earth were salt water there would be enough salt in it to make two globes of solid salt but very little smaller than our moon.

Ancient Jokes.

They have a story in Boston that when President Roosevelt was there Senator Lodge asked him if he had heard "Senator Depew's new story."

Mr. Roosevelt answered: "His new story? Impossible. Depew hasn't had a new story since he wrote about Jonah and the whale."

The senator laughed as he said: "Oh, don't blame that one on Chaucery. It was written some thousands of years before he was born."

"Pretty much the same thing might be said of all Depew's recent stories," he said.

The out-taps fell, and we saluted down the "copy" paper—it was too fresh to keep ill morning.
